(Toilet Talks.)

Beauty-destroying hairs can be quickly banished from the face by the application of a delatone paste, made by mixing water with a little powdered delatone and applying to the objectionable hairs for two or three minutes. When this paste is rubbed off and the skin washed, it will be left hairless and free from blemish. No harm can result from this treatment, but care should be exercised to see that it is real delatone you get.

Feeling has been intense here because of the killings and after the arrest last night a crowd surrounded the jail, but deputy sheriffs and the police dispersed them.

GREECE ISSUES WARNING TO TURKEY WHICH FALLS LITTLE SHORT OF DECLARATION OF WAR

Premier Venizelos Informs Chamber of Deputies That the Tension is Rapidly Nearing Breaking Point, and Danger of Hostilities is Imminent

Athens, Greece, June 12.—A warning to Turkey, which fell little short of a formal declaration of hostilities, was uttered to-day by Premier Venizelos, of Greece, in the Chamber of Deputies. He was speaking on the treatment of Greek subjects in Turkey. The Premier's attitude showed that the tension between Greece and Turkey was near breaking point and that the danger of war was imminent.

M. Venizelos, who obviously found difficulty in restraining his language when he spoke of the way in which the Turks had treated his fellow countrymen, said:

Situation Very Grave.

"I do not wish to allow to escape me words which cannot be recalled, but I should fail in my duty if I did not inform the Chamber of Deputies that the situation has become grave—even very grave. If a stop is not put to these conditions, the Hellenic Government will be forced not to content itself with joining in the lamentations of unhappy refugees."

Loud and prolonged cheers throughout the chamber greeted the statement of the Premier, who added that thousands of Greek refugees had reached the home land already from Turkey, while thousands more were only awaiting transportation facilities in order to escape from their persecutors. Such a situation he con[illegible], could not be borne much longer.

Turkey Wants War.

Reports have been current for several weeks of unrest in the Balkans, and of the ever-increasing acuteness of the situation between Turkey and Greece. A general feeling has prevailed in Europe that Turkey was preparing for another conflict with Greece, with the object of re-conquering the territory she had lost in the recent war. Expulsions of Greek subjects from Asia Minor, as well as from European Turkey, have been in progress for some time.

WHAT HE OFFERS

Lindsay Post, Grit, asked in yesterday's issue "What does Whitney offer"? That is a very easy conundrum to answer. He offers a sane, honest, capable style of administration. He offers a form of government that will not allow a Cabinet Minister to save fifty thousand dollars in two or three years out of a sessional indemnity of $1200 per annum.

WAS IT JEALOUSY

New York, June 9.—"Mr. Sears is the greatest man in the world." This was the declaration of Miss Pauline Langdon, named as co-respondent, in testifying at the trial of the suit of divorce brought by Dr. Julia Sears against Dr. Frank W. Sears. Sears and his wife are leaders of rival factions of the New Thought church. According to Miss Langdon, Mrs. Sears did not institute proceedings because she was jealous of Miss Langdon, but because she was jealous of that her husband has attained in his work.

EVERY ONTARIO RIDING BUT ONE SURE OF AN ELECTION CONTEST

Candidates Have Been Nominated in One Hundred Constituencies--All in the Field in Another Week

Number of Ridings	111
Candidates Nominated	100
Conservatives Nominated	84
Liberals Nominated	69
Total Candidates Nominated	167

Toronto, June 11.—Selection of candidates for the Legislature will be over in about a week and the indications are that there will be few if any "acclamations" excepting perhaps East Hamilton, where Mr. Allan Studholme, the Labor representative has a stronghold. There are 111 ridings in the Province on the redistribution of seats and in 100 of these candidates have been nominated. The Conservatives already have 84 men in the field, the Liberals 69, and the Independents 13, mostly Temperance candidates supported by the Liberals.

Every riding with the possible exception of East Hamilton will have a Government candidate, while Mr. W. F. Summerhaye, the acting secretary of the Ontario Reform Association, is authority for the statement that where there is no independent candidate in the field, the Liberals will be represented.

BAD TEETH AND CRIME

New York, June 12.—Charles D. Hilles, chairman of the Republican national committee and president of the New York Juvenile association, says he believes much of the so-called badness in boys is primarily due to decayed teeth and their consequent inability properly to masticate their food. He bases his conclusion on observations of boys sent as delinquents to the children's village at Dobbs Ferry, where an average of 550 young sters are getting a chance to become decent and self-respecting citizens. He declares that 91 per cent. of the boys received suffer from bad teeth and that after two years of care with a dentist, with practice in the art of using tooth brush and paste the boys are turned out 90 per cent good instead of 90 per cent. bad.

Therefore from reports, William H. Taft's secretary, who has long devoted himself to the reformation of children who have not had half a "show" in life, says he is convinced that the dentist is, after all, the real kind of doctor that all the great majority "delinquent" boys need is the straightening out of other physical disorders that have a tendency to start them on the wrong moral slant.

"APOLOGY" FOR ATTEMPTED HOMICIDE WAS SUFFICIENT

Accused Denied the Charge; Was Sorry; Dismissed.

Toronto, June 11.—Apology for an attempt to murder a young lady was sufficient to excuse John Davidson from further penalty when the case came before Magistrate Ellis to-day.

"Did you attempt to kill Miss A. Morgan?" the Magistrate asked naively.

"No, your Honor," was the convincing reply, which, however, was straightway amended by the accused's statement that he may have been drunk—"and there is no telling what a man will do when he is in that condition." He pleaded for another chance and promised to apologize to Miss Morgan.

"Well, that's the right spirit," was the Magistrate's astounding comment.

"Away you go," he ordered, and Davidson went.

THREE GIVES LIVES IN ORDER TO SAVE COMPANIONS IN SINKING ROWBOAT

Philadelphia, June 12.— Sacrificing their lives in order that the lives of four companions, two of them girls, might be saved, three young men, none of whom could swim, leaped into the Delaware River from a sinking rowboat late yesterday afternoon and were drowned. The story of the sacrifice was told by the survivors. The dead are: John Mouchech, Raymond Tinney and John Murphy. The saved are: George German, Sarah German, Mary German and John Nevill. All resided in this city.

Tinney and Sarah German were engaged to be married. Accompanied by the other members of the party they went towing in a large flat bottomed boat. They were more than 100 yards from the shore when, it was noticed that the craft was rapidly filling with water from a loose board in the bottom. Despite efforts to bail the boat it soon became evident that unless the load was lightened the boat would sink before the shore could be reached.

MR. LLOYD GEORGE IS POCKET EDITION OF THE "BULL MOOSE"

But the British Chancellor Possesses Some Dignity and a Great Deal of Moral Ferver

London, Eng., June 12.—Let me first say that like most Canadians, who are far enough away from England to escape the taxation involved I have much sympathy with Mr. Lloyd George's social reforms. His relief measures reveal admitted weaknesses in their conception and in their application, but in principle, or at least in ideal, they must sooner or later prevail in all civilized countries. One cannot, however, but deplore the incendiary language with which he and his lieutenants seek to make party capital by inciting those who have not against those who have. It was amidst the plaudits of 4000 eager admirers that the Chancellor of the Exchequer rose to address a political meeting in Ipswich on the eve of the poll in the recent bye-election.

In response to a distress message he had hurried down from the House of Commons to stem the electoral tide which was running against his cabinet colleague, Mr. G. F. C. Masterman. In England, holders of cabinet portfolios do not participate in bye-elections, but this was the second time that the present Chancellor of the Exchequer has broken through the rule on behalf of a fellow Minister. It was all important that the Government should not lose its third contest within two weeks. Grimsby and Northeast Derbyshire had gone bad and Ipswich had to be saved if possible. Otherwise the [illegible] Tories would say that the country was turning against Home Rule.

SHE LOVED PRES. LINCOLN

Mrs. Bertha J. Howe Testified That Her Husband Twitted Her After Extolling Virtues of the Emancipator.

Buffalo, June 12.—Mrs. Bertha J. Howe, in giving testimony before Judge Pound yesterday in the case of Carey W. Howe against her for a divorce, told the court that her husband once accused her of being in love with Abraham Lincoln. She asserted that one day she was extolling the virtues of the martyred President when her husband over-heard her and for two weeks afterwards twitted her about her love for the emancipator.

It was also testified that Fred Hanson, the alleged co-respondent, was a friend of Miss Pearl Howe, daughter of the litigants, who is a public school teacher. She insisted that it was to see her daughter that Fred came to the home. She admitted that Hanson had worked at the home for his board sweeping floors and washing dishes. The defendant also stated he sometimes called her "Mom." and that she often addressed him as "my boy" as if speaking to her own children. She denied that she was ever anything more than a friend to the co-respondent.

Mrs. Howe said she knew the two women who came to board with her were detectives. The case will be continued today.

By the end of 1916 the Chinese army expects to have one thousand aeroplanes, this year's budget calling for the purchase of 250.

WHAT A LIBERAL PAPER IN HIS HOME TOWN HAS TO SAY OF MR. R. J. SODEN

An Old Midland Boy Nominated as Conservative Candidate in West Peterborough

(From The Midland Free Press.)

"Mr. R. J. Soden, an old Midland boy, has received the Conservative Nomination for the riding of West Peterborough. We need hardly say that though opposed to us in political creed we wish him success. Mr. Soden, while in Midland, was one of our most progressive citizens, and it was through him that the Canada Iron Furnace Co. was induced to locate its plant here. Always an ardent politician he took an active part in all municipal and parliamentary affairs, and while a staunch Conservative at all times, he still made many friends among his opponents on account of the clean, fair methods which he always adopted in furthering the cause of his party.

"He will make an energetic representative for any riding, and West Peterborough, if it elects him at the coming election, will secure a clean, just and aggressive member, who, from our knowledge of him, will not allow any consideration to outweigh his convictions of what is right in all matters affecting the province.

"Mr. Soden has made a clean-cut statement regarding his stand on the temperance question. He is even willing to go a little further than the Rowell policy of abolish the bar. He is in favor of doing away with the shop and club license as well. It is up to the temperance people of this Province to stand together, regardless of politics, if they ever hope to rid Canada of its greatest curse."

PROROGATION HELD UP AT THE LAST MOMENT BY THE SENATE

Political Move by Liberals to Prevent the Government From Securing Control of Senate During Present Parliament

Ottawa, June 12.—With the Duke of Connaught ready to prorogue the House at three o'clock and with the military escort in waiting for the ceremony set for that hour, the Senate this morning upset the whole applecart. Prorogation had to be suddenly set for a later hour, probably 4.30 o'clock, and the Governor-General and his aides were notified accordingly.

The trouble arose out of a shrewd political play on the part of the Liberal majority in the Senate. The resolution, praying the Imperial Parliament to amend the B.N.A. Act so as to create anew Western Senatorial division, increasing the number of Senators by nine, was taken up in committee this morning. Senator Bostock, the Liberal leader, at once moved that the increase in the Senate should not take effect until the expiration of the present Parliament. He said that the two Houses should be enlarged simultaneously.

Reasons of Liberals.

The Liberal gag is very apparent. They are putting up a last fight to prevent the Government securing control of the Senate during the present Parliament. If the Imperial Government passes the amendments to the B.N.A. Act, as agreed to by the Commons, the Government will be able to at once increase the Senate by nine members, which about wipes out the Liberal majority. What Senator Bostock wants is that the increase shall not take effect until the expiration of the present Parliament, that is until after the next general elections. The Liberals want to keep control of the Upper Chamber during the next, and what is likely to be the final session of this Parliament.

POMPIONO ARRESTED

Wife Murderer in Custody of Old Home in Sicily.

Lockport, June 12.—Governor Glynn wired District Attorney Ackerson today that the State Department at Washington has advised him that Laborio Pompiono, wanted for the murder of his wife here on January 16th, has been arrested at Termini Imerese, Sicily, his old home, and is being held for extradition.

District Attorney Ackerson and Detective Costello of this city will go after him. The crime was one of the most brutal in the history of Niagara County.

BASEBALL NEWS

Petes Lose to Hamilton After a Hard Battle—10-5

Yesterday the Petes went down to defeat in the second game of the series with Hamilton, in a hard fought struggle. The game was a hard luck battle for the Petes, who time and again had the bases full but no hit was forthcoming to put the finishing touches to the score. Shettler who did the twirling and was taken out the sixth being replaced by Sterling.

Several times the Petes had a good chance to even up the score, but the boys were too anxious to reach after the wide curves of the visiting pill shooter, who wore a smile through the whole game and was right there with the goods when they were wanted.

To-morrow's game promises to be a fast one and a large crowd of fans should be on hand to root the boys to victory.

The score, 10–5 for Hamilton.

At the Driving Park last night the Typos defeated the Hamilton foundry team in a Mercantile League fixture, in a fast and well played game, by the score of 8–2.

To Look and Feel Bright
In Hot Weather.
* * * * * * * * * * * * * * * * * *

This is the season when she who would have a lily-white complexion should turn her thoughts to mercolized wax, the firm friend of the summer girl. Nothing so effectually overcomes the soiling effects of sun, wind dust and dirt. The wax literally absorbs the scorched, discolored, freckled withered or coarsened cuticle, bringing forth a brand new skin, clear, soft and girlishly beautiful. It also unclogs the pores, removing blackheads and increasing the skin's breathing capacity. An ounce of mercolized wax obtainable at any drugstore, applied nightly like cold cream, and washed off mornings, will gradually improve the worst complexion.

When depressed by the heat and you want to freshen up for the afternoon or evening, bathe the face in a lotion made by dissolving an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half pint witch hazel. You'll find this more refreshing than an hour's rest. It is fine for smoothing out wrinkles, even the deepest ones.

INDIAN TOTEMS AND TOTEM POLES

The Indian Has a Great Respect For His Totem to Which He Thinks He Is Related

The Indians of the Pacific coast believe themselves to be related to animals, thus the Turtle Clan of the Iroquois are descended from a fat turtle, which, burdened by the weight of its shell in walking, contrived by great exertions to throw it off, and thereafter gradually developed into a man. The Cray-Fish Clan of the Choctaws were originally cray-fish.

Believing himself to be descended from and therefore akin to his totem, the savage naturally treats it with respect. If it is an animal he will not kill nor eat it, except when hunger compels, and then they express their sorrow for having to eat their friends and relatives. If it is a plant he will not cut nor gather it.

The Elk Clan of the Omahas neither eat the flesh nor touch any part of the male elk, and think that if any of their tribe did so, he would break out in boils. The Deer-Head Clan of the Omahas may not touch the skin of any animal of the deer family, nor wear moccasins of deerskin, nor use the fat of the deer for hair-oil; but they may eat the flesh of deer.

The relation between a man and his totem is one of mutual help and protection, and an animal is supposed never to harm any member of a tribe whose totem he is. In order to put himself more fully under this protection, the clansman is in the habit of dressing in the skin of his totem, arranging his hair and mutilating his body so as to resemble it as much as possible; or he will have a picture of his totem tatooed on his body.

Amongst the Indians of British Columbia the totem is sometimes painted on the person of the clansman, and he always affixes his totem mark as a signature to treaties, and paints or carves it on his weapon, hut and canoe, much as in civilised nations, crests and coat of arms distinguish writing paper, private carriages and silverware.

Besides the clan totems there are individual ones. The first animal of which an Indian youth dreams during long and solitary fasts, becomes his totem. He then kills the animal or bird of which he dreams, and wears its skin or feathers as an amulet.

So in the carved and painted poles we see on the Pacific coast the dominating figure represents the totem belonging to the tribe or to the individual and the other carvings represent historical events. Totem poles are usually constructed of solid cedar trunks from one to five feet in diameter, and from five to sixty feet high; they are carved with highly conventionalized animals and figures, and are usually painted in gaudy colors, particularly green, red and yellow.

Expected a Deluge

An extraordinary case of religious mania was found in Panama. An individual who had proclaimed himself the Messiah predicted the destruction of the world by a deluge in a short time, and some of his eighty adherents engaged in building an ark, while others collected in pairs animals of all species found in their region.

HOME LOVING AUTHORS

It is a popular belief that genius can only develop in "selfish solitude." A study of the lives of some of the greatest writers and thinkers, however, reveals the fact that much of their finest work was done after marriage, when they enjoyed the companionship of wives and children. Charles Kingsley, for instance, had an ideal home, and was never happier than when playing with his children. He gave them the best of everything, the largest and sunniest rooms in the house, and the best part of the garden as a playground. He was passionately devoted to children, and their griefs made him sad. "A child weeping over a broken toy," he wrote "is a sight I cannot bear."

Wordsworth was a happy husband and wrote one of his prettiest poems to his wife, while Tennyson had a liking for domesticity, and in spite of a happy home, which critics contend is liable to damp genius, was able to write undying verse.

George Borrow did all his best work after his marriage, and if he had married earlier would not have wasted so much time writing pot-boilers, while Froude did better after he had started domesticity. William Black found it so difficult to write when apart from his wife that once when he went alone to Brighton to start a new novel he had to telegraph to her to join him. He tried shutting himself in a room and walking up and down the shore, but in the end he went to the telegraph office.

Browning had one of the best of homes, and some of his finest poems were written to his wife.

Southey found domesticity so necessary and inspiring that he married twice, while Carlyle's wife was invaluable as a listener. He used to rush down from the room in the roof to read chapters about the great Frederick to her and then rush back again.

FARMING IN MANITOBA

The Industry in the Province is Yet in its Infancy

Although the Province of Manitoba is the oldest settled of the prairie provinces, it is well within the truth to state that farming is as yet in its infancy. The area now under cultivation is an amazingly small percentage of the total area available for the production of crops.

The following summary of yields per acre of principal grain crops in Manitoba, shows the situation in a nutshell and will convince the most skeptical that this province is one of the richest districts on the American continent.

Wheat, average for 27 years, 13.39 bushels per acre.

Oats, average for 27 years, 35.60 bushels per acre.

Barley, average for 27 years, 29.87 bushels per acre.

Flax, average for 10 years, 13.16 bushels per acre.

LOTS OF ADVENTURE

Harrow Graduate as Coal Heaver, Landed in Police Court

His face begrimed with soot and his clothing in a dilapidated condition, Arthur Thomas Perch, 19 years of age, a graduate of the famous Harrow School, of England, appeared in the Montreal police court charged with deserting the steamer "Sargasso" at Quebec.

The appearance of Perch in court terminated a worldwide search, extending over several months, conducted by his parents, resulting in finding the boy working as a fireman in the coal bunkers of the steamer Wabana. The young man's ambition was the navy but he finally signed for three years' apprenticeship on the merchant vessel Sargasso, but after six months sailing found the life very irksome. He wanted adventure so when the steamer was lying at Quebec he determined to get away from the binding discipline and see some of the world.

His sight seeing, however, did not go much farther than the few dollars he had in his pocket, and he was soon glad to get a job as coal heaver, at which he worked till discovered by the legal firm retained by his parents. The case against Perch was dismissed.

THE TOUCH OF DRAPERY ON GROWN-UP GOWNS MARKS JUNIOR MODES AS WELL

As long as materials are so supple and clinging, their very touch suggestive of folds and drapings, draped gowns and wraps will continue modish.

For the woman whose dress allowance is somewhat limited it is wise to choose a dark, soft silk for the luncheon or afternoon tea frock. It may be worn much oftener than a light shade and will be found generally more satisfactory. Moire, silk poplin, one of the soft taffetas or charmeuse are all suitable, and many of the soft drapey wool stuffs make up most attractively.

A crow-blue taffetas with a self figure was used to develop 7979. The wide girdle of a lighter blue affords an effective contrast, and the gathered guimpe of figured tulle is practical, as it is a simple matter to replace it when soiled.

There is just a touch of drapery on each side of the skirt, and the blouse is a peasant design closing in the back.

This model may be copied in size 36 with 5¼ yards of 36 inch taffeta and ½ yard of tulle.

The "dress-up" frock of the little miss has its bit of drapery, too, as can be seen in 7996. An albatross or light silk with a touch of colored embroidery at the belt and on the sleeves may be used with this design with excellent results. For size 10 it requires 3 yards of 36 inch material.

No. 7979—sizes 34 to 42.
No. 7996—sizes 6 to 12.
Each pattern is 15 cents.

To obtain either pattern illustrated fill out this coupon and enclose 15 cents in stamps or coin. Be sure to state number of pattern and size, measuring over the fullest part of the bust. Address Pattern Department, care of this paper.

Our Point of View

It would be a delightful change if the poets were to drop the June brides and favor us with a few odes to the June-bug.

Another French cabinet has resigned, but the news created no excitement in Europe, for the reason that resigning is the chief industry of the Cabinet in that country.

—o—

Sir Conan Doyle says the conduct of militant suffragets in London will result in some of them being lynched, but it is quite unwise for him to talk that way, and if he doesn't stop it, they will lynch him.

The Globe says that the shirt waists and blouses are now cut so low that nobody pays any more attention to slit skirts. Probably because the waists and blouses reveal more good scenery than the skirts....

The United States Steel Corporation has announced that hereafter in their works all promotions will be made only from the ranks of those who do not use intoxicating drinks. This is not morals, but it is business. Good business cannot afford to tolerate drinking.

Our old friend Vic Huerta says he will be ready to tender his resignation "just as soon as Mexico is pacified," and the wicked Louisville-Courier-Journal remarks that he makes use of nice diplomatic language to say that he will get out when hell freezes over.

The editor of a Toronto paper says: "The campus is in very fine shape and looks very excellent indeed. It has been recently mowed and the fragrance of freshly blooming flowers is indeed pleasant to the eye." Here we have a scribe who has relieved his nose of its function and smells with his eyes.

The "Sour Milk" Diet

In reference to the "sour milk" diet as a preventive of old age, M. J. Angeloff, the Bulgarian consul-general in Manchester, tells of his great grandfather, who died a few years ago at the age of 134, while his father is 88, as active as a man of 40, and has not lost a tooth. But he says the Bulgarians only eat meat about once a week and eat a great quantity of vegetables. No doubt the sour milk, the vegetables and the absence of meat help to keep them alive, but we think perhaps the most important thing is that—they do not live in America.

Sciatica Vanishes Instantly If Nerviline is Used

CAN YOU BEAT THIS CASE ?

No ordinary liniment will ever relieve Sciatica. Nothing but the most powerful kind of a remedy can penetrate through the tissues and finally reach the Sciatic Nerve. You can always depend on the old-time "Nerviline." Nothing made to-day is as good for Sciatica as Nerviline was when first produced, about forty years ago. All this time the same old "Nerviline" has been curing Sciatica, Lumbago Rheumatism, and is considered to be without an equal in relieving pain or soreness anywhere. "Nerviline" couldn't be made stronger or better," writes James E. Edwards. "The way it cures Sciatica is to me simply a miracle. For years I suffered frightfully. I ruined by stomach with internal dosing. I rubbed in gallons of oils and liniments—none were strong enough. One good rubbing with Nerviline relieved. I kept on rubbing and shortly was cured. My father cured rheumatism in his right arm and shoulder with Nerviline, and my mother cured herself of chronic lumbago with Nerviline. Our family simply swears by Nerviline and we are never without a 50c. family size bottle in our home. We find that for external pain, for coughs, colds, earache such minor ills it is a veritable family physician.

Roman Catholic Tolerance

Our Roman Catholic friends do not like to be accused of intolerance. The Pittsburg Observer says: "No Catholic, who really possesses that Catholic spirit, is intolerant or bigoted. Bigotry is a crime which the Catholic Church severely condemns. The individual Catholic may occasionally commit it, but it is contrary to the Catholic character and utterly opposed to Catholic teaching. The legal right to choose and practice his own religion, so long as he interferes not with the equal rights of others, is an inheritance of the American citizen, handed down from Catholic colonists, which to-day we Catholics claim for ourselves, and, as far as in our power lies, vindicate for all." This, however, is in Protestant America. But in Roman Catholic Spain, when the Mayor of Barcelona gave Dr. Francis E. Clark permission to hold a big mass meeting of 4,000 Christian Endeavorers in the Palace of Fine Arts, the Carlists, the extreme members of the Roman Catholic party, protested en masse, and the Archbishop and Governor of Catalonia joined the protest, and, when this proved useless, they tried to enter the hall with firearms and even placed a bomb in the building. The Mayor had to call out 700 police and civic guards to protect the hall, and afterwards Dr. and Mrs. Clark had to be guarded all the way to the American Board Girls' School, five miles away. Is it any wonder that Protestants question whether Roman Catholics understand what tolerance means ? It seems to mean one thing in the United States and another thing in Spain or any Roman Catholic country.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

PUBLIC OPINION

The Times does not hold itself responsible for the opinions of its correspondents.

MR. SODEN'S TEMPERANCE POLICY.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir.—The Revs. Pogue and Feever are two able and influential ministers and had the right of all electors to be present at Mr. Soden's meeting. They had the right also to ask questions of those who are seeking the votes and confidence of the electors. A voter has a right to satisfy himself within reason that the candidate is a proper man to vote for. But in the present campaign why do these gentlemen favour the liquor-shop? Is that not a terrible responsibility for them to assume? Here are two men, one—Mr. Gillespie—who says that Mr. Rowell's policy is his policy, and Mr. Rowell says that he willnot abolish the shop but will leave it to local option. Mr. Soden says that his policy is more advanced than the present policy of his leader although his leader says if the electors want the Soden policy let them send Soden men, Now what is Mr. Soden's policy ? It is to abolish the manufacture and sale of liquor in every shape, form and place. How can any sincere temperance worker vote for Mr. Gillespie as against Mr. Soden? The one who does so votes for the liquor-shop, not against it. We cannot buck against facts. Shouting and waving hands are not arguments. If you are against the whiskey shop vote for Soden. If you are in favour of it vote for Gillespie. "Take heed lest ye fall." Yours,

Soden.

P.S. What could have been the object of those who would have had Mr. Soden sign an endorsation of the Rowell policy and thus tie himself to the whiskey-shop?

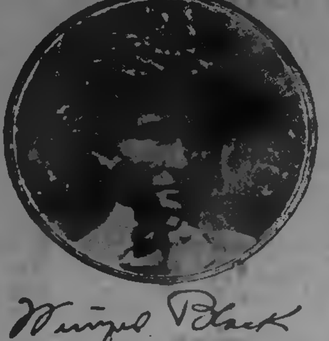
Why Our Little Girls Run Away from Home

By Winifred Black

Copyright, 1914, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.



Winifred Black

THE Kermess was over, the May festival was done and there wasn't going to be another thing to do till the Feast of the Roses in June—so the little 14-year-old girl ran away from home. She couldn't stand it another day. It was so dull.

She had a good home with a devoted mother and a father who smiled at her lightest word.

She had a pretty room of her own all furnished daintily in her own particular color. She had a closet full of pretty dresses and a bureau full of dainty fluffs and ruffles.

There were a dozen brand new hair ribbons in the top drawer; there were a truly gold locket and chain and a bracelet and three or four rings and some little fancy pins in her Japanese jewel box of enamel. And down stairs in the breakfast room there was a silver cup with her name on it, and a crystal cup with her monogram initialed on it in platinum. The house was full of photographs of the little girl.

This happened in Chicago. And the same week a little girl in New Orleans ran away; she's been discontented and lonely ever since the Mardi Gras. And out in San Francisco a pretty little girl was so bored after the May Day festival was over that she ran away, too.

They all came back, poor little things, drooping and crushed and half-broken-hearted; they all came back—safe—by some miracle.

How They Went Home.

The little Chicago girl went as far as Indianapolis, and there a man stared at her in the street and she began to cry and some one took her to the police station, and they telegraphed her father and he came and took his little girl home—to be bored again.

The little New Orleans girl found her way to an up river steamer and got aboard somehow, alone.

The negro stewardess thought there was something peculiar about her, and the gangplank hadn't been up for half an hour before the whole story was out. At the next landing the little girl gave a cry of delight, for there on the wharf was her big brother, very pale and stern, but her big brother just the same, and she was so glad to see him that she cried and laughed all in the same breath.

The little San Francisco girl didn't get very far either, poor, pretty, frightened little thing. She came home with her father and her sister, and there was a great welcome for her and she said she would never go out into the wide world again alone—never, never.

I wonder if any of the parents of any of these children have thrown away any of the photographs of the little girl in fancy dress.

It is a terrible thing to go to school and wear an everyday middy suit with your hair in a braid, when you've been Columbine at a flower carnival, and had everybody staring at you in your gorgeous dress.

And how foolish grown people are to think that they can "boss" a wondrous creature who has ridden through the public streets on a public float, with her soft hair down around her face, and her pretty ankles showing.

How pretty they are, the fiestas and the water carnivals and the flower fetes and the school dances and the street parades—how gay they make life for us these days.

In a Perpetual Festival.

Why, it's like living in a perpetual festival. How sweet they look, the young women in their beautiful soft dresses, and the little girls, all in pink and faint blue and clear yellow, all clad in silk and crowned with flowers—why, they are like visions of delight!

Who can look at them without a thrill of real pleasure? And yet, somehow, I wonder if it is quite the thing to put the little creatures on exhibition so freely and so often.

Don't you remember how you felt when the last day of school was over—in the old times?

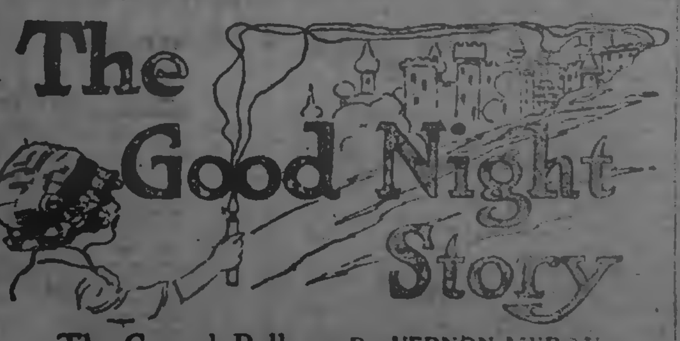
You made wreaths for days, you hung mottoes for hours, you practised your little speech of welcome for weeks, and when it was all over how dull and stupid and prosaic the everyday world looked to you. Don't you remember?

I was Queen of the May once at a little Sunday school picnic. I think my dress was too short and I know my white slippers were too big, for they kept falling off just in the most important part of the proceedings. But it took me weeks to get over the affair.

"George Washington, John Adams, Thomas Jefferson"—what in the world did I care who was President when the war of the revolution began? Why should I care for such mere prosaic details? I, the Queen of the May, who had had my picture in the county paper and three lines about me right under it!

Sweet, sweet, sweet—how sweet they are, the little girls, when we let them stay little girls.

I wonder if we aren't going to do it any more!



The Good Night Story

The Crystal Ball :: By VERNON MERRY

A WITCH once had three sons, but she did not trust them, fearing they would rob her of her power. So she turned the oldest into an eagle and the second into a whale. The youngest ran away from home.

During his travels he learned that in a castle, called the Castle of the Golden Sun, there lived a beautiful Princess under the spell of a sorcerer, and he longed to set her free.

For many long days and nights he wandered through the forests and over the mountains, and it was not until he was almost exhausted that he saw on a mountain side a castle that shone like gold.

Through many great rooms he went seeking the Princess, to find at last only an old, old woman. "I am the King's daughter," she told him, the tears running down her cheeks, "but I am under a terrible spell.

"You must climb to the top of this mountain," she explained, "and there kill a wild buffalo. Then destroy a phoenix which will rise out of his body. In it you will see a red-hot egg. Break this, and, instead of the yolk there will be a crystal ball. If you take this ball to the sorcerer, his power will end."

The youth soon found the buffalo and, after a terrible fight, it lay dead. At once the fiery bird flew from the body and would have escaped had not the boy's oldest brother, the eagle, drove the bird toward the sea. Then he so wounded the phoenix that it dropped the egg, which fell upon a fisherman's hut and set it on fire. Had not the second brother, the whale, spouted up a large column of water the hut would have been destroyed. Then the young man hastened to the sorcerer and held the ball before him.

"You are now the King of the Castle," the wicked man cried.

The young man returned to the castle and found the Princess restored to her beauty. With joyful hearts they pledged their love.

REFLECTIONS By Michelson

Copyright, 1914, by Newspaper Feature Service. Great Britain Rights Reserved.

NOTHING suggests reflections like a pretty pool. You think of all sorts of curious, romantic, impossible and perhaps possible things while you look into its cool green depths.

Down under the azure reflections of the sky YOUR reflections carry you in search of images you might never think of looking for anywhere else in the world.

And the odd thing is that unless you lean very far over you can't see yourself and you can't see what is BEHIND you.

All this is part of the wonder and fantasy of reflections. Sometimes the two kinds of reflections tell the same story. But you have to be very wise and very adroit to find this out. Turning your head VERY quickly might answer the same purpose.

Peter's Adventures in Matrimony

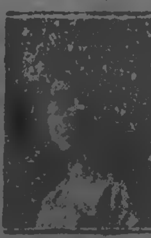
By LEONA DALRYMPLE

Author of the new novel, "Diane of the Green Van," awarded a prize of $10,000 by Ida M. Tarbell and S. S. McClure as judges.

The [illegible] about "the [illegible] in the case" [illegible] this new series by Miss Dalrymple. Her character studies will not appear unfamiliar to the majority of readers, who will follow the fortunes of "Peter" with interest.

No. 90.

Nature's Age Wall.



Leona Dalrymple [illegible]

"MOTHER," said I one evening in her sitting room, "why do women fuss so much more over age than men do?"

"Well," said mother, thoughtfully, "custom has built up some age conventions that are a little unfair. That I imagine is the [illegible]."

"Unfair?" said I. "How? We all grow old alike. We all wrinkle and lose our teeth and eyesight and our hair grows gray. Indeed, in some ways the woman has much the better time of it, I should say, for with advancing years all sorts of [illegible] come to her. [illegible] fairly [illegible] if she has daughters [illegible] whereas the man keeps his nose to the grindstone until he dies."

"The [illegible]," said mother, "[illegible] different ways. There are utterly different standards [illegible] for men and women, seek to ignore them as we will. A man of 35 is frequently called a young man. A woman of 35 is rarely called a young woman. A man's physical appearance is judged with absolute disregard of his years. Not so the woman. There is always present the notion of what she must have been in her youth. If she is still handsome at 50, you'll hear the comment: 'What a stunning girl she's been in her time!' With the man, the comment is merely: 'He's a mighty handsome fellow.' Nobody bothers about what he has been. They take him for what he is."

"That's true," said I [illegible].

"Take a school class of girls and boys of the same age. Most of the girls marry before they are 25. Naturally the boys wait. Economic conditions make them wait. Around 35 they, too, begin to marry and they marry whom? Not the single girls of their own age. They marry girls in the early twenties. Those years have made nothing like the difference to the boys that they have to the girls."

"They marry the younger girls," I suggested, "because the girls of their own age are mostly married."

"No," said mother, "it isn't entirely that. Men have been taught that there is a marriageable age in women, and when they're looking for a wife they instinctively turn to that marriageable age. Let's take for further example [illegible]. If he marries at that age she is logically expected to marry a man somewhere in the forties, early or late. This immediately puts her in a somewhat middle-aged crowd. The man of the same age will take a young wife of 21 or so and propel himself back into the young crowd. It makes a tremendous difference."

"Hum!" said I doubtfully. "That may be all right for a time, mother, but when your young wife of 21 or so is 30, and the man is in his late forties, then the difference begins to tell. She is still young, but he's getting along into the middle-aged class. When she is 40, the difference in years is accented a little more. And by and by when the wife is still young enough to love the energy and activity of life, the man is beginning to develope a taste for the chimney corner. Then there are disadvantages."

"Still," said mother, "the disadvantages in most cases lies pretty much with the woman. The only years of interest in an unmarried woman seem to be from 20 to 30. After that people begin to fuss because she isn't married. The man, on the other hand, may stay single as long as he chooses. Always he has much the better chance of unhampered life by reason of the fact that society does not require him to take a mate too early. He may wait until he's 35 or 40 and miss nothing at all of life. The woman would."

"Yes," said I, "there is Nature's reason back of it all."

"There is," agreed mother. "The later the marriageable age of women the fewer the children. Nature built up this wall of age conventions to conserve the race."

Secrets of Health and Happiness

What "In-Thinking" Is; How It Affects Every One

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins).

DR. HIRSHBERG

"AH, the evils of this day! Ah, the terrible times!"

Have you heard these expressions recently? Do you know the anti-vice societies and the uplifters? Do they say these things?

Most certainly they do, but these words were just translated from a "newspaper" between 5500 and 11,000 years old. In other words, Assyrian bricks, just unearthed in Babylonia's old neighborhood.

The cuneiform inscriptions printed upon clay "newspapers" and brick-like moulds speak of ethics, smoking, vice and drinking just as the in-thinkers do today.

Set me down as an optimist and a happy pessimist, in the fashion of Brand Whitlock, on the social evil. The unhappy women must not have things done to them, but for them.

The woman hunt and the various white slave laws are unchristian, unjust and impossible. They are the outcome of the uplift malady, which will now be described as in-thinking.

In-thinking is a malady which is epidemic at present. Among its pernicious activities and militant symptoms is a pathological concern with other people's behavior. Not conduct, mark you, but behavior—an entirely different thing.

When suffragettes concern themselves with cigarette smoking, liquor drinking, the behavior of husbands toward their wives, the men and religion forward movement, hygiene, etc., they are in-thinking instead of attending strictly to the business in hand to obtain logically what they properly deserve, namely, votes for women.

When sincere Sunday school superintendents who are simultaneously in the coffee, tea or grocery business advocate the immorality of booze and rum, they are, so to speak, mixing their religious metaphors and suffering with the Joan of Arc delusion of in-thinking.

In-thinking, like ingrowing toenails, is just as malodorous under any other name. Sometimes it passes muster for "nerves," sometimes for "a great benefactory," again for "uplifting," "forward looking," "attention to the public weal," and the like.

Actually it is an endemic American ailment properly called "minding other folks' business," "the man hunt," "the woman hunt," the self-anointment and personal glorification of the in-thinkers versus the multitude of thinkers.

In sooth, it is about time that this buncombe and flap-doodle of amphibian-blooded persons be tagged and labelled by its true, pathological and anti-physiological name.

It is high time that the modern Savonarolas and Maids of Orleans be called, not tenderly but truly, by their self-deceiving first names.

Useful Hints for the Housewife

By Ann Marie Lloyd

A FROWSY housemaid reflects discredit on the housewife. The maid who admits the visitor is as subtle an indication of the thoroughness of the home as are the cleanliness, order and cheeriness of the front hall.

In the average home, where only one maid is kept and she is a maid-of-all-work, there is not the opportunity for trim and attractive livery as where there are more maids; but, even with the one, there is no excuse for her being untidy or dressed in a nondescript costume of pied shirt waist and woollen skirt with an apron of uncertain style.

There are establishments in all large cities where special attention is given to service clothes, and if the housekeeper does not care to attend personally to the maid's clothes, she may send her there with the assurance that she will be correctly outfitted.

The morning dress of the houseworker should be of chambray or seersucker in some light color which pleases the mistress of the house. Pink and blue are the two colors most chosen, although there is a shade of gray which looks neat and a tone of light tan, almost the shade that is known as "natural," that is permissible. There should be a turned over collar of white and a generous apron with bretelles of white lawn which reach almost to the hem of the dress. This may be perfectly plain or have an embroidery edge. Hemstitching is a good finish.

The cap is a bit of muslin pinned toward the front of the head.

Where one maid is kept this dress is seldom changed for luncheon, but there is a distinct apron which is neither so enveloping or so plain. It reaches about to the knees, is of finer material and has more elaboration.

For afternoon wear and for serving dinner, the plain, well fitted gown of sateen in some dark color or black is chosen. Also there is a standing collar and band cuffs of white and a frivolous bit of apron.

It is entirely a matter of preference what color the afternoon dress shall be. One well known American woman has her maids in white at all hours of the day. Another chooses pale gray for the afternoon livery.

Prune color, to match the livery of the men-servants, is the choice of another, and a soft, dull blue is liked by others. Gray or black is a safe choice for the average woman.

The collar and cuffs are made of organdie, lawn or scrim and are simple and fit snugly. The apron may be of varying shapes, either rounded at the edge or pointed, with wide bretelles that are kept in place on the shoulders. A narrow lace edge makes an attractive finish.

There are several forms of the cap intended for the more formal dress, and frequently it is adorned with a neat bow to match the color of the dress. The maid-of-all-work should be provided with several all covering gingham aprons for wear in the kitchen. Those which are cut on the lines of a dress with generous sleeves which slip over the dress are the most practical. They should be quite as long as the dress and reach around the figure so they afford entire protection.

Where there are two maids, there is not the slightest excuse, save that of ignorance or carelessness, for not having them always attractively and correctly garbed. Also, there is opportunity to have the "second maid" dressed in daintier fashion than the one whose duties include kitchen work. Besides, there are little distinctions of cap and apron which belong to the station.

White is preferred as the uniform for nurses. There is a very wide linen that comes for sheeting that is practical if one buys the material by the yard and has the dresses made. The apron should be long, with a bib and tied with wide strings.

Advice to Girls

By ANNIE LAURIE

Dear Annie Laurie:

I am a young man of 20 and once had a friend who was dearly in love with me. A few months ago I made her acquainted with a boy friend of mine, and she fell in love with him at first sight, and doesn't seem to care for me any more. What can I do to regain her affection? I am very unhappy. L. E.

SO you're 20, are you, and your friend was once dearly in love with you, and now she's in love with a boy friend of yours. Dear me, how tragic!

How old is this "boy," 18 or what?

Why didn't your friend choose a man to fall in love with while she was about it? What can you do to regain her affection? How in the world can I tell? I don't even know whether the lady is fair or dark, grave or gay, clever or stupid.

Why don't you try the old, old plan? You meet some one and fall in love, head over heels in love, at first sight.

Let your friend know about it, by accident, and when she speaks to you of it pretend to be embarrassed and ill at ease. Talk about the other girl, and then act as if you wish you hadn't.

What color are the eyes of your hard-hearted fair one? Brown?

Well, then, rave over eyes of blue.

Is she chubby and roly-poly and dimpled? Talk about the divine slenderness of your new flame.

If this doesn't work I don't know what else will, and you had better make up your mind to do without your friend who was once upon a time so "dearly in love with you."

Annie Laurie

Miss Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. They should be addressed to her, care this office.

Poultry Industry

The value of the poultry industry to New Zealand was stated at a conference of poultrymen to be two millions sterling per annum, this sum changing hands for products, produce and materials in order to keep the industry going. The average price of eggs and table poultry was fully 50 per cent. higher than it was ten years ago. Five years ago they could count on one hand the number of persons engaged in poultry farming for a living. Now they could be numbered by the score. Farmers too, were giving poultry their attention, since they were realising that the high prices received for eggs and table birds made the keeping of poultry a valuable adjunct to farm pursuits.

ENTHUSIASM

Enthusiasm tramples over prejudice and opposition, spurns inaction, storms the citadel of its object, and like an avalanche, overwhelms and engulfs all obstacles. It is nothing more nor less than faith in action. Faith and initiative rightly combined remove mountainous barriers and achieve the unheard of and miraculous. Set the germ of enthusiasm afloat in your plant, in your office, or on your farm; carry it in your attitude and manner; it spreads like contagion and influences every fiber of your industry before you realise it; it begets and inspires effects you did not dream of; it means increase in production and decrease in costs; it means joy and pleasure and satisfaction to your workers; it means life, real and virile; it means spontaneous bed-rock results—the vital things that pay dividends.—Henry Chester.

How People Feel
When They Have
Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulveney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them cannot imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are: ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ½ of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution, have very little distress.

Prof. Mulveney's world-famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, sure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, is not disagreeable to take. One dose nearly always affects a cure. Further information free. Send stamped envelope, telephone Parkdale 4830, or call at 167 Dundas street, Toronto. Open from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

ALPINE PHOTOGRAPHY

Getting Pictures on the Mountains is Chilly and Dangerous

Any one who has ever visited the Alps and climbed their icy slopes knows the difficulties to be encountered, even with the help of guides and it would seem next to impossible to take along on such a trip a camera. Yet M. Tairraz made, with the assistance of a porter, photographs with a twenty-by-sixteen camera using glass plates, while scaling the peaks.

Days of sunshine are rare in the high Alps, and again and again he had to descend without pictures owing the snowstorms, high winds and avalanches; consequently the pictures were the result of several months' work. There was no posing, for the climber on Mount Blanc has little time for this, as he must make the climb in a certain time or run the risk of being frozen to death.

In order to obtain the pictures M. Tairraz usually went ahead of the party and found a point of vantage which he knew the climbers must pass. In order to do this he had to leave the regular track as laid off by the guides, and several times he fell into crevasses, although he never had a serious accident.

After a picture was made he followed the climbers to a point where they rested, and after resting only a few minutes he went ahead again and set up the instrument, waiting until they passed. Sometimes it was necessary for both himself and the porter to hold the big instrument to keep it from blowing down the mountain. Coupled with this it was always intensely cold, and his fingers were many times so numb that he could scarcely remove the plate-holder.

Of course, every picture was not to his liking, so he tried again until he succeeded. "To be sure, it was dangerous," he is quoted as saying, with a little shrug of his shoulders. "I wanted the pictures and it was the only way."

34 YEARS IN MINE

Chinaman Make Pile and Becomes Citizen

Out of the Omineca after 34 years spent in gold mines, Ah Luk, a Chinese, has returned north to his Siwash wife and young son. For the first time in his life he traveled on a railway train, got his first sight of an automobile, street cars, electric lights and all the conveniences of the modern city.

In Vancouver Ah Luk made application to become a Canadian citizen as he never intends to return to China. He plans to send his young son to Vancouver to school.

Ah Luk went into the Cariboo mining district when he was 17 years old. Later he travelled into the Omineca, where he has been placer mining ever since. He is settled on Germansen Creek where his summers are spent in washing the golden gravel, his winters in trapping. On Vital Creek in the early days he took out $11,000 in one season. His gains from mining are now more modest.

Twelve years ago, the lonely Chinese miner fell a victim to the charms of Josephine, a belle of the Babine Indians and they were married by a missionary priest of that country. This marriage forms an effective bond to keep him in British Columbia and he has given up all hope of ever seeing China again.

From Hazelton, Ah Luk marched to his cabin, a distance of 187 miles with supplies for the trip carried on his back.

COMPANY'S PROPERTIES:

The Southwest Petroleum and Development Company Limited, controls approximately 4,220 acres of Oil Lands situated South and West of the City of Calgary. The Company also owns the surface rights of the North One-half of Legal Sub-division Sixteen (16), Section one (1), Township twenty (20), Range three (3), West of the Fifth Meridian.

FIRST WELL:

The first well of the Company will be drilled on the above-mentioned Legal Subdivision, which is just west of the famous producing Discovery Well of the Calgary Petroleum Products Company, Limited, (the Dingman Company), and arrangements are being made to have this proceeded with.

The following are the Company's holdings, with details and locations: (1). The South One-half of Section Thirty-four (34), Township Twenty (20), Range Two (2), West of the Fifth Meridian. Three Hundred and Twenty acres (320).

(2). All of Section Four (4) Township Twenty (20), Range One (1), West of the Fifth Meridian. Six Hundred and Forty acres (640).

(3). All of Section Eleven (11) Township Twenty-nine (29), Range (6), West of the Fifth Meridian. Six Hundred and Forty acres (640).

Maps may be consulted and further information secured at the office of the undersigned.

The Company's properties are all carefully selected and were picked out at leisure by the original holders (from whom the Company has purchased) long prior to the recent striking of oil in quantity. The vendors of these leases are accepting approximately eight per cent. of the purchase price in cash, and the balance in stock of the Company for their holdings. This is an evidence of their confidence in the value of the various properties as Oil producers.

The advantage is apparent of such a favorable agreement, as it leaves the Company free to apply incoming funds, to development work and legitimate expenses.

DIRECTORS:

In Companies of this nature the standing and integrity of its Directors and Officers are more important if possible than in the case of any other kind of Company. A brief reference, therefore, to the personnel forming this Company's Board is given, viz:

CURRENT SELLING PRICES:

The stocks of all Companies drilling in good districts are selling at a premium; some of them at many hundreds per cent. advance over the original price, and it is confidently expected that the shares of this Company will show a substantial advance immediately drilling operations are under way.

ENORMOUS POSSIBILITIES:

The enormous possibilities of the profits are apparent, and the Company has a Board and Executive composed of men of undoubted integrity and ability. Quebec Man Who Suffered For a Long Time from Kidney Disease Finds a Complete Cure.

Allen's Mills, Portneuf Co., Que., June 12—(Special.)— Another splendid cure by Dodd's Kidney Pills is that of Michael Gauthier, a well-known resident of this place. Mr. Gauthier was for a long time a sufferer with a pain in his head caused by kidney disease, and at length got so bad that he had to quit work. Dodd's Kidney Pills cured him. He is back at work, strong and hearty, and naturally he feels that he wants all who suffer from kidney disease to know that they can find a cure in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

For Dodd's Kidney Pills not only cure the pain or ache that is causing the most distress, they put the kidneys in good working and all the impurities and poisons are strained out of the blood. The result is that new strength is carried to every part of the body. That's why so many sufferers cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills sum up their condition, "I feel like a new man." IMMODIST FASHIONS COMFORTABLE SAY MRS. PENNYBACKER

Parisian Modes May Have Place on Chicago Suffrage Convention Program.

Chicago, June 9. That woman suffrage still is an open question and women's fashions at present are immodest, but comfortable were statements here to-day by Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker, of Austin, Tex., president of the general Federation of Women's Clubs. Mrs. Pennybacker arrived yesterday to prepare for the biennial convention of the federation which opened here June 9.

"As to woman suffrage," she said, "that remains an open question. Personally, I approve of it because I think the highest type of women is interested in politics and everything that is vital in life.

"Aside from the extreme low neck and the slavish following of Parisian styles, which are to be condemned, I think the present fashions are enjoyable," said Mrs. Pennybacker. "The freedom which women have now about the chest and waist, which allows of deep breathing and comfort, is to be praised."

Suffrage and fashions probably will be two of the most interesting topics before the federation, Mrs. Pennybacker said.

STOPPING "SQUEAK IN SHOES

A remedy for squeaky shoes is given in the following communication which was sent to a contemporary:—

"Squeaky shoes are an abomination but they may be easily cured. The remedy I apply was given many years ago by an old German cobbler and has by an old German cobbler and it has never failed. Everybody ought to know and use it.

"Take a fairly rough new brick, the newer the better, and rub the soles vigorously from the toes downward, never upward, being careful not to abrade the polished edges. With some sharp instrument, a knife will do, make many transverse and crosswise cuts, not to deep, on the soles. Put water in an old wash boiler. To the depth of a little less than the thickness of the soles and set the shoes in it, gently to avoid splashing and let them stand overnight. In the morning rub the soles energetically twenty minutes with a woollen rag dipped in a mixture made of one part sweet oil, one part asafetida and one part gasoline. Then take the shoes down cellar and throw them in the furnace."

VOL. XLI, NO. 137 MONDAY MORNING, JUNE 15, 1914 PRICE TWO CENTS

DRIVING OUT OF FOG GERMAN BOAT RIPS A GREAT HOLE IN LINER

Gash 32 Feet Long Was Smashed in "New York" Just Above the Water Line--Sudden Heeling Over After Crash Brought Passengers to Deck

New York, June 13.—At 3.26 o'clock this morning, in a dense fog, 400 miles east of Ambrose Channel Light, the American liner New York was struck by the Hamburg-American liner Petoria. A hole 32 feet long and 12 feet deep was smashed in the New York's port side, about 150 feet aft of the bow. No damage was done below the water line.

The New York had heard the signals of the Pretoria and Captain Roberts who was on the bridge ordered the engines stopped.

The ship had no headway for ten minutes. As the Pretoria's bow loomed out of the fog Captain Roberts sounded whistles indicating that his vessel had no way. He then rang "Full speed astern." The engineer started the engines with a jerk and the New York fairly leaped backward All bulkheads in the New York had been closed since 12.50 o'clock this morning when the fog first settled down about the vessel. Captain Roberts went below and made a personal examination of the hole in the hull. He found that no water had entered.

There Was No Panic.

The Pretoria came on and smashed the port side of the New York, her bow scraping along for 100 feet and towering over the deck of the New York. The starboard anchor and part of the hawser pipe of the Pretoria dropped on the New York's deck.

The New York heeled over to starboard. Passengers who had been aroused by the shock of the collision and the sudden heeling of the vessel, rushed on deck in all stages of undress. Women were pale and nervous, but there was no panic of any moment. The officers and stewards ran from end to end of the vessel, advising all that there was no danger. In the meantime the boat drill had been sounded and everything was in readiness for departure from her should it prove that she was badly damaged.

Pretoria Stood By.

The Pretoria backed away after the collision and stood by for half an hour. She was invisible, but occasionally sounded a signal from her whistle. At 4 o'clock Captain Roberts notified Captain Dugge of the Pretoria that he was not in need of assistance, and the Hamburg-American liner drew away presumably to resume her voyage to Hamburg. We have heard nothing from her since.

There were 265 cabin passengers, including 26 children, on the New York and the crew numbered 390, making a total of 655 on board. All the passengers were asleep at the time of the collision. The assurance of Capt. Roberts after his personal examination that the vessel was not leaking and was in condition to continue on her way to New York relieved the intense nervous strain. Most of the passengers had put on life belts. The officers and crew showed admirable discipline and self-control.

POSTMASTER EDGAR WAS IN TORONTO

It was stated in The Examiner the other night, that Postmaster Edgar was one of those present on the platform at Mr. Soden's meeting in the Opera House. This was not true, as Mr. Edgar was in Toronto on that date.

COL. SAM HUGHES CHANGES HIS MIND

Comes Half Way in Montreal Church Parade Controversy

Montreal, June 13.—A compromise has been reached in the trouble that has arisen over the application here of the Imperial military regulation which forbids troops carrying arms in church parades, between the Colonel, Hon. Sam Hughes, minister of militia, who have been desirous of providing an armed escort for the Host in the Corpus Christi procession, taking place to-morrow, in accordance with a time honored custom. The militiamen will be allowed to provide the guard, but must not enter Notre Dame Church, where the procession ends. They will leave for their armory after escorting the Host to the Church doors.

BASEBALL NEWS

The Petes captured another game from Hamilton on Saturday, making four wins out of the six games played last week—some going, and if they keep that gait up, it will not be long before they move up towards the attic.

Tracey in the box for the Petes put up a good game and was well supported throughout. All the boys worked to the limit and the large crowd of fans present were not disappointed. The score stood 8—4 in favor of the Petes.

THOUSANDS OF REELS OF FILM DESTROYED

Philadelphia, Pa., June 13.—A boy was fatally hurt and moving picture films valued at $500,000 were destroyed and a block of houses was burned to the ground to-day as a result of an explosion which wrecked a one-storey brick building used as a storage vault for films at the Lubin Moving Picture Plant at Twentieth street and Indiana avenue. One side of the brick structure was blown out. Thousands of reels of films stored within caught fire. A row of houses, facing the brick building soon caught fire, their occupants fleeing in terror. Roy Didio was enveloped by flames when his home, No. 2933 North Garnett street was set ablaze by the explosion. He was so terribly burned that he will die.

Two hundred girls fled in alarm from the Lubin plant and many fainted.

HIRED AUTO TO GET FISH TO DYING MAN

Boston, June 13.—In the gist of bills which came before Daniel L, Prendergast, chairman of the trustees of hospitals for consumptives, as he was going over the accounts of the state sanatorium at Rutland yesterday, was on which had these strange items : "For automobile to Jefferson, $1; for two pounds of haddock, 18 cents."

The entries seemed so unusual in the midst of the larger affairs of the institution that Mr. Prendergast's curiosity was aroused. He called upon the sanatorium by telephone for an explanation, wondering how the automobile and the haddock come to be grouped in the same voucher.

Here is the story as he was told to him by the superintendent: Sometime ago a Boston fisherman, one of the men who sailed with the T. wharf fleet, had been sent to the sanatorium He had seemed better for a while and then became rapidly worse, until last week there seemed to be no hope.

The man sank rapidly, became delirious and seemingly reverting to his days of activity, called constantly for haddock. Nothing seemed to quiet him and as a last resort one of the doctors hired an automobile and hurried to the nearest fish market in Jefferson, some eight miles away.

When the fish had been brought to his bedside the patient became quiet at once and died peacefully.

BRAVE HAWAIINS

Natural Water Dogs Win Admiration In Graceful Sport

Honolulu, H.W., June 13.— It is improbable that the feat of riding a narrow board down the rapids that urge through the gorge just below the falls of Niagara could be accomplished by anyone. But if it could be done at all the most likely candidate for the daring and dangerous exhibition would be a native Hawaiian surf rider.

The sea that beats over the coral reef which half-circles the outer limits of the harbor, quickly churns itself into a raging, roaring torrent of breakers that sweep inland across the shallower waters of the lagoon. It is upon the crest of these violent breakers that the surf riders cast their long-pointed boards and, with a grace that never fails to win the admiration of any spectators who may happen to witness the daring performance, stand upright upon the flimsy footings and guide them through the raging sea to the stiller waters that border the shore.

It is one of the most exhilarating and fascinating sports in the world. The average Hawaiian is a natural water dog. Almost the first thing a voyager from the United States sees when the steamship enters the harbor is a horde of native boys disporting themselves in the deep water of the channel. As the ship comes alongside they give exhibitions of diving after coins that are thrown to them by passengers.

No sooner does the piece of money strike the water than the boys disappear, head downward, and after a lively scramble far beneath the surface the lucky contestants rises to the surface holding the coin in his hand as proof of his prowess.

SUFFRAGETTES MAY DRIVE QUEEN MARY OUT OF LONDON

KICK AGAINST TOO MANY "UP-STARTS"

London, June 13.—King Alfonso is having trouble with his old nobility. It seems that for a long time the grandees have been feeling uneasy about the many titles of nobility conferred during recent years and they have appealed to the King to stop the invasion of "upstarts" into their camp. It is unlikely that any notice will be taken of their protest, inasmuch as the special tax which a newly made grandee has to pay— and which amounts to a big sum— goes into the Spanish treasury.

London, June 13.—Queen Mary has decided in case of further suffragette demonstrations in the vicinity of royalty to quit London abruptly and leave King George to finish the season alone, according to a source in close touch with the court and the Government.

The Queen is represented as being in a state of nervous tension as to when and where the next suffragette will appear. She, it is said, has no intention of allowing her existence to be made unhappy by those she habitually calls the "Furies."

Should the Queen be forced to carry her threat into execution, the step will create an unparalleled social sensation.

GIVE HUSBAND TO MEXICAN MAID BUT SUES FOR ALIMONY

Man's Answer in Divorce Court Reveals Extraordinary Contract Between Unhappily Married Couple

Bloomington, Ill., June 13.—An extraordinary nuptial agreement was made public in the filing of an answer this week by Charles Cox in the Du Page County Circuit Court to the charges in a bill for divorce.

The reply told the story of the "dying love" of his wife which led to a contract which gave him permission to live as the husband of a handsome Indian girl to whom he became attracted while making his home in Mexico. It recites the details of an alleged agreement whereby Mrs. Cox relinquishes her husband to Maria Reyes Castillejos, a highly educated Mexican halfbreed, for a monetary consideration.

The married life of the defendant and his wife is dwelt upon at length in the answer, which asserts that the couple had their home in a hotel for many years, the wife declining to keep house. As a result of the hotel life Cox became ill, principally due to the fact that the food was unfit to eat. Cox demanded that his wife agree to a change in their method of living and that they keep house and thus enable him to secure food which would be helpful and strengthening. In addition to her insistence upon living in a hotel he charges her with the possession of a "vaulting social ambition, and, as a result of her extravagance, she always kept poverty dogging at the heels of the defendant, cursing him with the cruel, bitter curse of unrequitted toi, thru her everlasting demands made upon him for money," as the bill reads.

In 1904 he prevailed upon his wife to agree to a separation. He produced a housekeeper to cook his meals and he thereafter lived in comfort and regained his health.

ROME BURNS THE PROTESTANT BIBLE

Particulars of the Latest Effort in This Direction Published to the World

The Christian Observer states that a correspondent in the Philippine Islands recently sent an account of Bible Burning as published in a native paper bearing the name "Renacimiente Filipino" under date of Feb. 23, 1914, which reveals the unchangeable hostility of Rome to the Bible. The facts are stated as follows:

In Vigan, capital of Ilocos Sur, largest and most important city of Northern Luzon, a series of moving pictures with scriptural subjects was announced by the American Bible Association. In connection with the exhibition Bibles were sold or given away. The books were paper bound, printed in the Ilocano language, and sold for 10 to 20 centavos. With every Bible sold a ticket to the exhibition was given gratis, and with every ticket to the entertainment sold a Bible was given free. As a result more than 6,000 Bibles were disposed of during the three days that the films were exhibited.

To offset the entrance of the Protestant missionaries and the Bible distribution, immediately afterwards the Roman Catholics announced that a moving picture show under the auspices of the Roman Catholic Church would be given, the price of admission to be not cash but only a Bible. By this means more than 2,000 Bibles were secured, the spectators being unaware of the use to which the Bibles would be put. This was shown on the following afternoon when the public of Vigan was invited by the representatives of the Church of Rome to witness a unique spectacle upon the church plaza. There on January 16. "thousands of Vigan people gathered at the hour named and were treated to the unprecedented spectacle of two thousand five hundred Christian Bibles being consumed in a fire ignited for their destruction in the centre of the plaza. No explanation of the meaning of the act was given by the Roman Catholic authorities, but the understanding was that jealousy of the success of the Protestant missionaries was the primary cause of the action of the Roman Catholic Church officials. All of Vigan is in a furore at present over the occurrence. . . The act of the Catholic authorities served in a way as a boomerang, as regards the sale of Bibles, for on the day following the plaza Bible burning, more than 3,000 more Bibles were sold by the representatives of the American Bible Association."

Rome may be able to justify to her own satisfaction her recent effort to secure the exclusion of the Protestant paper "The Menace" from the Canadian mails on the ground of its scurrilous language (although it is questionable if the Menace does more along that line than to pay them back in their own coin, which is unchristian), but what will she say to the Bible burning.

It is because we sincerely believe

WITNESSED CHARGE OF LIGHT BRIGADE

Harris Imy Visits Edmonton and Tells Story of His Many Battles

Edmonton, June 13.- Harris Imy, 81 years of age, survivor of the Crimean war and campaigns in China Poland and Gordon's relief expedition to Egypt, has come to Edmonton to visit with friends on a tour of Canada and the United States, prior to returning to England, where he is planning to pass the evening of his eventful life with his sons. He is hale and hearty.

Imy was born at the Imperial barracks at Moscow and was one of the Czar's picked troops that withstood the assault of the allies of Sebastapol in the Crimean war.

that if the Roman Catholic Church had the power in Canada to-day she would not only exclude every Protes- exclude the Bible from our homes that tant paper from the mails, but would we voiced our protest against the exclusion of the "Menace" from our mails.

It is but fair to state that the Deputy (a Protestant) took the responsibility from the Postmaster General for the official action in refusing mail privileges to the "Menace." The restrictions have since been removed.

ABOLISH THE BAR BUT NOT BY LAW SAYS METHODISTS

Regina Conference Condemns the Liberal Policy, Altho it Deplores Hotel System

Regina, Sask., June 13.—In spite of the strong opposition of the more conservative clergy and laity, distinct advance in the status of women in the Anglican Church was made yesterday afternoon at the Synod of the Diocese of Qu'Appelle, when by a substantial majority motions were passed amending the canons of the diocese in such a way as to enable women to become parishioners and to vote in election of delegates to diocesan synods. According to the canons of the diocese, however, these motions, not having been passed unanimously, must obtain the approval of the next annual meeting of the synod before becoming effective. The motion to qualify women to vote in other parochial matters was lost, as it did not obtain the necessary two-thirds majority.

After a spirited debate the members of the Anglican synod last night turned down a resolution endorsing the campaign for the abolition of the bar in Saskatchewan. A motion to the effect that the synod deplores the condition of the hotel system in the province and calls the attention of the Government to the same was carried.

A resolution calling for the abolition of the bar was introduced by H. B. Pickett, Moose Jaw, just as the synod was about to adjourn after the final session.

It was opposed by Canon Pratt, among others. He declared he had spent many years in a study of the temperance problems, and was convinced that the true temperance policy lay not in abolishing temptation, but in teaching men to overcome it. He said that in the Northwest territories days, when liquor could be obtained only on permit, conditions were worse than they are now.

SMOKED 672,405 CIGARS DURING 52 YEARS

Paris, June 13.—Calculating machines are left far behind by a French man who at the age of 77 has just died in a Breton town. When he was 18 he began to keep an account of all his expenses, and "entered up" every conceivable item for fifty-two years.

During these fifty-two years he bought 628,714 cigars, costing $10,-179.07, and 43,692 were given to him by friends. Other items were:

86 pairs of trousers	$462.50
70 coats and waistcoats	790.00
63 pairs of boots	330.75
300 shirts and 354 collars	265.75
Omnibuses and tramways	495.00

In fifteen years he drank 38,531 pints of beer, while 40,303 glasses of liquor helped to swell his wine merchants' bill to $5,528. For the honor of being served with all these refreshments he gave away $1,250 in tips.

The French equivalent of "He is numbered among the dead" is to be placed above his tomb.

SERIOUS RIOTS FOLLOW RAIL STRIKE IN ITALY

"Government Will Suppress Any Revolutionary Movement With a Stern Hand," Says Premier

Rome, June 13.—The seriousness of the strike situation in Italy was indicated in a lengthy explanation given by Premier Salandra in the Chamber of Deputies to-day. He hinted that the Government was prepared to suppress with a stern hand any revolutionary movement. His concluding phrase was : "It would be a simple task for the government to suppress the disorders. Instead of doing this, the civil and military authorities have been instructed to act with the greatest prudence in order to avoid bloodshed and to use caution to the utmost limit. Preparations for eventualities have been made, and 10,000 men will be concentrated in the disturbed districts to-day."

MAKING OF A SCOUT

H. R. H. the Duke of Connaught Extends Patronage.

"The Making of a Scout" is the subject of a remarkable moving picture film which will be shown in the GRAND OPERA HOUSE. The film which is almost two miles in length, being the longest film of a single subject in the world, was made under the direction of the National Council of the Boy Scouts of America. It is arranged in seven reels and will run for more than two hours.

This novel moving picture production was shown to Col. A. P. Sherwood, Dominion commissioner of the Boy Scouts, and a committee of Boy Scout Officers of Ottawa a few days ago with the results that they readily approved of it. One of these officers in speaking of "The Making of a Scout" declared that it was all its managers had claimed for it, and even more than he had expected. Those who have seen it, describe the drama, enacted by eighty-four characters, most of them real Boy Scouts, as depicting every phase of the activities of Boy Scouts. The pictures show not only the physical activities, but the teachings and general foundations of the Boy Scout movement. By this popular and graphic means these teachings are brought before hundreds of thousands of boys who have not yet been fortunate enough to be reached by Scout influences.

Among the many distinguished personages who have given their approval to the production is Mr. Woodrow Wilson, president of the United States, who by a personal appearance in "The Making of a Scout" places his seal of approval on the picture. Other well-known men of the republic from whom James E. West, the manager of the Boy Scout moving picture drama has received letters of encouragement and commendation include Theodore Roosevelt, ex-president of the U.S. Judge Ben. B. Lindsay of the Juvenile court, Denver, Colorado and Gifford Pinchot, Washington, D. C.

The picture has been shown with great success in many parts of the United States. It will be shown at the GRAND OPERA HOUSE, Peterboro, on Friday afternoon and evening and Saturday afternoon and evening, June 19th and 20th. Night doors open at 7.30. Performance 8.15. Matinee doors open at 2.00. Performance 2.30.

FORESTS AND RAINFALL

Prairie Rainfall Is Increased by the Forests of the Rockies

It is commonly thought that the moisture which forms clouds and falls as rain is almost entirely due to evaporation from the ocean, but scientific investigations show that seven-ninths of the rain which falls over land areas is supplied by evaporation over such areas, the ocean supplying only two-ninths of such precipitation.

It was estimated by Dr. Fernow, of the University of Toronto, that 75 per cent. of the rainfall over forested areas is returned to the atmosphere as watery vapor, which does much to increase the amount of moisture carried by air currents passing over such forests.

In Canada, the prevailing winds blow from the west and the provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan are largely dependent for their rainfall on air currents which come over the Rocky Mountains. It is a well known fact that winds passing over high mountains become cooled to such an extent that they lose most of their moisture, which falls in the form of rain, and hence the land areas for many miles to the leeward of such mountains receive so little rain that they are often arid. But if the leeward slopes of these mountains are covered with forests, as is the case in the Rocky Mountains, these forests will evaporate and render again available a large amount of the rainfall over these mountains, which might otherwise pass off through underground channels, and by reloading with moisture the winds blowing over the prairies, such forests make possible a much greater rainfall than might otherwise occur. Should the east slope of the Rocky Mountains become denuded of tree-growth, it is likely that much larger areas in Alberta and Saskatchewan would be arid than is now the case.

Father of Lighthouses

It was in the year 720 B.C. that Ptolemy Philadelphus built the ancient Pharos of Alexandria, which has rightly been described as the father of lighthouses. Since that time the lighthouse builder has been busy in all parts of the world, erecting beacons and towers on dangerous reefs and wave-washed rocks to guide the mariner at night. The coasts of the United Kingdom are illuminated at night by 25[illegible] lighthouses and 64 lightvessels, while Canada maintains some 978 lights, consisting of lighthouses, lightships, and buoys.

The ancient Pharos, which stood on a small island at the entrance to the harbor of Alexandria, cost 800 talents. If these were silver talents, as [illegible] likely they were, that would amount to $[illegible], the largest sum ever expended upon a single lighthouse. The structure had a base of some [illegible] feet and towered 450 feet above sea level. As the whole was built of white marble, the edifice must have been at once elegant and impressive. At the summit, fires were kept burning to direct the mariner through the tortuous entrance to the bay.

Down to the time of John Smeaton, who invented the stone tower, lighthouses were built of wood. It was Smeaton's success in placing a stone edifice on the dreaded Eddystone Rocks, in the eighteenth century, which really gave an impetus to lighthouse building.

Among the first stone lighthouses to be erected, which taxed the pluck and endurance of the builders, was that built on the Bell Rock, on the famous Inch Cape Reef, off the coast of Scotland. It was one long, terrible battle with the angry sea. The securing of the foundations, naturally the most hazardous part of the whole undertaking, was exceedingly difficult. It is recorded that the men worked with desperation. Only two could remain on the rock at a time, but they stuck there with the tenacity of leeches, the cold water of the North Sea bearing down every few minutes and sweeping entirely over them. During one severe storm, blocks weighing as much as two tons were ruthlessly torn out of their places and swept into the sea, despite dovetailed joints and Portland cement and mortar.

The erection of the Tillamook Lighthouse, off the coast of Oregon, was particularly difficult. The first thing the men had to do, after they had effected a landing on the rock, was to drive away a particularly vicious herd of sea-lions. Then they erected a shelter made of iron and wood and bolted to the rock. On no less than four occasions this was washed away by storms.

There are 442 farms in California planted entirely with flowers—carnations, chrysanthemums, violets, daisies, sweet peas, and so on.

Criminology and Feet

Dr. Charles Perrier, police surgeon at Nimes, France, concludes from experiments lasting ten years that thieves and incendiaries have the longest feet; coiners come next; these being followed in regular order of succession by dynamitards, tramps, swindlers, and poisoners.

DANGERS IN LAUGHING

Unrestrained Mirth May Have Serious Results

Few people know what dangers lurk in excessive laughter. When we laugh our regular breathing is changed, coming in quick, short respirations, because the throat muscles are contracted. It is for this reason that, when laughing very heartily at some good joke, we have often to gasp for breath. At times we are obliged to hold our sides on account of the pain a hearty laugh causes us, owing to the partial suffocation of the lungs through the cutting off of their proper air supply.

Every muscle in the body becomes contracted during a continued fit of laughter. Often the blood-vessels in the face become congested causing it to turn red or even purple. Should this congestion continue for any length of time, apoplexy resulting in death might well occur. It is better in these circumstances to laugh until we cry, for the shedding of tears relieves the congestion of the brain. Tears caused by grief do good in the same way, and that is how, after a great sorrow, many people have been saved from brain congestion and madness by the timely shedding of a few tears.

THE TOUCH OF DRAPERY ON GROWN-UP GOWNS MARKS JUNIOR MODES AS WELL

As long as materials are so supple and clinging, their very touch suggestive of folds and drapings, draped gowns and wraps will continue modish.

For the woman whose dress allowance is somewhat limited it is wise to choose a dark, soft silk for the luncheon or afternoon tea frock. It may be worn much oftener than a light shade and will be found generally more satisfactory. Moire, silk poplin, one of the soft taffetas or charmeuse are all suitable, and many of the soft drapey wool stuffs make up most attractively.

A crow-blue taffetas with a self figure was used to develop 7979. The wide girdle of a lighter blue affords an effective contrast, and the gathered guimpe of figured tulle is practical, as it is a simple matter to replace it when soiled.

There is just a touch of drapery on each side of the skirt, and the blouse is a peasant design closing in the back.

This model may be copied in size 36 with 5½ yards of 36 inch taffetas and ½ yard of tulle.

The "dress-up" frock of the little miss has its bit of drapery, too, as may be seen in 7996. An albatross or bright silk with a touch of colored embroidery at the belt and on the cuffs could be used with this design with excellent results. For size 10 it requires 2½ yards of 36 inch material.

Our Point of View

While perspiring freely cheer up the winter is yet to come.

—o—

These days when the mercury crawls up in the tube and one's collar melts into a mustry string we rather envy those Arctic explorers who will be compelled to spend the whole summer on an ice floe.

—o—

The Democrats of Tennessee have nominated General Tom Rye for Governor on a prohibition platform. We expect soon to hear that they have also conferred political honors on Old Tom Gin.

—o—

War is what General Sherman said it was, but as a matter of fact the number of people who die as a result of overeating is far in excess of those who are killed by bullets.

—o—

Sometimes a baseball club finds itself at the bottom of the percentage column because its players make the mistake of doing most of their batting at night.

—o—

The Globe says: "We are pleased to note that Miss Helen Ring, a member of the Colorado Legislature, is making a thorough investigation of the causes that led up to the strike in the Denver mining region." Those who desire information concerning the facts she gathered should, we suggest go to Helen Ring for it.

—o—

A fashion note in a Toronto paper says that the latest gown for women has "a bolero with a bias row behind." What that is you can figure out for yourself. This great family journal is too busy just now erecting this column of melancholy.

—o—

The Mail and Empire says that the Borden Government is helping to sow the seeds of universal peace in strengthening the British Navy. If so some of our rural subscribers hope that they will sprout better than the other seeds the government distributes occasionally.

Is the Worm Turning?

Mr. Dooley's quaint objection to suffrage that women are too rough for politics raised a general good-natured laugh at the expense of the militant suffragists of Great Britain. The point about the laugh was that it was good-natured. Much of the comment up to very recently about the militants has also been good-natured. But there are signs that the worm is beginning to turn. It seems as if the people of Great Britain are about getting to the end of their patience. The disturbance of the service in Father Vaughan's church was followed by some very rough handling of the militants by the people. The police had to use every possible effort to save the women from being severely injured or even killed. In fact, the militants have not been very fair to the police. These long suffering guardians of the peace have been very considerate of the women. In arresting them the police have done nothing more than their duty. The women should not censure them for that. On the other hand, they ought to give credit to the Bobbies for the chivalry they have always displayed, especially when, forgetting all the trouble the militants have given them they have rushed in to defend them and bring them to safety whenever there was a chance that the sufferers of militant violence were about to visit upon the women themselves some of their own medicine. At all events, last Sunday the church disturbers and rioters found out that they have the people to fear more than the police. As a result of their well-planned "reign of terror" the women have succeeded in making their cause as unpopular as possible. The people won't be terrorized into granting the women suffrage and the terrorizing methods have surely not had any of the effects of soft persuasion.

Nerviline Ends Neuralgia Brings Relief Instantly

No Remedy Like Old "Nerviline" to Cure Pain or Soreness.

That terrible ache—how you fairly reel with it—that stabbing, burning neuralgia—what misery it causes. Never mind, you don't have to suffer—use Nerviline, it's a sure cure. Not an experiment, because nearly forty years of wonderful success has made a name for Nerviline among the people of many different nations. "There is nothing speedier to end Neuralgic headache than old-time 'Nerviline'" writes Mr. G.C. Dalgleish, from Evanston. "It is so powerful and penetrating that it seems to eat up any pain in a minute. My family couldn't get along without Nerviline. We always keep the 50c family size bottle handy on the shelf, and use it to end chest colds, sore throat, coughs, earache, toothache, and pain in the back. My wife swears by Nerviline. For cramps its effect is astonishing and we believe it is better and speedier than any other household family remedy."

A Long Needed Law

The annual parade of Canadian regiments as guards of honor in religious processions is at an end. An order has been issued which says, "No military corps or cadet corps, or any army corps bearing arms shall accompany any religious procession or ceremony within a church, or outside a church or churches." This will put an end to what has long been regarded by many protestants in Quebec as little less than a public scandal.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

MR. SODEN'S STAND

Editor Morning Times.

Sir.—On May 30th H. B. Cowan, President, and A. B. Cunningham, Secretary of the County of Peterborough Temperance Association, sent a circular to the political Associations of West Peterborough in which these words were used "We express the hope that both parties in both Ridings in the County will place in the field candidates who will undertake, if elected, to vote for the abolition of the bar and shop and the cancellation of club licenses."

We want to ask these gentlemen if in stating that they are going to support Mr. Rowell's policy in the person of Mr. Gillespie instead of Mr. Soden who agrees with these sentiments they think they are acting honestly. The circular sent to Mr. Soden to sign, did not include the word "shop" and Mr. Soden certainly could not sign it. The people of this County are entitled to a square deal, but it begins to look as if the alleged temperance association of West Peterborough is more interested in electing a supporter of Mr. Rowell than in giving their votes to a man who pledges himself on the platform, off the platform and over his own signature to abolish the liquor traffic, not only so far as Mr Rowell will go but much farther. The shop is the most deadly form of alcoholic distribution and yet Mr. Rowell and his allies propose to leave it for reasons which few will fail to understand.

LOCAL ELECTION TACTICS

Editor Morning Times.

Sir.- It is rather amusing to see the Examiner shedding tears on account of the treatment Mr. Peck received at the Conservative Convention. It might be well for the Editor to interview Mr. Peck and find out what caused the trouble, for nobody knows better than Mr. Peck that he got just what was coming to him the same as Mr. Stratton did in Sept. 1911, and what Mr. Stratton should have received some years before and saved the Liberal party from the disgrace he brought upon it. It was a question for some time whether to turn down Mr. Peck at the Convention or give him the nomination and then give him a good trimming. It was decided the first was the more manly course, for the second would only be following the Stratton tactics and knife your friend in the dark. The Editor of the Examiner should be in a good position to let the people know how many of the Examiner staff voted for Mr. Hall in the last election, and how many followed the instructions to put the knife into him to the hilt, as he was suspected of not being true in the September election. Mr. Peck claims that some Liberals who always act on Mr. Stratton's advice and who were elected to office at the last Liberal Convention, were his supporters, and he treated them as such since his election to the injury of old time Conservatives. The Examiner says "It is known that the better class of Conservatives — the men who cherish honor and fair play even in political dealing feel the resentment keenly." I expect he refers to the Stratton Conservatives who in the past cherished honor and fair play so much they voted for Stratton and knifed their own candidates. The Examiner may as well understand that the day for Stratton Conservatives having influence in the party is over.

Yours truly:

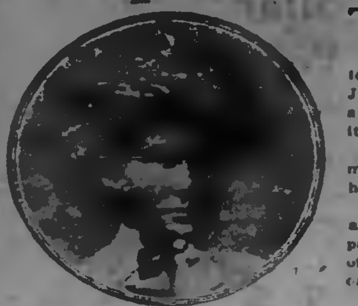
Why Our Little Girls Run Away from Home

By Winifred Black

Copyright, 1914, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.



THE Kermess was over, the May festival was done and there wasn't going to be another thing to do till the Feast of the Roses in June—so the little 14-year-old girl ran away from home. She couldn't stand it another day. It was so dull.

She had a good home with a devoted mother and a father who smiled at her lightest word.

She had a pretty room of her own all furnished daintily in her own particular color. She had a closet full of pretty dresses and a bureau full of dainty fluffs and ruffles.

There were a dozen brand new hair ribbons in the top drawer; there were a truly gold locket and chain and a bracelet and three or four rings and some little fancy pins in her Japanese jewel box of enamel. And down stairs in the breakfast room there was a silver cup with her name on it, and a crystal cup with her monogram initialed on it in platinum. The house was full of photographs of the little girl.

This happened in Chicago. And the same week a little girl in New Orleans ran away; she's been discontented and lonely ever since the Mardi Gras. And out in San Francisco a pretty little girl was so bored after the May Day festival was over that she ran away, too.

They all came back, poor little things, drooping and crushed and half-broken-hearted; they all came back—safe—by some miracle.

How They Went Home.

The little Chicago girl went as far as Indianapolis, and there a man stared at her in the street and she began to cry and some one took her to the police station, and they telegraphed her father and he came and took his little girl home—to be bored again.

The little New Orleans girl found her way to an up river steamer and got aboard somehow, alone.

The negro stewardess thought there was something peculiar about her, and the gangplank hadn't been up for half an hour before the whole story was out. At the next landing the little girl gave a cry of delight, for there on the wharf was her big brother, very pale and stern, but her big brother just the same, and she was so glad to see him that she cried and laughed all in the same breath.

The little San Francisco girl didn't get very far either, poor, pretty, frightened little thing. She came home with her father and her sister, and there was a great welcome for her and she said she would never go out into the wide world again alone—never, never.

I wonder if any of the parents of any of these children have thrown away any of the photographs of the little girl in fancy dress.

It is a terrible thing to go to school and wear an everyday middy suit with your hair in a braid, when you've been Columbine at a flower carnival, and had everybody staring at you in your gorgeous dress.

And how foolish grown people are to think that they can "boss" a wondrous creature who has ridden through the public streets on a public float, with her soft hair down around her face, and her pretty ankles showing.

How pretty they are, the fiestas and the water carnivals and the flower fetes and the school dances and the street parades, how gay they make life for us these days.

In a Perpetual Festival.

Why, it's like living in a perpetual festival. How sweet they look, the young women in their beautiful soft dresses, and the little girls, all in pink and faint blue and clear yellow, all clad in silk and crowned with flowers—why, they are like visions of delight!

Who can look at them without a thrill of real pleasure? And yet, somehow, I wonder if it is quite the thing to put the little creatures on exhibition so freely and so often.

Don't you remember how you felt when the last day of school was over—in the old times?

You made wreaths for days, you hung mottoes for hours; you practised your little speech of welcome for weeks, and when it was all over how dull and stupid and prosaic the everyday world looked to you. Don't you remember?

I was Queen of the May once at a little Sunday school picnic. I think my dress was too short and I know my white slippers were too big, for they kept falling off just in the most important part of the proceedings; but it took me weeks to get over the affair.

"George Washington, John Adams, Thomas Jefferson"—what in the world did I care who was President when the war of the revolution began? Why should I care for such mere prosaic details? I, the Queen of the May, who had had my picture in the county paper and three lines about me right under it!

Sweet, sweet, sweet—how sweet they are, the little girls, when we let them stay little girls.

I wonder if we aren't going to do it any more!

REFLECTIONS By Michelson

Copyright, 1914, by Newspaper Feature Service. Her Great Britain Rights Reserved.

NOTHING suggests reflections like a pretty pool. You think of all sorts of curious, romantic, impossible and perhaps possible things while you look into its cool green depths.

Down under the azure reflections of the sky YOUR reflections carry you in search of images you might never think of looking for anywhere else in the world.

And the odd thing is that unless you lean very far over you can't see yourself and you can't see what is BEHIND you.

All this is part of the wonder and fantasy of reflections. Sometimes the two kinds of reflections tell the same story. But you have to be very wise and very adroit to find this out. Turning your head VERY quickly might answer the same purpose.

Secrets of Health and Happiness

What "In-Thinking" Is; How It Affects Every One

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins).

DR. HIRSHBERG

AH, the evils of this day! Ah, the terrible times!"

Have you heard these expressions recently? Do you know the anti-vice societies and the uplifters? Do they say these things?

Most certainly they do, but these words were just translated from a "newspaper" between 5500 and 11,000 years old. In other words, Assyrian bricks, just unearthed in Babylonia's old neighborhood.

The cuneiform inscriptions printed upon clay "newspapers" and brick-like moulds speak of ethics, smoking, vice and drinking just as the in-thinkers do today.

Set me down as an optimist and a happy pessimist, in the fashion of Brand Whitlock, on the social evil. The unhappy women must not have things done to them, but for them.

The woman hunt and the various white slave laws are unchristian, unjust and impossible. They are the outcome of the uplift malady, which will now be described as in-thinking.

In-thinking is a malady which is epidemic at present. Among its pernicious activities and militant symptoms is a pathological concern with other people's behavior. Not conduct, mark you, but behavior—an entirely different thing.

When suffragettes concern themselves with cigarette smoking, liquor drinking, the behavior of husbands toward their wives, the men and religion forward movement, hygiene, etc., they are in-thinking instead of attending strictly to the business in hand to obtain logically what they properly deserve, namely, votes for women.

When sincere Sunday school superintendents who are simultaneously in the coffee, tea or grocery business advocate the immorality of booze and rum, they are, so to speak, mixing their religious metaphors and suffering with the Joan of Arc delusion of in-thinking.

In-thinking, like ingrowing toenails, is just as malodorous under any other name. Sometimes it passes muster for "nerves," sometimes for "a great benefactory," again for "uplifting," "forward looking," "attention to the public weal," and the like.

Actually it is an endemic American ailment properly called "minding other folks' business," "the man hunt," "the woman hunt," the self-anointment and personal glorification of the in-thinkers versus the multitude of thinkers.

In sooth, it is about time that this buncombe and flap-doodle of amphibian-blooded persons be tagged and labelled by its true, pathological and anti-physiological name.

It is high time that the modern Savonarolas and Maids of Orleans be called, not tenderly but truly, by their self-deceiving first names.

Useful Hints for the Housewife

By Ann Marie Lloyd

A FROWSY housemaid reflects discredit on the housewife. The maid who admits the visitor is as subtle an indication of the thoroughness of the home as are the cleanliness, order and cheeriness of the front hall.

In the average home, where only one maid is kept and she is a maid-of-all-work, there is not the opportunity for trim and attractive livery as where there are more maids; but, even with the one, there is no excuse for her being untidy or dressed in a nondescript costume of pied shirt waist and woollen skirt with an apron of uncertain style.

There are establishments in all large cities where special attention is given to service clothes, and if the housekeeper does not care to attend personally to the maid's clothes, she may send her there with the assurance that she will be correctly outfitted.

The morning dress of the houseworker should be of chambray or seersucker in some light color which pleases the mistress of the house. Pink and blue are the two colors most chosen, although there is a shade of gray which looks neat and a tone of light tan, almost the shade that is known as "natural," that is permissible. There should be a turned over collar of white and a generous apron with bretelles of white lawn which reach almost to the hem of the dress. This may be perfectly plain or have an embroidery edge. Hemstitching is a good finish.

The cap is a bit of muslin pinned toward the front of the head.

Where one maid is kept this dress is seldom changed for luncheon, but there is a distinct apron which is neither so enveloping or so plain. It reaches about to the knees, is of finer material and has more elaboration.

For afternoon wear and for serving dinner, the plain, well fitted gown of sateen in some dark color or black is chosen. Also there is a standing collar and band cuffs of white and a frivolous bit of apron.

It is entirely a matter of preference what color the afternoon dress shall be. One well known American woman has her maids in white at all hours of the day. Another chooses pale gray for the afternoon livery.

Prune color, to match the livery of the men-servants, is the choice of another, and a soft, dull blue is liked by others. Gray or black is a safe choice for the average woman.

The collar and cuffs are made of organdie, lawn or scrim and are simple and fit snugly. The apron may be of varying shapes, either rounded at the edge or pointed, with wide bretelles that are kept in place on the shoulders. A narrow lace edge makes an attractive finish.

There are several forms of the cap intended for the more formal dress, and frequently it is adorned with a neat bow to match the color of the dress. The maid-of-all-work should be provided with several all covering gingham aprons for wear in the kitchen. Those which are cut on the lines of a dress with generous sleeves which slip over the dress are the most practical. They should be quite as long as the dress and reach around the figure so they afford entire protection.

Where there are two maids, there is not the slightest excuse, save that of ignorance or carelessness, for not having them always attractively and correctly garbed. Also, there is opportunity to have the "second maid" dressed in daintier fashion than the one whose duties include kitchen work. Besides, there are little distinctions of cap and apron which belong to the station.

White is preferred as the uniform for nurses. There is a very wide linen that comes for sheeting that is practical if one buys the material by the yard and has the dresses made. The apron should be long, with a bib and tied with wide strings.

The Good Night Story

The Crystal Ball :: By VERNON MERRY

A WITCH once had three sons, but she did not trust them, fearing they would rob her of her power. So she turned the oldest into an eagle and the second into a whale. The youngest ran away from home.

During his travels he learned that in a castle, called the Castle of the Golden Sun, there lived a beautiful Princess under the spell of a sorcerer, and he longed to set her free.

For many long days and nights he wandered through the forests and over the mountains, and it was not until he was almost exhausted that he saw on a mountain side a castle that shone like gold.

Through many great rooms he went seeking the Princess, to find at last only an old, old woman. "I am the King's daughter," she told him, the tears running down her cheeks, "but I am under a terrible spell.

"You must climb to the top of this mountain," she explained, "and there kill a wild buffalo. Then destroy a phoenix which will rise out of his body. In it you will see a red-hot egg. Break this, and, instead of the yolk, there will be a crystal ball. If you take this ball to the sorcerer, his power will end."

The youth soon found the buffalo and, after a terrible fight, it lay dead. At once the fiery bird flew from the body and would have escaped had not the boy's oldest brother, the eagle, drove the bird toward the sea. Then he so wounded the phoenix that it dropped the egg, which fell upon a fisherman's hut and set it on fire. Had not the second brother, the whale, spouted up a large column of water the hut would have been destroyed. Then the young man hastened to the sorcerer and held the ball before him.

"You are now the King of the Castle," the wicked man cried.

The young man returned to the castle and found the Princess restored to her beauty. With joyful hearts they pledged their love.

Peter's Adventures in Matrimony

By LEONA DALRYMPLE

Author of the new novel, "Diane of the Green Van," awarded a prize of $10,000 by Ida M. Tarbell and S. S. McClure as judges.

The truth about "the girl in the case" distinguishes this new series by Miss Dalrymple. Her character studies will not appear unfamiliar to the majority of readers, who will follow the fortunes of "Peter" with interest.

No. 90.

Nature's Age Wall.

LEONA DALRYMPLE

"MOTHER," said I one evening in her sitting room, "why do women fuss so much more over age than men do?"

"Well," said mother, thoughtfully, "custom has built up some age conventions that are a little unfair. That I imagine is the chief reason."

"Unfair?" said I. "How? We all grow old alike. We all wrinkle and lose our teeth and eyesight and our hair grows gray. Indeed, in some ways the woman has much the better time of it, I should say, for with advancing years, all sorts of privileges come to her. Her family, particularly if she has daughters, spare her many things, whereas the man keeps his nose to the grindstone until he dies."

"The unfairness comes," said mother, "in a great many different ways. There are utterly different standards of youth for men and women, seek to ignore them as we will. A man of 35 is frequently called a young man. A woman of 25 is rarely called a young woman. A man's physical appearance is judged with absolute disregard of his years. Not so the woman. There is always present the notion of what she must have been in her youth. If she is still handsome at 50, you'll hear the comment: 'What a stunning girl she's been in her time!' With the man, the comment is merely: 'He's a mighty handsome fellow.' Nobody bothers about what he has been. They take him for what he is."

"That's true," said I fairly.

"Take a school class of girls and boys of the same age. Most of the girls marry before they are 25. Naturally the boys wait. Economic conditions make them wait. Around 30 they, too, begin to marry—and they marry whom? Not the single girls of their own age. They marry girls in the early twenties. Those years have made nothing like the difference to the boys that they have to the girls.

"They marry the younger girls," I suggested, "because the girls of their own age are mostly married."

"No," said mother, "it isn't entirely that. Men have been taught that there is a marriageable age in women, and when they're looking for a wife they instinctively turn to that marriageable class. Let's take for further example a woman of 35 or [illegible]. If she marries at that age she is logically expected to marry a man somewhere in the forties, early or late. This immediately puts her in a somewhat middle-aged crowd. The man of the same age will take a young wife of 21 or so and propel himself back into the young crowd. It makes a tremendous difference."

"Hum!" said I doubtfully. "That may be all right for a time, mother, but when your young wife of 21 or so is 30, and the man is in his late forties, then the difference begins to tell. She is still young, but he's getting along into the middle-aged class. When she is 40, the difference in years is accented a little more. And by and by when the wife is still young enough to love the energy and activity of life, the man is beginning to develope a taste for the chimney corner. Then there are disadvantages."

"Still," said mother, "the disadvantage in most cases lies pretty much with the woman. The only years of interest in an unmarried woman seem to be from 20 to 30. After that people begin to fuss because she isn't married. The man, on the other hand, may stay single as long as he chooses. Always he has much the better chance of unhampered life by reason of the fact that society does not require him to take a mate too early. He may wait until he's 35 or 40 and miss nothing at all of life. The woman would."

"Yes," said I, "there is Nature's reason back of it all."

"There is," agreed mother. "The later the marriageable age of women the fewer the children. Nature built up this wall of age conventions to conserve the race."

Advice to Girls

By ANNIE LAURIE

Dear Annie Laurie:

I am a young man of 20 and once had a friend who was dearly in love with me. A few months ago I made her acquainted with a boy friend of mine, and she fell in love with him at first sight, and doesn't seem to care for me any more. What can I do to regain her affection? I am very unhappy. L. E.

SO you're 20, are you, and your friend was once dearly in love with you, and now she's in love with a boy friend of yours. Dear me, how tragic!

How old is this "boy," 16 or what?

Why didn't your friend choose a man to fall in love with while she was about it? What can you do to regain her affection? How in the world can I tell? I don't even know whether the lady is fair or dark, grave or gay, clever or stupid.

Why don't you try the old, old plan? You meet some one and fall in love, head over heels in love, at first sight.

Let your friend know about it, by accident, and when she speaks to you of it pretend to be embarrassed and ill at ease. Talk about the other girl, and then act as if you wish you hadn't.

What color are the eyes of your hard-hearted fair one? Brown?

Well, then, rave over eyes of blue.

Is she chubby and roly-poly and dimpled? Talk about the divine slenderness of your new flame.

If this doesn't work I don't know what else will, and you had better make up your mind to do without your friend who was once upon a time so "dearly in love with you."

Annie Laurie

Miss Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. They should be addressed to her, care this office.

The Shape of the Head

Scientists declare that during the last quarter of a century the shape of the human head has altered owing to the development of mental powers caused by the ever-increasing educational facilities.

Size is of no consequence. It is the shape that tells. Twenty-two to twenty-three and a half inches is a standard for the literary type of head of the first order, but powerful in[illegible] indicated by heads measuring twenty-four and three-quarter inches.

Heads indicative of skill in mechanical detail, and manufacturing work are usually large, rather wide about the ears, and with a broad, although not necessarily high, forehead. The broad, protruding Beethoven forehead indicates musical skill.

GIVE CHICKENS SOUR MILK

In Combination With Corn Forms an Appetizing Ration

Sour milk is utilized in one of the best possible ways by feeding it to chickens. Those who think that they get greater returns by feeding it to hogs should remember that the flesh of chickens brings at least twice as much on the market as that of hogs.

Milk and corn are both liked by chickens, and a proper mixture of the two makes one of the best and most appetizing rations. For the best results the corn should be cracked and soaked several hours in either sweet or sour, skimmed milk or in buttermilk. The corn may be put in pails in the morning and the milk poured on until the top of the corn is submerged two or three inches. When this has been absorbed more should be added at intervals during the day and the mixture will be excellent for feeding by night.

A liberal supply of this ration will keep the chickens growing rapidly and insure their being constantly plump and in excellent condition for the market.

Valuable Fisheries

With respect to the fisheries of Canada, it may be surprising to some to be told that since 1870, the first year for which figures are available Canadian fishermen have taken from the seas, rivers and inland waters of this country, fish valued at nearly a billion dollars, the exact figures being $829,910,756.

THE ONLY RACE WORTH RUNNING

Text: "Wherefore, seeing we also are compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses, let us lay aside every weight, and the sin which doth so easily beset us, and let us run with patience the race that is set before us."—Heb. 12:1.

There is only one race worth running, and that is the race of a faithful life, but that might imply a useless discussion of the word "success." And we need not disparage the qualities that bring us the blessings of material things in order to show the pre-eminence of moral excellencies. In fact, they never should be placed in opposition. There is no reason why the successful man of business should not also have the higher success of spirituality. The only requirement is that he regard the latter to be the higher. But a faithful life is one that all may live, the dullest as well as the brightest. The great race is that of a persevering and finally triumphant career, with all heaven for an audience, with human life as the track, with death as the wire, with the Master as the judge, and with immortality as the prize. Ah, that race is a race that might well be called the Sweepstakes of the King of Kings.

To this supreme contest, all other races must be mere incidents. Some alas, make the sad mistake of assaying to run on a course that holds out nothing but a perishable garland, and spending so much energy in the innumerable sprints of the petty struggles of earth that they have no spirit left for the Eternity Handicap. They work so hard for self that they are too tired to work for humanity. They follow Mammon so closely that they are too exhausted to follow God.

A man cannot spread his intensity over too much ground. He cannot be a specialist in too many lines. One thing is enough. They say the law is a jealous mistress; so is the pulpit, so is any business. So is the struggle for eternal life. Moreover, many a man deceives himself by imagining that he is serving God, when he is really only working for himself. He fancies he is earning immortality when he is merely paying for a monument to hold his name and date of birth and death. He is on a toy race-track under the delusion that he is on the mile course.

Some people spend their lives looking at the trivial, when they might continually behold the majestic. Over at Niagara Falls, I saw a young fellow and his bride looking at the little dripping, drizzling streams that fall from the mill-race of the paper mills on the American side. They seemed to me to be wasting time. There they stood, holding hands and watching a thin little column of drops while they might have been gazing on the tremendous cataract. So some spend their whole life-span in puny pursuits, and absolutely miss the supreme purpose of their careers. Looking continually at the glitter of gold and silver, they are incapacitated for the contemplation of a sunset.

Too often the race for money so engrosses the attention of men that they forget to be honest. They do things that disqualify them in the race for ordinary decency. They foul their competitors' track, they shut themselves out from all chance of even entering the mighty contest for nobility.

Then, too, some folks spend too much time on the little, childish race track of society, where a horseshoe of fading flowers is the only prize. Is it wrong then to be socially active? No, of course not, if you mean the cultivation of sincere friendships. But when formalities preclude profitable conversation, when extravagance make real hospitality impossible, when competitive wastefulness crowds out compeers who have more brains than dollars, when hypocritical fawning displaces frankness then one of the brightest spheres of service degenerates into a wanton vulgarity.

Still others are in the race for position and power. Is that wrong? Is it disqualifying to run for Parliament? On the contrary, it is quite right, especially if you mean to be something more than a party automaton. One of the most pitiable exhibits of present-day politics is a human voting-machine, elected by the people to be a legislator. Vice-President Sherman, in a recent speech of his, asked "What is a Republican?" His hearers must have leaned forward to hear a definition that would make them proud of their party allegiance. Now what do you suppose the vice-president of ninety million freemen gave as his idea of a Republican? This: "A Republican is a man who votes for the Republican party on election day, and for Republican measures in Congress." That was all: And the saddest thing about it, was that Mr. Sherman's audience applauded! What a contrast between this slavish view of political duty and the campaign utterance of Abraham Lincoln: "I am bound to win, but I am bound to be true. I am bound to succeed, but I am bound to live up to what light I have. I must stand with anybody that stands right; stand with him while he is right and part with him when he goes wrong."

No, it is perfectly proper to aspire to places of influence and power. But what is wrong is desiring to win an election more than to be honest. What is wrong is in wanting to secure a majority so badly that you say "Good-bye honesty, good-bye principle, good-bye fairness; I'll get back on your track again week after election." You never will.

The race course, the text plainly states, is set before us. It is not of our own choosing. Neither does it change with the generations or the styles. The principles of fidelity and honor are eternal. Human laws may be altered, but Divine laws never. Parliaments may amend the statutes of nations, but Almighty God has never revised the Ten Commandments. The race for immortality is run upon the same track our fathers trod. It thrills us to know that our feet touch soil traversed by ancient saints who furrowed deep the path of integrity, devotion and endurance. Having finished the course, they have gone to the Grand Stand to see us, too, come home.

"A cloud of witnesses around,
Hold thee in full survey;
Forget the steps already trod,
And onward urge thy way."

It is salutary to think that they are watching us. There they are, the struggling, the persecuted, the persistent souls of all ages, "who through faith subdued kingdoms, wrought righteousness, obtained promises, stopped the mouths of lions, quenched the violence of fire, escaped the edge of the sword, out of weakness were made strong, waxed valiant in fight, turned to flight the armies of the aliens. They were stoned, they were sawn asunder, were tempted, were slain with the sword; they wandered about in sheepskins and goatskins, being destitute, afflicted, tormented; they wandered in deserts and in mountains and in dens and caves of the earth." These are the great cloud of witnesses which compass us about.

This race is for the prize, immortality. It is significant that nowhere in the Bible is the existence of the wicked after death called life. "Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown of life." Only those who run life's course well are to live forever.

The race is for a prize, but still it is not competitive. None will be shut out because of our victory. The manager of a great delivery company, pointing out a horse hitched to a delivery wagon, said: "He used to be a race horse, and won several prizes, but now he does better than that; he earns a prize of two dollars every day, and no other horses are beaten on account of his winning, either." Aye, that is the best feature of the real race of human endeavor. Nobody loses by our triumph. It is a question of endurance. "He that endureth to the end, the same shall be saved." Let us not expect to gain eternal life by a mere fifty-yard dash. Neither will we be accounted winners by running a part of the course. To fall before the wire is reached is to lose! Past reputation is much, but not all. We must endure to the end.

Notice, also, that the prize is not given till the end of the race. That is so self-evident and reasonable, that it seems almost trite to mention it. And yet in the moral race, the fact is almost overlooked. True, there are numerous and valuable rewards along the way, but the prize is awarded only when the victory is won. They carried a man's body into the French temple of fame the other day, that his ashes might rest with those of the great Carnot and the immortal Hugo. It was the body of Emile Zola. He died six years before, but the fickle people of France wouldn't allow him to be buried in Westminster Abbey then. They did not think him worthy of that honor. He had defended poor Dreyfus; he had gone to prison for libel; he had faced a whole government, and denounced a whole army. But at last they brought him, "like an honored guest, with banner and with music, with soldier and with priest," to give him his due, and to concede him earthly immortality. Oh, the prize will come at last.

We are exhorted to throw away every handicap. "Wherefore let us lay aside every weight." The most unique race I ever saw was one in which two passenger trains were the contestants. The race-track lay between Niagara Falls and Tonawanda N.Y. One train was on the Lehigh Valley tracks; the other on the New York Central. Both were belated, so schedules were ignored and throttles opened wide.

They had a fair start, and for a mile or so the two great steeds ran neck-and-neck, or fender-to-fender, you might say. The firemen were throwing on more coal and the engineers leaned forward in their seats like riders in a saddle. The passengers greatly enjoyed the sensation; it seemed as if the train had left the earth, so smoothly did we glide over the steel. Then, to look across and see that the people on the New York Central train were becoming as excited as they would be over a baseball game made us all rank Lehigh partisans at once. Handkerchiefs were waved and fists were shaken.

But, by and by, I noticed that the Central train was gaining ever so slightly upon us. I needed to hold my head in a certain fixed position and use the side of the window as a gauge to notice it at all. Just then the conductor said, "They'll win, I'm afraid, for they have the lighter load." "How so?" I asked, for I had noticed that each train carried five cars. "Well, one of our cars is a baggage car, chock full of Canadian trunks and grips," he replied, "and that fact will beat us in the next three miles."

So it did. With the same locomotive power our rivals drew away from us. Very tenaciously did we hold on and if the shouting of the men and the screaming of the ladies could have accomplished it we should have won. But though we kept within sight of their last car, they swept into the Tonawanda yards triumphant.

Too much baggage lost us the race. If the Canadians had only left their trunks behind!

Too much baggage loses more important races. Running the race for immortality, let us take care that we do not carry useless and encumbering luggage. Ambitions that can be turned into spurs for the winning of the great prize will be helps, but the object which diverts our attention from the main purpose of our careers will be a handicap. Wholesome knowledge, a well-stocked and well-trained mind and a symmetrical culture will help us in the race. But let us beware of an increasing myriad of purposes which will really be burdens in the journey to Glory.

We can afford to lay aside every weight of questionable pleasures, of useless luxuries, to enter the race the prophets, saints and martyrs ran and so received the crown.

Natural Timepiece

There is no need for clocks on the Ægean Sea any day when the sun is shining. There nature has arranged her only timepiece, one that does not vary through the centuries. This natural time-marker is the largest sundial in the world. Projecting into the blue waters of the sea is a large promontory, which lifts its head three thousand feet above the waves. As the sun swings round, the pointed shadow of the mountain just touches one after the other, a number of small islands, which are at exact distances apart, and act as hour marks on the great dial.

How People Feel
When They Have
Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulveney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them cannot imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are: ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ¼ of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution, have very little distress.

Prof. Mulveney's world-famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, sure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, is not disagreeable to take. One dose nearly always affects a cure. Further information free. Send stamped envelope, telephone Parkdale 4830, or call at 167 Dundas street, Toronto. Open from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

What Day Were You Born?

Among the innumerable superstitions about babies is the old saw about the day of birth:

Monday's child is fair of face,
Tuesday's child is full of grace,
Wednesday's child is sour and sad.
Thursday's child is merry and glad.
Friday's child is loving and giving,
Saturday's child must work for a living.
But the child that is born on the Sabbath Day
Is blithe and bonny and good and gay.

Only Sardine Fishery in Canada

The province of New Brunswick has this distinction; it possesses the only sardine fishery in Canada. The fishing is carried on in the waters of Passamaquoddy Bay and the waters around the islands of Grand Manan and Campobello, and the West Isles, in the Bay of Fundy. Of such importance is this fishery, and in such masses do the fish appear that the fishermen who prosecute their calling amongst those islands depend largely upon it for their livelihood.

NIXOLA GREELEY-SMITH

granddaughter of the famous editor Horace Greeley. She took up newspaper work in New York and developed into one of the most brilliant of women reporters.

WOMEN DOCTORS

Dr. Emily Stowe Was the First Women to Practice in Canada

The distinction of being the first woman graduate in medicine in Canada belongs to Dr. Augusta Stowe-Gullen, a leading physician of Toronto, who was born in Norwich, Ontario. She studied at the Toronto School of Medicine, graduating from Victoria and Trinity Universities. Her mother, the late Dr. Emily Howard Stowe, was the first woman to practice medicine in Canada. Dr. Stowe graduated from the New York Medical College for Women in 1868, and was an untiring worker in the fight to secure the admission of women to the university.

In this day of enlightenment, when women doctors are many in Canada, it is not easy for one to recognize fully the difficulties that lay in the path of this pioneer. Dr. Stowe's struggle to practise in Toronto was filled with difficulties, but she surmounted them and won as well, for the women of this country, the opening to many spheres of activity.

Her daughter, moreover, did not find the path pleasant when she was studying for her life work, for there were many before she graduated in 1883 bitterly opposed to women entering the higher professions. But her perseverance made the way easier for the women who followed, and, for this, as well as her brilliancy in her profession and in other lines of endeavor, Dr. Stowe-Gullen is eminent among Canadian women just as her mother was revered for her fine qualities.

SPORT SACRIFICED

Money the Only Consideration in Profession Baseball

Organized baseball seems to be on the verge of losing its last vestige of sport for sport's sake, according to W. J. MacBeth, a New York sporting writer. The commercial end of the enterprise overshadows all else. The magnates are out for the money and make no bones of the fact. The lust for gold is as deeply rooted in the minor leagues as in the major organizations.

The two big circuits depend upon patronage for financial gains. Because of this it is necessary for them to secure the very best talent to display before the public. Thousands upon thousands of dollars are expended every season by each club in the National and American Leagues for the sole purpose of fortifying for the future. Every club owner has several highly paid scouts beating all around the country in search of likely looking "bush" timber. Some have as many as six sleuths under salary. Besides these, there is a grand army of amateur sharps who do business on a commission basis. This policy

To See Board of Works

Residents living on the East side of Park Street, where that thoroughfare is being levelled, intend to ask the Board of Works to aid a narrow cement curb, so that a boulevard may be made on this street that is patronized by so many street car visitors to Jackson Park. This would be a cheaply constructed addition to Park Street, as the earth now being taken from the road would do to fill in with.

Revenged Her Children's Death

Gentle reader, this story is not a fairy tale, or fiction, it is an absolute fact. A family living on Aylmer St., owns a tabby cat. Puss is not a suffragette nor a discipline of race suicide. She recently added to cat population by five kittens. These were born last Monday and were kept in the hen house. On Wednesday a weasel got into the hen house through a rat hole when the little mother was away and killed the kittens. The angry cat watched that rat hole continuously, not even leaving for meals until Friday night when the weasel called again. Puss in feline language yelled "The avenger is on thy track"! and killed the weasel.

A Correction.

In our issue of Saturday last, a very regrettable mistake occurred in connection with a letter which appeared over the signature of "Reader." In handling the type, a "slug" or line of lead type was accidentally misplaced. This error of our printer made the name of Mr. Soden appear in the false position of apparently being connected with the birth of this letter. It is needless to say that Mr. Soden knew nothing whatever of the matter.

Struck By Lightning

Bobcaygeon Independent: While a small storm was passing over on Sunday. There was only one sharp flash of lightning at all near. Mrs. R. E. Thurston while standing at the side door, calling the children, had her head near the electric wire switch. A spray from that one flash must have struck the wire and Mrs. Thurston was knocked down. Master Alfred Dunn who was standing beside her says he felt a prickly sensation in his feet but was not knocked down. Mrs. Thurston was quickly conveyed by automobile to medical assistance and recovered in a day or two from the effect of the shock.

The first Well of the Company will be drilled on this property and a rich strike of valuable oil is anticipated.

COMPANY'S PROPERTIES:

The Southwest Petroleum and Development Company Limited, controls approximately 4,220 acres of Oil Lands situated South and West of the City of Calgary. The Company also owns the surface rights of the North One-half of Legal Sub-division Sixteen (16), Section one (1), Township twenty (20), Range three (3), West of the Fifth Meridian.

FIRST WELL:

The first well of the Company will be drilled on the above-mentioned Legal Subdivision, which is just west of the famous producing Discovery Well of the Calgary Petroleum Products Company, Limited, (the Dingman Company), and arrangements are being made to have this proceeded with.

The following are the Company's holdings, with details and locations: (1). The South One-half of Section Thirty-four (34), Township Twenty (20), Range Two (2), West of the Fifth Meridian. Three Hundred and Twenty acres (320).

Maps may be consulted and further information secured at the office of the undersigned.

The Company's properties are all carefully selected and were picked out at leisure by the original holders (from whom the Company has purchased) long prior to the recent striking of oil in quantity. The vendors of these leases are accepting approximately eight per cent. of the purchase price in cash, and the balance in stock of the Company, for their holdings. This is an evidence of their confidence in the value of the various properties as Oil producers.

The advantage is apparent of such a favorable agreement, as it leaves the Company free to apply incoming funds to development work and legitimate expenses.

DIRECTORS:

In Companies of this nature the standing and integrity of its Directors and Officers are more important if possible than in the case of any other kind of Company. A brief reference, therefore, to the personnel forming this Company's Board is given, viz:

STOCK EXCHANGE:

CURRENT SELLING PRICES:

The stocks of all Companies drilling in good districts are selling at a premium; some of them at many hundreds per cent. advance over the original price, and it is confidently expected that the shares of the Company will show a substantial advance immediately drilling operations are under way.

ENORMOUS POSSIBILITIES:

The enormous possibilities of big profits are apparent, and the Company has a Board and Executive composed of men of undoubted integrity and ability. A Fortune in a Coin

Among the coins Napoleon has minted were some millions of five franc pieces, and he determined to popularize these in an extraordinary way. In one of the coins, folded to a tiny size, was enclosed a note signed by Napoleon, and promising the sum of 5,000,000 francs—$1,000,000—to the finder of that particular coin.

Naturally, everybody who changed a large piece demanded the new five franc coins in exchange, and as a rule probed and dug and sounded the metal in eager search for the hidden note. [illegible] the years went on, and yet the note did not appear. Napoleon's plighted word is a sacred trust to the French nation, and the Government stands ready to pay the debt, which, with interest, is worth $7,375,000—upon demand.

M. Prechal Describes Superb Palace Built By Roman Emperor

Rome, June 13.—An interesting description of the wonderful "House of Gold," which Nero had built for him between the Palatine and Esquiline hills in Rome, has been given by M. Prechat in a lecture.

This mighty palace, covered with plates of gold, enriched with ivory and adorned with a multitude of beautiful statutes, covered an arena equivalent to the Champus Elysees and the Place de la Concorde, said the lecturer. The Emperor conceived the idea after reading Ovid's description of the Palace of the Sun in the "Metamorphosis." And it was in the guise of the Sun god that Nero had a statue of himself made nearly 90 feet high. This colossus stood in a great four-horsed chariot, and was erected in front of the "House of Gold."

Within the palace walls was a lake which ancient authors compare to a sea and on its waters were given the sumptuous nautical festivities of which one reads. Like a fairy palace, the "House of Gold" was, and as such it vanished. The huge exactions which Nero made on the people in order to erect it did not conduce to its popularity, and it survived its master but by little. Today nothing of it is left but some sub-basements discovered beneath the Colliseum.

REDMOND PUTS UP A BIG FIGHT FOR CONTROL NATIONALIST ARMY

Danger Grows in Ireland as the North and South Organize Forces

Dublin, June 15.—"I know Irish volunteers and what they stand for. They do not want a platform but rifle ranges; they do not want adjectives, but bullets. But Volunteer Ireland is Nationalist Ireland, and so Nationalist Ireland and Volunteer Ireland are one." This was the keynote of Professor Kettle's speech before three thousand Nationalist volunteers at Port Arlington on Sunday. They were sturdy men from the countryside of Leinster, and the majority had marched miles with pikes and drums and fifes—some came comfortably in special trains—to hear Kettle, as the henchman of John Redmond, explain the crisis which has threatened to divide the Nationalists of Southern Ireland into two camps.

Redmond Wins For Peace.

When Prof. Kettle had explained there were but few dissentient voices. And what happened at this quaint little town, that might be a part of Old Quebec—It was founded by refugees from the edict of Nantes—was repeated all over the south. As I predicted, Redmond has captured the Irish volunteers and he will throw his weight towards peace.

Danger of Dissension.

Sinn Feiners and Gaelic Leaguers, both believers in physical force, would have given the first Home Rule Government a decidedly uncomfortable time had they remained in control of the Irish Volunteers. They might even have destroyed the chances for Home Rule, for Kettle said: "We have only an inch to go, but if there is dissension in our ranks we may not gain our goal of an Irish parliament."

Nationalists Need Drill.

Then every man cheered for Redmond. As for the Volunteers they now are poor by comparison with Ulster's trained brigades, but Ulster only a year ago was not in sight of its present military perfection. With Redmond's organization in control and with splendid material and ex-soldiers as drill masters, it will take them but three months to make them a dangerous fighting force. They will get arms and funds.

U.S. Flags Flaunted.

Almost as numerous as Grattan's banner of 1778, which has been adopted as the ensign of the volunteers were the little flags of stars and stripes. I asked one volunteer who carried the American emblem what they meant. "Irishmen in the United States are going to help us arm," he replied, and he told me, he and many of his friends in the district had spent many years across the Atlantic. He told me also that money had been found, and that if Redmond would take the responsibility a shipload of rifles would be started within a fortnight.

Home Wrinkle Recipe— Astonishing Results.

Such startling, sensational results come from a very simple, harmless home-made wrinkle-remover, there's no excuse now for anyone wearing those hateful marks of age, illness or worry. No need fooling with worthless pastes, creams, nor "skin foods" which don't feed the skin. No need rubbing, massaging, steaming—pointless methods which expand and loosen skin and underlying tissue, aggravating a wrinkled, flabby condition. Better, saner, surer, is the scientific saxolite formula. Thousands have successfully tried it—thousands freed of wrinkles, enlarged pores, saggy cheeks, double chin—thousands younger looking, happier.

All you need to do is to dissolve one ounce of powdered saxolite in one half pint witch hazel, and bathe your face in this. The effect is almost magical. Even deepest crow's feet completely vanish. Skin becomes firm, smooth, fresh looking—bears no trace of treatment except enhanced beauty. Get these inexpensive ingredients at your druggist's, try this marvelous saxolite lotion today.

JUDGMENT AGAINST THE GUN RUNNERS

King's Bench Upholds Validity of Government's Proclamation

Dublin, June 15.—By a majority of 2 to 1, the judges of the King's bench Court to-day decided that the Government proclamation prohibiting the importation of arms into Ireland was valid.

This judgment reverses the decision of the Assize Court of Belfast, which on March 25, declared the proclamation invalid, because the Act of Union provided that all subjects should have the same privileges in respect of trade.

WHAT A LIBERAL PAPER IN HIS HOME TOWN HAS TO SAY OF MR. R. J. SODEN

An Old Midland Boy Nominated as Conservative Candidate in West Peterborough

(From The Midland Free Press.)

"Mr. R. J. Soden, an old Midland boy, has received the Conservative Nomination for the riding of West Peterborough. We need hardly say that though opposed to us in political creed we wish him success. Mr. Soden, while in Midland, was one of our most progressive citizens, and it was through him that the Canada Iron Furnace Co. was induced to locate its plant here. Always an ardent politician he took an active part in all municipal and parliamentary affairs, and while a staunch Conservative at all times, he still made many friends among his opponents on account of the clean, fair methods which he always adopted in furthering the cause of his party.

"He will make an energetic representative for any riding, and West Peterborough, if it elects him at the coming election, will secure a clean, just and aggressive member, who, from our knowledge of him, will not allow any consideration to outweigh his convictions of what is right in all matters affecting the province.

"Mr. Soden has made a clean-cut statement regarding his stand on the temperance question. He is even willing to go a little further than the Rowell policy of abolish the bar. He is in favor of doing away with the shop and club license as well. It is up to the temperance people of this Province to stand together, regardless of politics, if they ever hope to rid Canada of its greatest curse."

SOLVES DEATHS' MYSTERY BY THE STRYCHININE ROUTE

Yesterday afternoon a sad calamity occurred on the Lakefield road within a few miles of that village. Walter Darling, of Smith township solved death's mystery by the strychnine route. A motor party driving from Lakefield were attracted by the erratic actions of Darling who shouted at them from his buggy. Darling's horse was grazing at the side of the road when the motor passed him, north of Peterborough, and seeing that he was in a helpless condition, the party stopped after they had passed his outfit and went back. Soon after they reached him, Darling became unconscious and remained in that state until he died. Dr. Brown was hastily called from the residence of a farmer nearby, but before he reached the scene of the tragedy, Darling had passed away. On the back of an envelope was a notice that deceased was tired of life, labelled "strychnine."

Darling was 25 years of age and leaves a widow and one small child. His father was notified of the tragedy and with Mr. Hendren of Lakefield, took charge of the remains. As the case is clearly one of suicide, there will be no inquest.

London, June 15.—The Government's bill to amend the Irish Home Rule Bill is to be presented next week according to an announcement made to-day in the House of Lords by the Marquis of Crewe, leader of the Liberal party in that House. He added that the second reading of the Home Rule bill itself would begin on June 30th.

STARVATION STARES HINDUS IN THE FACE

Are Fishing Day and Night to Replenish Their Empty Larder

Vancouver, June 15.—Starvation stares the Hindus on the Komagata Maru in the face, and only liberal subscriptions, from their fellow countrymen here, or an order to return to their country will be their salvation. They are fishing day and night to replenish their larder. Provided the charter-money is not paid within a few days, the order will be given in a few days for Komagata Maru to return to Japan.

LOCAL CONSERVATIVES HOLD FOUR COUNTRY MEETINGS

Yesterday the Conservatives of West Peterborough held four meetings to endorse the policy of Mr. R.J. Soden, candidate for West Peterborough. The meetings were addressed by Mr. Soden at Ray's Schoolhouse, and Young's Point. Mr. J. H. Burnham, M. P. spoke at the point and at the school house.

All meetings were well attended and enthusiastic for Mr. Soden's candidature.

MR. BURNHAM.

Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., on rising was greeted with hearty applause. He said in part:

Politics ought to be known as the business of the people. It took centuries to secure to the mass of the people the privilege of transacting their own business. When the people all got to stand equal before the law and privileged classes ceased to be almost together, a system of popular franchise enabled the people at large to send men to represent them to Parliament for the purpose of transacting the business of the nation. It has taken a long time to impress upon the people as a whole the fact that in addition to their private business as individuals there is business even more important to them than that viz: their business as a nation. If laws are not made to protect the rights of the people fairly but enable financial sharks to seize the golden opportunities and the national resources for themselves they do more injury to the people than any other or all other circumstances of which the people have experience. One day a week of labor will feed and clothe a man and his family. If this is so, where is the labor of the other five days going to? It is being taken by those who have no right to it, or being wasted in various ways. The speaker pointed to the great Burleigh Falls power as an instance. Dams along the river are worth from a quarter million up. The water power at Burleigh is an exceptionally good one and is made and created by the expenditure of the peoples' money. When Mr. Burnham found that the Laurier Government has leased it to favorites without tender at one dollar a year for fifty nine years or, in other words, when he found that a water power worth as it stands one million of dollars, had been given away secretly for nothing he did what any honest member would do, he called the Government's attention to it. The Government has restored it to the people of Canada. Here was a case of highway robbery and breach of trust. People cannot understand why the average man has to work so hard and to suffer so much and his wife and children. The Burleigh case shows why. If that power had been given to the people of the county through which it flows it would have paid every cent of debt they owe and have built all their bridges and schools as well both in the city and the country. If the people realised these things they would look more carefully to the kind of man who seeks their confidence and support.

Mr. Burnham, on taking his seat, was loudly applauded.

MR. SODEN.

When Mr. Soden, the local candidate, arose to speak yesterday, he was received with rounds of applause. Mr. Soden said in part, that the big meeting shows that the interest of that portion of our population which always exercises its influence for the betterment of moral, social and political conditions in this province has been aroused and that the ladies are giving their sympathy and co-operation to the very effective Government of Sir James Whitney and to my own candidature.

He thanked Messrs. Peck, M.L.A., Jas. Kendry, ex-M.P., Mayor Buller and his many Conservative friends throughout the Riding for interest shown.

Mr. Soden maintained the unbiased and manly position he first established at the convention regarding first support of the Whitney platform and also the true principles of absolute temperance. No such half measures as "Abolish the Bar" appeals to him so long as shops may sell liquor. Mr. Soden distinctly demonstrated that he is heart and hand in support of the Whitney policy.

He sat down amid great applause.

All the meetings ended in the usual patriotic manner.

BUMPER MEETING LAST NIGHT AT YOUNG'S POINT.

A rousing meeting in the interests of Mr. R. J. Soden was held last evening at Young's Point. There was a bumper crowd, the hall being filled to overflowing, many standing on the platform outside the door and on the steps leading up to the hall, in order to hear the candidate on the questions of the day. Mr. Soden dealt fully with the Rowell policy of Abolish the Bar on the same lines as in his address delivered in Peterborough, reiterating his stand on the question and his intention of supporting the abolition of Bar, Club and shop licenses. He also covered briefly the Hydro-Radial Railway and financial policies of the Whitney Government.

Never was a more enthusiastic or better attended meeting held at this point, and the applause given the candidate at the close of his address showed clearly that he had fully satisfied them of the sound policy pursued by the Whitney Administration and had thoroughly enlisted their sympathy in securing his election as a supporter of the best government Ontario has ever had.

AT RAY'S SCHOOL HOUSE.

A very successful meeting was also held the same evening at Ray's School House.

TWO BROTHERS SHOT DOWN BY GUNMEN

New York, June 15.—Gunmen killed two men in the east side yesterday, seriously wounding a third, while stray bullets from their revolvers struck two children, causing superficial wounds. Revenge is assigned as the cause of both murders.

The men killed are Salvatore Pellagrino, a boarding-house keeper, and his brother William. They were lured from their home by acquaintances and then shot down. William was killed instantly, while Salvatore died an hour later. The children injured were playing in the streets. Their injuries are slight.

OH MR ICE MAN! I WANT SOME ICE. I JUST FORGOT TO TURN MY CARD AROUND

OH I FORGOT TO PUT THE MILK TICKETS OUT!
I'M NOT MUCH ON WASHING AND IRONING, DO YOU KNOW WHERE I CAN GET A WOMAN?

GUESS I'LL CALL GEORGE UP. I HAVEN'T SEEN HIM SINCE MORNING

AN OPEN SUNDAY MAY SOON COME, SAYS A METHODIST

Vigorous Onslaught on Sabbath Desecration by Automobile Users

Toronto, June 15.—"We will soon have the wide open Sunday in Canada, as they have in the United States with theatres, baseball and all restaurants open," said Rev. Mr. Kerr, in a heated discussion which followed the reading of the report of the Sabbath observance committee of the Toronto Conference of the Methodist Church this morning.

In the discussion a vigorous onslaught was made on Sabbath desecration particularly by those who use automobiles and motorcycles, golf links and Sunday teas. The reports after congratulating the work of the Lord's Day Alliance called attention to evils which are coming up in our midst. First, Sunday games, particularly golf, because those playing have leisure to play any other time, and are robbed of their understanding of the sacredness of the day. Second, social teas, many parents are unable to preserve the integrity of the home.

Did Not Oppose Teas.

The Rev. Mr. Blackwell moved that this clause be withdrawn from the motion, saying that many of his happiest hours had been spent among young members of his church at Sunday teas.

The report contained a denunciation of the use of automobiles on Sunday, and commenting Rev. Dr. Spears said that one of the greatest evils in connection with this was the large public garage, where gangs of working men do their greatest work on Sunday. Mr. Woolworth mentioned the fact that some of the users of automobiles on Sunday were Evangelists, and that no law could be made covering their use by individuals.

Prefers Autos to Cars.

Rev. Mr. Kerr wished to correct the impression that automobiles were used by evangelists of the Church for pleasure on the Sabbath Day.

PREMIER ASQUITH HECKLED, BUT WOULD NOT BE DRAWN

Said Government Would Not Allow Nationalists to Maintain Army, But--.

London, June 15.—Premier Asquith now has to face hecklers on the formation of a rival force by the Irish Nationalists. He assured questioners in the Commons to-day that the Irish Parliament would not be entitled to organize and maintain an armed volunteer force but when asked what steps were being taken to disband the new army in which John Redmond is taking so keen an interest, Mr. Asquith would not go beyond the recent assurance of the Chief Secretary. All the right honorable gentleman would now say was that the action of this and of the Ulster force did not cease to engage the attention of the Government.

The answer provoked an ironical demonstration from the Opposition.

MR. SODEN'S POSITION

Conservative Candidate Writes to Toronto World Regarding Election.

Editor Toronto World: I enclose herewith copy of telegram to-day sent to The Daily Star of your city. They, together with The Globe newspaper, have been misrepresenting my position, inasmuch as they have given but part of my statement and have claimed that I was a Rowell supporter. This I distinctly am not.

If you will kindly give this denial and the enclosed telegram prominent place in your columns you will much oblige.

R. J. Soden.
Conservative Nominee for West Peterborough.
Peterborough, June 13, 1914.

The telegram follows:

Peterboro, June 13, 1914.
To The Star, Toronto, Ont.:

I request you cancel my name from your alleged honor roll as I do not subscribe to Rowell policy, but agree with Whitney Government that if the people want advanced temperance measures they must send the men to parliament who will advocate them.

I am for abolition of shops as well as bars and clubs, and regard Rowell's policy as even more dangerous to true temperance than the present arrangement. Please publish to-day.

R. J. Soden.

CHOCOLATE KING RULED ANTICOSTI

Henri Menier Accomplished Wonders In Developing His Island Kingdom

When Henri Menier, the French chocolate king, died in Paris, there passed away a man who was more of an absolute sovereign over a large territory than eighteen or twenty of the rulers of Europe. Yet he was never crowned as king nor elected as chief executive. He simply owned the beautiful island of Anticosti in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, 140 miles long and 27 miles wide, which he bought outright in 1896 from the Island of Anticosti Company, Limited, of London. Menier passed over his $160,000 and for it received the title to the entire island, carrying with it the right to do there whatever he pleased and how and when he pleased.

Menier planned improvements on a stupendous scale. First it was to be a mammoth game preserve. The island wilderness swarmed with red deer, caribou, brown bear, and red fox. He would make it the hunter's paradise. But later his enthusiasm waned somewhat, for he found that while a visit to Anticosti was declared to be just the right thing on the boulevards, when it came to taking the trip most of his companions balked at the eleventh hour.

The industrial possibilities then dawned upon Menier. The adjacent waters were full of cod, herring, mackerel, sea trout, and salmon. And the lobsters were the best in the world. And the woods were full of fur-bearing animals that would bring the highest prices. Menier would start in making more money to add to the many millions he had.

To carry on the proposed industries it was necessary to colonize. Menier induced hundreds of families to emigrate to the island direct from France. Then he added a number of French families from the Gaspe district of Quebec. Finally, he let in some English and Scotch families, although he did this reluctantly, because the supply of French colonists was not sufficient to carry on the work planned. He could not help showing his French partiality, however.

Menier built a magnificent mansion of an architectural style comporting with the wild scene. It was a wilderness palace. He drew the plans himself down to the smallest detail. One oddity of his in connection with the interior work was that all parts of wood and iron should be screwed down. Not a nail or rivet was used. When all was completed, the Frenchman gave a house-warming that lingered in the memory of those attending it as the greatest affair of its kind ever extended.

Before his death the ruler of Anticosti constructed magnificent roads through the forests, that, because of their adaptation to the many scenic beauties were declared highway marvels. He built many houses and erected plants for the various industries he fostered that have no equal elsewhere. The lobster packing industry became one of the greatest in the world.

Menier achieved distinction in many walks of life. He was an energetic Arctic explorer and planned always to have his island a depot and fitting out place for expeditions to the frozen north. He was a photographer of rare ability and an expert and daring yachtsman. His great fortune had been made in chocolate. Distinguished as he was in many ways, and honored by his country, his most striking accomplishment was the ruling and development of his island kingdom, the wilderness of Anticosti

FENCES AND GATES

Should be Strong and [illegible] Some of the Reasons

Any man who keeps stock should have good fences and strong gates. Broken-down fences and old dilapidated gates are a constant source of annoyance and danger. Many valuable animals are injured by broken fences and gates, not always by the fence or gate itself but by getting through the fence or gate into a field of grain and eating enough to cause bloat, or by strolling on to a railroad track and being hit by the cars.

Perhaps the whole herd breaks through into a neighbor's fields and destroys his crops. Such things are mighty unpleasant, and cause bad feeling among the best of neighbors.

Good fences and strong gates are cheaper than good stock and damage suits. Good gates and fences add to the permanent value of a farm. If a man has not sufficient pride in his farm to keep up his fences, economy should compel him to give these matters attention. The poor gate is the weakest link in the fence. There is nothing that adds more to the appearance of a farm than good substantial gates and fences. Such appearances amount to hundreds of dollars when selling farms.

A Dry Poultry-house

To avoid dampness in the poultry-house the floor should be a foot higher of earth than the level of the outside lay of land. Then grade up to the outside walls so as to turn off the water.

Ducks may be raised at little expense on the farm. They eat the food that is not desired by other fowls. Vegetable parings and food unrelished by either geese or chickens seem to be enjoyed.

Our Point of View

"There are no fans in hell," says a Hamilton preacher. But how about the umpires who are daily being consigned to that place?

—o—

The World says the wife of a Toronto man scratched him with her toenail, and he is now seriously ill. A clear case of tomain poisoning.

—o—

Our old friend Vic Huerta is said to have received 2,000,000 rounds of ammunition. If it is the kind he likes which is put up in glass bottles, you can bet your money that Vic will not resign.

—o—

"Shoot the King" is now the cry of London suffragets. If they should yell "Shoot the Queen" the stern Mary would grab her famous umbrella and give them the worst thrashing they ever had in their lives.

—o—

The Canadian Northwest has been suffering one of the worst spells of business depression known in twenty years. It is now in order for the Liberal orators to declare that the Borden Government tariff is responsible for it.

—o—

Our local contemporary the Review says that for summer vacations one needs change. That's true, and it is the lack of change that prevents the editor of this great family journal from taking summer vacations.

—o—

The Examiner published a paragraph the other day stating that a Montreal girl married Arthur H. Liberty, her chauffeur, and the next morning her relatives spirited her away. Now she is deprived of her Liberty. Oh, cruel fate!

Vicarious Exercise

Some, who are easily perplexed, wonder at the crowds seen at the baseball games in Riverside Park. "How can all these people afford to spend the time and the money?" The questioner, finding no answer, and not being able himself to see a game, speaks disrespectfully of the spectators as a mob of fans. Now the true fan is the man that does not go to the games but, opening his Times at the breakfast table, turns at once to the baseball news, reads the graphic account of a dull or exciting local contest, the telegraphed reports from other cities; notes the base hits, errors, men struck out, double plays; and wonders who will pitch the next game in Peterborough. Glued to his newspaper, he heeds not the remarks of spouse and tender brood.

No, these spectators at the games are not necessarily idlers, loafers, as the superficial would have it. Many of them thus take exercise and prefer baseball to golf. If, mentally tired, a man, not a golfer, accompanies a friend over the links, he soon becomes physically exhausted, and his last state is worse than his first. Reading a book or an address by some of the local ministers is too violent exercise for the ordinary citizen. But watching a game of baseball provides the necessary stimulation glow, exercise that, while it is vicarious, is sympathetic. An intimate knowledge of the rules, and acquaintance with the subtleties of double plays, these are not indispensable to bodily improvement. Mere following the exertions of the battery, basemen, fielders, batters is enough. The spectator runs and strikes and stops and slides and curves and twists, but agreeably and in mental unison with the actual deed. There is also the opportunity for strengthening vocal chords in recognition and appreciation of a brilliant play.

Baseball is more varied than tennis. Rowing is a moving picture, not to be seen in all its length by the majority. In the football season there is danger of contracting rheums and cramps, nor, is the mind so alert. What wonder that the "tired business man" makes his way to Riverside Park, to return home refreshed, invigorated, and with rich matter for conversation by the domestic hearth or at the club; the next morning for the street car and the office.

Rheumatism Goes Quickly Its Virus Forever Destroyed

EVERY CASE IS CURABLE.

Good-bye to Rheumatism!

Your aching joints, your stiff, sore muscles, those sleepless nights and suffering days—good-bye forever—your day is gone.

Sufferer, cheer up, and read the good news below.

"A man met me a month ago, and said, 'don't stay crippled, quit complaining, limber up.' My answer was, 'I'm rheumatic, I can't do it.' He looked me over in a pitying sort of way and told me to go to the nearest drug store for Nerviline and Ferrozone. The combination had cured him. I was convinced of his sincerity and followed his instructions. I rubbed on Nerviline three times every day—rubbed it right into my aching joints. The pain quickly lessened, and I became more limber and active. To draw the virus of the disease from my blood I took two Ferrozone Tablets with every meal. I am well today, not an ache, not a pain and no sign of stiffness at all."

What Nerviline can do in a case like this it can do for you to. For nearly forty years Nerviline has been recommended for Rheumatism, Lumbago, and Sciatica and Lame Back. It is the one remedy that never disappoints.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh [illegible] nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

PUBLIC OPINION

The Times does not hold itself responsible for the opinions of its correspondents.

THE TWO POLICIES.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—Mr. Gillespie says "Rowell's policy is my policy."

What is Mr. Rowell's policy? It is to

1.—Abolish the Bar.
2.—Abolish the Club.
3.—Keep the shop open.
4.—And the distillery to supply it.

That's a great temperance policy, ain't it? What does Mr. Soden say? He says, "I will do my best at all time to:

a.—Abolish the Bar.
b.—Abolish the Club.
c.—Abolish the Shop.
d.—Abolish the distillery.

That's an honest temperance policy, ain't it? But will all the temperance people support Mr. Soden? Rats! They ain't got it in them. What Peterborough would be if Mr. Soden has his way!—Not a drop of liquor in the place. What Peterborough will be if Mr. Gillespie and his friend Rowell have their way:—whiskey-shops filled with men and women and the fence-corners with drunks. What will the temperance people vote for? For the drunks, sure. Don't they say that they are in favor of the open shop? This is a great world, ain't it?

Wow! Wow!

ROTATION OF CROPS

One Year's Growth Should Offset Disadvantages of Previous One

At the basis of all genuine rotations lies the fact that plants differ from one another; they differ from one another in their demands upon the soil, both chemical and physical; they differ with regard to their root system, depth of feeding, their moisture requirements, their time of feeding, their dates in reaching maturity, etc.

Many plants impoverish the soil; a few enrich it; some spoil its physical conditions, while others improve it in that regard. Many crops favor the growth of weeds, while others either are able to hold the weeds in check or require such cultivation and treatment as will prevent their growth.

All these differences fit plants for different places in rotation, and a well-arranged rotation is one in which the strong points of one crop follow so as to fit into the weak points of another, or vice versa, and in this way reduce deficiencies to a minimum. A crop that requires a large amount of one element should be followed by one that requires less of that element and probably more of another. A shallow-rooted crop should be followed by one that is deeper rooted, so that plant food which may have escaped the shallower roots may be caught by the deeper feeder, and that the nutriment in the soil may be used to a greater depth. Crops that are exhaustive to the soil should be followed by a so-called soil restorer. And crops that are conducive to the growth of weeds should be followed by a weed-destroying crop.

THE ART OF LIVING

Many people never learn the art of living because they never see the relative importance of duties, opportunities and interests, and never discriminate between the things on which they ought to throw the full weight of their energy and those which they ought to touch lightly in passing. It is so easy to know a little of everything that many people know nothing thoroughly. They become eclectics in religion and their spiritual energy evaporates in a vague interest in the gossip, so to speak, of half a dozen faiths; they read the text books of all the arts, and end by losing whatever capacity for pleasure in beauty they had when they became "globe trotters" in the galleries, museums and studios; they hear lectures on philosophy and get a smattering of the dialect of thought without learning how to think; they join a hundred charities, and never give themselves; they are eager for all the reforms, but have no time to give real support to any of them. They respond to every call, and no sooner start in one direction than they are diverted into another path and never reach the end of any road.—(The Outlook).

The way was long, the wind was cold,
The car was new, but the tires old,
The driver sat and tore his hair,
And cursed himself in his despair,
Of punctures he had had a score,
He vowed he'd buy cheap tires no more.
And if he ever got to town
He'd get those tires of renown
That never leave you on the road
But bring you safe to your abode.

Peter's Adventures in Matrimony

By Leona Dalrymple

Author of the new novel, "Diane of the Green Van," awarded a prize of $10,000 by Ida M. Tarbell and S. S. McClure as judges.

The truth about "the girl in the case" distinguishes this new series by Miss Dalrymple. Her character studies will not appear unfamiliar to the majority of readers, who will follow the fortunes of "Peter" with interest.

Light and Economy.

LEONA DALRYMPLE

"NOW," said I, "the luncheon's over and the house is quite in order, we may as well get a pad, Mary, and have a very real business talk. As I've said before, with 15 extra dollars to hand the landlord every month and $300 to pay by instalment at the rate of $5 more a month, it behooves us to count our pennies."

"In the first place," said Mary brightly, "I've thought we can be awfully careful with the lights, turn them off when we leave the room even for a minute, and all that sort of thing."

It was rather an anaemic way to begin economizing, but respecting the spirit in which it was offered I looked impressed.

"We usually have," I ventured.

"We'll be even more careful," decided Mary, with a pretty air of responsibility. "Then I can't see why you need that horrid old mechanical journal. It's dull and uninteresting, and it costs $1.50 a year."

My One Extravagance.

I glanced at my wife to see if she was honestly in earnest or if there was perhaps a glimmer of humor in her eyes. There wasn't. And it hurt a little. For Mary subscribes for several magazines—home magazines very similar in content, and one of those might easily have gone if, indeed, she were in earnest.

"Yes," I said dryly, "that mechanical magazine of mine is a pretty heavy expense, and probably we ought to stop it, but it's the one thing I feel intensely interested in, and—well—I think we'll keep it."

I may as well confess right now that although I am by profession a private secretary, my hobby is mechanics. I love the whirr and hum of a big machine. I love to build up imaginary machines of my own. I love to read about the scientific ideas of others.

"Well," said Mary reproachfully, "I merely suggested it because you're so determined to economize. Then I could buy just ordinary salt—not that shaker kind for the table—the fine dry kind. That would save something."

"We can cut our table expenses," I put in decidedly, "but not just that way. We can cut out a lot of the delicatessen stuff you get when—when you're downtown and in a hurry. Meats, for instance, cost like the very deuce, and you do buy lots of luxurious trifles there that we could very well do without."

"But, Peter," said Mary, looking hurt, "I always buy them just to please you."

Mary's Grievance.

Do all women stand eternally on guard waiting for an illogical chance for a grievance? Mary always does. She can twist the most innocent remark of mine into an affront when she happens to feel perverse. I had in no way suggested that she purchased delicatessen food to pamper her own tastes. Incidentally, I knew she frequently bought them to fill in an otherwise scanty meal the preparation of which had been neglected by reason of some social engagement.

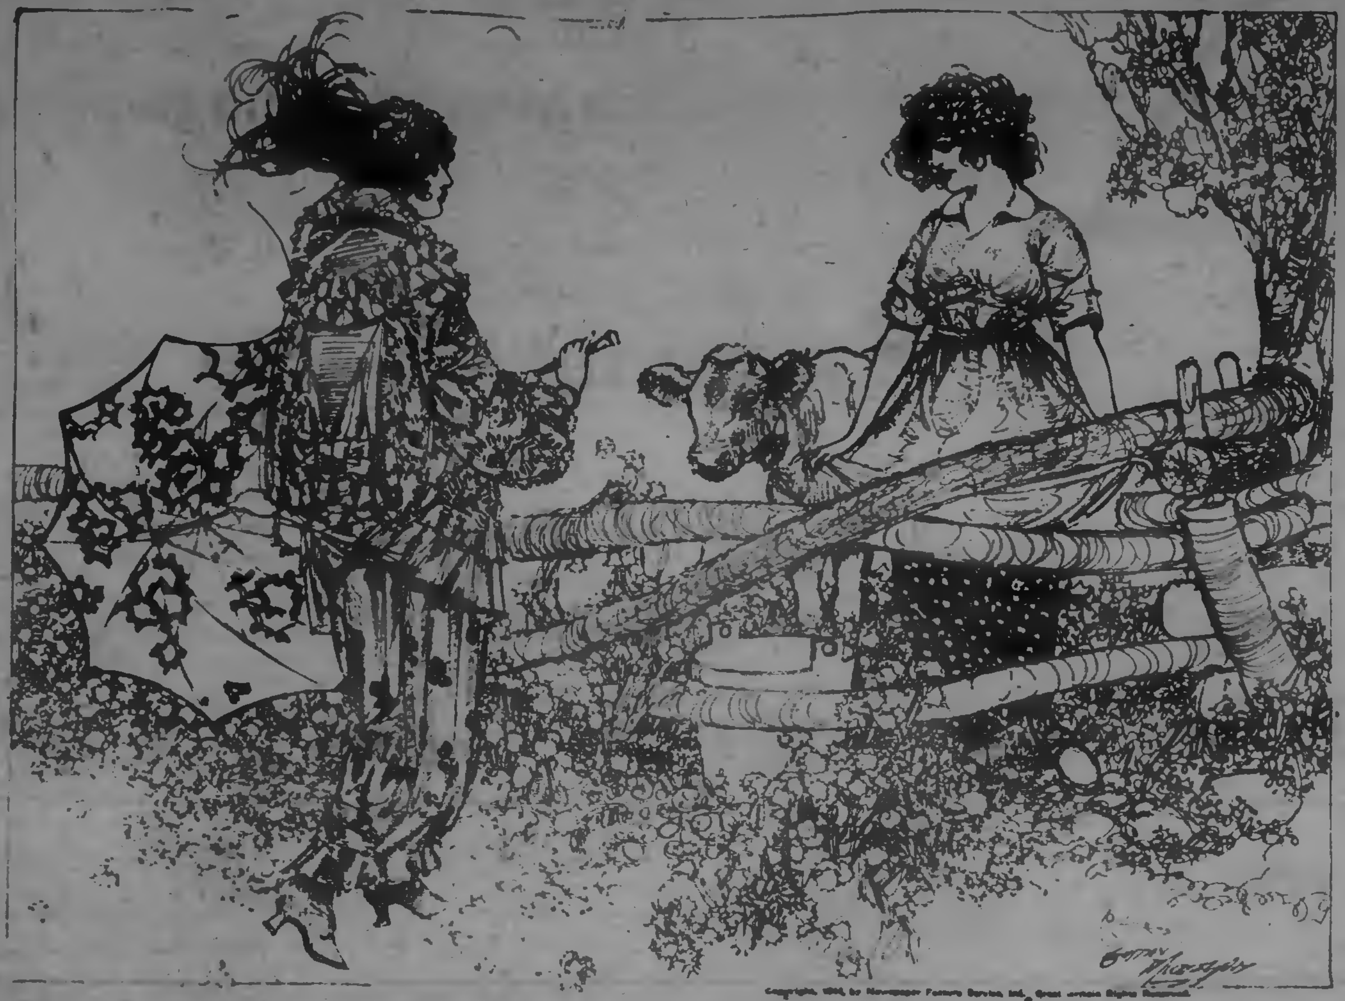
We considered long and seriously that problem of economy. Mary's suggestions were unfailingly ludicrous, though she never seemed to realize it. Nor did she seem to respect our imperative need for economy. Rather she chose to regard it as some altogether harmless whim of mine which in the course of time I would abandon.

She suggested a number of things for me to give up—among them smoking. Not once did she say that she might save on her own clothes, and Mary has a lavish hand in buying costly fabrics. Indeed, she took occasion to point out that in this new locality, with all eyes upon her she must look her best for her father and mother's sake.

I secretly made a list of the suggestions Mary had made. We would save about $10 a year if we followed them. And after I'd read them over with grim humor, I sat down and wrote a letter to my tailor cancelling an order for a new suit.

ENVY

By Michelson



Copyright, 1914, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc., Great Britain Rights Reserved.

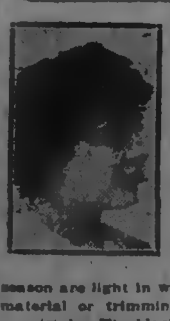
THEY are looking at each other frankly. You know what the fluffy city girl is thinking—that it must be delightful to be freed from the burden of the everlasting clothes changes, to be able to forget your clothes, to move freely, to have healthful open-air tasks without hypocrisies and BLUFF of any kind.

You will easily guess what the country girl is thinking—that it must be a fine thing to be dressed like that in clothes that cost more money than you have to spend in half a dozen years, with nothing in the world to do but PLAY and the privilege of going ANYWHERE.

Both are foolish to be envious, because each has something to bear, and each has something to be thankful for. The "rich" girl is enslaved by her clothes, the girl in the farm clothes is tied to her work. But the sky and the flowers and the sweetness of summer belong to both of them. Both are richest in the things they forget to think about—youth and beauty. And who can tell which shall have most of the crowning riches—LOVE?

Hats That Find Hot Weather Favor

By MADGE MARVEL



BLACK velvet hats in the middle of July may not look cool, but they look smart, and isn't it more desirable to appear smart than merely cool? Really, the hats of velvet are no more burdensome to the head than those of straw.

All the hats of the season are light in weight, whatever the material or trimming used. And they are simple. The black velvets are usually in the flat nininche or modified Watteau shape, and trimmed with garlands of little flowers, bluets, button roses, tiny poppies combined with daisies, dandelions, buttercups.

The facing is of Leghorn or hemp. They are wonderfully effective with summer frocks, and give an air of distinction to white gowns. Sometimes the velvet stops about an inch from the edge of the brim, which gives a lighter effect.

Cretonne is also much used for the Watteau hats for wear with light dresses. There is not much real dressiness to the hats of cretonne, but for the informal garden party to wear with white they are charming, and for morning wear with gowns of linen or crepe they are most attractive. A band of black velvet and a bow of the same resting under the turned-up brim forms the only trimming.

Printed chiffon is also used for the Watteau hats. One in particular that appealed to me was of old blue patterned with pink roses and edged about the face with half an inch of bias plain blue chiffon. At the back there was a looping of pink and blue velvet ribbon which was arranged against a black velvet band.

Printed chiffon also covers the crowns of some of the smaller Leghorn hats. Another pleasing idea in trimming the Leghorn is to face the brim with pale pink chiffon, which always gives a becoming light to the face beneath. A great many of the white and yellow straws show this pink facing. Black is also used, and where a darker hat is more becoming, is to be advised.

The velvet and chiffon covering of the Leghorn should prove a welcome inspiration to all who have old Leghorns laid by, which may be repressed into modish shape, but are not quite good enough to be satisfactory in comparison with the newest weaves. Covered with velvet or chiffon, and artistically trimmed, they will do splendid service, and save a pretty penny, for good Leghorns are never cheap.

In choosing the summer parasol, do you take time to get the effect of the color reflection on your face? It is worth while. Matching the parasol to the complexion is quite as important as matching it to the costume. More so, in fact, for it will not be remembered whether it accorded perfectly with the gown you wore, but it surely will linger in the memory of friends if your face appeared a yellowish-green with gray shadows when you were last seen. And that is precisely what some of the vivid colors in sunshades accomplish for some complexions.

For instance, if you have a very pale and sallow skin, a green parasol will cast a most ghastly light. If you are high colored and have the tendency to grow positively red in the sun, a red or cerise or purple sunshade will only accentuate this coloring and make you look as if you were literally burning up in the summer sun.

By the way, the tunic has crept upward to the parasol, and three or four overlapping ruffles flutter over the heads of tunic-skirted femininity. Narrow ruffles put on in curves and curlycues are also well liked. Lace parasols, lined with the alluring flesh pink are the most flattering of shades and charming with light, fluffy dresses.

Black lace is used for parasols for the matron, being mounted over changeable silks which show the gold or silver gleam.

Three Minute Journeys

WHERE OXEN WEAR BIG BELLS

By Temple Manning

IF you were required to tell off-hand where the island of Bali is located, could you answer? Whenever I have mentioned Bali I have been compelled to explain not only where it is located, but that Bali is an island. Nobody seems ever to have heard of this interesting Far Eastern spot.

Let me explain, therefore, that Bali lies in the East Indies, in the neighborhood of Java, and that, like Java, it belongs to the Dutch. But while the Javanese forsook their own religion for Mohammedanism, the natives of Bali kept true to the faith of their ancestors. They still follow Buddha and Brahma. Therefore, although Bali lies comparatively close to Java, the Balinese have many customs totally different from their neighbors.

It was in the interior of Bali that I saw one of the most curious sights that I have ever seen on a farm. To comprehend it you must know that the Balinese, being Buddhists, believe the cow is sacred. They never touch beef, living almost entirely on pork. If a white calf is born on a native's farm every one of his friends envy him this evidence of the favor of the gods, and the lucky man treasures the white calf as sacred. He never puts the calf to work, but supports it all its life in luxury.

Driving through the beautiful interior one day I came upon a road that led off from the highway, and, having nothing better to do, I turned into it. This road led me between beautifully arching trees to a native farmhouse. I stopped there at the courteous invitation of the owner, and after refreshments he took me down to where his men were ploughing.

Stopping at the edge of a flooded field I beheld a strange sight. Two oxen were squelching their way through the mire, dragging the ploughman along on what looked like an outrigger, from the under side of which depended teeth that tilled the earth. They were ploughing at the opposite side of the field when we approached, and for a time I could not credit my own eyes.

The oxen looked as though their necks were swollen out of all human belief. As it would not have been considered courteous for me to inquire what was the trouble, I kept silent. When they came nearer I discovered that what I thought was a swelling was, in reality, a curious contrivance attached to the necks of the oxen. This contrivance proved, on closer view, to be huge wooden bells strapped to their necks.

What the use of these bells may be I cannot tell. They made the poor oxen look ridiculous and uncomfortable. The note given by them rang through the still, warm Bali air, soft, langorous and melodious. Perhaps the idea is to cheer the ploughman during his work under the blazing summer sun. It is lucky for the oxen that the bells are not as heavy as they look.

Secrets of Health and Happiness

What Rosy Cheeks Mean; Pallor Warns of Danger

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins).

DR. HIRSHBERG

O HOW much more doth Beauty, beauteous seem, by that sweet ornament which truth doth give! The rose looks fair, but fairer we it deem, for that sweet odor which doth in it live.

The damask cheek of a maid is the lure of many a bold man. The Duke of Buckingham fought a war with France both for the Queen of France's cherry cheeks and her necklace.

The English War of the Roses, fought between the houses of York and Lancaster, is said to have been as much the result of the envy of the women of those royal houses as for power for the Red Rose over the White.

Be this as it may, you love my lady's rosy cheeks and so do I. Like the Spanish Gypsy, you wish the sky would rain down roses upon all girlish, womanly cheeks.

If all feminine faces were decked with blushing scarlet, the health and vigor, the fulsome womanhood and blossoming maturity would be as an earth crowned with the perpetual glory of the rose.

Cerise cheeks are to health what June roses are to nature.

Gather ye rosebuds while ye may,
Old Time is still a-flying;
And this same flower that smiles today
Tomorrow will be dying.

The loveliness of red cheeks is not like the rose, born upon a thorn. It spells an imperial basis of physiological process. Youth and sound tissues are in harmony with rosy cheeks, even though the years seem to point another story.

Once the shimmering waves and shadows of red come and go like the twilight, you needs must look to the bubbling fountains of internal strength and virility.

Rosy cheeks are warmed into bloom by sunbeams. Zephyrs have given these durable blushes. Even the tears, that pearl and glisten their way with briny perfume, water into bloom the deep red spots.

The blush is equally an omen of a firm human fabric. When these cease you have lost something of your old self. When damask cheeks give way to waxy or ashen pallor, illness and age, debility and inefficiency begin to steal upon you.

Impress it upon yourself that when the glow in your cheek begins to pale it is high time to consult a diligent, painstaking physician.

Prima Donna of the Metropolitan Opera Company, New York.

I HAVE learned how NOT to have one's hair dyed. With a friend, who views with despair gray streaks appearing on each temple, I set forth in search of a beauty shop where they would promise satisfactorily and harmlessly to restore gray locks to their natural brown and defy detection. The locks are still gray.

My friend no longer despairs. She is convinced that gray hair gives her an aristocratic appearance, and, really, it is no sign of advancing years.

My opinion of the honesty of beauty experts has risen 50 per cent. since this experience. While they were all willing to dye the offending white hairs, if my friend insisted, not one advised it.

"Certainly, madame, it can be dyed," is the way the conversations ran, "but gray hair is so charming on madame, and so many ladies are positively anxious to have gray hair. Oh, no, the dye would not be apparent, but it has to be retouched every few weeks, as the hair that grows out from the roots will be gray, and very likely there will be more gray hairs come.

"Gray hair is very beautiful. It seems a pity to dye it. If madame does not care for it, will she consider wearing a transformation which will keep it from showing? Some of our ladies do that. Of course, if madame insists, it will be done, but sometimes after the hair has been dyed and then madame wishes to have it gray it is not quite the same beautiful color as if the dye had not been used."

It seems unnecessary for me to add anything more regarding the dyeing of one's hair. So I will tell you about having your hair pulled to make it grow.

In the course of our journeyings that day we came to a charming little beauty salon, presided over by a handsome woman with a face full of character and a shapely head crowned with masses of nut-brown hair. She was silent when we broached the subject of hair dye. Then she said simply, "I do not dye the hair. There are many establishments where they do. I simply try to make the hair thick and long and beautiful."

Before she had finished I was in her chair with the hair pins out of my hair, and what a beautiful, happy hour of hair pulling I enjoyed!

This woman told me she had been a student of beauty methods long before she had an idea of business. She found that the women of the olden time braided the hair carefully at night and hung a weight on the end of the braid to promote the length. The weight did not accord with practical modern methods, but, from the fact of its being used, she evolved the hair pulling process, which works wonders.

First, she brushes the hair, parting it into separate strands all over the head, and cleanses the scalp and the roots with rosewater. This she recommends for daily treatment. Then she gently and steadily pulls each strand from the roots to the tip ends.

If there is a tendency to dandruff she adds an ounce of glycerine to eight ounces of rosewater and applies it to the scalp with bits of absorbent cotton.

If the hair is falling she uses a tonic which was given her for a southern family, who have used it with success for three generations:

One drachm camphor gum and the same of borax dissolved in two tablespoonfuls of spirits of wine. Add four drops of oil of rosemary, two teaspoonfuls of cantharides and half a pint of rosewater.

For a hair restorer this same woman gives this rule: Pour a pint of boiling water over two tablespoonfuls of dried rosemary leaves and add a wine glassful of rum. Rub into the roots of the hair. "Air and care" are the two best hair tonics, according to this exponent of natural beauty methods.

Advice to Girls

By ANNIE LAURIE

Dear Annie Laurie:

I am a young lady, 20 years of age. I recently had a quarrel with my sweetheart, and though he is more than anxious to make up, I don't feel that I should. I fear I can never trust him again after proving himself so untrue to me. Kindly advise me as to my trying to forget the injustice he has done me and renew our old friendship. ANXIOUS.

POOR girl, so you are trying to get to shore in a leaky boat? And you've lost your oars, and the sky looks as if there were a storm coming up.

Poor you, do you know what I'd do in your place?

I'd run up a distress signal at the helm and I'd get out of that boat just as soon as I could, and then if it goes to the bottom you won't be in it.

Forgive your sweetheart for anything in the world—for everything that ever was in human nature—except deceit.

There is no use to try to forgive that. You can't do it. You think you can, but you can't.

Did you ever, when you were little, have some one give you a dose of castor oil in a tablespoonful of jelly? How many years was it before you could bear the sight of jelly?

Well, then, this man has lied to you. You'll never see him without remembering.

You'll never ask him a question without watching him to see whether his eyes waver before he answers it.

Get rid of him, little girl. Get rid of him now.

A murderer may repent, a thief may reform, but a liar is born a liar, and he will stay a liar until the day that he is dead.

I would rather see a daughter of mine in her coffin than to see her married to a man who had deceived her.

Tell the man the truth about the way you feel toward him. Tell him you can never trust him again, and say good-by before it is too late.

Don't stay in the leaky boat, my dear. You'll never get to shore if you do.

Annie Laurie

Miss Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. They should be addressed to her, care this office.

How People Feel
When They Have
Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulveney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them cannot imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are: ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ½ of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution, have very little distress.

Prof. Mulveney's world-famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, sure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, is not disagreeable to take. One dose nearly always affects a cure. Further information free. Send stamped envelope, telephone Parkdale 4830, or call at 167 Dundas street, Toronto. Open from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

[illegible] TEA CHESTS

Canadian Poplar is a Suitable Wood For This Purpose

One of the largest London firms in the box shook trade who, among other connections, do a big business in India and Ceylon with users of tea chests, said that Canadian poplar is well suited for this purpose. While veneer chests are preferable where a long transportation is necessary, many of the growers possessing easier shipping facilities use ordinary boxes manufactured largely from Baltic woods, but owing to the pervading smell of the Swedish fir and the occasional presence of gum, this variety of timber is far from suitable for the purpose. For this reason it is thought that poplar wood free from such disadvantages, is in many respects an ideal material for the construction of tea chests.

MANY WAYS OF ESCAPE

The Mink Can Also Fight Well When Brought to Bay

The mink is still fairly common in the settled parts of the country. This animal, which belongs to the weasel family, is eminently able to look after itself. It has many ways of escape. If it is near the water it plunges in and swims beneath the surface as easily as a muskrat or otter. If it is in the woods it can climb a tree as readily as a squirrel, or it can disappear with lightning rapidity beneath an old root. Or wherever it happens to be it can find some hole or crevice into which it can instantly wriggle its sinuous, snake-like body. And as a last resort it can fight, and it does this with an agility and ferocity which renders it a formidable antagonist to many animals much superior to itself in size.

The mink, in spite of its comparatively short legs, can run with incredible swiftness, and has a habit of disappearing suddenly from view and reappearing in a moment at a distance and in a location where you least expect it.

This mammal is neither nocturnal nor diurnal, but hunts either day or night whenever it is hungry, and after a full meal sleeps until it is hungry again. In the matter of food the mink has a wide range. It will hunt frogs along the borders of streams, catch fish in lakes and rivers, dig up grubs, beetles and earthworms from soft soil or out of rotten logs and stumps, and catch hares, mice and ground-hunting birds.

Sign Boards in China

Tradesmen in China have quite as high appreciation of the value of advertising as any other people in the world. In China the biscuits bear the imprint of the baker, and the ducks bought in Celestial markets frequently show on their backs a big red stamp bearing the name of the seller. Chinese shops have large sign boards which show an odd mixture of the poetic and the commercial traits of the people. Here are a few examples: "Shop of Heaven-sent Luck." "Tea-shop of Celestial Principles." "The Ten Virtues All Complete," "Flowers Rise to the Milky Way." A [illegible] shop in Canton calls itself the "Fountain of Beauty," and a place for the sale of coal indulges in the title of "Heavenly Embroidery."

Where Liquorice Comes From

Most of the familiar liquorice-root comes from Syria. It is gathered and piled into great stacks, where it remains until it is thoroughly dry. It is then taken to the factory to undergo certain processes. The finished product is used for flavoring confectionery and beer, as well as entering into the make-up of many brands of tobacco. Some idea of the extent of the industry may be gathered when it is stated that, on an average, 8,000 tons of dry liquorice-root is shipped from Aleppo annually while Bagdad yields another 6,000 tons, Antioch 4,000 and Damascus 500 tons.

You wash dishes about two hours every day.
That's one hour wasted!

Dishes get dirty, greasy and sticky and soap will not clean them. Soapy dish water merely cleans the surface; it doesn't dig into the corners and drive out the decayed food particles.

Gold Dust is the sanitary dish washer. It not only cleans the surface, but digs deep after hidden particles of dirt and kills the germs of decayed food which ordinary dish-water overlooks. Gold Dust sterilizes as well as cleanses.

Besides doing the work better than soap or any other cleanser can, Gold Dust will save just half the time you spend in washing dishes.

Gold Dust is sold in 5c size and large packages. The large package means greater economy.

Sunburn, blistering, and irritation are the commonest form of summer skin troubles, and Zam-Buk ends these very quickly. It works in two ways. Halibut in the Pacific

The halibut of British Columbia have an enviable reputation, for they are less over-grown and of finer texture than the Icelandic and North Sea fish; a length of five to six feet and weight of 250 pounds is exceptional for the British Columbia halibut. The waters between Queen Charlotte Island and the mainland, especially off Rhode Spit, and off west shore of Banks Island, were at one time veritably overcrowded with halibut. Very large fish were often taken then some weighing 150 pounds, but the general weight now is only from 2 to 60 pounds.

SAFEGUARDING HUMAN LIFE

Here are some "Safety First" maxims given out by Mr. N. S. Dunlop to a meeting of railway men at an address in Montreal:

"Don't throw anything out of a moving train. It's a bad thing to get a mail bag in the stomach from an express running thirty miles an hour.

"A brakeman should not sit down on the track and be run over by the train he went to flag.

"It takes less time to prevent an accident than it does to fill up Form 74 (the accident report form).

"Don't fool with machines. They can be replaced. Hands cannot.

"You can start a 'Safety First' committee right in your own home.

"Get the 'Safety First Habit.'

"Stop supporting the undertaker and the artificial limb maker.

"No man should go twenty-four hours without placing his insurance."

Mr. Dunlop is an enthusiast for "Safety First," a movement which was started on the C.P.R. so long ago as 1885.

As a Claims Adjuster Mr. Dunlop has has to deal with many sad experiences due to neglect of "Safety First" principles.

There are twin mountains that stand like sentinels to guard the city of Vancouver which are called "The Lions" for some say they resemble the recumbent lions sculptured by Landseer that stand in Trafalgar Square, London.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY HINTS

By Mrs. Mae Martyn

MRS. A.T.B. You are not shampooing often enough and may not use the best shampoo. Try my favorite, which is canthrox just dissolve a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water and rub briskly as you pour it on the hair and scalp. This makes an abundance of rich, cleansing, lather that is very soothing to tender, itchy scalps. Rinsing leaves the scalp immaculately clean, and each strand of hair will be soft, shimmery and full of health. Canthrox shampoos are splendid for correcting unnatural conditions, such as excessive piliness, dryness or profuse dandruff. I like its drying qualities too.

MRS. G. The symptoms you describe, pains and aches in the limbs, and small of back, loss of appetite, lack of strength and ambition are danger signals—warnings your blood is laden with poisons which will cause serious sickness if not eliminated from the system. The kardene tonic of grandmother's day is excellent to use and can be prepared at home at little cost by dissolving ½ cupful sugar and 1 ounce kardene (which you can get at your drug store) in ½ pint alcohol (not whiskey) to which is then added hot water to make a full quart. A tablespoonful before meals is the dose. The timely use of this tonic frequently saves serious ills.

MAZIE. Yes, you can cure your weak, watery eyes with a soothing, healing, strengthening eye tonic which can be made at little cost by dissolving an ounce of crystos in 1 pint water. If you will put 2 or 3 drops in each eye daily, it will relieve the inflammation and soreness and reduce swelling. This crystos tonic is especially fine to make the eyes sparkle and give them expression.

SOCIETY GIRL. Here is that weight-reducing treatment which she told you would work without danger or inconvenience. Put 4 ounces parnotis (which you can obtain at any drug store) in 1½ pints hot water. Strain when cold, take 1 tablespoonful before meals. Keep up treatment until weight is sufficiently reduced. Parnotis is gentle in action and positive in results and leaves the flesh and skin firm and smooth.

GIRLIE. It is easy to make an inexpensive hair tonic at home by mixing 1 ounce quinzoin with ½ pint alcohol, then adding ½ pint water. The scalp should be massaged once or twice a week with this quinzoin tonic. Its regular use will quickly banish the dry, scaly condition and correct excessive oiliness, and when this is done the natural color and silky softness returns and the hair will grow in long and thick and have a beautiful sheen.

MARGE. Friends tell me I have every reason to be proud of my complexion, which is the result of discarding powder and using spurmax lotion. This is inexpensive and easily made at home—I just dissolve 4 ounces spurmax in ½ pint witch hazel, or hot water, then add 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine, and it is ready. I apply this lotion sparingly and rub lightly for a moment until it dries and seems to become a part of the skin, to which it gives a velvety smoothness and refined color that is delightful.

T. The wrinkles of which you speak will soon vanish if you apply a plain almozoin cream-jelly and massage the long way of the creases. This simple treatment tends to vivify the dormant tissues, causing the creases or lines to fill out. To prepare the cream-jelly put 1 ounce almozoin (which you can get at your drug store) in ½ pint water and add 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine. Let remain over night before using. As a skin-cleanser and beautifier this greaseless cream-jelly is not equalled.

New Words Needed

One of the most curious features of the awakening of China is the addition of new words to the language. This does not mean merely names for such Western importations as motor cars, aeroplanes, cinematographs, etc., but words which have had to be invented to express ideas hitherto unknown to the Chinese mind, said "The London Chronicle." For instance, China had no indigenous word for ideal. Again "reform" had to be built up as an entirely new word, as also "to take the initiative," "protection of life," and "educate" as different from "instruct"—instances which throw a vivid light on certain aspects of the Chinese temperament.

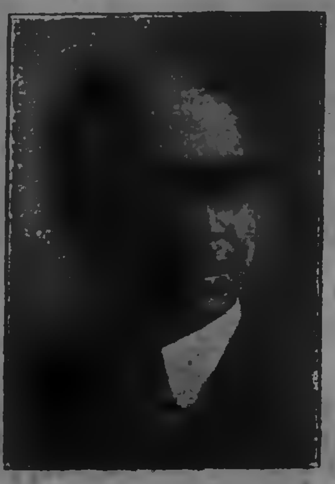
MR. SODEN HOLDS LARGEST POLITICAL MEETING EVER HELD IN N. MONAGHAN TOWN HALL

Splendid Addresses by Mr. J. H. Burnham, Mr. Soden and Others --Building Filled to the Doors



MR. R. J. SODEN
Who is holding enthusiastic meetings in various parts of the Riding.

The Town Hall, North Monaghan, was filled to the doors last night, when Mr. R. J. Soden, the Conservative candidate addressed the electors on the issues of the day. He was accompanied by Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., who also delivered a thoughtful and eloquent speech.

Mr. W. G. Howden, reeve of North Monaghan, occupied the chair.

MR. BURNHAM.

Mr. Burnham on coming forward, was received with loud and prolonged applause. He said that it was very much to be regretted that the greed for gain was rapidly undermining the manhood of the nation. In every walk of life investigations had shown a general disregard of the simplest principles of honesty in dealing with the property of the people and in the affairs of private life. It was not always so to any such alarming extent, and would cease to be so no doubt just as soon as the people refused longer to put up with it. Necessity will demand reforms. The history of that wonderful scheme the Hydro-Electric power policy is a case in point. Some few years prior to its overthrow the Ross Government disposed of no less than 430,000 h.p. of Ontario's share of Niagara power for almost nothing to promoters. That Government also agreed at the same time never to develop power at the Falls. In order to complete the betrayal of the Province's interests it gave away 125,000 h.p. additional, being the last of Ontario's share, to a company of Toronto financiers for almost nothing. At this juncture the Whitney Government came in, and it immediately cancelled all of these gifts it could, taking over and developing them for the benefit of the people and inaugurating that famous Hydro policy which has excited the admiration of all civilized countries. The Liberals fought the Hydro policy from the day of its inauguration and prophesied failure and heavy loss to the people of the province. But what have we now? We have power supplied at cost to the manufacturer and to the farmers of all western Ontario at a time when wood as fuel to produce power has ceased to exist and the prices of coal has risen. To hand over our only source of power, which is the sole basis of our industrial life, to the financiers and money-grabbers was the cruellest wrong ever perpetrated in Canada. It meant virtual slavery. It meant that the people of Ontario must become literally hewers of wood and drawers of water for the capitalists. The same trick was tried in the Trent District notably at Burleigh Falls. But the Borden Government, like the Whitney Government, protected the interests of the people. The future is full of hope. Being no longer dependent on wood or coal for heat or power the people are increasing their comfort and wealth by means of a source of power that will last as long as the clouds last. Governments that can do and will do these great things for the benefit of the people will be remembered with gratitude and supported with eagerness. "You can't beat Whitney."

MR. R. J. SODEN.

Mr. R. J. Soden, the Conservative candidate was received with much applause when he rose to speak. He dwelt for a few minutes on the radial system outlined by the Whitney Government and explained broadly by Mr. Burnham. Mr. Soden showed how the practical details of the scheme were being worked out by the Hydro Commission and how same would be applied to the local conditions in Peterborough and the surrounding districts. He then stated his stand on the temperance measures of the Rowell policy, pointing out how this policy fell short of what the sincere advocate of safe permanent temperance legislation desired as evinced by the vote of the temperance convention which met a short time ago in Peterborough. He dwelt at length on the evils of the open shop as regards the blacklist man, the women drinkers, the sales to minors and the general evil of the shop as regards Sabbath desecration. He contrasted the results as to temperance of the 33 years of Liberal Government as against nine years term of the Whitney Government, and showed conclusively that the ratio of practical results stood in favor of the Whitney Government in the ratio of 27 to 150. In other words the gain under the Whitney Government was over 500 per cent greater than that under the Liberal Government, although Whitney had but nine years against 33 for the Liberals. Mr. Soden then dealt with the dual language school question pointing out the dangers arising from instituting such a system in this province and protesting against the tactics of Mr. Rowell and his supporters who while proclaiming in eastern Ontario his intention of granting such schools, at the same time was silent in western Ontario on this subject. His supporter Mr. Gillespie not having so far uttered a word in West Peterborough as to where he stood on this question.

Mr. Soden appealed to the electors present for their votes for the Whitney Government and for himself on the clean, just and progressive record of the Government and on his own record as a supporter of temperance as a man who did and not as a "promiser" only. Mr. Soden was loudly applauded on the conclusion of his address. The meeting was closed with cheers for the King, the Whitney Government and the candidate.

WHOLE FIELD BATTERY QUITS THE SERVICE

London Rank File Follow Officers With Resignations

London, Ont., June 16.—Every one of the hundred men of the 6th Field Battery, which has returned from camp asked for and was given his discharge, thus terminating one of the best militia units in the country. All the officers had previously resigned as a result of the Petawawa incident of the discovery of beer within the lines. It is stated that Major Leonard will enter an action against those responsible for the searching of the officers' tents.

The officers continue to maintain silence, but their friends say that there will be interesting developments should the case come into court. One person in close touch with the situation stated that the officers had good grounds for an action.

"No Canadian's house," he said, "can be searched without a warrant, and an officer's tent or room is his house for the time being, at least."

No More Trouble With Ugly Hair Growths.

(Beauty Culture)

Your skin can be kept entirely free from hair by the occasional use of a simple paste, made by mixing water with some powdered delatone. This paste should be left on the hairy surface about two minutes, then rubbed off and with it will come every particle of hair. Washing the skin to remove the remaining delatone leaves it velvety, soft and free from blemish. No harm results from this simple treatment, but to avoid disappointment buy the delatone in a sealed, original package.

MR. ROWELL SHOULD EXPLAIN

Where does Mr. Rowell stand on the use of the French Language in the schools of Ontario? The people are demanding and have the right to know this. Sir James Whitney says he is for English in those school. If Mr. Rowell and his party do not make themselves clear and come out plainly, as Whitney has done on this question, in favor of the English language, they can hardly hope for the votes of English-speaking people of the Province.

Sir James Whitney has two positive statements: I have reduced the licenses and enforced the liquor law so that Ontario is nearly all white or dry (as per my map), and I am for English teaching in all our state aided schools.

Mr. Rowell is against drinking in bars, and he has yet to make his position clear in regard to the language question in the schools. He should clear it up so that all the voters may understand.

WERE NOT GOVERNMENT GUNS CARRIED BY THE 65TH REGT.

Montreal Regiment Traveled Along in the Parade With Borrowed Rifles

Ottawa, June 16.—"The 65th regiment of Montreal," said Hon. Sam Hughes this morning, "observed the regulation to the letter. The commander of the regiment acted like a man."

The explanation of the manner in which the 65th attended the Corpus Christi procession fully armed without violating the militia order that regiments must not take part in religious parades with their rifles was, to say the least, interesting.

"It was not their rifles which they carried, according to Col. Hughes. They procured somewhere a large supply of obsolete rifles, and gaily took the road with these. There were nearly four hundred of them, but they got them somehow.

It is not stated whether the rifles carried were Martins-Henrys, Mausers, or ancient flint-locks.

WANT BETTER SERVICE

Fenelon Falls Deputation Appeal to Railway Commission.

Yesterday Dr. Mason, M.P.P. and M. W. Brandon, Fenelon Falls, appeared before the Railway Commission at Ottawa asking for a better and more efficient railway service over the line between Lindsay and Haliburton. It is understood the desire of the Fenelon Falls people is to have the train service altered so as to connect with the through trains at Lindsay for Toronto.

THE WEATHER.

To-day—Light winds; fine.

BASEBALL

Once more the Petes trim Hamilton and after playing fifteen innings at that. The boys were on edge from start to finish, and played air-tight ball. Out of the last eight games the Petes have taken six and although they were a little behind at the opening of the season, they will take some beating yet. The Petes are on the upward run and the fans impatiently await their return to Riverside Park. The score yesterday after the hard battle of fifteen innings was 6—4 in favor of the Petes.

MANY LIVES LOST IN THE STORM THAT SWEPT PRRIS

sented scenes of devastation to-day

Paris, June 1_.—Parts of Paris pre-with gaping holes in some of the main thoroughfares as the result of yesterdays subsidences caused by the terrific storm, while the population of the entire city was deprived of water gas, and electricity, cut off as a precautionary measure against floods, explosions and fires.

A number of lives are known to have been lost through vehicles falling last night into cavities in the earth, but the total was not known this morning, as some bodies were believed to have disappeared into the sewers.

Heavy rains to-day added to the difficulties of the firemen.

ONLY ONE MAN LOST WHEN DREDGE SANK

Tugs Saved Thirteen Others in Stormy Sea at Port Dalhousie

St. Catharines, June 16.—It is now definitely known that only one man Wm. Burt, of Port Dalhousie, perished when the Dominion Dredging Company's big dredge Delver, capsized and sank outside the piers at Port Dalhousie late last night.

Although the crew had consisted of the captain and seventeen men, only thirteen were with Captain Gamble when in tow of the tug Alice he set out from Port Weller to escape the sea raised by the gale by taking shelter in Port Dalhousie harbour.

The tugs, despite the darkness and gale and the rough sea, picked up thirteen men. All were taken ashore and put in bed and given restoratives as they were suffering greatly from exposure in the water and chill air.

The dredge is valued at $100:000. The other dredge, the Dominion drifted ashore about half way between here and Port Welland, and can easily be floated again.

Burt, who was drowned, leaves a widow and three children.

Abolish the Bar

Every vote polled for the Liberal party simply advocates Mr. Rowell's policy of "Abolish the Bar", but let liquor be dispensed broad-cast through the liquor stores. It means doing away with the present perfect control of the liquor traffic as practiced by the Whitney Government. It means more drunkenness. It means shutting of the well regulated sale of liquor and putting into the hands of a few partisans who are to be given shop licences a means of making drunkards of the boys who are not now allowed in the bars. Which policy conduces to the greatest good of humanity?

STORSTAD PULLED AWAY AFTER SHE HAD STRUCK EMPRESS

Capt. Kendall Swears Collier's Engines Were Full Steam Ahead--Heard the Signals

Quebec, June 16.—With a speed that frequently found the lawyers breathless Lord Mersey, the eminent British Admiralty authority, opened up the proceedings in connection with the inquiry by a Dominion Government Commission into the sinking of the Empress of Ireland off Cock's point, near Father Point, in the River St. Lawrence, in the court house here this morning. His Lordship, with a sprightliness that his seventy-five years would argue him incapable of, walked briskly to his seat on the bench and began at once tapping his pen impatiently for the clerk of the court to call the court to order.

Captain Kendall, who still limping badly and requiring the assistance of a stick, looked to be particularly recovered from his experiences, and when offered a seat preferred to stand and face the court.

Practice Regarding Boat Drill.

The Empress Captain Kendal said, was a twin screw vessel, and in the event of her engines being full speed astern she would go straight and not cant. At full speed she could go from 17 to 18 knots an hour.

"What is the practice of the Empress with regard to boat drill?"

The practice is that on leaving each port the crew are put through boat drill and this was done on this occasion.

"What is the practice with regard to watertight door drill?"

"They are also put through this drill in each port, this also was done on this occasion."

Where did the collision happen?"

Time of Collision.

"About six and three-quarters east of Father Point."

"At what time do you say the collision took place?"

"At about 1.55 a.m., on May 29th. I looked at the chart room clock two minutes before the collision."

A vote for Soden is a vote for Whitney—for Hydro-Electric, for Radial Railways, for honest, clean, Progressive Legislation—If you want these vote for Soden.

HOUSE OF LORDS HOSTILE TO THE AMENDING MEASURE

Lord Lansdowne Gives Notice That the Conservatives Will Try to Hold Up the Government's Bill

London, June 16.—The Home Rule issue will enter upon a new phase in the House of Lords to-day, when it will be the subject of a vote of censure on the Government, at the instance of Lord Lansdowne, leader of the Opposition. When the Lords reassembled yesterday after the Whitsuntide recess, Lord Lansdowne made inquiry of Lord Crew when the amending Home Rule bill would be produced. The effect of Lord Crewe's reply on behalf of the Government was that the amending bill would be introduced next week, so as to be in the hands of the Peers prior to the consideration of the second reading of the original measure provisionally fixed for June 30.

Lord Crewe indicated that the interval before the introduction of the amending bill would be available for further conversations with a view to an agreement.

He invited Lord Lansdowne's cooperation in the final drafting of the amending bill, and promised that the measure in any case would be before the Peers before they would be called upon to vote on the main issue.

Lord Lansdowne was quickly back to the table.

"How," he asked, "could the Home Rule bill be taken up on Tuesday, June 30, when the terms of the amending bill might only be known on June 27?" "After all, the amending bill was the thing that mattered, said his Lordship. "Under your new Parliamentary machinery, the steam roller moves forward and the main bill becomes law whether we like it or not. On the contrary we are able to criticize the amending bill.

"We have always felt very strongly that altogether it was unsatisfactory and disrespectful to the House of Lords to ask us to discuss the Irish policy of the Government until we have full information as to the whole of the policy. We shall not be prepared to go on with the discussion of the Home Rule policy of the Government if we are only to have an off chance of getting a look at the amending bill three or four days before the noble Marquis proposes to take the debate on the main bill."

RALPH BAKER FELL 60 FEET FROM A FACTORY

Dropped While at Work at The Brunswick Works in Hanna St.

Toronto, June 16.—Falling a distance of about 60 feet from the scaffolding on which he was working, Ralph Baker, 28 years of age, employed at the Brunswick-Balke Collender Company's factory, Hanna street, sustained injuries which may result fatally. Baker was engaged in painting the outside of the building, four storeys above the ground, when it is believed that he lost his balance. He was picked up unconscious and rushed to the General Hospital. He is believed to be internally injured.

FEW ARE POSTED ON POISON IVY

This Bothersome Weed Which Affects Only Human Beings Easy to Recognize in the Woods

It is safe to say that no poisonous plant in Canada is better known by name than poison ivy. One could consequently expect to find it also one of the most generally known at first hand, of all our plants, but it is astonishing how many people confess themselves unacquainted with it. Not only townsfolk, but many farmers, and not a few of those who profess be interested in natural history studies, are unable to recognise it, says a report by the Dominion Botanist.

Poison ivy differs from the majority of poisonous plants in that it does not require to be eaten in order to produce its ill effects. Mere contact with it is sufficient, and indeed many people declare that they are affected even in its presence, though they do not touch it at all. The possibility of ivy poisoning without contact is not admitted though, by those who have studied the nature of the poison to which its effects are due. This poison has been found to be a nonvolatile oil, to which the name "toxicodendrol" has been given. The poisonous substance is found in all parts of the plant, and a very little of it reaching the skin is sufficient to set up its painful irritation.

It is well known that not all persons are equally susceptible to injury by poison ivy. Some can handle the plant freely without any fear of unpleasant consequences. It would appear also, as if animals were immune, as birds are reported to feed upon the fruit, and cows have been known to eat it and show no evil effects.

Poison ivy grows most commonly along the borders of fields and woods by roadsides, or in open woods; or less frequently it occurs in deep woods where it may become a tall climber supporting itself on the trunks of trees. In the open it is low and bushy, or often climbing or trailing. The leaves are all composed of three ovate, coarsely-toothed leaflets, and serve well as a means of identification. There are no other plants of similar habit in Canada with leaves which would easily be confused with them. The Virginian Creeper is often held in suspicion, quite needlessly though, as it has five, not three, leaflets, which spread from one point like the fingers of the hand. The poison ivy can also be known when in fruit, by its upright auxiliary panicles of whitish berries of about the size of peas.

Measures of eradication must be directed toward the uprooting of the plants, as otherwise any effort to kill them would have to be repeated and continued as long as the roots retain enough vitality to send up new vegetation. It may be advisable to mow off and remove the stems before starting to grub up the roots, so as to lessen the danger of poisoning while at work. The tops may be got rid of also by spraying with a mixture of one-half pint commercial sulphuric acid in one gallon of water. As sulphuric acid is corrosive, it will be advisable to apply with a sprinkling can or an old sprayer which can be sacrificed to the purpose.

How Sea-birds' Drink

The question is often asked: "Where do sea-birds obtain fresh water to slake their thirst?" An old skipper says that he has seen these birds at sea far from any land that could furnish them water hovering around and under a storm-cloud, clattering like ducks on a hot day at a pond, and drinking in the drops of rain as they fell. They will smell a rain-squall a hundred miles or even farther off, and scud off for it with almost inconceivable swiftness.

How long sea-birds can exist without water is only a matter of conjecture, but probably their powers of enduring thirst are increased by habit, and possibly they go without water for many days, if not for several weeks.

Scratching Post For Hogs

If a hog knew how to tell his wants he would demand a scratching post for himself. A successful hog-grower adopts this plan. Firmly plant a hickory or oak post four inches in diameter in the hog run. Coil a rope around the post as high as a hog stands and staple it on securely. Then thoroughly saturate the rope with crude petroleum and it becomes an ideal scratching post for hogs and pigs. They will rub against it continually and oil is fatal to vermin. Kerosene can be used but it evaporates too readily.

A Fortune in a Coin

Among the coins Napoleon had minted were some millions of five-franc pieces, and he determined to popularize these in an extraordinary way. In one of the coins, folded to a tiny size, was enclosed a note signed by Napoleon, and promising the sum of 5,000,000 francs—$1,000,000—to the finder of that particular coin.

Naturally, everybody who changed a large piece demanded the new five franc coins in exchange, and as a rule probed and dug and sounded the metal in eager search for the hidden note. But the years went on, and yet the note did not appear. Napoleon's plighted word is a sacred trust to the French nation, and the Government stands ready to pay the debt, which, with interest, is worth $7,375,000—upon demand.

Gossip and Women's Clubs

Only one thing is fatal to the happy social life of any country community, and that is gossip. If the ladies cannot find in the wide field of housekeeping, chicken-raising, preserving care of children, public schools, music, art, reading, public improvements, good government, health, sewing, entertaining and all other delightful household tasks, enough material to lift the meetings above petty personalities, then the little club, or whatever it is called, is doomed. Whenever gossip is allowed into any organization people will begin to break up into little cliques or circles or groups, and the whole thing fails.—Farm and Fireside.

A [illegible]

A thrilling escape from drowning in Rainy River, near Fort Frances, Ontario, by catching hold of the antlers of a big bull moose, which was swimming across the river, was the experience of Clyde Buell, of Minneapolis. Buell was working at Fort Frances for a lumber company. He was out on a raft of logs. After striking a jam, the raft loosened, and Buell, clinging to a single piece of timber was carried down the river towards the rapids. He had given up hope when he saw the moose with its head and antlers above water swimming safely from the rapids. Buell let loose from his log and grabbed one horn of the antlers and shifted himself to the back of the animal and rode it to shallow water. The moose fought hard, but would sink beneath the water and soon gave up and swam ashore.

Lame Back Strengthened Stiffness Taken Right Out

Was Relieved in an Hour, and Cured Over Night.

A lame back? Quite unnecessary. All you have to do is to rub on Nerviline. It's simply a wonder for backache—relieves after one rubbing. "Nothing possible could cure an aching back faster than Nerviline," writes Mrs. Arthur Kabar, of Lower Chelsea, N.S. "I caught cold and was so prostrated with pain I could not bend over. We always have Nerviline at home, and I had the painful region rubbed thoroughly with this grand liniment. At once the pain departed. The lameness was rapidly reduced and in an hour I was able to be about my housework. I was rubbed again just before retiring, and awoke as usual in the morning without a sign of my back trouble."

There is no sort of muscular pain that Nerviline won't cure quickly. Thousands swear by it for rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica and lumbago. It sinks to the core of the pain right through muscle, tissue and nerve—it penetrates where no oily greasy liniment can go, and invariably cures quickly. If you have an ache or a pain anywhere—use Nerviline—it will cure you. Family size bottle, very large 50c; trial size 25c, at all dealers.

Our Point of View

When Hon. George P. Graham got bumped and bruised in a sleeping car as a result of a rear-end collision he no doubt called to mind the painful experience he had at the last general election.

—o—

The Globe thinks that it would not be difficult to get the Ulster Covenanters and the Nationalists together. We don't doubt it, but the trouble will be in separating them.

—o—

The Examiner apparently still harbours ill-feeling against Mr. J. H. Burnham, M. P. Our contemporary would feel better if, instead of nursing its grouch, it would take a dose of pills and get its liver in good working order.

—o—

The Liberal candidate in North Renfrew, William Markus, says he is a temperance man, but refuses to support the abolish-the-bar policy openly. A rival candidate at the Liberal convention, Thomas Murray, announced himself as strong against the Rowell policy, and got a third of the votes.

—o—

Great and luxurious as the steamships are to-day, ocean traveling is full of peril, and this is proved by the fact that Harry Kemp, the tramp poet, who was found as a stowaway on the Oceanic, wanted to read his verses to the passengers.

Liberalism Vs Temperance

President Lincoln once said "You can fool part of the people all the time or fool all the people part of the time, but you can't fool all the people all the time." This historic apothegm should be in the mind of Ontario electors just now. The Liberal party of Ontario has made during many years, a foot ball of the big question of Temperance. They have dangled a quasi form of Temperance before the public eye to mislead people without full discernment or well qualified judgment. They have deliberately played with so vital a matter, that affects the man, the pocket, and the home to gain a meretricious sympathy from the unwary.

Our older readers will remember how during the reign of the Scott Act in this County third convictions, which meant jail for offenders, were seldom or never enforced. Such convictions would have meant jail, as noted, and consequent loss of votes from the convicted and his friends.

It was a Liberal administration in Ontario which refused to co-operate with the Federal authorities for the enforcement of the Canada Temperance Act after its adoption by a large portion of the Province. It was a Liberal Administration which neglected the enforcement of local option by-laws. It was a Liberal Administration which devised the referendum.

Again, the Liberals, to make political capital, cry out to the High Heavens against the three-fifths clause of local option. To-day we hear much of the three-fifths clause. Yet in 1902 when the people of this Province rolled up a majority against the license system of more than 65,000 the Liberal Government would take no action to put the wishes of the people into effect.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

LETTER FROM MR. SODEN.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir:—My attention has been called to a letter signed "Consistency" in your issue of June 15th, in which reference is made in a slighting way to Mr. Peck and various other members of the Conservative party.

I can only say that I regard letters of that description as exceedingly unfortunate and improper.

R. J. Soden.

Peterborough, June 16.

MR. SODEN'S STAND.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—There are one or two statements in the letter of "Elector" of this morning which are not true, and which I wish to correct. The first is that in which he says that the circular submitted to Mr. Soden did not contain the word "shops." This is not so. The questions submitted to Mr. Soden and Mr. Gillespie were identical, and contained the word 'shops.' The second statement in Elector's letter which is contrary to fact, is that Mr. Soden has pledged himself on the platform, and off the platform, and over his own signature to abolish the liquor traffic. What Mr. Soden says in his signed statement is: "Personally I believe in the abolition of the bar and the shop and the club licenses, and will allow no person to dictate to me as to how I shall vote on these matters."

I appeal to elector as an honest man. Does Mr. Soden, in this pledge, promise to abolish the liquor traffic? And may I ask this further question: How could he do it as a member of a Government utterly opposed to such legislation, even though he had promised?

I give here Mr. Soden's opponent's statement and ask "Elector" to compare the two. If Mr. Soden had made a similar promise there are scores of Conservative voters—temperance men who would have been glad to vote for him but whose conscience compels to vote for Mr. Gillespie. Mr. Gillespie's statement is: "I am in favor of the abolition of the three-fifths clause. I will vote with either political party for its abolition and favour a straight majority vote on every possible occasion in the Legislature. I will vote with either political party on every possible occasion for the abolition of the open bar, club licences, shop licences, and all other legislation looking for the restriction and abolition of the liquor Traffic.

—Robert Pogue.

Uses of Seaweed

Not useless when cast upon the strand are the dark masses of seaweed which you may survey at low tide at the seashore. On the contrary, these flowers of the waves have many uses. The broad, thick stem and flat leaves of the oarweed, when thoroughly dried, are used for making knife handles. The green and purple layers, better known as sea lettuce, are in parts used for food after being boiled down to a jelly. So is, too, another sea plant of a deep, dark, reddish hue, called the dulse.

From another, known as carrageen moss, size is obtained, which is used in the process of calico-making. Farmers also use it for fattening calves and thickening meal and potatoes for pig feeding. The long narrow leaves of the grass wrack, after being dried, form excellent packing material, as well as being used for bedding purposes for stock.

PRIMITIVE ACCOUNTS

Knots in a String Were Probably the Earliest Records

The carpenter who kept his accounts on a plank and receipted them with a plane, was hardly equal in ingenuity to the Aztecs, who managed with string. The numbers were indicated by knots. A single knot was ten, two single knots 20, and so on. The hundreds were indicated by double knots. The color of the string indicated what the numbers referred to. Soldiers were red, gold yellow, silver, white and corn green. This method is still in use on the sierras of the Argentine, where the herdsmen keep tale of their charges in a similar way. Several strands depend from one, the first of these strands being reserved for bulls, the next for cows, the milch and dry being differentiated, the next for sheep and so on.

Knots were probably among the first methods of man to record figures—the knot or the mark on a bit of stick. And in the hop gardens the tallyman (generally the local schoolmaster) goes around with the tally and its mark, and the most civilized of us still tie a knot in the handkerchief when we are asked "to be sure and remember."

Our Dust-producing Cities

Modern cities are dust producers. Streets and pavements and even sidewalks are worn by friction of the traffic, especially in this age of the railroad and automobile; car wheels are ground to metallic dust; fabrics turn to lint; fuel burns with products of smoke and ashes. Dust is being continually produced both within and without our factories and houses.

KELLY-SPRINGFIELD TIRES

A GOOD RESOLUTION.

The way was long, the wind was cold,
The car was new, but the tires old,
The driver sat and tore his hair,
And cursed himself in his despair,
Of punctures he had had a score,
He vowed he'd buy cheap tires no more.
And if he ever got to town
He'd get those tires of renown
That never leave you on the road
But bring you safe to your abode.
The ones that set the town on fire
The famous KELLY-SPRINGFIELD Tire.

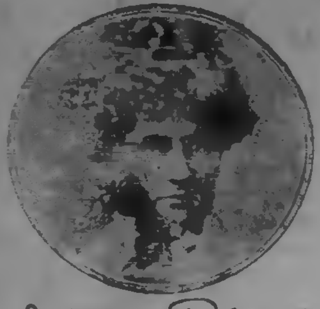
Who Sails Your Boat? Success Lies with You

By Winifred Black

Copyright, 1914, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.



Winifred Black

THE water was very, very blue, and so was the sky.

The hills and the fields were very, very green, and at the edge of the water, along the line of green there was a little curling of white lace foam.

And the wind blew over the rose garden, and it was all beautiful.

What was it that gleamed so white so white against the sunlight?

A little speck far out on the blue water—a goldfinch sang in the vines—how red his head was when he looked out from among the leaves.

Was that an airship high, high in the clouds? A sea gull—do they know, I wonder, what neat, precisely winged pictures they make of themselves—those sailing gulls? There's the white again—closer now—yes, it is a sailboat.

Such a little sailboat; how she rolls in the trough of the sea; but swiftly, swiftly, for she is sailing with the wind.

Why, she isn't so little, after all; quite a sizable affair now that she isn't so far away. How clean and seaman-like is the line of her saucy bow, and who could help liking the cut of that jib!

Now she's tacking—how mysterious it is to see a boat sail east and west—by the same wind.

Whoever is sailing that boat knows his business.

Who is he, I wonder? Some sprig of a college boy out for a day's lark with a lot of good company?

A blue-eyed Norsk, sailing so close to the wind that even the tiller shudders? A brown Italian from Capri, out to look to his brown nets?

How Simple It Looks.

Wherever he is, he's busy, in that wind. And yet how simple it all looks—from the shore.

It always does look simple and easy from shore.

Slips she, a gleam, glances, the boat dances over the blue. Like a dream, like a whisper, like a vision, it comes—and is gone again.

But somebody has to work to make it sail.

Luck—what's luck but the wind that blows?

It will sail your ship—or drive it upon the rocks.

It all depends upon you, and whether you know how to trim your sails to the wind.

There never is a great success made anywhere, any time, anyhow, in any line of any human endeavor, but there was somebody behind that success pulling on a rope somewhere and setting sail at exactly the right angle.

Did you ever go into a smart cafe and wonder why it was so crowded, when one directly across the street was almost empty?

You never wondered, after you had had your dinner in the cafe that was not a success. Why is this little milliner putting money in the bank every Saturday night, and why is that one afraid to go home—and meet the landlady?

There's an answer, a perfectly simple one, and there's no such word as luck in that answer either.

Do you care for clothes, smart ones?

Well, then, you must put your mind on them, or you'll never get them in the world.

That woman you know who is always so beautifully gowned—she pays for her clothes, pays for them in a coin you would not be willing to give. Pays for them by putting every nerve in her body and every thought in her mind into those clothes.

That's how she gets them. It isn't an accident. Nothing is an accident—that really counts.

What Will You Pay?

What is it you want in this world? How hard do you want it?

Will you pay for it—yourself? Pay for it in the coin of your blood and your brain and your heart? You shall have it—in full measure pressed down and running over.

Sail on, sail on, sweet ship of gleaming white. It is a joy to see how lightly you skim the blue and brooding sea. When you are anchored tonight in some calm harbor the man who sailed you, he who kept you out of the breakers and off of the rocks, will light his pipe and lean back and rest—for he will be very tired.

He sailed the boat.

Who sails your boat? Some hireling—who does it just for the money you pay him? Some "friend" who tells you what to do and when to do it, to please him?

Or is that boat of yours sailed by the cruel master we call self-indulgence? Or does laziness sit at your helm?

Who's pulling on the sails of your boat right now—he's a poor-looking specimen—I'd throw him overboard, if I were you, and get at those ropes—myself!

Oh, yes, it looks easy from shore.

But you aren't ashore, you know—not yet.

You're afloat—who's sailing your boat?

Three Minute Journeys

How They Fish on the Niger

By Temple Manning

F[illegible] wide at its mouth the river Niger, which gives its name to the West African British Protectorate of Nigeria, empties into the sea at the town of Forcados. Mail steamers ply regularly to this port from Liverpool, but the up-country traveller, when he arrives at Forcados, has only made about a third of his journey.

For the first hundred miles or [illegible] the river banks are thickly populated [illegible] but above the dense jungle creeps down. The land is low lying, and the tropical foliage grows so dense that it is impossible to land except where trading stations exist, or where clearings have been made by the natives. For days the steamer that carried our little party slowly steamed through the narrow, tortuous channel in constant danger from snags, submerged trees and other obstructions.

It was upon the fourth day that we tied up at nightfall close to a tiny collection of native huts, and I saw, for the first time, the strange sight of natives fishing. There was one circular net of enormous size tied by ropes to a pole that extended back over the limb of a tree, and around this pole squatted half a dozen natives eagerly scanning the water above the net. High above them, in the tree top, perched another man, who could look down into the swirling stream.

He watched the water with tense eyes, and the net laid only a few inches below the surface. Suddenly, as fish swam over the net, he let out a wild shout. The men below flung themselves on the pole, pulling it down and lifting the net into the air. Hauling it ashore they removed the catch and set the net again.

I noticed the peculiar care with which the men sorted over the fish with sticks before they touched them; an old man told me the reason. Sometimes electric eels are caught, whose shock has been known to kill a man, but the most dreaded fish is the sting-ray, whose sting contains deadly poison.

ALL WHITE COSTUME LATEST FAD

Tunic and Coatee Remain in More Conservative Cut

NOW that the summer sun shines down upon us, the rainbow colors that dominated the spring have faded before the conquering white. White from the wings of her tilted sailor to the tips of her tango ties, the summer girl of 1914 is the same adorable and alluring vision her sister has been since time immemorial.

The newest white gowns seem, in some miraculous way, to have escaped the freakishness which made many of the earlier gowns more grotesque than becoming, and have evolved a sanity of the features which the spring gowns presented in so glaring and sometimes so offensive a manner.

The tunic and the short coatee remain, for they are worthy a long life, but they are not exaggerated.

Paris has a new outbreak of black and white. Here in America we are using black wings on white hats, and reversing the combination, and we have our black cloth or satin capes lined with white and set off with white collars.

For the woman who has many dress demands upon her in the summer there is a place for the all-white costume. It bridges the gap between the strictly tailored suit of white serge or taffeta and the flimsy, filmy wisp of organdie or mulle known as the lingerie frock.

Such a costume is shown in the illustration. It is intended for a yachting suit, but it will be found quite as desirable and useful for many other occasions on land, such as the races, the tennis meet, the shopping morning in town.

The material is ratine, which shows both an uneven check and a dot. The skirt follows the close lines of the season, and is slightly draped at the side. The tunic, shorter than many of its kind, has the short front line sloping downward at the sides. It is one which will prove becoming to all figures, whether they meet the ideal specifications or not.

Heavy, broad Russian lace edges the tunic, and narrower lace finishes the little coatee, which is loose and short, reaching only just to the hips. It also shows the upward front slope, and is fastened at the bust line with a crochetted button and two loops and ornaments.

The sleeves are three-quarter length and finished with cuffs of the lace, underneath which the long sleeves of the lingerie blouse are permitted to show. One edge of the lace has the points reversed, and is applied in the form of a shawl collar, while the softer collar of the blouse comes well above the coat.

The hat is one of the very popular white chip sailors, with direct front trimming of tall, white wings. White buckskin pumps with white buckle are worn.

Ratine and the cotton crepes are splendidly adapted for this kind of suit, and are being used by the most exclusive designers. They are easily cleansed, and give excellent service, besides having far more style than some of the fabrics, as, for example, linens, which they have displaced to a large degree. They have one distinct advantage over linen in that they are mussproof, and dampness or sunshine is alike to them.

No. 100.

Mary's Luncheon.

LEONA DALRYMPLE

FOR days ahead Mary was planning her luncheon. There were to be 20 covers, she said. Every night she was tired. She made some little water-color gimcracks with impossible boats and lakes and castles on them. Mary can't paint, but her mother has made her think she can. While these 20 boats and lakes and castles were being built out of a box of water-color paints and a pad of paper, my meals were suffering.

I slid back into a diet of cold meat. Sometime I'm going to write a heartfelt essay on cold meat. I hate it. When I see cold meat awaiting my domestic [illegible] sinks and it takes me half a [illegible] to feel right with the world. [illegible] we have cold meat we always [illegible] stewed tomatoes? Why? Simply because cold meat means that everything else must be done in a hurry. And the quickest vegetable under heaven is the sort you pour from a can and carry to the table five minutes later.

Cold meat always suggests stewed tomatoes to me and stewed tomatoes always suggest chocolate eclairs. The triad constitutes what I term a five-minute meal. And when your wife's busy building water-color castles to impress her luncheon guests, she can't always take more than five minutes for you. If I could trace back 90 per cent. of my fits of temper and depression I know very well the fundamental cause would be—cold meat.

"Cold meat!" I exclaimed at last, goaded by the sight of the roast on the kitchen table. "My Lord, Mary, I hate it."

"But, Peter," she said, "I've simply got to use up the meat, haven't I?"

"Can't you buy a smaller roast?"

"Well," confessed Mary, "I could, but I buy a big one purposely so it will last over. I—I knew I'd be busy this week-end——"

But I said nothing more. Why have another cold meat wrangle? Mary and I have had a great many as it is.

I wish I could remember the various fits of energy Mary had in preparing that luncheon and the reason for them all. I know that I found a little pad of expenses, and was so appalled at the price of 20 favors that I hadn't the nerve to speak about it. My emotion was entirely too strong to control. Twenty favors at 25 cents apiece. If I paid [illegible] cents apiece for [illegible] sacrificed, I am sure.

Mary had to have a woman to serve the lunch and a girl for the door. That, she explained, was absolutely necessary, for her mother had hinted that we might keep a maid in our new apartment. Just for that day it could seem as if we were, and then after that she could say that she had decided to dispense with her. How women pander to snobbishness. They even lie to impress their neighbors.

I simply kept off the subject of the luncheon as much as I could. If I criticised it, Mary would say I was a selfish brute and didn't want her to have a good time—or worse—that I was stingy. Therefore, I resolved to keep my peace until the luncheon was at an end, and then to have a definite understanding about economizing.

The luncheon day came and went. That night I found Mary so flushed and tired that I really felt sorry for her.

"You're tired out," I said.

"Yes," she admitted. "You see, Peter, there really is a great deal of preparation necessary for a luncheon for 20 girls. I'm just about all in. You don't mind eating supper by yourself, do you. I—I simply couldn't eat a thing."

I did mind, but I said nothing.

"There's lots left," she said, "salad and ice cream and dear knows what—and—and cold meat."

I was decent enough again to say nothing, but I did wonder if Mary's pleasure in entertaining had been sufficient to repay her for her days of preparation or her absolute exhaustion.

"Peter," she said gleefully, even while I was wondering, "the girls were simply green with jealousy." And to her woman's mind that amply repaid!

Secrets of Health and Happiness

Danger Signals in Hands; What Cold Palms Mean

By Dr. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins).

DR. HIRSHBERG

YOU come into the world like brother and brother; then you go hand in hand, one beside another. Children go hand in hand to their play; lovers and their lasses hold hands in semi-solemn silence; aged couples croon away their closing lives, each clasping the other's palm.

Fingers are said to have been made before forks, and hands before knives, but no one alive today may honestly say that their hands were.

Human hands, like all vital tissues, are magnetic and electrified. That is to say, each squeeze of the fingers, every little movement of the palm, each twist of your wrist, sends electric sparks outward and inward.

If you doubt this, scrape your soles along a thick carpet and raise your hand to the nearest metal chandelier. A flash and a spark will leave your hand, leap across the chasm between and enter the chandelier.

The romance between pretty Phyllis and bold Rodney dies aborning, if either is so mock modest as not to hold hands. If, however, the two lovelorn ones walk lovers' lane hand in hand, the magnetic currents flow from one to the other and the romance is crystallised.

Moreover, the temperament of the individual not only is reflected in the hands, but is easily transmitted and thus becomes known to the other link in the clasped paws. Robert Browning, with true poetic instinct, phrased this in, "let my hand—this hand, be in your own—my own true friend! Hand in hand with you."

A hand white, delicate, dimpled, warm, languid and bland, is one worth holding only if you have an affection for the proud possessor.

The prevalent colloquialism, "cold hands and a warm heart," has as little and as much truth in it as most platitudes and proverbs. True enough, ill health and a poor, deficient circulation or flow of blood to the distant extremities, often cause cold hands and a feverish heart.

On the other hand, warm hands are often the rule in men and women with shallow, colorless dispositions. In contrast to this, cool, near-icy hands grip yours with a firmness that amazes and flabbergasts you.

They are at times associated with strong, virile, ardent temperaments that make for great happiness and deep feelings. Such as are thus equipped will never be found among those who, when they hold your hand, allow the flipper to lie loose in another's paw.

Fishy, flabby hand shakes point to a selfish, bigoted, unfeeling, non-sympathetic disposition.

Moist, perspiring hands usually indicate a high strung, neurotic disposition due as much to an over-active thyroid as to excesses in food, drink, soups and coffee.

Dry hands often mean a character shy, deliberate, wanting in initiative, or even deficient in internal tissue fluids.

Bathe them in alcohol, glycerine and alum water equal parts every night.

JOHN P. L.—What is good for severe headaches and pains around the heart?

The pains around the heart are due to disturbances in the stomach. Charcoal and oxide of magnesia should stop this. The headaches are possibly due to this, together with constipation. Bran bread and petroleum should remove much of this.

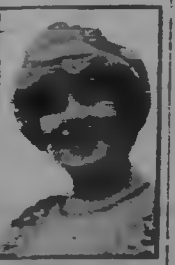
Care Is the Secret of a Lovely Neck

By LUCREZIA BORI

Prima Donna of the Metropolitan Opera Company, New York.

Special arrangements have been made with Senorita Lucrezia Bori, the famous prima donna soprano, who has created a wonderful impression in Europe and New York on account of her remarkable beauty and artistic attainment, to write for this paper a series of articles on beauty. There is probably no authority her equal in giving the newest and most approved methods of attaining and preserving "the divine right of woman."



LUCREZIA BORI

IF there is a yellow ring around your neck, or if the skin of the neck is dry and coarse and far from white, don't, please, call attention to it by wearing beads or any of the thousand and one alluring necklaces every woman longs for.

Make the neck worthy of the necklace before you assume it. Until the neck can face the world unafraid, wear a flare collar which partially conceals, or one of the thin, high-collared net guimpes, for necks are judged critically, now that they are so fearlessly displayed.

Isn't it queer, when you think it over, that so many of us will patiently care for our faces, using hot baths, cold baths, tonics, lotions, creams, powder, rouge, and treat our necks so unkindly? And it is upon our necks that our faces depend for their position in life.

How many times we see a lovely flower-like face, fresh as a spring blossom, pink and white and soft, poised upon a grimy, roughened neck.

Let's treat our necks as well as we do our faces for a month and see how gratefully they will respond to care and consideration.

Let's try to make them match the faces above them. Or, if it happens that some of us have fine necks and bad complexioned faces, let's reverse the order of treatment. Anyway, just let's try to see how well we can look.

First, scrub the neck with warm water and soap and rinse with cold water, and then rub with a bit of ice held in a piece of gauze. But before you give it the cold water and ice treatment use some good cleansing cream to remove every particle of dirt.

At night, after the cleansing process, pat cold cream or skin food into the pores with enough energy to set the blood in circulation. It will be easy to see how much the tissues need feeding from the way in which the skin food will be absorbed.

Use always the upward stroke, with the start in the middle of the underchin. This will brush away the double chin. When you retire, if there is any tendency to flabbiness, bandage the neck with a soft pad wet in alcohol.

I am going to give formulas for two simple creams. Both are good, and from the ingredients and the needs of your skin you will be able to tell which one best suits your purpose.

SIMPLE COLD CREAMS.

Four ounces almond oil.
Four ounces elder flower water.
One ounce white wax.
One ounce spermaceti.
One drachm tincture benzoin.

You can easily make it yourself. But the second cream I think you will have made at the druggist's unless you have plenty of idle time, for the mixture should be kept at an even and gentle heat for 24 hours. It is a very whitening preparation.

Three ounces oil of sweet almonds.
Ten grammes oil of bitter almonds.
Two grammes of benzoin.
Two grammes of balsam of tolu.
Two drops of essence of lemon.

When you powder your face, powder your neck also, and don't leave any unpowdered spots under the ears and at the nape.

Sour milk is a good whitening agent. So is buttermilk. Lemon juice will speedily remove the stubborn yellow ring. Cucumbers are splendid bleachers.

But persistence is the secret of a lovely white neck. Care is demanded every day and every night. Spasmodic effort is not much good as a beautifier.

Advice to Girls

By ANNIE LAURIE

Dear Annie Laurie:

I have been going with a fellow, who is 22, for a year and a half.

When I first started to go with him he used to take me to the theatres, etc., about twice a week. Now he very seldom takes me out at all. When he calls for me he only stays about an hour and then goes away again.

There is another gentleman who wants me to go with him, but I don't know his character, so I thought I would ask your advice.

POLLY.

DEAR Polly: He's trying to get rid of you, can't you see that? I can, and I don't have to use an opera glass either. I'll tell you what to do. You get rid of him, honey, before he gets a chance to get rid of you, and then everything will be all right. By doing this you will be doing both himself and yourself the very greatest kindness in your power. He's in a net, poor chap, and doesn't know how to get out. You help him, and some day you'll laugh about it all—together.

Annie Laurie

Miss Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. They should be addressed to her, care this office.

CANADA'S MINERALS A MIGHTY RESERVE

East and West There is Much Exploration to be Done in Years to Come

Canada's wealth of minerals is strikingly shown in a pamphlet issued by the Dominion Department of Mines. In a brief introductory statement some interesting data are given respecting the main geographic and geologic features of the country. Its area of about 3,729,665 square miles—larger by 112,000 square miles than that of the United States, including Alaska—comprehends six great physiographic units. Of these the greatest covers an area of over 2,000,000 square miles extending [illegible] more or less [illegible] from Labrador on the east to Coronation Gulf on the west, bordering the great Hudson Bay Depression. This area, designated the Laurentian Peneplain or Plateau is a region of great potential importance as a producer of minerals of economic value. Within this region occur the phosphate deposits of the Ottawa Valley; the silver mines of Cobalt; the gold deposits of Porcupine; the nickel-copper deposits of Sudbury and the iron mines of the Michipicoton district. The importance, the department officials state—already demonstrated as a source of such minerals as graphite, feldspar, mica, corundum, iron ores both magnetites and hematites—silver, cobalt, copper, nickel and gold—will undoubtedly be greatly extended in the future.

The second regional unit is the Hudson Bay basin, occupying a central depression in the Laurentian Plateau, of which the coastal plain is largely unexplored but is known to contain deposits of rock salt and gypsum. Southeast of the Laurentian Plateau, including that part of Quebec south of the St. Lawrence and east of Sherbrooke, and the whole of the Maritime Provinces is the Acadian region. In its eastern section—Nova Scotia and New Brunswick are found very important coal fields and other mineral products are copper, gold, sulphur, gypsum, oil, gas, sandstones, limestones, clays and building and ornamental stones of various kinds. Next of the regional units is the St. Lawrence plain, extending from Quebec to Lake Huron and including the lowland areas of Ontario. Although essentially an agricultural area it contains salt, gypsum, natural gas, petroleum, building stones, brick clays and the raw material of various cements, limes and mortars. Westward from Winnipeg is the Great Plains area, extending to the foothills of the Rocky Mountains, a distance of 600 miles, and northward from the boundary to the Arctic Ocean. The southern parts produce natural gas, building stones and raw material for cements and mortars—the northern part is only partially explored but is known to contain deposits of rock salt, gypsum, coal and tar sands. More important are the deposits of lignum coal. Next to this area is the mountain ranges with immense reserve of bituminous coal, while the Cordilleran belt has valuable deposits of economic minerals, and especially silver, gold and copper. This region when fully explored "is destined to become one of the most important mining sections of the world."

Clean pots and pans with GOLD DUST

Germs of decay accumulate on oft-used pots and pans, and ordinary soap and water only clean off the surface.

Gold Dust does the work—and does it right. It digs deep after germs, cleans like a new whistle and leaves your pots and pans as new, as bright as the day they were new—and sanitarily safe.

Gold Dust does this work in just half the time required by soap or any other cleanser. Does it better, too.

Gold Dust cleans everything like magic.

Gold Dust is sold in 5c size and large packages. The large package means greater economy.

How People Feel
When They Have
Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulveney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them can not imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ½ of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution, have very little distress.

Prof. Mulveney's world-famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, sure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, is not disagreeable to take. One dose nearly always affects a cure. Further information free. Send stamped envelope, telephone Parkdale 4830, or call at 167 Dundas street, Toronto. Open from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

WEDDING BELLS

McFee—English.

One of the prettiest house weddings of the season took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. P. English, 229 First avenue, Ottawa, on Wednesday, June 10, at 2 p.m., when their eldest daughter Miss Bessie was united in marriage to Mr. J. Bruce McFee, of the Department of Marine and Fisheries, by the Rev. P. W. Anderson, pastor of McKay Church. The bride entered the drawing room on the arm of her father to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Miss Helen Sorley. The house was very tastefully decorated for the occasion with banks of palms, ferns and sweet peas in drawing room and reception hall, the color scheme being green and white.

The dining room where the bridal table was laid, was daintily decorated in pink and white. The bride looked sweet and girlish in a gown of ivory brocaded crepe de chene made entrain and draped with shadow lace, caught with pearls, carried a bridal bouquet of white sweet peas and fern. She was attended by her sister, Miss Adelaide English, who wore pink silk ondine poplin, and carried pink roses. The groom was supported by Mr. Alex Hastie, cousin of the bride.

The wedding presents were both numerous and costly, testifying to the popularity of the young couple, among them being a cabinet of silver from the staff of the Depart. of Marine and Fisheries, a pair of brass candlesticks from McKay Presbyterian church choir of which the bride has been a member for many years. The groom's gift to the bride was an upright piano, to the bridesmaid a silver purse, to the best man a fancy combination bill folder, and to Miss Sorley a silver pencil.

Mrs. English, mother of the bride was gowned in black brocaded voile over black satin, and wore a corsage bouquet of mauve orchids.

Mrs. Hastie aunt of the bride, wore black silk with touchs of white, and wore cream roses.

The happy couple left for Montreal and other eastern points on the 3.30 train, amidst a shower of confetti, old boots and good wishes. On their return, Mr. and Mrs. McFee will reside at 98 Crichton street, Ottawa.

READING CAMP WORK

How the Foreigners Doing Frontier Work Are Being Assimilated

The Reading Camp Association does a splendid work by sending its instructors, who are usually college men, into the lumber camps, construction gangs, and the mines of Canada.

In the evening these instructors spend their time teaching their companions how to read and write and spell and speak the English language, and generally giving them an education. They provide a tent where the men may spend their spare time in reading newspapers or books, or in writing home. Next day they are down in the mine or out in the woods again swinging pick or axe like any other laborer. Experience has taught the instructors that it is the workman who shares the rough toil of camp or mine rather than the clerk or storekeeper who makes the best teacher. He is upon a footing with his pupils that only hardship shared or common danger can establish. Therefore by choice the instructors take part in the roughest work.

We hardly realize that the Canadian navvy has practically disappeared, and that even the French-Canadian navvy is scarce, but such is the case. The rough frontier work of Canada is done almost altogether by foreigners—Russians, Italians, Bulgarians, Greeks and other Europeans, who come to this country unacquainted with the English language. It is plain that it is of the utmost importance to the country that these men should be taught English as speedily as possible, and thus be prepared for assimilation into the English-speaking population. Without such service as the reading camp gives these men would never learn the English language. They would herd together in their own little colonies, and as soon as they had saved enough money would return to their homes to spend the remainder of their days.

Where no Money is Used

The Island of Ascension, in the Atlantic Ocean, is of volcanic formation, and has a population of only 450. It was uninhabited until the confinement of Napoleon at St. Helena, when it was occupied by a small British force.

Ascension is governed by a captain appointed by the British Admiralty. There is no private property in land, no rents, no taxes, and no use for money. The flocks and herds are public property and the meat is issued as rations. So are the vegetables grown on the farms. When an island fisherman makes a catch he brings it to the guard-room where it is issued by the sergeant-major. Practically the entire population are sailors and they work at most of the common trades. The muleteer is a Jack Tar; so is the gardener; so are the shepherds, the stockmen, the grooms, masons, carpenter and plumbers. The climate is almost perfect and anything can be grown.

[illegible] Dickens

There is living in Melbourne an old man named Woolcott, who when a boy was a "copy-holder" at Messrs. Chapman and Hall's when "The Pickwick Papers" were published as a serial story in monthly parts. Woolcott, who emigrated in 1851, says he carried Dickens's manuscript about a dozen times, and sometimes returned it for correction. "It was wrapped in brown paper, loosely tied with string. I remember on one occasion that I dared to untie the string and read the story. It was at that glorious scene between Sam Weller and his father, when Sam reads out his valentine."

WHITE STAR-DOMINION LINE, INNOVATION.

The large travel by the One Class Cabin steamers of the White Star-Dominion Line has prompted that Company to place Orchestras on the "Teutonic" and "Canada" which are now employed in this service. With this added facility One Class Cabin steamers offer today almost every advantage of First Class passage on the larger liners: and people of moderate means who have hesitated to go abroad because of the expense involved, find that this type of vessel affords excellent accommodation at such moderate rates that there is no longer any reason for hesitancy on this score. This means that all White Star-Dominion Line steamers are now supplied with Orchestras.

FIRST OFFICER OF STORSTADT ADMITS MISCALCULATING SPEED

Under Hot Cross-Examination Seaman Commanding Collier Agrees That if His Estimate Had been Correct Accident Would Not Have Occured

Quebec, June 17.—Important admissions were made by Mr. Alfred Tuftenes, first officer of the Storstadt at to-day's hearing in the Empress of Ireland disaster. The officer admitted that the speed at which he previously estimated the vessels were travelling should have enabled the Empress to pass in safety across the bows of the collier. The only possible deduction in that the Empress was travelling at a very slow rate, or that the Storstadt was proceeding at a faster rate than that stated by the officer. Mr. Tuftenes also admitted that he had not obeyed instructions, by failing to call Captain Andersen when the fog came, but waiting ten minutes before doing so. The concession by him that, according to a diagram he had prepared of the relative positions of the two vessels when they sighted one another just before the collision which sank the liner, it would appear as if they should have cleared was the breach made by Mr. Butler Aspinall, K.C., acting for the Canadian Pacific Railway, into the defence of the owners of the Storstadt.

MR. G. A GILLESPIE HOLDS A SUCCESSFUL SERIES MEETINGS

On Tuesday, Mr. G. A. Gillespie, Liberal candidate for the Ontario Legislature, held two well attended meetings.

In the afternoon his meeting was at Zion School House, Smith. Here the chair was occupied by Mr. T. T. Milburn. This meeting was very largely attended, many ladies being present.

The speakers were Messrs. Ald. Anderson, F. E. Ellis and R. R. Hall ex-M.P. On account of having to motor to Bridgenorth for the evening meeting, Mr. Gillespie spoke first.

The Bridgenorth meeting held in the evening was well attended. Mr. John Telford very ably filled the chair.

Mr. H. B. Cowan, of Farm & Dairy spoke on the temperance question. Mr. D. O'Connell, the local barrister, spoke on the general political platform as advanced by Mr. Rowell.

Mr. Gillespie, the last speaker on rising was greeted with hearty applause. Mr. Gillespie referred, in well chosen words, to the "Abolish the Bar" plank as promulgated by Mr. Rowell and in general terms referred to the political situation.

The meeting closed in the usual patriotic manner.

Last night Mr. Gillespie held a largely attended meeting at Young's Point and Selwyn.

At Young's Point the speakers were Messrs. O'Connell, Cowan and Gillespie. At Selwyn the speakers were Messrs. Kerr, Ellis and the candidate.

HINDUS PREPARE TO RESIST AUTHORITIES

Vancouver, B.C., June 17.—Agent for the owners of the Komagata Maru have formally notified Gurdit Sngh that the vessel would have to leave for Japan. The Hindus insist they will fight if any attempt is made on board to move the ship, or even hoist an anchor, while they are on board. Just how to place guards aboard or otherwise to assist the departure of the vessel is a problem that is puzzling the authorities.

MR. SODEN HOLDS A LARGE MEETING IN NORTH HARVEY

Last night Mr. R. J. Soden, Conservative candidate for West Peterborough in the present Provincial election, held a well-attended meeting in North Harvey. The speakers were Messrs. J. H. Burnham and R. J. Soden.

MR. BURNHAM.

Mr. Burnham said, "The Hydro policy meant the development of the Trent district. The Ross Government gave away our water powers. The Whitney Government in spite of strenuous opposition have kept them for the people and provide power at cost. In a country without coal or other fuel this fact means the life or death of the community. To put the water powers in the hands of private individuals is to enrich the few at the expense of the mass of the people. The action of the Whitney Government is the greatest achievement of modern times in popular administration. In a short time the great work of deepening the Trent Canal between Peterborough and Lake Simcoe will be begun at an estimated cost of $1,500,000.00. Of what use would this means of transportation be without cheap power? The future of this district is bound up in these two facts."

MR. R. J. SODEN.

Mr. R. J. Soden, the Conservative candidate was received with much applause when he rose to speak. He dwelt for a few minutes on the radial system outlined by the Whitney Government and explained broadly by Mr. Burnham. Mr. Soden showed how the practical details of the scheme were being worked out by the Hydro Commission and how same would be applied to the local conditions in Peterborough and the surrounding districts. He then stated his stand on the temperance measures of the Rowell policy, pointing out how this policy fell short of what the sincere advocate of safe permanent temperance legislation desired as evinced by the vote of the temperance convention which met a short time ago in Peterborough. He dwelt at length on the evils of the open shop as regards the blacklist men, the women drinkers, the sales to minors and the general evil of the shop as regards Sabbath desecration. He contrasted the results as to temperance of the 33 years of Liberal Government as against nine years term of the Whitney Government, and showed conclusively that the ratio of practical results stood in favor of the Whitney Government in the ratio of 27 to 150. In other words the gain under the Whitney Government was over 500 per cent greater than that under the Liberal Government, although Whitney had but nine years against 33 for the Liberals. Mr. Soden then dealt with the dual language school question pointing out the dangers arising from instituting such a system in this province and protesting against the tactics of Mr. Rowell and his supporters who while proclaiming in eastern Ontario his intention of granting such schools, at the same time was silent in western Ontario on this subject. His supporter Mr. Gillespie not having so far uttered a word in West Peterborough as to where he stood on this question.

Mr. Soden appealed to the electors present for their votes for the Whitney Government and for himself on the clean, just and progressive record of the Government and on his own record as a supporter of temperance as a man who did and not as a "promiser" only. Mr. Soden was loudly applauded on the conclusion of his address. The meeting was closed with cheers for the King, the Whitney Government and the candidate.

The Whitney Government have increased the School Grants to Peterboro' County by $6,860 per year. If you want this increase maintained—

MR. SODEN HAS BEST OF THE ARGUMENT

His Reply to Rev. Mr. Pogue is Strong and Convincing—Makes His Position Clear on the Liquor Question

Editor Morning Times.

Dear Sir,—In today's edition of The Times appears a letter written by the Rev. Robert Pogue, headed "Mr. Soden's Stand."

In regard to this letter I would say that the letter submitted to me for signature did not contain the clause the abolition of shops. It read:—

1. The Abolition of the Bar Licenses.
2. The Abolition of the Club Licenses.
3. The Abolition of the Shop Licenses.

This statement was signed by Mr. Gillespie.

I refused to sign it for reasons given in my address at the opera house, and instead gave a signed statement which was word for word with a statement which I made at the Conservative Convention.

Thus far Mr. Pogue has not misstated the facts, but when he says that I have not said publicly that I will vote according to my convictions he certainly does not attempt to represent statements as I made them, and evidently in the excitement at the Opera House, failed to consider what I did say, and has not since read my statement as printed in The Review of June 12th.

If he will read this statement he will find that I said: "I contend that the platform on this matter that I have adopted, viz.: the abolition of the bar and the shop and the club licenses is the platform which temperance men consider most advanced I have, therefore, a right if returned to Toronto to test the sincerity of Mr. Rowell and his party on the question of whether they themselves believe this measure to be the best, and should I be returned I will endeavor to see that Mr. Rowell and his party have an opportunity to say whether they stand for what the temperance people of this riding desire, viz.: Abolition of the bar and the shop and the club licenses."

In other words, in the above I have stated distinctly that it is my intention to force Mr. Rowell and his party to vote on the abolition of the bar, the shop and the club licenses.

If Mr. Pogue does not understand my statement as being to that effect he can understand it now as that is just my intention.

Further, in his letter, Mr. Pogue makes a statement which I have no doubt unknowingly to himself is not correct: He says, "Mr. Gillespie's statement is," "I am in favor of the abolition of the three fifths clause. I will vote with either political party for its abolition, and favor a straight majority vote on every possible occasion in the legislature. I will vote with either political party on every possible occasion for the abolition of the open bar, club license, SHOP LICENSES and all other legislation looking for the restriction and abolition of the liquor traffic."

Mr. Gillespie did not say any such thing in his statement. I now give underneath Mr. Gillespie's statement as taken from H. B. Cowan's letter, dated June 13th and published in The Review. He states that "Mr. Gillespie has made his position clear in the following words": "I am in favor of the abolition of the three-fifths clause. I will vote with either political party for its abolition and favor a straight majority vote on every possible occasion in the legislature. I will vote with either political party on every possible occasion for the abolition of the open bar, club licenses and all other legislation looking for the restriction and abolition of the liquor traffic."

You will notice that there is not one word about the shop licenses, but that Mr. Gillespie has dropped them from his platform altogether, although he signed to have them included with bar and club licenses.

Besides this, each day in the columns of The Examiner appears Mr. Gillespie's photograph and underneath it this inscription. "Rowell's Policy is My Policy." This is signed "G. A. Gillespie."

Again, the shop is omitted alto-

ANOTHER SHIPLOAD HINDUS SAILING NOW FOR VANCOUVER?

Rumor Causes Consternation in the Department of Immigration

Ottawa, June 17. The Ottawa Immigration Authorities are watching with much interest and some anxiety the developments at the Coast in regard to the Hindus. It is feared that there may be trouble yet before the Hindus are back on their native shore That the Government will not admit them is now certain, but the Hindus apparently do not intend to return mildly to India on there chartered steamer, the Komagata Maru. The Captain, acording to Vancouver despatches has been threatened if he sets sail and it is believed that the Japanese crew fear to start across the Pacific with their angry passengers.

Will Afford Protection.

Two Japanese cruisers are due at Vancouver on Friday, and it is rumored that they will escort the Komagata Maru across the Pacific in order to afford protection for the Japanese officers and passenges.

Stories that the Hindus on board the ship are starving are emphatically denied at Ottawa. While the Government has no intention of supplying the Hindus with luxuries, orders have been sent to the officials at the coast to see that the natives on board the steamer do not suffer.

It is believed that Gurdet Singh who chartered the vessel and is the leader of the invading Hindus, is endeavoring to hold up the ship long enough to force the authorities to allow him to land. Then he will at once start legal proceedings. However as long as he is kept on the ship it is difficult to start litigation. The authorities realize once litigation is started it may be months before the situation is settled, and are endeavoring to avoid this Another Shipload.

There was arumpr to-day in Government circles that another shipload of Hindus sailing direct from India was headed for Vancouver. The rumor nearly gave immigration officials heart failure, but no confirmation of the rumor could be secured, and the story is doubted.

To get rid of an aged, faded, freckled or discolored complexion, buy an ounce of common mercolized wax at any drugstore and apply nightly as you would cold cream, erasing this mornings with soap and water. Grinds His Own Flour

An old gentleman, Francis Harrison of the Isle of Wight, wrote a letter to the newspapers (of England) saying he had ground wheat for thirty years in a little steel mill of his own and that his wife had done the baking. He was in his seventy-fifth year. He says, "And this explains why my wife and I are so hardy."

"Where did you get that mill?" all England roared. "Good Lord!" he told the reporters, "I can't tell where I got it. Think I bought it somewhere in London, but 'twas more than a generation ago. It cost me only two pounds, but it has been worth a fortune to me. I was regarded as a frail youth. I had no digestion, my hair was brittle and I was cranky. Whole wheat flour soon put me to rights."

The Bread Reform League has taken the subject in hand, and the cry in England is not for meat but for whole wheat bread.—Daily Record.

But you don't have to buy a mill and go to all the trouble of grinding your flour.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir.—The Rev. Mr. Pogue says in a letter to the papers to-day that there are one or two statements in the letter of "Elector" which he says are not correct. He says that the circular submitted to Mr. Soden did contain the word "shops." I find that this is true, but the paper which I took it from did not contain that fact, but I have heard Mr. Soden say that the word "shops" was put into the program of the temperance people at his request. But the second statement of Mr. Pogue is absolutely wrong. Mr. Pogue states that Mr. Soden is not pledging himself to abolish the liquor traffic. I say he has, both on the platform and off, over his own signature and otherwise. He has done far more in this respect than Mr. Gillespie. Take what Mr. Gillespie says, according to Mr. Pogue's own statement, and according to Mr. Gillespie's address: Mr. Gillespie says that he is in favor of the abolition of the three-fifths clause, and on every possible occasion of the abolition of the liquor traffic and that he will vote for either political party. Now that is not Mr. Rowell's program, and Mr. Gillespie is just as far from Mr. Rowell as Mr. Soden is from Sir James Whitney. In fact he is farther. Sir James Whitney has said to the people: "What you want I will give you, but to be in advance of the temperance sentiment of the people is just as bad as to be behind it." What does Mr. Rowell say? Mr. Rowell says that he will retain the shops. He doesn't say that if you want the shops abolished and all other forms of liquor traffic to send Mr. Gillespie and men like him. He says he won't abolish the shop. He will leave that to local option, so that we have in those constituencies where liquor-loving people have congregated and made local option impossible, centres from which local option will be made impossible elsewhere in the Province, and certainly in those municipalities surrounding these centres. The truth is that Sir James Whitney gives the electors a chance to wipe out the traffic. Mr. Soden jumps at the chance and has swung the local Conservative party into line. His record is of the best. Mr. Gillespie, on the other hand, cannot go farther than Mr. Rowell except by wrecking Mr. Rowell, and from my reading I should say that Mr. Gillespie's address winds up with a declaration of war on Mr. Rowell and his liquor platform.

It is due to the electors that men of the standing of Rev. Mr. Pogue and Rev. Mr. Peever, who are taking an active part in this campaign should place side by side in short paragraphs the aims of Sir James Whitney and Mr. Soden, and the aims of Mr. Rowell and Mr. Gillespie. How any man can say that the possibilities under Sir James Whitney and Mr. Soden are not greater and better than under Mr. Rowell and Mr. Gillespie, is much more than I can understand. Even if it be true that Mr. Soden might do more, (and personally I cannot see how he can do more), surely it is quite plain that Mr. Rowell might do more with the shops as local centres and the distilleries as the great sources of supply. "Abolish the Bar" is only a howling farce.

Elector.

Great American Desert

Maps showing Southern California to be an island and North America in deformed shapes to the north and west, with unheard of rivers and mountain ranges, are among the collections of the Montana State Historical Society.

"The Great American Desert" was a rather large area a few decades ago including Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma, most of Texas, and parts of Colorado, New Mexico and Arizona. The geographers of those days remarked briefly that the region where wheat farming has been carried on for the past twenty-five years was "not adapted to agriculture, and, save for the roving red men of the plains, is uninhabited."

A women who is as clever with her needle as she is charming as a hostess has a unique reminder of many a happy reunion of friends about her hospitable board. Some years ago she decided that she would have an autograph tablecloth. She bought a cloth of handsome damask. On this she has had friends who have been her guests at dinner pencil their autographs. These she has very carefully embroidered in satin stitch, in white. A casual glance does not reveal the dainty stitches but the names are disclosed on a few moments' close inspection

The Examiner says that several cities are engaged in a crusade against billboards, but the junior reporter of this great family journal says these cities will not be entirely attractive until they abolish board bills.

—o—

England recently had a big bank failure, and other English banks, once thought to be the strongest in the world, are said to be shaky. Hon. Mr. Rowell, between his sobs, ought to be able to show that the Whitney administration is responsible for the trouble.

—o—

Mr. R. J. Soden, the local Conservative candidate is cordially disliked by his political enemies because he disappointed them by proving loyal to his chief and being proclaimed by the latter as a strong and efficient candidate.

—o—

The tribe of fools never grows less. Almost every day we hear of some fellow standing beside a motordrome and having a motorcycle to butt him in the stomach and into eternity. His colleague, the humorist, who rocks the canoe, is also appearing in the news and making business for the undertakers.

—o—

After studying the flight of a bumble bee, Thomas Edison said: "I realized that a real plane, a heavier than air machine of great weight can be built as soon as we obtain something that beats the air at the rate of 200 times a second." We extend him a cordial invitation to come to Peterborough and see some of the Liberal spouters making a speech.

—o—

The Toronto Globe says that it finds in the Iowa game laws the following: "If any fish is caught that is under six inches in length, and answers to the name of bass, catfish, pike, crappie or trout he must be thrown back at once." But if the fish declines to answer to any of the names mentioned the fisherman, we take it, has the right to put him in the frying pan.

Liberal Candidate Fears For His Party

At the Liberal convention in North Middlesex, Mr. C. A. Moss, who is one of the Liberal candidates in Toronto, did not disguise the unpopularity of the "abolish the bar" policy with his own party. As reported by the London Free Press, he said:

"There are Liberals voting against their own party on the temperance. In my own riding two good friends of mine said they would have to vote against me. They are leaving, not, we hope, in great numbers, but in such quantities that if Mr. Rowell gets only the Liberal vote in the next election, his following will be practically wiped out and the temperance cause will go back. They will ever takes Mr. Rowell's place, if he say to the Government, or to who-retires, that the people have shown satisfaction with things as they are. The Liberal party cannot win by itself."

Mr. Moss is competent to make statements about Liberal disaffection but he ventures on the very unsafe ground of prophecy when he states that if the Rowell forces are practically wiped out the temperance cause will go back. The temperance cause will continue to advance under the Whitney Government as it has been doing since 1905. Since coming into office the Whitney Government has made about three dozen amendments to the liquor laws, each one making a distinct and substantial improvement. Temperance Conservatives and Liberals alike must candidly acknowledge the excellence of the Whitney record in this respect, and it is a guarantee of continued progress.

Every Stiff Joint Limbered, Rheumatism Cured!

THAT OLD FAMILY REMEDY, "NERVILINE" IS GUARANTEED FOR THE WORST CASES

CURES NEURALGIA, BACKACHE, AND LUMBAGO

Rheumatism to-day is unnecessary. It is so well understood and so readily curable that every day we have reports of old chronics being freed of their tormenter.

"I can speak confidently of the Nerviline treatment for the simple reason that it cured me," writes Albert B. Cornelius, from Kingston. "You can't imagine how stiff and lame and sore I was. Nights at a time I couldn't sleep well. I followed the Nerviline directions carefully -had it rubbed into the sore regions four or five times every day. Every rubbing helped to reduce the pain. The swelling went down. I got a fair measure of relief in a week. I also took two Ferrozone Tablets with my meals. They increased my appetite and spirits, purified my blood and toned up my system generally.

"I am as well to-day as a man could be—in perfect good health. I give Nerviline all the credit."

A large family size bottle of Nerviline costs only 50c., or the trial size 25c., and is useful in a hundred ills in the family. Whether it's toothache, earache, headache, neuralgia, lame back or a cold, Nerviline will cure just as readily as it will cure rheumatism. For family use nothing equals Nerviline.

WHAT A LIBERAL PAPER IN HIS HOME TOWN HAS TO SAY OF MR. R. J. SODEN

An Old Midland Boy Nominated as Conservative Candidate in West Peterborough

(From The Midland Free Press.)

"Mr. R. J. Soden, an old Midland boy, has received the Conservative Nomination for the riding of West Peterborough. We need hardly say that though opposed to us in political creed we wish him success. Mr. Soden, while in Midland, was one of our most progressive citizens, and it was through him that the Canada Iron Furnace Co. was induced to locate its plant here. Always an ardent politician he took an active part in all municipal and parliamentary affairs, and while a staunch Conservative at all times, he still made many friends among his opponents on account of the clean, fair methods which he always adopted in furthering the cause of his party.

"He will make an energetic representative for any riding, and West Peterborough, if it elects him at the coming election, will secure a clean, just and aggressive member, who, from our knowledge of him, will not allow any consideration to outweigh his convictions of what is right in all matters affecting the province.

"Mr. Soden has made a clean-cut statement regarding his stand on the temperance question. He is even willing to go a little further than the Rowell policy of abolish the bar. He is in favor of doing away with the shop and club license as well. It is up to the temperance people of this Province to stand together, regardless of politics, if they ever hope to rid Canada of its greatest curse."

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

How to Take a Vacation on the Instalment Plan

By Winifred Black

Copyright, 1914, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

HOW about that vacation? Are you going to take one this summer? Why not?

You haven't time, money's too scarce, you don't know where to go? Summer resorts are always crowded with the very kind of people you hate and you'd rather be cool at home in a comfortable room than roast in the mountains in a clapboard squirrel cage?

Well, I don't blame you. So would I.

But about the vacation. You don't need so very much time, and hardly any money at all, for a real vacation, if you only follow the modern system and take it on the instalment plan.

I began my instalment vacation this very morning. I took four hours right out of the heart of my day, and I strung them on the chain of my whimsy and threw them away just to show that I could do it if I wanted to.

This morning I was worried. The gas bill was appalling; the telephone bill was an outrage, and as for the grocer, somebody ought to put that man into prison.

There was a hole in the knee of the little boy's stocking, and, if the little girl didn't have some new hair bows pretty soon, she really would be unfit for a civilized school.

The milk soured yesterday, and there was no decent cream for the breakfast coffee; the postman rang the bell and said he wouldn't wait at the steps [illegible] for me, and somebody stepped on the puppy's tail and he howled. The little girl said if she had to add another fraction she was going to cry, and why wasn't there any chocolate cake for the lunch basket?

How We Frolicked.

But all at once we thought of the vacation. We didn't have time, it wasn't the season, we hadn't planned for it yet, but we just reached out our hands and took it—four hours—right out of the heart of the busiest day of the busiest week in the busiest month of the year.

"Come on!" said I to the little girl. "Come on!" said the little girl to the little boy. "Come on!" said the little boy to the puppy, and "Come on!" said the puppy to the old slipper that is his bosom's pride and joy.

We forgot all about school, and all about bills and all about new hair ribbons and even all about the collar of the cat, and we went out into the back garden and had a glorious vacation.

We strung clover chains and crowned ourselves, and we made wreaths of early roses and crowned each other, and we dug a deep hole and set therein a deep dish full of clear water, and then we were very still and watched the birds come and take their dip.

"What do you know about this?" called the robin to his mate. "A regular beach right under the front porch of our house!"

"Come on in, the water's fine," whistled the goldfinch to his mate.

And there was a microscope, and we parted the stems of the lush grass and watched the goings on in the little world of the grass roots. Dear me, how busy they were down there.

The beetles were giving a party, but the brown ones and the black ones were not invited, and were very cross about it.

The ants were going to have a fair. They had the grounds all laid out and the plans and the specifications of the main buildings already in their hands.

The lady bugs were organizing a fire department. They were carrying around a petition written on a leaf, and Herr Johann Hoppergrass was practising his new sonata—well, well.

And nobody mentioned school, and we told each other all the pleasant things we thought and never said a word about the unpleasant things.

Everything Seemed Changed.

And at noon there was a picnic—a great pitcher of foaming milk and a plate of cookies warm from the oven—all the milk and all the cookies you wanted, and some in a saucer for the puppy, even if he had broken all the rules and gnawed up his wreath of roses.

And the cool shadows crept along the kindly earth and the leaves danced in the sunshine, and far and far away we heard the echo of the city, and people seemed to be walking to and fro and riding and driving just the same as usual.

We were on our vacation, four hours of it, right in the heart of the busy day.

And when we came home we said how cool and nice the house was, and how comfy the chairs seemed after sitting on the ground so long; and wasn't the milk good at noon. I don't believe it would pay to change milkmen after all; come to think of it, the grocer's bill wasn't so very bad—there was all that company last week.

Tingle-a-ling, some one rang up to give a pleasant invitation—what in the world would we do without the telephone. Here are the new magazines, we'll have a glorious read this evening; what a comfort these good drop [illegible] are, to be sure, quite worth paying for.

"Ring-ting—I wish I was a primrose.
A bright yellow primrose a-swaying in the sun."
"Nay, stay, I'd rather be an elm tree.
A tall stately elm tree."

Sang the little girl and the little boy in a merry chorus.

"But really," he said, "I'd rather be a little boy."

"Or I a little girl," smiled the one who sang with him. And I, who sat and looked at them and felt my heart warm to their merriment and joy, thought, "What is there after all so fine as just being a woman?"

But all this was after we had taken our vacation of four hours.

Useful Hints for the Housewife

By Ann Marie Lloyd

Kettles may be thoroughly cleansed by boiling a few potato peelings in them.

Never put parsley into water, where it quickly decays. It will keep much fresher if placed in an airtight tin or canister.

To clean lampglasses hold them over a jug of boiling water until well steamed, then polish with a dry duster. It is far less trouble than washing, and the glasses very rarely break.

To remove iron rust from linen or cotton goods, boil a small quantity of rhubarb and dip in that portion of the material which is spotted.

To serve up cauliflower whole and unbroken boil in a cloth, as it may then be lifted out of the saucepan without any detriment to its appearance.

The lives of gloves may be prolonged by placing a small piece of cottonwool in the tip of each finger and thumb. This will prevent the nails rubbing them into holes.

If screws, gas fittings, the side of bedsteads or anything else of the kind become tightly fixed and cannot be moved the following method will generally be found to loosen them. Pour a little oil on the tight parts, and then hold a lighted candle underneath until it is warm. You will then find that it is easy to separate or unscrew the fixed parts.

To clear beetles out of cupboards and larders sprinkle a little benzine over the boards, and it will kill the eggs as well as the insects.

There is often trouble in getting cream to whip up properly, but if a few drops of lemon juice are added it will soon become thick. Care must be taken not to add too much, as that would make it curdle.

A quick way to clean currants when making cakes is to put the fruit into a colander with a sprinkling of flour, and rub it round a few times with your hand. It is surprising how quickly the stalks are scattered and come through the small holes.

When washing and rinsing colored materials add a teaspoonful of Epsom salts to each gallon of water, and even the most delicate shades will neither fade nor run. Serge or merino dresses, which have been dyed black can be safely washed in this way without any risk of the dye running.

If an iron is allowed to get red-hot it will never retain the heat so well again. The flat-iron is badly abused if allowed to stand on the range and in a dusty place. Irons should be put away to cool as soon as done with, and then kept in a cool place away from dust till wanted again.

WHAT REAL PARTNERSHIP IS

Rozsika and Yansci Dolly.

Sisters Explain Their Rules of Team Work

By ELEANOR AMES

"WORK together and boost each other's game" is the basic rule for a successful partnership, artistic, social, business or matrimonial, as given by living examples of its application.

Living examples are always interesting. This one is charming, fascinating, bewitching. It takes the delightful form of two clever, ambitious, attractive and successful young women, the Dolly sisters, Rozsika and Yansci.

The Dollys are more than ordinarily good looking, they can dance like elves, and they have voices of unusual melody. The reason their word is valuable when speaking of partnerships is because they can speak from experience. They were once partners. Then they separated. They tried to rival each other. It is significant that they are again united, because they are young women of rare business acumen.

Rozsika was draping a rose pink chiffon gown on Yansci when I called on them. When she had removed the pins from her mouth she announced that, even in matters sartorial, a partnership was desirable.

"The gown I am making with Yansci for a model is for me, not for her. When she makes her frocks I take the place she has now.

"Seriously, more can be accomplished working with some one than by working alone. I cannot think of a single case where that would fail if tested. The trouble with most partners is that they do not know what a partnership really means.

"They are apt to think that the only necessary sharing comes when the profits are divided. We believe that is why there are so many matrimonial partnerships dissolved. The partners don't work together for the common good of the partnership and the happiness of each other. They are willing to split fifty-fifty when the receipts are considered, but they are not nearly so anxious to work equally hard for success.

"Now, we know what we are talking about, for there was a time when we believed we could make more money apart, that we would have all the profits for ourselves, that there wouldn't have to be any division when payday came around. And we are back in a partnership. It isn't half the fun working just for your own self that it is working with some one else for the success of both.

"You get all the applause, and you know it is all for you, but you have to work a whole lot harder for it, and some way it doesn't have the same satisfying ring that it does when you share it.

"And, would you believe it, both Yansci and I never had a pleasing gown while we were separated. We had to depend upon dressmakers, and they flattered instead of giving their honest opinion as to the becomingness of what we wore. We design all our clothes. Who should know so well how to dress you, so you may express yourself, as you?

"As for the boosting part of the partnership, it is part of the obligation. It ought to be written into every legal partnership—the first clause of the contract. 'Thou shalt boost thy partner's efforts' at least openly and before the world. No team can get ahead and pull the load to the top of the hill unless it will pull together, each with a will working for the same object."

Best Ways to Avoid Tan and Freckles

Special arrangements have been made with Senorita Lucrezia Bori, the famous prima donna soprano, who has created a wonderful impression in Europe and New York on account of her remarkable beauty and artistic attainment, to write for this paper a series of articles on beauty. There is probably no authority her equal in giving the newest and most approved methods of attaining and preserving "the divine right of woman."

SUNBURN and freckles — the kisses of summer sun and breezes — and loud lamentations from the victims.

And yet, my dear girls, you should have taken care not to get either burned or freckled. Didn't you know by the experience of past summers that the inevitable penalty of exposing your skin to the direct rays of the sun would be to give your face the hue of the boiled lobster and bring out a fine freckle crop?

It is one of the cases where the ounce of prevention is worth the pound of cure. Really, I haven't a whole lot of sympathy for you or patience with you for getting all burned up, and I hope the smarting you endure will make you remember and take care in future.

If you have already suffered sunburn, please write down in your memory against future need that the safest and best remedy for a face already burned is hot water. Apply cloths wrung out of hot water, as hot as you can endure it, for an hour or more, until the heat of the burn has been withdrawn. Then carefully apply some soothing cream and powder, and be more careful the next time.

If you fear sunburn, try to prevent it by always rubbing some cream into the skin before going out, and dusting it with powder and wearing a veil. The loose chiffon veils are as alluring as they are protecting.

I know dozens of rules for cold creams which I might give you for use, but of them all the simplest is the best. It has lettuce for its base. Pour boiling water over the lettuce and let it stand, then squeeze it through a jelly bag till the juice is extracted. You will need two ounces. Add it to four ounces of almond oil and an ounce each of white wax and spermaceti which have previously been melted in a double boiler. Perfume with a drachm of violet extract.

One of the necessary things to remember during the summer is the nightly face bath with warm water and the purest soap you can find, and the following cold water dash. This will keep the pores free of effete matter and dust and make the skin firm.

I think it is better to forget all about rouge in the summer time, even if one uses it in winter. The rouged cheek has a most unattractive habit of turning purple when the sun heats the blood, and almost every one has enough color when the warmth of summer comes—unless she has too much, in which case my warning is not needed.

Witch hazel is splendidly comforting in cases of sunburn. Soft linen cloths—bits of old handkerchiefs—wet in witch hazel and laid on the sunburned face after the hot water treatment will give much relief.

Another warning well to remember in warm weather is to be careful in the choice of face powder. The simplest is best. Fine rice powder with the dainty perfume of orris root is better than any other. When the face becomes heated and perspires, any poisons in powder may work havoc with skin health as well as beauty.

Some cooling toilet vinegar is another pleasant toilet preparation for summer. Mme. Bernhardt uses one made of half an ounce of tincture of benzoin, a pint and a half of triple rosewater and two drachms of vanilla. When you prepare it, mix the tinctures first and then add the water carefully so it will be a perfect milky blend instead of being curdled.

For freckles there are many remedies—and some of them are very bad. Lemon juice is safe and will lessen their conspicuousness if persisted in, but here's a surer remedy and one which is harmless: Four ounces of lactic acid, two ounces of glycerine, one ounce of rosewater. Apply several times daily with a bit of absorbent cotton.

Secrets of Health and Happiness

Why You Have Corns; Loose Shoes Best Cure

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins).

DR. HIRSHBERG

IF a third of six were three, what would a fourth of 20 be? This ancient arithmetical conundrum was propounded to a coterie of City College and high school students by a Brooklyn father.

His chuckle at the discomfiture of the victims was augmented into a hilarious guffaw when a boy who had never gone to high school, but had trained in a technical trade school, quickly answered this simple, mental problem.

Analogous to this is the answer to the query: "What is a corn?" Everybody knows what you mean by the word, because ninety-nine and nine-tenths of mortal men have them.

So sensitive is human flesh to physical insults that the picturesque language of the street has incorporated the word in a metaphorical sense into English.

To step on some person's corns means to infringe upon his right, to hurt his feelings, to embarrass him in some way.

What is everybody's business is nobody's business, therefore what every one knows remains in the limbo of unknown things.

Who Is to Blame?

Upon the heads of mothers, guardians and others who select the child's shoes, as well as the smooth, impatient salesman, must rest the blame and discredit for the creation of that modern bane of civilization—the corn.

Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, the Hebrews who tramped miles in the wilderness, Caesar and his legions, Agamemnon, Xerxes, the Persians, and all the ancients had as much personal knowledge of corns as they did of wireless telegraphy and the Panama canal.

Sandals, barefeet, loose, soft, nonleather shoes worn in childhood's happy hours, instead of the tight, Chinese type of pedal incarceration, are the great preventives of corns.

Looked at under the lens of 1000 times magnification this little torment of the flesh is a horny mountain of inlaid layers of lamellae of crescents. So to speak, a corn is like an ice cream cone—in shape—of course—which has been built up, stratum by stratum, by tiny new moons of skin.

If you were able to break up the horny hill of your little toe—or even a soft corn—you would have a multitude of little crescents made of semi-transparent, hard epidermis. Just as a bricklayer builds a wall, nature has constructed the miniature crescented units that go to make up a corn.

Corns are to the civilised, human foot what the Little Old Man of the Sea was to Sindbad the Sailor. Once they are inflicted upon your parts of speech and your anatomy they are hard to be rid of.

Some Approved Cures.

Radically, they may be removed by a surgeon, just as any other kind of an excrescence or tumor, mole or wart is extirpated. Most sensitive souls, however, regard the lancet and the scalpel as an abomination. Ancient superstitions still survive.

Large, wide, loose and well ventilated footwear are excellent as prophylactics and as cures. White canvas shoes and sandals, to run barefooted, or to wear pliable materials cast out the painful pressure of a corn.

Most of the justly popular corn plasters, corn lotions, corn applications and similar remedies contain salicylic acid, collodion or some drugs relative of these.

Curious to tell, many chiropodists, pedicurists and foot doctors who flourish in parlors, hotels, offices and Turkish baths know little about corns. Indeed, many of them do more harm than good to the feet. They never disinfect the skin of the corn, or even sterilise their instruments before assaulting your irritated toe.

A physician trained in aseptic methods should remove your corn for you, as well as assume general charge of the hygiene of the feet. Unluckily, most doctors have shunted this unpleasant duty.

This has driven even wise people into a Sargasso sea of trouble. Infections, blood poisoning and worse things have been the upshot. It is the proper function of surgical medicine to treat corns. Doctors who avoid this plain dictum are guilty of felonies against the public weal.

This may be due to faulty digestion, to anaemia, to tissue defects of many sorts, to constipation, to bile, bladder inflammations and so on. Avoid starchy, sweet, fried and seasoned victuals. Drink as much water as possible.

PETER'S ADVENTURES IN MATRIMONY

The truth about "the girl in the case" distinguishes this new series by Miss Dalrymple. Her character studies will not appear unfamiliar to the majority of readers, who will follow the fortunes of "Peter" with interest.

To Economize—Later.

LEONA DALRYMPLE

I HAD figured that with careful economizing we could manage the additional $15 a month of rent. I was to learn very soon that there were other items of expense growing out of that excess of rent, or rather growing out of the reasons for the excess of rent.

For one thing, we had to dress the apartment up to fit the forty-five a month and Mary's pride in the locality. One can't live in a neighborhood of the elite without feeling the pressure of the tide. Secondly, we had to buy more furniture. The little cottage in which we had begun our married life had merely had six rooms. The apartment we had just left had also had six. This palatial place had seven, and all fairly large ones.

Our rugs didn't fit. I was for eliminating the telephone as one way of economizing. Inasmuch as Mary was just across the street from her mother, and I could use the office 'phone, but Mary was scandalized, and thought it looked cheap. We kept the telephone.

I must confess that we had a most attractive place when we were at last settled, but I couldn't for the life of me forget that we were committed to $15 more a month, that we had been under considerable expense moving, and that we had bought [illegible] worth of furniture on the instalment plan. Likely my mind is of the vulgar, sordid sort. I know it must be by the way my mother-in-law glanced at me when I made some comment on expenses.

Mary happily ignored the financial side.

"It's just this way, Peter," she explained. "If I have anything unpleasant in the back of my mind I simply try to forget it. Therefore I'm not going to think of the extra fifteen a month or of the [illegible] worth of furniture. We had to have it, and why worry?"

"If you don't think about it once in a while," I said, "you won't economise, and I might just as well say now that we've got to economise and do it thoroughly."

Mary laughed and kissed me. She was in radiant good humor. It must be a pleasant sensation to spend somebody else's money and let him do the worrying. That's just what many a wife does, and feels aggrieved if you ask her to share the responsibility of making both ends meet. I could plainly see from Mary's care-free air that the happy task of meeting expenses was to be my problem—just as in her mother's home the problem was always her father's.

I am a great fool. Mrs. Penfield is notorious for spending more than her husband can well afford. I am beginning that way with Mary. It's up to me, I take it, to make Mary feel keenly that need of economizing.

"Peter," she said, after we had been settled about a week, "I'm going to have a wonderful lunch, and invite all the girls. You don't mind?"

"I thought we were going to economise."

"After that," said Mary. "You see," she went on naively, "I've heard that some of the girls criticised me because I didn't live on quite such a nice street after I was married as I did before, and now that they're all married and not one of them is living on half so nice a street as this, I just want to show them. Wouldn't you?"

"I—I don't know," said I. But I did know.

To me it was one of those petty, cattish little ways that make men laugh contemptuously even while they indulge the failings of their womenkind. Mary knew a luncheon for a number of girls would be expensive; it would likely tire her out, and she would get nothing out of it save the doubtful pleasure of rubbing it into a lot of girls who had been somewhat contemptuous and cattish in their attitude toward her.

Are women never big enough, or philosophical enough to let these things go by? Doesn't it cramp a woman's soul to pander to those feminine impulses we none of us understand? Woman is subtle, to be sure, but the subtlety is not always to her credit.

Anglers Hook Gulls

Owing to the recent cold weather food for sea fowl has been so scarce that in the Deal district several gulls have been caught through seizing the bait of anglers as the lines were thrown into the sea. In one case a gull thus hooked and released returned and tried to steal from the boat the sprats which were being used for bait.

You wash dishes about two hours every day. That's one hour wasted!

Dishes get dirty, greasy and sticky and soap will not clean them. Soapy dish water merely cleans the surface; it doesn't dig into the corners and drive out the decayed food particles.

Gold Dust is the sanitary dish washer. It not only cleans the surface, but digs deep after hidden particles of dirt and kills the germs of decayed food which ordinary dish-water overlooks. Gold Dust sterilizes as well as cleanses.

Besides doing the work better than soap or any other cleanser can, Gold Dust will save just half the time you spend in washing dishes.

Gold Dust is sold in 5c size and large packages. The large package means greater economy.

Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia nervous prostration, melancholia hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulveney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them cannot imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, heat aches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ½ of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution, have very little distress.

STATISTICS PROVE NINETY-SEVEN PER CENT OF CANADA'S POPULATION IS INFESTED WITH THE GERMS OF CATARRH

This disease is most dangerous owing to its tendency to extend to the Bronchial tubes and lungs, where it causes Consumption. Unfortunately the people have had faith in sprays, ointments and snuffs, which can't possibly cure, and in consequence catarrhal disease has become a national curse. Science is advancing every day, and fortunately a remedy has been discovered that not only cures but prevents Catarrh. This new treatment "Catarrhozone" has sufficient power to kill the germs of Bronchitis, Catarrh and Asthma. It contains pure pine essences and healing balsams that go to the remotest part of the nose, throat and lungs, carrying health-giving medication to every spot that is tainted or weak. You don' take Catarrhozone like cough mixture—you inhale its healing vapor at the mouth and it spreads all through the breathing organs, soothing and curing wherever Catarrh exists. This is Nature's way of supplying the richest balsams, the purest antiseptics known to science.

A sneezing cold is cured in ten minutes. A harsh cough is eased in an hour, the most offensive catarrh is thoroughly drawn from the system.

For Asthma and Bronchial irritation nothing can equal Catarrhozone—every physician and druggist says so, and we advise our readers to try this treatment if suffering with any winter ill. The complete outfit costs $1.00, medium size 50c. at all dealers.

This property is just west of the Dingman Well and is conceded by Oil Experts to be one of the best locations for oil producing in the district. The first Well of the Company will be drilled on this property and a rich strike of valuable oil is anticipated.

COMPANY'S PROPERTIES:

The Southwest Petroleum and Development Company Limited, controls approximately 4,220 acres of Oil Lands situated South and West of the City of Calgary. The Company also owns the surface rights of the North One-half of Legal Sub-division Sixteen (16), Section one (1), Township twenty (20), Range three (3), West of the Fifth Meridian.

FIRST WELL:

The first well of the Company will be drilled on the above-mentioned Legal Subdivision, which is just west of the famous producing Discovery Well of the Calgary Petroleum Products Company, Limited, (the Dingman Company), and arrangements are being made to have this proceeded with.

The following are the Company's holdings, with details and locations: (1). The South One-half of Section Thirty-four (34), Township Twenty (20), Range Two (2), West of the Fifth Meridian. Three Hundred and Twenty acres (320).

(2). All of Section Four (4) Township Twenty (20), Range One (1). West of the Fifth Meridian, Six Hundred and Forty acres (640).

(3). All of Section Eleven (11) Township Twenty-nine (29), Range (6), West of the Fifth Meridian Six Hundred and Forty acres (640).

Maps may be consulted and further information secured at the office of the undersigned.

The Company's properties are all carefully selected and were picked out at leisure by the original holders (from whom the Company has purchased) long prior to the recent striking of oil in quantity. The vendors of these leases are accepting approximately eight per cent. of the purchase price in cash, and the balance in stock of the Company, for their holdings. This is an evidence of their confidence in the value of the various properties as Oil producers.

The advantage is apparent of such a favorable agreement, as it leaves the Company free to apply incoming funds to development work and legitimate expenses.

DIRECTORS:

In Companies of this nature the standing and integrity of its Directors and Officers are more important if possible than in the case of any other kind of Company. A brief reference, therefore, to the personnel forming this Company's Board is given, viz:

STOCK EXCHANGE:

CURRENT SELLING PRICES:

The stocks of all Companies drilling in good districts are selling at a premium; some of them at many hundreds per cent. advance over the original price, and it is confidently expected that the shares of the Company will show a substantial advance immediately drilling operations are under way.

ENORMOUS POSSIBILITIES:

The enormous possibilities of big profits are apparent, and the Company has a Board and Executive composed of men of undoubted integrity and ability. The Company's lands are carefully selected, and apart from the necessary cash disbursements for securing leases and other moderate legitimate expenses, the shareholders' money will be expended for the purpose for which it is subscribed, viz., the drilling and development of their properties.

MR. SODEN THE BEST OF THE ARGUMENT

gether, for Rowell's policy covers only bar and club licenses.

Where, may I speak, is the fairness of the temperance organization, or of Mr. Pogue in stating that Mr. Gillespie favors the abolition of the shop licenses?

Furthermore, Mr. Gillespie has not yet answered my question propounded in my address at the Opera House, "Is he (Mr. Gillespie) if returned prepared, as in duty bound by his pledge, to move an amendment to his leader's policy, insisting that the shops be included with the bar and club licenses?" This is his manifest duty seeing that he signed for the abolition of shop licenses.

I have made my position on this question as plain as any reasonable common sense elector could desire. I have not moved to the extent of a hair's breadth from my original position, yet I am condemned by men like Mr. Pogue while Mr. Gillespie is allowed to drop the most important item in the statement which he signed without a word of protest from these same individuals.

Trusting that you will give this space in your columns, I remain,

Yours truly,

R. J. SODEN.

"No freaks will be allowed on the exhibition midway this year. That is hard luck, as we intended to make a lot of money exhibiting the Rowell "Abolish the Bar" policy.

VOL. XLI, NO. 140 FRIDAY MORNING, JUNE 19, 1914 PRICE TWO CENTS

LIBERAL MEETING LAST NIGHT DRAWS HUGE CROWD

A Capacity House Enthusiastically Welcomes Mr. Rowell, the Liberal Leader, And Mr. G. G. S. Lindsay, K. C. of Toronto---Hundreds of Ladies Present--Flattering Reception of Mr. Geo. A. Gillespie, the Local Candidate--Mr. Rowell's Policy for Shop Licenses--Municipal Franchise for Married Women.

The mass meeting in the Opera House last night in the interests of Mr. Geo. A. Gillespie, the Liberal candidate for West Peterborough, was attended by a huge audience, even the gallery being crowded. The first gallery was filled with ladies, who thus publicly demonstrated their keen interest in the "Abolish the bar" policy of Mr. N. W. Rowell, K.C., the Liberal leader and chief speaker of the evening.

The stage was well filled with representative Liberals of West Peterborough riding.

The Grand Opera House Orchestra discoursed appropriate music during the evening.

A banner appended to the asbestos curtain characterized Mr. Rowell as "the Lloyd George of Canada."

Mr. J. J. Hartley, president of the local Liberal Association, made a very capable chairman.

The entrance of Mr. Rowell was the occasion for quite a flattering ovation.

The speakers carried the big audience with them and demonstrative endorsation of their utterances prevailed. But one dissenting voice was heard, and Mr. Lindsay opined that the owner preferred liquor rule to advanced legislation.

Mr. Gillespie declared that quite a few Conservatives were on the platform in support of the "Banish the bar" policy of the Liberal party.

G. G. S. LINDSAY, K.C.

G. G. S. Lindsay, K. C. of Toronto was the first speaker. He paralleled the Battle of Waterloo with the battle for the abolition of the bar now being waged in Ontario, and contended that now as in the days of old, the country expects every man to do his duty by voting for the Rowell policy of "Abolishing the bar"—Canada's greatest present-day enemy. Referring to the nomination of Mr. Soden by the local Conservative party, in place of Mr. E. A. Peck, our last legislative representative, Mr. Lindsay said that if Mr. Peck did not like the treatment meted out to him there is room in the Liberal party for him, whose platform, he said, is big enough for both Mr. Peck and the Hon. Adam Beck to stand upon (laughter).

He characterized the present Government as opposed to temperance, and having taken active steps to prevent the passage of the Canada Temperance Act and Scott Act whenever in question.

MR. GEO. A. GILLESPIE
Liberal Candidate for West Peterborough.

Continuing, the speaker suggested that an election had been called by the Government at this date because of dissensions in the party, and the anxiety of one Cabinet Minister to do up another. Turning to the financial phase of the campaign, Mr. Lindsay charged the Government with juggling accounts to hoodwink the electorate, and to use his own words, "having gone into the hole to the extent of $2,000,000," thus demonstrating themselves to be a government of deficits instead of one of surpluses. He approved of Mr. Hanna's prison reform farm, but regretted that it is run on extravagant lines.

Mr. Lindsay next criticised the government's policy in regard to the development of Northern Ontario, charging the administration with fin-doors, thus casting the constitution doors, thus casting the constitution to the winds. Of the $5,000,000 they were authorized to borrow for Northern Ontario's development, they sold he asserted, $3,000,000 of debentures abroad and diverted the money to other purposes.

GEO. A. GILLESPIE.

The Liberal candidate for West Peterborough, was the next speaker, and took the platform amid intense enthusiasm. He would not take up the audiences' time, he said, in attempting a lengthy address, as they had assembled to hear more important speakers than he. West Peterborough's Liberal candidate spoke well, although briefly and to the point. It is not his party's fault, he contended, that the temperance issue had been forced into politics; Sir James P. Whitney had been urged by thousands of Conservatives to adopt advanced temperance legislation, and he had refused. Mr. Rowell, however had endorsed the "abolish the open bar" policy, was keeping his pledge and his policy is my policy. (Cheers). The candidate here went on to say that on this temperance issue he had not changed his attitude one iota since nomination. Mr. Rowell is promising what he had been asked for by a big electorate; shop licenses can be handled by a local option vote. If that is not effective then legislation will be brought in to abolish shop licenses also. "I am in favor of the abolition of the three-fifths local option clause, and will vote with either political party for its abolition and favor a straight majority vote on every possible occasion in the legislature. I will vote with either political party on every possible occasion for the abolition of the open bar, club licenses, and all other legislation looking for the restriction and abolition of the Liquor Traffic." Briefly referring to other issues, Mr. Gillespie said both he and his party are in accord with Hydro-Electric operations. (Prolonged applause). Mr. Gillespie was not ashamed, he said, to have clergymen publicly supporting him on the vital issue of temperance.

MR. ANDERSON.

The Liberal candidate for East Peterborough, gave a brief but neat speech, in which he felt optimistic of victory for Mr. Rowell, and East and West Peterborough Liberal candidates on June 29th. Many Conservatives, he declared, are lining up behind him on the temperance issue.

N. W. ROWELL, K.C.

Mr. N. W. Rowell, K.C., was accorded an enthusiastic reception on rising to speak. He referred in kindly terms to Mr. E. A. Peck, saying that while he and Mr. Peck were in opposition sides, neither has said an unkind word to the other. "We have had no more courteous a gentleman in the House than Mr. Peck.

Referring to the present campaign, he asserted that there is a great uprising for advanced legislation in the province, and especially so in support of abolishing the bar, by both Liberals and Conservatives alike.

Regretting the decline in rural population, the speaker advanced that we are bound to have large expansion in this industrial life of this province; the tendency of all cities is to grow, and such growth must continue with the increase of industrial operations. This brings us face to face with an industrial problem which must be met by legislation. With the high cost of living, the average workingman finds it impossible to buy a home, maintain his family and lay by for contingencies. In a country like Ontario it should be possible by legislative adjustment of conditions for a man to earn such wages as will, assure he and his family present and future surely against want. It is incumbent upon the powers-that-be to enact such legislation as will better the conditions of the country's toilers. Anything that can be done to improve the well being of the toiler is for the whole community good. One of the first steps in this direction is to have a Cabinet Minister who will study conditions and promote legislation in the interest of the working classes. (Prolonged applause). The present administration is fond of referring to their Workmen's Compensation Act. Why, if they had had a minister of labor worth his salt it would not have taken until 1914 to discover a Workmen's Compensation Act. (Laughter). If we are returned to power, continued Mr. Rowell, we will appoint as Minister of Labor a man in sympathy with the needs of labor, and see that such provision is made that, no honest workman suffers dire distress and he and his family lack the necessities of life. (Prolonged cheers). We will create a department to introduce a new era for toilers, so that the average workingman in Ontario has the best chance of any man in the world.

Turning to the tax reform issue, the speaker promised to put in the statute book such legislation as will shift the burden which falls upon building improvements to land, so as to remove the present handicap to thrift and discourage to some extent the holding of land idle. Mr. Rowell here went at length into the temperance issue and contended that every man interested in the social and moral progress of the race must recognize the menace of the bar, and be prepared to battle for its abolition. He here gave a history of the abolition of the bar question, and asserted that Church of England Bishops, the Presbyterian Church, the Roman Catholic Church, Baptists and other religious denominations endorsed the policy for abolishing the bar, the treating system, drinking in clubs, and the imposition of such other restrictions as would curtail the liquor traffic. In 1912 Sir J. P. Whitney was asked to adopt such a policy but refused. The Liberal party, however, have decided that the scheme is a good one, and have adopted it as their policy, to the end that every hotel and club license may be wiped out, and wiped out for ever. We propose to deal with shops in a different way; they will come under the local option act, with further restrictions; we promise to eliminate the three-fifths local option clause, leaving the question to a straight civil majority vote. We propose to make local option privilege in a county so wide that any majority vote may wipe out all stray village liquor shops in that county. We will go further and give the married women in this province the municipal franchise, which will tend to assure the carrying of local option wherever voted on.

The Liberal leader here referred to the Conservative Government's claim that they had gone as far as public opinion will endorse re temperance as being inconsistent inasmuch as they criticise him because he has not gone far enough in regard to shop licenses. There are men who do not approve of total prohibition, but are hand in glove with the Liberal policy for eliminating bar and club licenses. These men will work for and vote for the present policy, which if carried, the speaker contended, will together with wider scope for local option and other restrictions in regard to shops, make for ultimate abolition of the liquor trade entirely.

Mr. Rowell here went on to say that Mr. Hanna is somewhat disturbed over a press report attributing to Mrs. Rowell a statement made in London, to the effect that this was the only one chance that people would have to deal with this abolish the bar issue. That report is absolutely false. In the first place, my wife was not in London; in the second place she did not make a speech and she did not say anything of the kind. Mr. Hanna need not be disturbed at all. It will never be necessary for me to answer this question, because on the 29th of June we are going to wipe out the open bar. "I have been against the bar all my life and will continue so until the end." (Applause).

The speaker here denied that he is in favor of the shop license and declared his hope for an ultimate abolition of the liquor traffic entirely. He pledged himself that under his

IMPERATOR IS SAFE IN PORT

False Report Said That German Liner Had Gone Ashore

London, June 18.—False reports that the Hamburg-American liner Imperator was ashore on the Isle of Wight caused great uneasiness here to-day until the company issued an official denial explaining that the liner was still in Southampton harbor. She will not sail until late today.

Later it was declared the report of the Imperator accident probably was caused by the running ashore in a fog of the North German Lloyd steamer Buelow near Portland. The Buelow, a steamer of 6000 tons net, was en route to Hamburg from Yokohama.

PROMINENT TEMPERANCE MAN IS AGAINST ROWELL POLICY

Mr. J. D. Flavell Speaks Upon Methodist Conference Advocating Whitney's Platform

AN EXAMPLE WORTHY OF IMITATION

In South Wentworth the candidates are setting an example in the way to conduct a campaign. Mr. Regan and Dr. Thompson don't hurl epithets and accusations at each other from a safe distance. No, they hunt in couples. They hire halls jointly, and together repair to the places of meeting to talk, each in his turn, to the sturdy Wentworth yeomanry. With them it is "Doc" and "Ham". When it's too late to drive home and hotel accommodation is limited they are bedfellows, and they say their prayers at opposite sides of the same bed before retiring. It is as though David and Jonathan were rivals for office. Neither of them really want to win, because he cannot win without beating his friend.

Mr. J. W. Flavelle, of Toronto, formerly of this city, at the Toronto Methodist Conference, was among the speakers who opposed a resolution endorsing abolition of the bar. Abolition of the bar, he considered, was not the best way of dealing with the liquor evil. There were other ways, but he did not desire to enter upon a discussion of the matter. In his opinion it was not the wisest policy for the association to endorse Mr. Rowell, whom he personally loved and respected. This is a sane view of the situation from a strong temperance man, and one who has for years taken a prominent part in temperance work and in the counsels of the Methodist church.

Hon. Thomas Crawford is another prominent Methodist and a life-long temperance man who objected to the Toronto Methodist Conference being turned into a political gathering by endorsing Rowell's policy. He insisted that the best method of furthering the temperance cause was by the extension of the local option policy in opposition to a policy of a direct campaign against the bar. The noise from the assembled ministers and laymen resembled an old-time political meeting when telling remarks had been made against the party in possession of the meeting.

STORSTAD'S COUNSEL SUGGESTS EMPRESS STEARING GEAR WRONG

He Was Told That C. P. R. Liner Almost Ran Down Another Vessel

Soden stands for the abolition of The Bar and The Shop and The Club Licences—

Gillespie for retaining the Shop and The Bottle. Which do you want ?

Quebec, June 18. The suggestion by C. S. Haight, New York counsel for the owners of the Storstadt, that the steering gear of the Empress of Ireland was not in proper order, and his promise that evidence will be called in this connection, formed the most important emphasis of this inquiry.

Mr. Haight declared that last night he was visited by James Galway, who declares himself to have been a quartermaster on the Empress. Galway then alleged that for five minutes, while the Empress was on her way down the river, her steering gear was out of order and the Empress had almost run down another steamer.

Mr. Haight made his suggestion when directly interpolated on the point by Lord Mersey after he had made a number of unsuccessful attempts to get corroborative testimony from Robert Liddell, third engineer on the Empress, but who knew nothing about the matter, because though he had been connected with the steering gear at one time, he had had nothing to do with it for the past eight months.

Only Just Learned It.

Lord Mersey, when Mr. Haight announced his suggestion, immediately enquired why questions about it had not been put to Capt. Kendall when he was on the stand, and Mr. Haight said that the information had only come to him during the past 12 hours and Edmund L. Newcombe, K.C., who is appearing for the Government, had promised that witnesses should be called and examined about this theory.

Chief Engineer Samson of the Empress, who took the stand after the point about the steering gear had been raised, said that it was in perfect order.

ANOTHER COLLISION IN FOG

English Channel—Two Boats are Collier Hit Coasting Steamer is damaged.

Cowes, Eng. June 18.—Badly smashed by a Hamburg-American collier, the Etruria in a night fog in the English Channel, the British coaster Copsewood arrived here early to-day. The captain of the coaster said his vessel was proceeding through the fog at half speed when the collier suddenly loomed over her in the murk and before it was possible to reverse engines the two came together with a resounding crash.

The Etruria was not badly damaged. She carried a crew of 60.

A big hole was torn in the Copsewood's hull and much of her bulwarks was carried away.

A BOMB FOR THE CZAR UPSETS EXPRESS TRAIN

Berlin, June 18.—Assassination of the Czar of Russia, according to special St. Petersburg dispatches which escaped the Russian censor and were received here to-day, barely failed yesterday. An anarchist plot to dynamite the ruler's train between Kishineff and the capital succeeded only in seriously wounding several passengers on the preceding train.

Family With the Czar.

The Czar and his whole family were near death. With the Czarina and their children, the Russian Ruler and his entourage left Kisheneff in two special trains. From Kasatin an ordinary passenger train preceded the royal coaches, according to the usual custom when a Russian Emperor takes his life in his hand to journey across the empire.

Near Tschudnow an explosion overturned the engine and derailed the coaches of the passenger train, several of their occupants being severely injured by flying splinters of the wreck, which were scattered for many yards when the dynamite exploded.

THE WEATHER.

To-day—Showers and unsettled.

POULTRY POINTERS

Young turkeys are of a delicate nature until they are fully feathered and have thrown out the red on their heads, which usually occurs at about three months of age. After that they are hardy and may be allowed unlimited range at all times.

When the hens have the run of the farm, which is common, many are disposed to make their nests away from the regular buildings, says The Weekly Witness. Unless they are to be allowed to set, much care is needed in locating these nests and gathering eggs. Indeed, it is best to confine the hens for a time to induce them to lay in the regular nests.

Immediately after dressing, poultry should be placed in ice cold water and allowed to remain there until all the animal heat has left the body. Failure to do this is very apt to cause the carcases to turn green in parts by the time they reach their destination.

Once a week at least disinfect the drinking fountains and dishes used by the poultry by scalding them in boiling water. Infectious diseases are spread very rapidly through feed troughs and drinking fountains.

A chicken never should be eaten the day it is killed. The tenderest fresh killed chicken will be tough immediately after the animal heat has left the body. In about twelve hours however, the muscles will relax and it then becomes acceptable for food.

LABRADOR'S INHABITANTS

This Coast Country Has Many Holiday Attractions

There are about 3,500 white people in Labrador who live there the whole year round, and about half as many Eskimos. Dr. Grenfell, whose name is always connected with Labrador, said that he did not know how the whites got there, but he did know that they prefer remaining there to going elsewhere. Some of them have gone forth into the world of houses and stucco and sighed for the bare rocks which were their homes, amongst which they played and where they lived a life which was absolutely free of the tax collector. Not a great deal was known of these people before the Deep Sea Mission went to the coast. The men fished in the summer and hunted in the winter; the women, in the absence of the men, lived in little bits of huts; they caught disease, and if nature was kind, they lived; if otherwise, they died. The only persons of their own class whom the doctors engaged in the task of helping these people meet are occasional summer tourists who visit Labrador. Dr. Grenfell is enthusiastic over the holiday attractions of this little-visited land. There is good goose and duck shooting, fine salmon fishing, and as for the scenery, he declared that the fiords "simply knock Norway out entirely."

Uses of Seaweed

Not useless when cast upon the strand are the dark masses of seaweed which you may survey at low tide at the seashore. On the contrary, these flowers of the waves have many uses. The broad, thick stem and flat leaves of the oarweed, when thoroughly dried, are used for making knife handles. The green and purple layers, better known as sea lettuce, are in parts used for food after being boiled down to a jelly. So is, too, another sea plant of a deep, dark, reddish hue, called the dulse.

From another, known as carrageen moss, size is obtained, which is used in the process of calico-making. Farmers also use it for fattening calves and thickening meal and potatoes for pig feeding. The long narrow leaves of the grass wrack, after being dried, form excellent packing material, as well as being used for bedding purposes for stock.

A Lumberman's Feat

A thrilling escape from drowning in Rainy River, near Fort Frances, Ontario, by catching hold of the antlers of a big bull moose, which was swimming across the river, was the experience of Clyde Buell, of Minneapolis. Buell was working at Fort Frances for a lumber company. He was out on a raft of logs. After striking a jam, the raft loosened, and Buell, clinging to a single piece of timber was carried down the river towards the rapids. He had given up hope when he saw the moose with its head and antlers above water swimming safely from the rapids. Buell let loose from his log and grabbed one horn of the antlers and shifted himself to the back of the animal and rode it to shallow water. The moose fought hard, but would sink beneath the water and soon gave up and swam ashore.

Our Point of View

Why does Mr. Rowell want to give the liquor shops a monopoly of the sale of liquor?

The Liberal candidate for South Bruce is Mr. J. A. Johnston, and the reserves his opinion of the Rowell temperance policy. Pretty soon we shall have a fine "honor roll" of Liberal candidates who refuse to support the chief party plank. The Mail and Empire says that there are half a dozen of them already.

It Looks Like A Straddle

On the subject of bilingualism in the shools Mr. Rowell talks like a shifty politician. Evidently he is determined not to commit himself. He is angling for the French vote in the northern and eastern constituencies, and at the same time aims to weigh his words so that those voters who regard with anxiety the growing aggressiveness of the French in the northern and eastern counties will be soothed and not alienated.

Hon. Mr. Lucas, provincial treasurer, speaking at Woodstock two or three days ago, challenged the Liberal leader to define his position clearly on the question of bilingual instruction. At Cornwall Mr. Rowell accepted the challenge and made a statement. Here is the substance of that statement: "In every school in the province it is the duty of the state to see that every child receives a good English education; and, consistent with that, if the French-Canadian parents desire that their children should also in the schools study their own language, so that they may acquire a facility to use it efficiently and well, I can see no ground of objection on the part of any citizen of the province."

That is not a straightforward statement. It commits Mr. Rowell to no definite policy. Or it might even be held that it commits him to an impracticable if not an impossible policy. For—Bishop Fallon being the judge—it is impracticable if not impossible, with the educational facilities available in our public and separate schools, to turn out scholars who have acquired "a good English education," and who also have acquired a facility to use the French language efficiently and well. For many years bilingual schools have been conducted in Ontario French settlements, and in not one of them have such results been achieved as Mr. Rowell professes to be desirous of bringing about. On the contrary, the pupils in the bilingual schools acquire neither a good English education nor a good French education. These schools turn out misfits—educational failures.

But Mr. Rowell's statement is not so mu[illegible]ration of policy as an attempt to evade such a declaration. If he attains to power, will he abolish or retain Regulation 17, which makes English the language of instruction in all but the primary grades of the public and separate schools? Will he allow French to be the language of instruction in schools where most of the children are French? That's the question. If Mr. Rowell continues to evade it, there will be ground for suspicion that an understanding exists between him and the aggressive French-Canadian Educational association, which is the instrument of those ambitious Quebec racialists whose aim it is to Gallicize Ontario.

Chest Colds and Hoarseness Quickly Rubbed Away

"Nerviline" Gives Speedy Relief and Cures Over Night.

Got a cold?

Is your voice raspy—is your chest congested or sore?

If so, you are the very person that Nerviline will cure in a jiffy.

Nerviline is strong and penetrating. It sinks right into the tissues, takes out inflammation and soreness, destroys colds in a truly wonderful way. If the throat is raw and sore, rub it well outside with Nerviline, and use Nerviline as a gargle diluted with warm water. Just one or two treatments like this and your voice and throat will be quite normal again.

Just think of it—for forty years the largest used family medicine in this country—Nerviline must be good must quickly relieve and cure a hundred ills that befall every family. Try it for earache, toothache, coughs, colds, sore chest, hoarseness and muscular pains in every part of the body. Large family size bottle 50c.; trial size 25c. at all dealers.

CAUTION AT LEVEL CROSSINGS

High Court Says Responsibility Not Entirely With Railway

"Stop, Look, Listen."—In these three words might be summarized a tip handed out to the general public by Their Lordships of the Court of Review, in disposing of a level-crossing case at Montreal. In fact, the whole judgment might be condensed into these three words for the judges confirmed the finding of the lower court and dismissed the plaintiff's action with costs.

The case arose over an accident which occurred at a Papineauville crossing when Joseph Boyer was run down and killed by the Montreal-Ottawa train. The victim was driving a team of horses and an empty rig down a steep hill leading to the tracks. There was nothing to obstruct his view, and the train was the regular express, with whose scheduled movements the victim was familiar. He did not notice the train until he was on the track and until the locomotive was only a few feet away. The inevitable happened. He was mangled. The widow sued.

Their Lordships' ruling regarding the duties incumbent upon persons making use of level crossings might be summarized as follows: A person approaching a railway crossing, knowing it to be such, must know, at the same time, that he is confronted by an ever present possibility of a train passing; he must furthermore know that such train has a right to pass such crossing—possibly as good or even a better right than he has to cross; he must know that the crossing of the train may be fraught with danger to himself; in the presence of this possible danger, common prudence, not to say common sense, render it incumbent upon that person to take every precaution; if he fail to do this and if he run into the train—instead of having the train run into him—well, then, so much the worse for the person; he alone is responsible for what occurs.

Where Liquorice Comes From

Most of the familiar liquorice-root comes from Syria. It is gathered and piled into great stacks, where it remains until it is thoroughly dry. It is then taken to the factory to undergo certain processes. The finished product is used for flavoring confectionery and beer, as well as entering into the make-up of many brands of tobacco. Some idea of the extent of the industry may be gathered when it is stated that, on an average, 8,000 tons of dry liquorice-root is shipped from Aleppo annually while Bagdad yields another 6,000 tons, Antioch 4,000 and Damascus 500 tons.

THE LIQUOR QUESTION.

Editor Morning Times.

Dear Sir.—It has pained me greatly to read in your valuable journal that people can be found in Peterborough who will say that they are temperance people, but that they are in favor of a policy of keeping the shops and the distilleries going. We all know that we are forbidden to compromise with evil. It is a sad thing in more ways than one. "While their hearts are far from me."

MR. ROWELL'S POLICY

Editor Morning Times.

Sir.—The following taken from The Globe of June 16 is Mr. Rowell's policy concerning Bilingualism:

"Summing up the Liberal policy on the subject, Mr. Rowell repeated what he had already stated: "In every school in the Province it is the duty of the state to see that every child receives a good English education. If that were done—that is the law today, and the breakdown is in the administration of the law—I believe there would be no ground of complaint in any section of the Province; and consistent with that, if the French-Canadian parents desire that their children should also in the schools study their own language, so that they may acquire a facility to use that efficiently and well, I can see no ground for objection on the part of any citizen of the Province." This statement was received with hearty approval, and Mr. Rowell's subsequent remarks on the abolition of the bar also had a very favorable reception.

KELLY-SPRINGFIELD TIRES

A GOOD RESOLUTION.

The way was long, the wind was cold,
The car was new, but the tires old,
The driver sat and tore his hair,
And cursed himself in his despair,
Of punctures he had had a score,
He vowed he'd buy cheap tires no more.
And if he ever got to town
He'd get those tires of renown
That never leave you on the road
But bring you safe to your abode.
The ones that set the town on fire
The famous KELLY-SPRINGFIELD Tire.

Peter's Adventures in Matrimony

By Leona Dalrymple

Author of the new novel, "Diane of the Green Van," awarded a prize of $10,000 by Ida M. Tarbell and S. S. McClure as judges.

The truth about "the girl in the case" distinguishes this new series by Miss Dalrymple. Her character studies will not appear unfamiliar to the majority of readers, who will follow the fortunes of "Peter" with interest.

No. 93.

A Little Quarrel.

LEONA DALRYMPLE

"HAVE you been thinking about the apartment, Peter?" Mary demanded breathlessly the next night.

"What is the use of thinking about it?" I inquired. "It's entirely too much money, and we might as well make up our minds to it now."

"Didn't you even go see it?" reproached Mary. "Oh, Peter, you promised you would."

Now Mary has an ingenious habit of remembering promises that I never made, and when I flatly deny them she brings such powerful proof to bear that sometimes I'm persuaded in the face of an absolute inner conviction to the contrary. This time, however, I knew very well I hadn't promised, for I'd decided not to look at the flat as soon as I'd heard the price. That was much the easiest way out of it. If I'd seen it, then I'd likely fall for Mary's arguments, and I certainly couldn't not afford it.

We discussed the apartment all through dinner without making the slightest impression on Mary's desire to live there.

I was very soon to learn that a grown woman may still be a spoiled child when you try to combat something upon which she has fiercely set her heart.

First, Mary gave me alluring descriptions of attractive nooks, cosey corners and various other forms of gingerbread architecture which women love. Finding me cold and unresponsive, she began to speak of her ability to economise.

"I can easily save $15 a month," she said. "I'm sure of it, Peter. And that can go on the rent."

"If you can so easily save $15 a month," I ventured mildly, "why haven't you done it before?"

"Well," said Mary, lamely, "it wasn't necessary. When it's absolutely necessary to do a thing I can always do it."

"Well," said I, "it's absolutely necessary for you to abandon all hope of this apartment. We simply cannot afford it."

For the next few days my life was a burden. Mary sulked and Mary cried. Mary developed more phases of irritability than I would have deemed possible in a wholesome, sweet, pretty girl. We quarrelled every night.

"If you couldn't provide me with a—a suitable home," Mary said one night, in an angry burst of tears, "you shouldn't have married me."

"Your mother said that, didn't she?" I answered furiously and I knew by the hot color that flooded my wife's face that I had hit the nail on the head.

Now we all read humorous articles about the subtle tactics a wife adopts when she wants an extra gown, and I've read somewhere that a man enjoys the feeling that he is the governing power in his household, but I'll wager no self-respecting man likes to feel that he is withholding something upon which his wife has set her heart. I hate Mary to plead. I feel like a brute. I hate her to reproach, for I feel more like a brute, and I hate her to grow sweet and melancholy and talk of how nice it would be if she could do thus and so when I know I don't want her to.

Toward the end Mary began to go about the house with the martyred loveliness of a young nun in her face. It made me angry and it made me laugh. But that accursed flat was spoiling my days. I couldn't work so well, for I was constantly quarrelling with Mary. I couldn't enjoy my evenings at home, for my time with Mary was merely a chromatic scale of reproach and resentment.

And in the end I did just what every married man does when his wife makes up her mind, reasonably or otherwise. I gave in and we took the flat. And I know my mother-in-law was the power behind the throne.

Useful Hints for the Housewife

By Ann Marie Lloyd

ICED beverages survive in spite of the fact that the medical men agree Americans as a nation drink too much ice water and other ice cold fluids.

As long as nearly every one insists on slaking his warm weather thirst with "something cold and the colder the better," it is well to know how to concoct pleasing and harmless libations.

Here are some of the simpler cooling summer drinks as given by a woman who has made a success of a little wayside inn, where motorists stop for cooling beverages served on a vine-clad piazza.

Iced coffee sounds simple, but there is a way of making it which adds materially to its deliciousness.

Make black coffee, fairly strong, and add to it hot milk in the proper proportion, flavor with vanilla, sweeten to taste. Allow time before serving to have it well chilled. Serve in tall glasses with a tablespoonful of chopped ice in each glass.

There is only one way to make good tea, and that is to make it in the proportion of a teaspoonful to each cup of freshly boiled water. And don't let the leaves remain long in the water. When serving iced tea add a tablespoonful of lemon juice to each glass and plenty of crushed ice. There is a better flavor if the hot tea is poured over the ice.

"Honolulu tea" is made by adding two tablespoonfuls of pineapple juice to each glass of tea.

A simple way of making lemonade is to boil two cups of sugar and four cups of water until a rich syrup is formed, then add one cup of lemon juice and dilute with ice water.

Here are some other simple and palatable summer drinks which are easily prepared:

Two cups of sugar, two cups of water, one-third cup of lemon juice and two-thirds cup orange juice, two sliced oranges. Make the same as lemonade.

If you are giving a small party, or wish to have some refreshments for a few friends who may drop in for the evening, there is nothing more acceptable than fruit punch, and this rule will make enough for 25 persons:

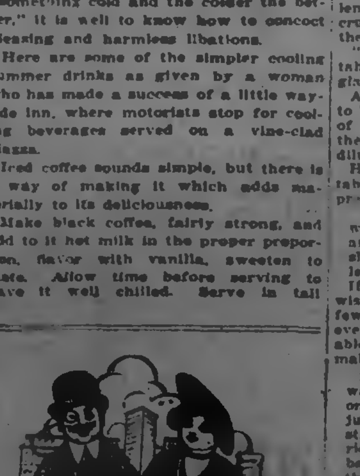
Four cups of sugar, eight cups of water, two quarts of charged water, one shredded pineapple, one cup of juice of various fruits, one box of strawberries, hulls removed and berries cut in quarters. Four sliced bananas, juice of six oranges and three lemons.

Boil the sugar and water together for five minutes and add the fruit, ice and charged water, and, if desired, a cup of maraschino cherries.

There are persons who are especially fond of currants, and here is a wonderful currant punch:

Boil together five minutes four cups of sugar and 12 cups of water, add two cups of tea and the juice and sliced pulp of six oranges and six lemons, and pour over a large lump of ice.

When some nourishment is desired as well as a cooling liquid, try egg and orange juice. [illegible] the egg with the juice of two oranges [illegible] thoroughly mixed. Serve very cold. This is sufficient luncheon for the [illegible] person who has no [illegible].

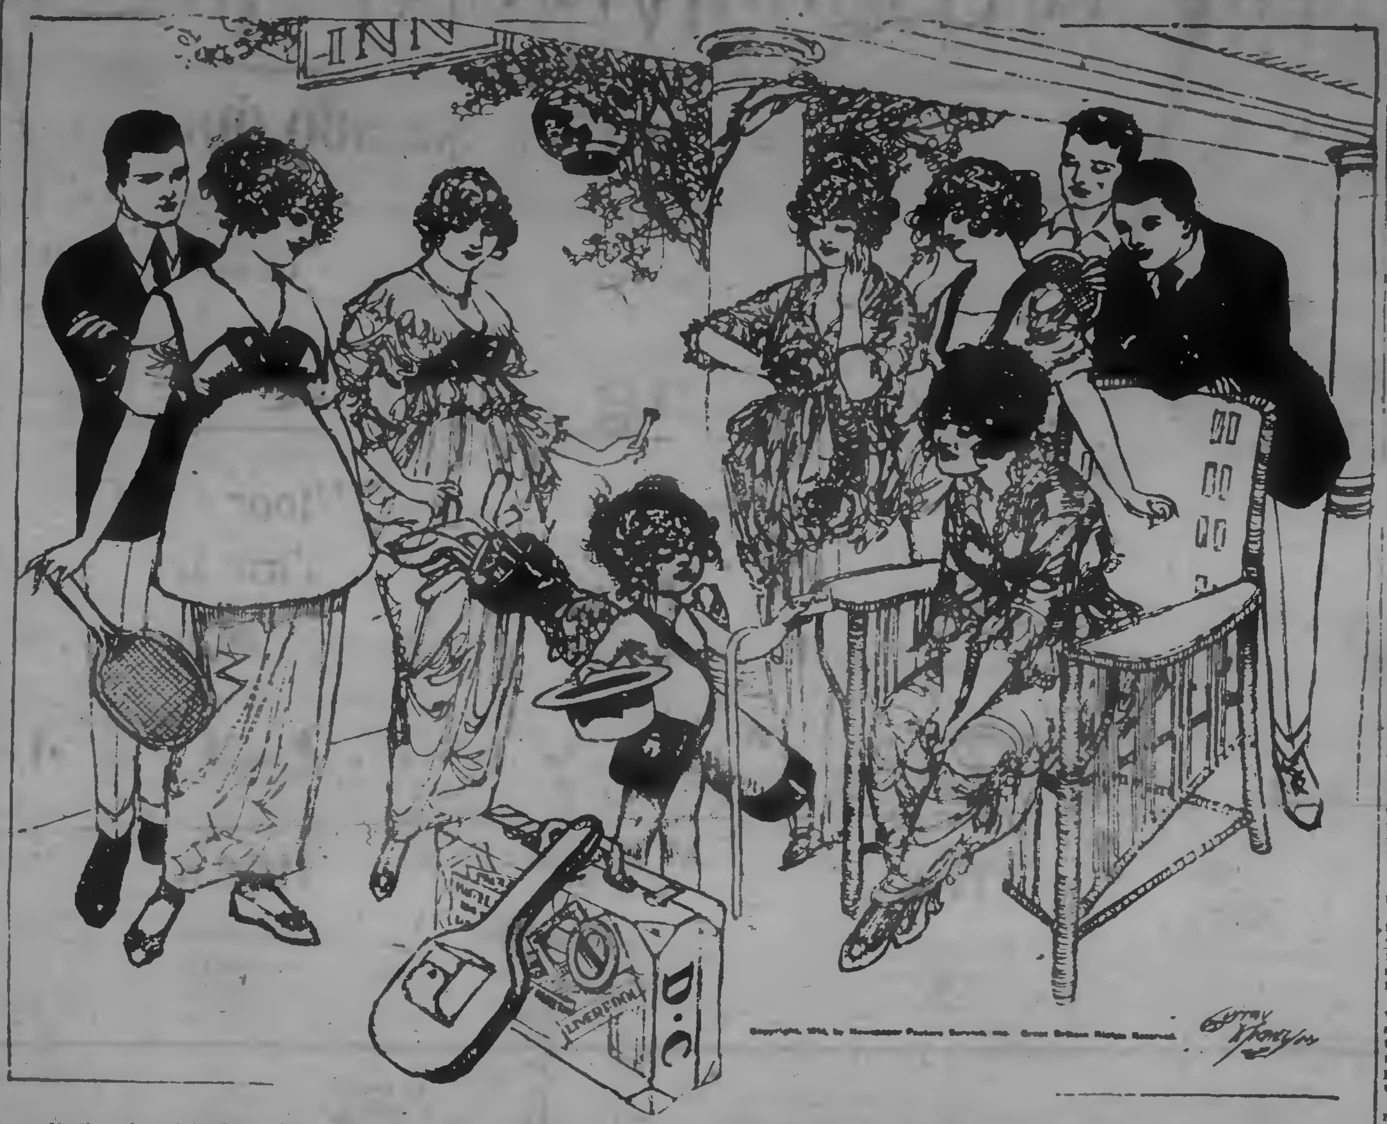


Not a Success.

"Why did Marie decide that she [illegible] become a war nurse?"

"She tried on a nurse's uniform and found that it did not suit her style of beauty."

"I WONDER WHO HE IS?" * By Michelson



OH, they do a lot of wondering, those girls at the summer hotel, and a mystery they can't solve, when it is a human mystery, must be beyond the skill of a Sherlock Holmes. But just suppose LOVE hove in sight—just suppose Dan Cupid, Esq., dropped in, bag and baggage—how many, do you suppose, would know him by sight? Would that "D. C." on the luggage mean anything to any one?

Of course, if he actually served notice with his card, it would be a different matter. Then what consternation! Good heavens! Cupid with us! Cupid, the Great Mediator, Magician and Madcap. Cupid, the Peace Maker and Pace Maker.

Great spender, Cupid—absolutely lavish. And he brings a lot of money trouble, for HE doesn't have to buy the engagement rings.

The Queen and the Magic Flower

By Winifred Black

Copyright, 1914, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Winifred Black

THE children had a little play last night. What a time there was getting ready for it. Such whisperings and rustlings; such huntings in the attic for old frocks; such ransackings in the bureaus for bright ribbons; such a gathering of gay flowers from the garden; such a weaving of pretty wreaths; such a making of fresh garlands; such a barking of the puppy as he ran to and fro taking what he thought was a highly important part in the preparations.

"The Flower of Love," that was the name of the play, and it was written and composed, plot, dialogue, music and costume, by the little girl who played the Queen of the Roses.

The first scene of the play was in a fairy wood, and somehow it did look more than mortal—the geraniums that fringed the balcony with their generous shower of pink and white and green were no ordinary flowers under the moonlight, and the honeysuckle that wreathed in the pergola was as sweet as honeysuckle could possibly be.

The Queen of the Roses was charming. She was as rosy as her name and her rich brown hair fell in a shower over her chubby little shoulders, and she wore a wreath of honeysuckle and roses.

All was fair in her bower, she told us in a delicious soliloquy spoken in a kind of dreamy sing-song that was like the fall of water in a fountain. But she was lonely—ever since she had visited the earth and looked upon the mortals there, she was lonely—for the young prince she had seen on earth did not remember her; and, oh, it was very hard to bear.

So she stretched out a chubby hand and beckoned and called, in a voice too honey-sweet for a mere mortal, to Huckleberry, and Huckleberry, appearing suddenly in the doorway, turned out to be a sturdy young man of five or thereabout, with a pair of rose-color paper wings which simply would not stay in place, much to Huckleberry's indignant discomfiture.

While he was gone there were all sorts of dances and things; but the Queen was merely irked by them. We knew she was—because she said so.

But Huckleberry came back at last, and he had a long tale to tell about his adventures in search of the flower of Love, we found afterward, but at the time all Huckleberry said was: "Queen, here's your flower of Love"—and, catching sight of the puppy sitting ruefully on a bed of honeysuckle, he snatched him up in a transport of diffidence and overwhelming stage fright and was off.

Then the plot thickened.

Prince Fairyfoot would have none of the Queen of Roses. She danced for him, then she sang—a trifle off the key, but, oh, in such dulcet tones. In vain.

Then did she steel her heart and while the Prince looked away from her at a perfectly ordinary little mortal in bobbed hair and a linen frock and stubby school shoes, the Queen of Roses touched him upon the eyes with the flower of Love—and in an instant Prince Fairyfoot was at the feet of the Queen of the Roses.

And then did soft music sound from an orchestra of combs, and Huckleberry sang outside in a voice like the clear carol of a robin: "Butterfly, butterfly, flysome and gay."

There was a wedding dance and then the curtain. The play was over.

Huckleberry and the mortal maiden ate ice cream very mortally, and the Queen of Roses and Prince Fairyfoot shared theirs with the puppy—and everything was gay.

Will they ever forget it, I wonder, the children who gave the play last night? I never shall.

Dear little mortal maid, how comfortably she crossed her stubby shoes and how valiantly she shook her bobbed hair and pretended that she didn't care when the Queen of the Roses took Prince Fairyfoot away from her.

And the Queen of the Roses—how will she fare when she really does go out of the fairyland of childhood into the real world to find a mortal for her mate?

And who will bring to her the magic Flower of Love; and when she touches the eyes of the mortal with the flower, will it be as it was in the little play?

Or will Prince Fairyfoot only pretend, for a little, and then will the Queen of the Roses break her heart—and go on living after all?

"Butterfly, butterfly, flysome and gay"—Oh, sturdy little lad, may all your hours of all your gallant life be flysome and gay!

How like they are to the flowers that dance in the sunny field—the children and all their lovely ways of thought. How should we live our lonely lives without them?

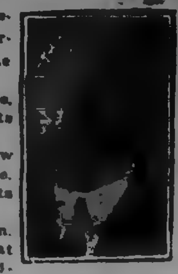
Secrets of Health and Happiness

If Your Face Is Lined, Your Habits Are Faulty

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins).



DR. HIRSHBERG

THE front part of the human head, made up of forehead, eyes, nose, mouth, cheeks and chin, is, perhaps, the most susceptible of all the anatomy to the outward expression of the inward emotions.

If you have a smooth, sleek, fat, expressionless face, you either have no live, aggressive, intelligible thoughts or there exists some sort of muscular paralysis.

The popular term, "an expressive look," proves how universally recognized is the fact that each little line, groove, fold and gutter is symbolic of thought habits and muscular habits.

Habit is the adjustment of the flesh to the reason. It is the subservience of living tissues to an impulse that came originally from without. The stimulation, the irritation, the whip or whatever it was that struck the eye, ear, muscles or skin sets up a train of fleshy activities.

These may cease, if the stimulus which started them is not repeated too often. If frequently repeated, these may be cut off, and continue without the source which first originated them.

Thus it comes to pass that a puckery, bitter, narrow, bigoted prejudice or thought makes a puckery, bitter face.

You may press and massage the face as you will, if the habits continue the lines remain still. Worn, harassed faces mean worrisome, wearing thoughts.

Just as the habit of squinting and squirming becomes a set, fixed look, so a chronic sneer is crystallized into a permanent set of folds and furrows upon the face.

These habits are the implacable enemies of oils, greases, unguents, medicaments and massage. The lines of sorrow, the gutters of pride, the ridges of vanity, prejudice and the green-eyed monster can never be rubbed away from without, however vigorous the masseur.

Notwithstanding this, it were better far to have a heavily furrowed flesh, which points with firmness to a mind far from serene, than to boast of a stupid smoothness, a waveless, placid face unstirred by living thoughts.

There are, forsooth, many beauties, who keep a ridgeless, waveless facial sea of bland calmness, who have vital thoughts and noble aspirations. These may often in error attribute their perpetual wrinkleless cheeks and chin to unguents or potions used.

Not so. It is their fresh and youthful mentality, their clean habits and sweet aspirations, their inner charm and harmonious thoughts.

Beauty with a bloodless conquest finds
A welcome sovereignty in liberal minds.

The reason you can tell a preacher from a pugilist, a Quaker from a prude, an old maid from a matron, is because their habits show through the light of the countenance.

Advice to Girls

By ANNIE LAURIE

Dear Annie Laurie:

Dear friend, will you please tell me if it is proper to speak to a young gentleman whom I have never been introduced to. I meet him every morning, and he looks at me as though he wished to become acquainted.

LITTLE BROWN EYES.

DEAR Little Brown Eyes: What a foolish little brown eyes you are, to be sure. Of course it isn't proper for you to speak to a man to whom you have never been introduced. It isn't proper, and it isn't sensible, and it isn't nice.

And there are all kinds of reasons to keep you from doing such a thing. What do you know about this man? Who is he? Where did he come from? How can you tell that he isn't just out of jail?

Who are his companions? What does he do for a living? Is he decent, is he honest, has he a proper respect for a nice girl? How do you know what he might say about you, or to you, for that matter. If you should speak to him he might tell some man you know about it and make fun of you, and the man you know would never really respect you again. Why should you take such a risk?

And there's a deeper reason than all this, my dear, a reason so hideous and so cruel and so wicked that I cannot even hint to you what it is.

You must not make any acquaintance with any man unless he is presented to you by some one whom you can trust—and, even then, it is best not to trust too far or too easily.

Annie Laurie

Miss Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. They should be addressed to her, care this office.

Great Novels in a Nutshell

Sir Walter Scott's
KENILWORTH

Condensed by
AUGUSTA SHELBY

THE appealing story of lovely Amy Robsart, with all its sweetness, its pathos, its tragedy, forms the motif for Sir Walter Scott's "Kenilworth," one of the greatest English novels ever written.

The time of the story is during the 18th year of the reign of "Good Queen Bess."

Amy Robsart, a beautiful and innocent girl, the daughter of Sir Hugh Robsart, affianced to one Tressilian, had disappeared with Richard Varney, Lord Leicester's rascally Master of the Horse. Varney was acting for his master, the Earl of Leicester, who had seen the winsome daughter of the Norfolk knight, and finally had been so carried away by her genuineness of character and her beauty, he had married her. It was impossible, in the light of Leicester's plottings and ambitions, that the marriage should be known.

Queen Elizabeth was not insensible to Leicester's cleverness and entertaining qualities and had been gracious enough to him to give him reason to hope that he might win her. As her husband, he would be the virtual King of England. And Amy stood in the way of his ambition.

Therefore, that their marriage might remain a secret, he hid her away in a gloomy old mansion, Cumnor Place, in Cumnor Village, near Oxford.

Here she was given over to the care and protection of an unscrupulous old fellow completely in the power of Varney.

Amy begged her husband to name the day when she might take her rightful place in his princely halls. Leicester told her the time would soon come, but at the moment it would spell ruin for him.

The Earl of Leicester planned to entertain the Queen with great magnificence at Kenilworth. The Queen demanded that Amy be present with her supposed husband, Varney. Leicester told Varney to use all means to keep her away. Varney determined to drug her. However, he failed.

When she arrived at Kenilworth she sent a message to Leicester. It never reached him. In the morning she met the Queen and, falling on her knees, begged protection from Varney.

"Protection from thy husband?" asked the Queen.

Amy denied that such a villain was her husband. "Who is?" demanded the Queen. "My Lord Leicester knows all," replied Amy.

Enraged that the "noblest lord in all England" should be so traduced, the Queen took Amy before the earl, who was the centre of a group of nobles, and asked an explanation, at the same time calling for his arrest for high treason. Amy fell to her knees and declared herself a perjurer, and the earl innocent of any wrong. This was alarming to the earl, and he resolved to part with Amy. Yet when he faced her and she had her arms about his neck, he promised to tell the truth and take the consequences. But Varney argued against it. He failed to move the earl till he told him that she was unfaithful, and had met Tressilian unknown to her lord. Then, jealous and maddened, Leicester agreed to her death.

Varney was quick to carry out the threat. Amy was spirited away back to Cumnor Place. Leicester, repentant, sent a messenger after Varney. He was shot dead. Amy, when she reached Cumnor Place, was lodged in a tower. The only egress was over a trap door, which would give way as one stepped upon it and the victim would be plunged to the lowest vault of the castle.

Then the plotters waited. They would not believe she would not try to escape, but she was waiting for her husband.

Tired of waiting, Varney imitated Leicester's call. In a moment a white heap at the depths of the vault showed how quick had been her response.

A moment later, Tressilian and Raleigh, whom the Queen had sent to Amy's rescue, broke in upon the conspirators. It was too late. Tressilian went mad with grief. Varney was found dead the next morning, an empty poison vial at his side. Years afterward the skeleton of Anthony Foster was found above his chest of gold, where he had fled for concealment and was trapped by a spring lock.

Gossip and Women's Clubs

Only one thing is fatal to the happy social life of any country community and that is gossip. If the ladies can not find in the wide field of housekeeping, chicken-raising, preserving care of children, public schools, music art, reading, public improvements, good government, health, sewing, entertaining and all other delightful household tasks, enough material to lift the meetings above petty personalities, then the little club, or whatever it is called, is doomed. Whenever gossip is allowed into any organization people will begin to break up into little cliques or circles or groups, and the whole thing falls.—Farm and Fireside.

GUARDING AGAINST EVIL EYE

Syrian child wearing charms to ward off evil.

That the evil eye may be visited upon their children is the especial fear of Palestine and Syrian mothers, and many "charms" are hung upon the little ones to ward it off. The more of these amulets a child has, the better mother it is considered to have! Two beads on the neck are supposed to be particularly effective. The rest serve as ornaments as well, and accord their small owners very much pleasure. They form the most important part of their costume.

DIAMONDS IN SAND DUNES

Laborers Search For Precious Gems on Their Hands and Knees

The greater part of the diamonds of Damaraland, South Africa, are said to be found in the narrow valleys between the moving sand dunes on a granite surface with its carpet of three or four inches of sand. In these flat places negro laborers, in bands from 10 to 50, with an overseer to every 10 or 12 men, crawl on their hands and knees over the sand in search of the gems, each one carrying a bottle in which they are dropped when found.

It is claimed that in one spot 20 negro laborers, working under two white overseers, picked up 60,000 karats of diamonds, valued at more than $20,000,000 in three days, and at a point about ten miles from Luderitzbucht two white men gathered over 8,000 karats, worth $300,000, in one afternoon.

One feature of diamond hunting in Damaraland that seems almost uncanny, lies in the circumstance that the same thoroughly searched area may be gone over again a few months afterward with an almost equally successful result as on the first inspection, proving that these gems are shifting.

The coast of Damaraland is like no other part of the world. For 500 miles the giant sand dunes, pushed unceasingly by the winds from the southwest, are piling up at the water's edge to the height of hundreds of feet, during the periods that the tide is out, to be undermined and overthrown when the sea returns. Some of the largest of these dunes have been shown to move as much as nine feet in 24 hours.

MINERAL WEALTH OF PERU

The Country Has an Abundance of Silver, Gold and Copper

Peru is generally conceded to be the third richest country in the world in the matter of minerals. Silver is the most abundant of the metals and is found in every section of the republic. In many places it is found in its native state, in deposits of greatest richness. It is said that between 1630 and 1824, the Jesuit priests took twenty-seven tons of pure silver out of a single valley, while other mines yielded hundreds of millions of dollars, even under the primitive methods of mining and extraction in vogue in the country.

Gold is found in several sections of the country, although this metal was not mined to any great extent before the conquest by Pizarro, the Spanish conquerors for some reason giving all their attention to the silver mines. Therefore the gold mines from which the native Incas derived their fabulous wealth were abandoned for three centuries or more, and only within recent years has there been a revival of mining for the yellow metal. The rivers of Eastern Peru all have gold-bearing gravel beds.

Mining for copper has proved a most profitable industry in Peru, the mines of Cerro de Pasco being among the famous copper mines in the world.

Toll of the Mother's Toil

How People Feel
When They Have
Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulveney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them cannot imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ½ of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution, have very little distress.

Prof. Mulveney's world-famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, sure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, is not disagreeable to take. One dose nearly always affects a cure. Further information free. Send stamped envelope, telephone Parkdale 4830, or call at 167 Dundas street, Toronto. Open from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

UNITED STATES FRIENDS OF IRELAND SEND OVER ARMS

Tullamore, Ireland, June 18.—Rifles and ammunition from America for the upholding of Home Rule in Ireland, if Ulster's contumacy makes force necessary, were reported to the police here to-day to have been landed in huge quantities along the Connemara coast on the west of Ireland within the last 24 hours. Strict search for the arms were started in the region here to-day by heavy details of the Royal Irish Constabulary.

Reports from coastguards to the authorities here were that the gunrunners landed the war munitions in one of the many ragged coves which line the Connemara shore, just as in former days the smugglers landed contraband. The ship was said to have been met by a large command of Nationalist volunteers which received the rifles at dead of night and hurried them off to places of concealment in the countryside. Doubt is entertained here that any of them will be recovered by the police or coastguards.

ANGRY SUFFS START FIRE

Glasgow, Scotland, June 18.—Fire as disastrous as any Glasgow has seen in years destroyed the Kingston docks here to-day, burning two vessels which lay alongside before they could be towed to safety. The origin of the blaze was not definitely known, but indications were that it was started by suffragettes

When the first alarm was given the whole land and harbour fighting force of the port was assembled and a desperate fight was begun to save the docks which were filled with goods of great value.

Every effort was vain, however, the firemen risking their lives without result. Fully a score of the fire fighters were overcome by great clouds of smoke which rolled up from the harbour front of the structures, engulfing the men who fought the flames in clouds of suffocating vapor.

No exact estimate of the loss was possible until later, but it was certain to run into hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Keep the Chicks Warm

Don't expect to be able to do justice to your chicks in boxes about the kitchen stove; have plenty of brooder capacity ready, and don't be afraid of having the brooders too hot if the chicks can go in and out at will. Keep a hen and her chicks in a nice sunny place out of the wind, letting her out only on warm days; give another one liberty to go and come at will, hustling for a living on cold, wet, windy days, the chicks following after chirping and crying to be cuddled; or try two hovers or brooders furnishing somewhat similar conditions, one a great abundance and one too little heat, and compare mortality. Piling a brood of chicks in a cold box is like putting twin babies in a cold bed and saying, "Now, kiddies, get warm;" they'll do it in time, but in the meantime, what?

RETIRED FARMERS UNHAPPY IN TOWNS

They Find Themselves Out of Their Element And Pine For Open Life of the Country

When the farmer sells out or rents his farm and moves to town with his family he is like a fish out of water, says the North-West Agriculturist. He has no fields over which to tramp and plan for the next year's crop; or meadows on which for years he has seen his cattle graze and the calves and colts grow and thrive. There are no cows to milk, no pigs to feed, no sheep to shear. In a word, he is idle, and idleness was never yet good for a man, rich or poor.

The times hangs heavily on the farmer's hands. He does odd jobs about the house, then he light his pipe and saunters down to the square. He sits in the bank for a while. He has a right to do that, he thinks, because he has deposited the price of his farm there. But it is a busy place, and no one has time to talk to him, so he goes over to some of the stores and lounges around a while. If he likes horses, you may find him sitting in front of the livery stable. He also takes an active interest in the arrival and departure of the trains, and you will find him at the station, eagerly scanning the passengers and the baggage deposited on the platform. Then he goes to the post office for the mail. The daily papers from the large cities interest him for a while, and if he is a talkative man he will voice his opinions on political questions When all this excitement is over he wanders back home and tries to put in the time until the chickens go to roost.

Unfortunately the retired farmer does not, as a rule, agree with the progressive spirit of the townspeople. He wants to live among them, but he does not care to become one of them. He very much disapproves of taxes for the benefit of the community. He does not care for public improvements. He can get along without electric lights or waterworks or paved streets or any of these new-fangled notions. For these and other reasons the retired farmer is not considered a valuable addition to a town. He is too selfish, too onesided for a live, go-ahead place. A curious thing about the matter is that the farmer who moves to the city is more than likely to have the experience of a shrub transplanted to uncongenial soil. It may flourish for a short time, but its life history is short. So with the man who has spent his best years out in the open. The cramped confines of town and city life are not his natural environment, and he fades and withers as do the plants—a few short years and he returns to the soil and becomes, not its tiller, but a component part of it. Better stick to the farm.

BLANKETING THE HORSE

Judgment Should be Used or Animals Will Suffer

There are horse blankets and horse blankets, all classes of horses and every kind of weather and condition in which to use them, but horses often are forced to suffer through their use, or rather misuse.

The common practice of blanketing horses along in the fall, when their winter coat begins to come in, to keep the animal looking "fine," is a source of, to say the least, discomfort to the animal; to keep a horse in a warm stable, heavily blanketed, and then work him throughout the day, without this "wrap," shows lack of judgment. No doubt a sleek coat can be maintained in this way, but it is rather hard on the horse. The use of heavy blankets under normal conditions cannot be condemned too much. Their place is for use in severe weather, where horses have to stand outside or in open sheds during the winter. For stable use a light sheet only should be used. Even during fall months, the horse, unless very hot, should receive only a light covering.

The heavy blanket, while it is invaluable to protect the horse in certain conditions, and should always be in a handy place on the farm ready for use, can be greatly abused and indiscriminate use can cause the horse as much or more discomfort than if it were taken away entirely. Blanket the horse for protection, and not for show.

administration no shop license will be issued in any community in lieu of any hotel license eliminated.

Referring to the map shown by Hon. Jas. Duff here last week, illustrating the growth of dry communities under the Whitney administration, he declared some communities were credited with having endorsed local option, which never had a license since the days walked the earth Then there are many license communities not shown on that map, which also does not illustrate the municipalities which would have been dry had it not been for the three-fifths handicap.

In regard to the church's attitude in this election, Mr. Rowell emphatically declared that he (Rowell) had taken up the policy of the churches and was helping them fight their policy of abolish the bar. He had pledged himself to that policy and was carrying out his pledge. And if the churches and their adherents left me to fight this cause alone they would lose the respect of their communities.

In conclusion, the distinguished speaker said that the present campaign is a fight of organized Christianity on the one hand and liquor on the other; and the issue is in the hands of the electorate to decide by their votes on the 29th, in protection of homes, and families and boys of this fair Province of Ontario.

Mr. Rowell resumed his seat amid enthusiastic applause.

After cheers for the King, the visitors and candidates the big meeting dispersed.

MR. SODEN HAS BEST OF THE ARGUMENT

His Reply to Rev. Mr. Pogue is Strong and Convincing—Makes His Position Clear on the Liquor Question

Editor Morning Times.

Dear Sir,—In today's edition of The Times appears a letter written by the Rev. Robert Pogue, headed "Mr. Soden's Stand."

In regard to this letter I would say, that the letter submitted to me for signature did contain the clause for the abolition of shops. It read:—

1. The Abolition of the Bar Licenses.
2. The Abolition of the Club Licenses.
3. The Abolition of the Shop Licenses.

This statement was signed by Mr. Gillespie.

I refused to sign it for reasons given in my address at the opera house, and instead gave a signed statement which was word for word with a statement which I made at the Conservative Convention.

Thus far Mr. Pogue has not misstated the facts, but when he says that I have not said publicly that I will vote according to my convictions he certainly does not attempt to represent statements as I made them, and evidently in the excitement at the Opera House, failed to consider what I did say, and has not since read my statement as printed in The Review of June 12th.

If he will read this statement he will find that I said: "I contend that the platform on this matter that I have adopted, viz.: the abolition of the bar and the shop and the club licenses is the platform which temperance men consider most advanced I have, therefore, a right if returned to Toronto to test the sincerity of Mr. Rowell and his party on the question of whether they themselves believe this measure to be the best, and should I be returned I will endeavor to see that Mr. Rowell and his party have an opportunity to say whether they stand for what the temperance people of this riding desire, viz.: Abolition of the bar and the shop and the club licenses."

In other words, in the above I have stated distinctly that it is my intention to force Mr. Rowell and his party to vote on the abolition of the bar, the shop and the club licenses.

If Mr. Pogue does not understand my statement as being to that effect he can understand it now as that is just my intention.

Further, in his letter, Mr. Pogue makes a statement which I have no doubt unknowingly to himself is not correct: He says, "Mr. Gillespie's statement is," "I am in favor of the abolition of the three-fifths clause. I will vote with either political party for its abolition, and favor a straight majority vote on every possible occasion in the legislature. I will vote with either political party on every possible occasion for the abolition of the open bar, club license, SHOP LICENSES and all other legislation looking for the restriction and abolition of the liquor traffic."

Mr. Gillespie did not say any such thing in his statement. I now give underneath Mr. Gillespie's statement as taken from H. B. Cowan's letter, dated June 13th and published in The Review. He states that "Mr. Gillespie has made his position clear in the following words": "I am in favor of the abolition of the three-fifths clause. I will vote with either political party for its abolition and favor a straight majority vote on every possible occasion in the legislature. I will vote with either political party on every possible occasion for the abolition of the open bar, club licenses and all other legislation looking for the restriction and abolition of the liquor traffic."

You will notice that there is not one word about the shop licenses, but that Mr. Gillespie has dropped them from his platform altogether, although he signed to have them included with bar and club licenses.

Besides this, each day in the columns of The Examiner appears Mr. Gillespie's photograph and underneath it this inscription. "Rowell's Policy is My Policy." This is signed "G. A. Gillespie."

Again, the shop is omitted alto-

gether, for Rowell's policy covers only bar and club licenses.

Where, may I speak, is the fairness of the temperance organization, or of Mr. Pogue in stating that Mr. Gillespie favors the abolition of the shop licenses?

Furthermore, Mr. Gillespie has not yet answered my question propounded in my address at the Opera House, "Is he (Mr. Gillespie) if returned prepared, as in duty bound by his pledge, to move an amendment to his leader's policy, insisting that the shops be included with the bar and club licenses?" This is his manifest duty seeing that he signed for the abolition of shop licenses.

I have made my position on this question as plain as any reasonable common sense electors could desire. I have not moved to the extent of a hair's breadth from my original position, yet I am condemned by men like Mr. Pogue while Mr. Gillespie is allowed to drop the most important item in the statement which he signed without a word of protest from these same individuals.

Trusting that you will give this space in your columns, I remain,

Yours truly.

R. J. SODEN.

FRIGHTFUL EXPLOSION IN AN ALBERTA COAL MINE

Over 200 Killed at Hillcrest Coal Mine--Entire Force of Men in the Mine Said to be Wiped Out

Winnipeg, Man., June 19.—Two hundred miners are believed lost as the result of an explosion that wrecked the Hillcrest Coal and Coke Mine, at Hillcrest, Alta., this morning. The explosion occurred at 9.30, and the mine in a few minutes was completely ablaze. Fifty men were taken out, but the despatches do not state whether they are dead or alive. There are 400 employed in the mine, and over two hundred were in it at the time of the accident. It is not believed that many will come out alive. First reports stated that 600 were killed, but latest despatches reduce this to about 200. Special trains were rushed from Fernie, Calgary and Frank, to the scene, with doctors and nurses. Terrific volumes of smoke and flames are pouring from the mouth of the mine.

Winnipeg, June 19.—Information received at the C.P.R. offices here, state that a terrific explosion has shattered the interior of the Hillcrest coal mine at Hillcrest, Alberta, and 600 miners are reported killed.

The C.P.R. is rushing a special train from Calgary, with doctors and nurses.

The report states that a terrific volume of smoke is coming from the mine's mouth, accompanied by flames.

Mine is on Fire.

Calgary, June 19.—The latest reports from Hillcrest says 35 have been brought to the surface, of whom three are dead. Little hope is entertained of saving any more men, as the mine is reported on fire.

Calgary, Alta., June 19.—Probably one of the worst mining disasters in the history of the Crow's Nest Pass district, occurred this morning, when 200 men met their doom in the Hillcrest mine. Details of the calamity are still very meagre, but from official stories given out at the C.P.R. here, that is the estimate of the number of dead.

ROWELL FORCED TO ANSWER BILINGUAL QUESTION

But His Reply is Far From Satisfactory to the Protestants of Ontario--How the Campaign is Progressing in Ontario

N. W. Rowell, the Liberal leader, has at last been forced into replying to the many questions levelled at him over his policy concerning bilingual schools in Ontario. The question is undoubtedly a thorny one for politicians. It will be remembered that just previous to the last election Attorney-General Foy gave out a written opinion for publication to the effect that "there cannot lawfully be any bilingual schools in the Province of Ontario, and if any are found they must cease to exist, and care should be taken to make all schools conform to the law." Following this pronouncement, which naturally incensed the majority of electors in those ridings where French speaking voters live, Hon. Dr. Reaume went to Hawkesbury and explained that Mr. Foy's opinion was a purely personal one. Sir James Whitney appealed to for a final decision, declared that no such thing as a bilingual school existed in the Province, and that, therefore, there need be no controversy on the subject.

For some days Conservative papers and Conservative speakers have insisted that Mr. Rowell should announce his policy, and, speaking at Cornwall, in close proximity to those constituencies which have a large proportion of French-Canadian electors, the Liberal leader outlined his stand as follows:

"In every school in the province it is the duty of the State to see that every child receives a good English education. If that were done—that is the law to-day, and the breakdown is in the administration of the law—I believe there would be no ground of complaint in any section of the province; and consistent with that if the French-Canadian parents desire that their children should also in the schools study their own language, so that they may acquire a facility to use that efficiently and well, I can see no ground for objection on the part of any citizen of the Province."

This is almost word for word what he said in Woodstock, and clearly shows that he is disposed to give way to the French language in Ontario schools.

The Fight in Toronto.

There will be contests in all the Toronto seats. Liberal candidates were found at the last minute who allowed their names to stand for the "A" and "B" seats in South-East Toronto. They are Messrs. H. Allen and Albert Dale. The Conservative candidates are Messrs. E. W. J. Owens, who had a seat in the last House, and Thomas Hood. South-East Toronto is a new seat, created by the last redistribution.

Hopeless Outlook for Libs.

The Liberal candidate in Welland has thrown up the sponge and retired from the contest. Nominated last week, Mr. George W. Sutherland took only three days to discover that he had no chance of election, and has refused to continue the fight, announcing that owing to the shortness of time at his disposal he was unable to conduct a satisfactory campaign. The Liberal support will go to C. E. Steele, the Temperance candidate.

The Ottawa Imbroglio.

Ottawa politics, usually complicated enough, are still further entangled by reason of the mixture of municipal matters. In Ottawa West ex-Mayor Ellis is the Conservative candidate He has a strong organization and is an experienced campaigner.

French Main Issue.

In Ottawa East, is Mr. Napoleon [illegible], who held the seat in the last House, is a Conservative, but is strongly opposed to the Government's stand on bilingual schools, although he has made no definite pronouncement since the campaign opened. The Liberal candidate Ald. Pinard, on the other hand is strongly opposed to the "abolish the bar" policy. Bilingual school questions are a very important issue not only in Ottawa but throughout the whole of Eastern Ontario.

In Russell County, which is traditionally liberal, Damase Racine, member in the last House, is again the Liberal candidate. He is opposed by E. J. Laverdue, a well-known Ottawa contractor, and the fight promises to be a hot one. Bilingual schools form the chief issue. In Russell, as in several adjoining counties, the famous article 17, of the Government's school regulations, is exceedingly unpopular. It simply limits the amount of time which may be given to instruction in French. On the other hand the Liberal chief's plank, "abolish the bar," is scarcely less unpopular.

MR. SODEN IS HOLDING BIG MEETINGS

Montgomery's School House and Buckhorn Meetings Were Largely Attended and Very Enthusiastic

Mr. R. J. Soden, Conservative candidate for the Ontario Legislature for West Peterborough, held well attended meetings at Montgomery's School House and Buckhorn.

Mr. Soden clearly demonstrated, after receiving an enthusiastic reception on arising, that he advocates the true cause of Temperance. He referred to the splendid work done for the Province by the farmers. Mr. Soden also spoke of the Hydro policy of the Whitney Government.

On taking his seat, Mr. Soden was loudly applauded.

MR. J. H. BURNHAM, M. P.

Mr. Burnham said that he found that the people thoroughly appreciated the clean record and good business qualities of the Whitney administration. As the campaign progressed it became plainer that the people would place once again on record their unmistakable appreciation of the Whitney Government. People were amazed at the revelation of the action of the Laurier Government in granting a lease of the great Burleigh Falls power to a private Company for 59 years at one dollar a year or a total of fifty-nine dollars—about the annual rent value of a fourth class stable. If there had been no Whitney Hydro Commission to take this power over for the benefit of the people of this county it would have been necessary for the Borden Government to devise some such policy when they cancelled the Laurier-Graham lease. The value of this power now rescued for the benefit of the people will be incalculable to the farmers and manufacturers of the northern part of this country who in a few years would have no fuel to generate power with and would have been placed in a helpless condition. This would mean the ruin of the people of the northern part of this country particularly. They would have had to pay a private company all that they could possibly scrape together for power that had been theirs and yet had been given away, or else go out of business altogether. The result would have been the depopulation of the northern townships and the transmitting of the power elsewhere. Mr. Burnham read the letter of former Postmaster General Mulock, and Hon. Richard Harcourt, ex-Minister of Education, to the former Minister of Railways & Canals, urging them to hand this power over to their Company. How can people expect the ordinary rank and file to withstand temptation when prominent men were going to act like that?

MAY'S SCHOOL HOUSE.

Rousing enthusiasm marked R. J. Soden's meeting at May's School House North Monaghan.

Never has May's Schoolhouse witnessed a larger or more enthusiastic meeting than that held last night in the interests of Mr. R. J. Soden Conservative candidate in West Peterborough.

The chair was filled by Mr. Harry Webber who in a brief speech introduced the speakers and asked for the support of the electors for Mr. Soden.

The fine new schoolroom in which the meeting was held was filled with an eager company, who listened most attentively to the two speakers, Alderman W. J. Johnston and Mr. Soden. Time and again their hearers endorsed the statements of the speakers with cries of "that's a fact" and "that's the case as it stands." Alderman Johnston on rising was received with much applause.

He pointed out to his hearers the benefit of the Whitney Administration in the matter of Liquor Legislation in the city of Peterborough as evidenced in the reduction of licenses, law enforcement, etc., and paid a personal tribute to Mr. Soden whom he had known for some years as a most earnest temperance advocate and worker.

In regard to Hydro Electric he pointed out the adventages which had been secured for the city of Peterborough and the surrounding country through the Whitney policy of Municipal ownership of Public utilities and contrasted Mr. Gillespie's present endorsation of the Hydro Electric project with lukewarm support of the same when as a member of the City Council he had done little or nothing to assist in securing the project for Peterborough, besides which the Rowell party had lent no assistance in Toronto when special legislation was required for carrying out the scheme for which Peterborough ratepayers had voted.

In closing Mr. Johnston asked the electors to stand by the Whitney Government who had stood by the people and to vote for the Government candidate Mr. Soden.

The candidate on rising complimented the electors on the evident interest which was being taken in the Government and welfare of the Province as evidenced by the large attendance of electors at the meeting.

The Whitney Government were prepared to be judged on their record of nine years of office and he as candidate was prepared to be judged on his record as a man who had dwelt among them for some ten years and who had done business with most of those present in that time. If they had found the Government honest and trustworthy and if he, the candidate was a true man then they should support that Government and himself as candidate and if not then he could not expect their support. He then enunciated the Temperance Policy for which he stood.

The abolition of the Bar and The Shop and the Club licenses.

This was the policy for which the Temperance men of Peterborough County stood as evidenced by their vote at the convention held in May last in Peterborough city.

Mr. Rowell said if he were returned he would abolish the bars and club licenses.

Could he do it? He like Sir James Whitney must be guided by the men who sat behind him. He admitted that his position as leader. His avowed advocacy of "Abolish the bar" and his own personal influence with his followers had all been insufficient to secure the abolition of the bar in the Ontario club which was the head quarters of the Liberal party in Toronto and Mr. Rowell's own club would the men who refused to comply with what he said he desired in this regard, when it would have aided him in this election, be any more likely to fall in behind him if he were returned to power? Was not this a frank admission that the bulk of the influential Liberals were not in sympathy with his abolish the bar policy? Looking at the candidates on the Liberal side who were seeking election. Many of them were not total abstainers while several of them were frankly opposed to the "Abolish the

TWO HUNDRED COAL MINERS ENTOMBED

L[illegible] Belguim, June 19.—Two hundred coal miners were entombed in the Vieille Marihaye colliery, near here, when fire broke out to-day. Two hundred of their comrades escaped when the alarm was given. The fire was still raging this afternoon, and every effort was being made to rescue the miners left in the pits.

WAS KILLED BY A BLOW FROM A MILK BOTTLE

Cobalt, June 19.—James Knowles blow over the head with a milk bottle administered by a Frenchman in the course of a heating quarrel. The assailant may be charged with murder. Knowles was an outstanding figure in Porcupine. He was implicated in the Jameson raid, and received 11 bullet wounds in the Souto African war.

To the Men of Peterborough:

I wish to appeal to your sense of right and duty.

I am, as I have said, in favor of the immediate abolition of all forms of the liquor traffic. Mr. Gillespie said in the Opera House, on the night of Thursday, June 18th, at the Rowell meeting, word for word taken from The Globe, as follows:

> "Said Mr. Gillespie: 'If either political party after consideration deems it wise to abolish the shop, I have promised to the temperance people of the West riding I will vote with that party.'"

Can any fair-minded temperance man (or woman) honestly range himself against me in the face of these two statements?

FRENCH TO BE THE LANGUAGE OF INSTRUCTION IN SCHOOLS

According to the Demands of the French Leaders--Circular Has Been Placed Before Sir James Whitney and Mr. Rowell, the Leader of the Opposition in Ontario

The French Canadian electors of Ontario who are opposed to regulation No. 17, and the strict enforcement of the regulation that English shall be the language of communication in the schools of Ontario, have placed their demands before the Premier, Sir James Whitney, and Mr. N. W. Rowell, Liberal Leader. Sir James has declined absolutely to retire from his position and has declared that English must be the language of Ontario. Mr. Rowell virtually acceded to the demand in a speech at Cornwall.

CIRCULAR OF INSTRUCTION

1. "There are only two classes of Primary Schools in Ontario, the Public and Separate Schools.

2. "In Primary Schools, both Public and Separate, the following regulations will govern the teaching to French pupils.

3. "English shall be efficiently taught in all schools, in all forms and to all pupils.

4. "In schools where all, or nearly all, pupils are of French origin, the French language will be the language of communication and instruction and besides the thorough teaching of French, English shall be efficiently taught.

5. "In schools of two or more rooms, attended by pupils of both English and French extraction, the pupils shall be grouped in separate Rooms according to either of said nationalities, subject always to clause 3 and 4.

6. "In schools of one room only, where pupils of English and French origin are found, the pupils of French origin shall form, a separate section, and this section shall be taught in English and French in accordance with 3 and 4.

7. "The schools, rooms and sections composed of French pupils shall be inspected by French inspectors thoroughly competent in both the English and French languages, provided always that a Roman Catholic inspector alone be instructed with the inspection of the Roman Catholic Schools, rooms and sections.

RETAIL MERCHANTS GET CONCESSIONS FROM COUNCIL

Last night the Retail Merchants appeared before the Property Committee. They were represented by Messrs. Hargie, Elliot and Cameron. A petition, given below, was presented, as follows:

Improvements asked for:

1st—That a suitable building be erected for a butter market. The butter market to be erected on the ground floor.

2nd—That a strip be paved or laid with granolithic inside the present market sidewalk for rigs.

3rd—That both sidewalk and strip be covered as a protection from rain, etc.

4th—That weighing of fowl be not compulsory SCFDSC HGBSC GBG compulsory.

5th—That it be not compulsory to put names on baskets.

6th—Weight of butter to be allowed when averaging 16 oz. No piece to be less than 15 oz.

7th—That the privileges of the market be allowed to producers only. That no person be allowed to sell fresh meat on the market in less quantities than qrs. That no person be allowed to sell meat or anything on the market unless he has produced the same on his premises.

8th—That dealers and large buyers be allowed to buy on the market after 9 a.m.

9th—That the market be free of tolls after the present contract with the market clerk expires.

Ald. Stratton asked whether it would be wise for the City to build a butter market?

Mr. Elliot made a strong claim for the merchants. Mr. Stratton moved that the by-law compelling the weighing of fowl be resinded.—Carried.

The butter question was left in abeyance. The meat question was referred to the City Solicitor.

It was moved by Ald. Stratton that dealers be allowed to buy on the market at 9 a.m.—Carried.

The matter of market toll was taken up. Ald. Duncan explained that the present committee could not legislate for a coming Council.

Ald. Langford was in the chair.

To Keep Skin in Fine Condition All Summer.

It would be much better for the skin if little cream, powder or rouge were used during the heated term. Mixed with perspiration, dust and grime, these things are anything but beautifying. Ordinary mercolized wax will do more for the complexion, and without giving an oily, streaked spotted or pasty appearance. It is the ideal application for the season, as it not only keeps the pores clean, but daily removes particles of scarf skin which have been soiled by dirt or weather. By constantly keeping the complexion clear, white, satiny, it does more toward perpetuating a youthful countenance than any of the arts or artifices commonly employed. One ounce of mercolized wax, obtainable at any drugstore will completely renovate the worst complexion. It is applied at night like cold cream and washed off in the morning.

To keep the skin from sagging or wrinkling, or to overcome such condition there's nothing better than a face bath made by dissolving 1 ounce powdered saxolite in ½ pint witch hazel.

A house with many historic memories—No. 35 St. Martin street, Leicester Square, where once Sir Isaac Newton and Dr. Burney dwelt—is now being demolished. INTRODUCTION

The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Company, Limited, was incorporated in 1913 with six pairs of foxes, at $60,000. This Company re-capitalized in 1914, with 20 pairs of beautiful Silver Black Foxes, at $15,000 per pair, making a total capitalization of $300,000.

THE FOXES

Six pairs (one year old) proven breeders, and fourteen pairs (1914 pups), making a total of 20 pairs — all young foxes— good for at least 10 years. This Company has bought some of this year's options on foxes with a guarantee that they are pedigreed and of the highest strain and very best quality P. E. Island famous foxes.

THE RANCH

The ranch is situated on the well known Glenaladale Farm, owned by Major C. McKinnon, formerly the homestead of Sir William McDonald, and is only 12 miles from Charlottetown, in a quiet locality sufficiently removed from any disturbance.

THE RANCHER

Mr. Arthur W. McKinnon, our Ranch Manager, has had much experience in breeding foxes, and has the practical knowledge necessary to efficiently manage and care for the animals.

The foxes will be ranched free of charge to the Company for the first year. This means a large saving to the shareholders, as some companies have to pay as high as 25 per cent. of the increase for ranching purposes.

The promoters of this Company are retaining $80,000 worth of stock for themselves. $20,000 worth has already been disposed of, leavinb $200,000 to be offered to investors at $25.00 per share, with a guarantee that a dividend of 50 per cent. will be paid in cash in 1915, or whatever more it may be.

The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Co., Limited, in 1913 guaranteed a dividend of 50 per cent. but are going to pay 50 per cent. in cash and 50 per cent., in stock in 1914. The Company is in good standing and to each and every investor the first of September, 1914, we can say:— "We have given you 50 per cent. more than we promised." And we feel sure that in 1915 all the shareholders in this re-capitalized company will be able to say they received more than they were promised.

This Company can truthfully say that they have not one cent of watered stock in the Company. Now Mr. Investor, if you were a Company and we the shareholders, we would look to you for justice to give us all that was honestly due us. We would not like for you to buy 3 pairs of foxes at $15,000 per pair ($45,000) and form a fox company and capitalize your concern at $60,000 and make us pay, as shareholders, for it. The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Company, Limited, will ask you to do nothing like that. We want to let you in on the ground floor.

NOTICE

When a fox company guarantees any specified dividend to its shareholders, and when said company is an incorporated body, you need not be afraid of any unfair play, for such a company is compelled to pay what they promise, and, besides, every interest is taken for the welfare of both the investor and the company.

The promoters of this Company are all above board and will not permit any crook to come in and do anything that is not right. Anyone holding stock in this Company who is dissatisfied can, by notifying the Secretary-Treasurer, have his or her money promptly refunded.

FORTUNES IN FOXES

There is money in fox ranching more than anything else ever known. It is good for the rich man and good for the poor man. A poor man cannot buy a pair of Silver Black Foxes but he can easily raise $25.00, $50.00 or $100.00. By investing in this Company he gets back his money in at least two years and then he will have an income for life and for his children to come—and after there will be money in fox farming. One of the reasons for this is that P. E. Island has now 95 per cent. of the world's foxes in captivity. For every one pelt that can be raised there are more than 25 wealthy people waiting for it in London, Russia, France and America.

PELT VALUES

The Fox Pelts have advanced greatly in price since 1910 and you can see for yourself what money was in them then.

Below are the particulars of sale of a consignment of Silver Fox Furs, shipped from Prince Edward Island ranches to London, England, and sold there in March, 1910:

These figures may be verified by enquiry to Messrs. C. M. Lampson & Company, 64 Queen Street, London, E. C.

SHARES

Shares are selling at $25.00 each; 25 per cent. with application and the balance on or before September 1st, 1914.

Simply fill out the application form and mail to Major C. McKinnon, Secretary-Treasurer, Glenaladale, P. E. I.

All cheques must be made payable to "The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Co., Ltd."

A POINTER

Just to give you a little idea of what the free ranching of foxes mean to the investor, we will figure it out for you.

We have twenty pairs of foxes in the ranch and suppose each pair produces a litter of only four foxes this is equal to 40 pairs and at $15,000 per year it would figure out at $600,000. Now, if we had to pay even 15 per cent. of the increase for ranching purposes (which is considerably lower than some companies pay) it would mean that we would have to pay $90,000 for ranching expenses.

We ranch the foxes free for the first year, so that in addition to a guaranteed dividend of 50 per cent., we save you this large outlay of money. While we guarantee 50 per cent., still should each pair in our ranch produce four pups it would mean that your dividend would be about 200 per cent. instead of 50 per cent.

FINAL WORD

A great deal has been written about Ranches, Grades of Foxes, etc., but after all the one object that every investor should keep before him is the dividend he is going to get. We have tried to show you in plain English what we can do for you and now that you have our proposition, compare it with the offer made by any other company now in business - and then judge for yourself to have been paid by some of the Charlottetown daily newspapers.

FIRST McINTOSH APPLES

Scotch Immigrant Gave His Name to the Ruddy Fruit

When the Scottish immigrant John McIntosh took possession long ago of his holding in Dundas county, Ontario, he found there, among other things of native growth, a young apple tree. Apple trees were none too plentiful in those days, so he nurtured it and it grew apace until in time it began to yield fruit that brought to the farm fastidious apple eaters from the country miles around.

The apple became so famous at length that John McIntosh planted some of its seed, and his orchard flourished. The apple was ruddy, and in time people began to give it the name of McIntosh, then by natural gradations the apple and, after the family of trees, came to be known as McIntosh Reds.

By this name they have long been famous throughout the Dominion, although they do not grow over a wide area. The St. Lawrence region is very favorable to the apples which not only ranks with, but in some localities has taken the place of the celebrated Fameuse apple of Quebec.

The mother tree has given to Ontario and Quebec a whole race of trees bearing one of the most luscious of fruits. Its descendants have not only beautified many a Canadian country home, but have added largely to the income of many a Canadian husbandman.

Cement Mushrooms

Among the most uncommon uses to which concrete has been put in Belgium is the making of mushrooms for decorating gardens, and dwarfish figures of gnomes for supporting the garden seats. If the imagination were sufficiently elastic, it might be presumed that the gnomes had pillaged the mushroom garden at night and, to escape detection, had crawled under the seat, where they became concrete images.

Our Point of View

Le Temps, ever strenuous for bilingualism, backs Mr. Rowell as the champion of that cause in Ontario.

—o—

Fortunately, after all it is not many of the churches Mr. Rowell has succeeded in turning into party recruiting stations.

—o—

The London suffragettes are becoming so bold that it is only a question of time when they will throw John Bull down and clip off his side whiskers.

—o—

The new Canadian volcano is said to be spouting at such a furious rate that a grave injustice will be recorded if it is not named Rowell.

—o—

A Peterborough lady paid $25 for a cat, and, of course she will be sneered at by men who in the last twelve months have sunk more than a hundred in a kitty.

—o—

When an administration is overturned in Mexico the average Mexican meets the situation like a man. He seeks the nearest place and takes a drink.

—o—

William Damm and Lena Good were married at Listowell, Ontario, the other day, says the Toronto Star. Doubtless those who attended the wedding were unanimous in declaring it to be a Damm-Good affair.

Service of the Teachers

The public school teachers are concluding their work, and are now supposed to be care-free until September. There is a popular impression that this long vacation makes their job a soft one. But many of them spend the vacation helping mother in various ways, while others will put in a good share of the time making articles for Christmas gifts.

The parents turn over their children much as they would check their babies at a day nursing. It gets them out of the way, leaving mother free to go to the bridge party. The parents can only partly control their own little flocks. Yet they expect a teacher to take 40 of these unsubjugated little wills, reduce them to an orderly discipline, keep them sunshiny and working, and turn them out equipped with the fundamentals of daily life.

At home the cross-grained habits of children are excused on the ground that they are nervous, or that they inherited these traits and are not to blame for them. When the teacher undertakes to reduce the youngsters to order, the children are irritated at unfamiliar restraints and the parents think the teacher has no patience.

The blooming girl who enters the school room at 20 frequently comes out at 30 with a thin, pale drawn face. But nevertheless the schoolroom is a place of good cheer. The songs of the children, flowers, pictures, give a sunny atmosphere. The teacher renders an incomparable service. She is entitled to high honor and adequate compensation.

The Navy and Home Rule

According to the Winnipeg Free Press the Canadian correspondent of The London Times has written that if a British Government puts the Home Rule Bill in force the Canadian Government will abandon its naval programme. It is pretty certain that The Times' correspondent has not made any such statement. But will Canadians be eager to strengthen the British fleet if its guns are used to lay Belfast in ruins and overawe the Protestants of Ulster?

Rowell in Power—and Out

Are the electors of Ontario going to vote into office a man who cheered the betrayal of temperance interests all the time the Ross Government—his own party—was in power and only adopted abolish the bar when he saw himself hopelessly beaten in the 1911 elections?

A Lumberman's Feat

A thrilling escape from drowning in Rainy River, near Fort Frances, Ontario, by catching hold of the antler of a big bull moose, which was swimming across the river, was the experience of Clyde Buell, of Minneapolis. Buell was working at Fort Frances for a lumber company. He was out on a raft of logs. After striking a jam, the raft loosened, and Buell, clinging to a single piece of timber was carried down the river towards the rapids. He had given up hope when he saw the moose with its head and antlers above water swimming safely from the rapids. Buell let loose from his log and grabbed one horn of the antlers and shifted himself to the back of the animal and rode it to shallow water. The moose fought hard, but would sink beneath the water and soon gave up and swam ashore.

PETER'S ADVENTURES IN MATRIMONY

By LEONA DALRYMPLE

Author of the new novel, "Diane of the Green Van," awarded a prize of $10,000 by Ida M. Tarbell and S. S. McClure as judges.

The truth about "the girl in the case" distinguishes this new series by Miss Dalrymple. Her character studies will not appear unfamiliar to the majority of readers, who will follow the fortunes of "Peter" with interest.

Joys of Moving.

LEONA DALRYMPLE

It is simple enough to decide to move. It's not so simple to find where you're going to move. Before we had a comparatively simple time of it, for a friend had just vacated an apartment which Mary liked very well indeed—the one we are just leaving. This time it was not quite so easy.

Mary and I began a deadly campaign of house-hunting.

A woman's indecision is a mysterious and trying thing. Mary vacillated from one feverish fit of enthusiasm to another. Each succeeding flat was "the best ever!" Each preceding one full of trivial faults which she would immediately catalogue with glowing cheeks as we wandered desolately through its rival. After two weeks of house-hunting I began to grow impatient.

"Seems to me, Mary," I said, "that out of this dreadful parade of houses we ought certainly to find something that would suit our pocketbook and our tastes. Let's go over the whole list we've inspected and solve the problem by the process of elimination."

"No," said Mary, "let's look at a few more."

I sighed and agreed. But a few nights later I realized that I was not merely combating a woman's vague and uncentrated habit of indecision—I was also combating that nomadic, restless strain that makes some women fairly revel in house-hunting and shopping.

Why in the world do women like to shop when they're not going to buy? Why do they like to wander about through endless series of apartments when any one of a dozen will do? It is the result of that trivial energy which is peculiarly feminine. Women love an activity that has no particular goal. That is one of the reasons for the great sweep of feminism. Its final goal is wrapped in haze. When at last the goal looms in sight, many a startling ramification of the main branch will be lopped off and left behind.

I wandered desolately through a few more houses and then I rebelled.

"Very well," said Mary, "mother and I will look." And I had a slight suspicion that she was not sorry to exchange my companionship for her mother's.

So for two more weeks Mary was one of the busiest people in town. She hurried about in cabs, called for her mother, telephoned real estate agents, and seemed fairly well satisfied with herself and the world. She was charming and gracious to me, as she always is when she is very well satisfied with herself. When Mary's conscience begins to goad a bit, however, that's when she grows a little fractious and irritable and takes it out on me.

"Peter," she said one night, "mother and I have found an apartment. And mother says we really ought to take it. It has separate hallways, separate entrances, is on a corner where we may each have our own veranda, electric lights, hardwood floors——"

"Yes?" I inquired. "And the cost of all this grandeur?"

"Well," admitted Mary, "that's the only drawback, of course. It's $45 a month."

"Forty-five dollars a month!" I exclaimed. "Great Scott, Mary, the limit's thirty."

"That's what I said to mother," insisted Mary, "but—but, Peter, mother says she doesn't like me in parts of the town that—that are not quite so nice as others. You see, I—I always lived in the best part of town before I was married. And this apartment is just across the street from mother, and the house just looks like a regular house—not an apartment at all——"

"It's utterly impossible, Mary," I said. "I positively will not begin with so much rent. You'll remember we paid too much for our furniture when we were first married, and it took us months to get out of debt."

I was to learn, however, that, urged on by her mother, Mary's heart was set upon this particular place.

Summer Comfort Hints

By LUCREZIA BORI

Prima Donna of the Metropolitan Opera Company, New York.

Special arrangements have been made with Senorita Lucrezia Bori, the famous prima donna soprano, who has created a wonderful impression in Europe and New York on account of her remarkable beauty and artistic attainments, to write for this paper a series of articles on beauty. There is probably no authority her equal in giving the newest and most approved methods of attaining and preserving "the divine right of woman."

LUCREZIA BORI

My well-loved friend dragged one bronze-shod, high-heeled foot after the other. She sagged pitifully. Her mouth had a sad droop. Her eyes were half-closed and empty of expression. Her voice was weak and toneless. She dropped listlessly into the chair and announced in a little, tired voice that she was "half-dead with the heat."

"You look it," said I promptly. (No woman likes to be agreed with when she acknowledges she is not looking her best.)

"And," I continued, "you are not a beautiful half-corpse. Why don't you come back to life? Get a fresh supply of energy, my dear, and make a new start. We all need to replenish our energy when summer begins."

In spite of her talk about "never being able to endure hot weather," she finally agreed that my viewpoint was sane, and I hope to make my readers converts to the same idea.

It is not an idle theory that the busier one keeps in summer the less she suffers from the heat. It is proven fact.

So let's start today, before the sun gets any hotter, and energize our minds and bodies to meet the summer exigencies.

That doesn't mean to run madly about in the hot streets. It means to keep so busy, so active, so interested in something, anything, except your own discomforts and the heat, that those two disquieting elements are forgotten.

When we feel half-dead is just the time to renew interest in life.

There is no place in the world for the half-dead. The real dead will be respectfully cared for—and taken out of the way of the living.

The half-dead arouse no pity. They are in the way, and are endured under protest.

No one denies summer is a trying season. Meet it wholly alive.

Rise early before the eye of day is open and get out in the sweet morning air and lay in a supply to last through the stress of the later day. Put yourself in tune.

Many of us are business women, with long hours before us, with bad air to breathe, with perspiring humanity all around us, with more or less annoyances to conquer. Start the day with a calm spirit, a willing heart for work, and a self-less attitude of mind.

Take a walk in loose clothing before the day fairly begins, come home and slip into the bath, eat a breakfast of fruit and toast, dress in simple, fresh, clean garments that are comfortable.

Be sure your shoes are so well fitted that you forget them.

Wear your stays loose enough so you can breathe deep.

Arrange your hair simply, without a lot of curls that will become stringy and straggly before the first hour of the day has passed, omit false hair that heats the head, and go your way happily.

When luncheon time comes, eat simple, nourishing, non-heating food. Fruit or egg and milk or salad and whole wheat bread and butter are to be chosen in preference to meat or fish or sweets.

Don't drink with your meals in summer. Drink plenty of cool water or lemonade between meals.

Don't fret about the weather, or discuss it, or try to make a fan keep you cool. The energy you expend stirring the air with a fan can be put to better advantage. If it isn't too hot to tango it isn't too hot to work.

Hurry and worry are the summer enemies of good looks.

As for make-up, a simple cream, fine rice powder and a cooling lotion are enough. Witch hazel and elderflower or orange flower water make a simple, cooling lotion for skins that are prone to heat rash.

Useful Hints for the Housewife

By Ann Marie Lloyd

In winter the curling steam from floury potatoes, the fragrant odor from the uncovered joint, the rich brown gravy, are all attractive, but in hot weather—ugh!

Here are some practical hints which may help. None is expensive:

First, the table! It is the setting to a meal and should be made to look as cool and as attractive as possible. Make it look "inviting" in every sense, with flowers, fish and ferns. Little ferns are cheap enough. Regularly watered, occasionally repotted, and given two or three drops of castor oil four times a year, they are a permanent possession.

Now for the food. Have you tried cold soup? It must be well strained, free from fat, of medium thickness. This makes a most satisfying summer dish.

Cold meat is not attractive, and stews and hashes are worse—in summer! After a joint has appeared once it is best to cut the meat into very thick slices, and trim into cutlet shapes, and fry as you would do fish, after dipping into egg and breadcrumbs. Potatoes, too, are much better mashed, cut into squares, and baked till the outsides are a nice brown.

Fish should always be served with a frill of parsley or lettuce leaves. A sliced tomato, some watercress, some pieces of lemon—this at once tempts a tired man to eat.

Salads and salad dressings are most important adjuncts to food in summer. With a well-made salad the man forgives the cold mutton! Here is a simple, yet quite nice, salad. It dispenses with other vegetables. Slice up a small cooked cauliflower, two or three potatoes, two lettuces, one large tomato, a beetroot and a cucumber. Add a little finely grated horseradish.

So, with the table nicely laid, attractive with ferns and flowers, a spotless tablecloth, and the food daintily put before him, the breadwinner is certain to be more than satisfied.

COMMON SENSE BEST BEAUTY AID

Taka-Taku, "Flower-of-All-Delight."

Fair Japanese Brings Message to America

By ELEANOR AMES

Question: How could any girl with the name of "Flower-of-all-Delight" be otherwise than charming and attractive and winsome? Answer: She isn't. The little lady under discussion being Taka-Taku, a fascinating and aristocratic Japanese dancer, and the flower name being the translation of her musical Japanese cognomen.

Taka-Taku is as dainty as a cherry blossom, and as clever and unusual as she is dainty.

She is a maker of history in one way, because she is a member of one of the old families of the "Kingdom of Slender Swords," and it is only once in a blue moon that girls of her social class enter public and professional life.

Taka-Taku reaches America via London, where she has been tremendously popular and greatly in demand for private society entertainments.

She combines the reserve and shy modesty of the Japanese lady with the frank interest in world affairs of the English woman and the enterprise of the American girl.

She has a fair understanding of English, but she speaks other languages better, her native Japanese, to be sure, and French.

With some miniature bowls of real Japanese tea before us, Taka-Taku chatted of the beauty secrets of her countrywomen. She wore the most bewitching kimono I have ever seen. It was pale pink strewn with wistarias in their natural colors with the gleam of gold in the embroidery.

Taka-Taku has eyes like sloes, hair black, glossy and luxuriant, a complexion creamy white, like a magnolia blossom, with a tinge of pink in the cheeks, and lips like cherries.

Her figure is svelte, graceful, well-rounded, without a bit of adipose and an equal absence of thinness.

Her voice is as sweet and well modulated as the tinkle of the "wind bells" which the Japanese place in their doorways to ward off evil spirits.

"Please don't call me presumptuous to talk of beauty secrets when the American women have such wonderful complexions, such a look of careful grooming, and such splendid broad-shouldered figures," said Taka-Taku. "They surely have very great secrets of their own.

"The beauty secrets of the Oriental woman are simple. She has always a smooth, fine skin, which never shows a disposition to blotches. She has thick, luxuriant hair which does not grow gray, and she is always graceful and supple.

"The grace and the complexion are due to genuine common sense care. She takes soothing as well as cleansing baths, and she forgets that there are such barbarous concoctions as strong soaps made of grease and lye. Instead of soap she removes the dust and grime from her skin with a soft and pure cream. It never destroys the fine texture of the skin as soap would do, and it preserves the downiness of the face, which is like that on the cheek of the peach, and which is intended by nature to protect the face from wind and sun.

"As for the hair treatment, she never wears a lot of heating false hair and heavy hats, and she never burns it with curling irons or dyes it with injurious mixtures. She brushes it and suns it, that is all.

"She eats simple food and not too much of it. Therefore she does not grow fat. Fat is considered by the Japanese an enemy of beauty. And she keeps her body smooth, firm and supple by rubbing with oil. The rules will work as well in America as in Japan."

My Old-Fashioned Mother and Yours

By Winifred Black

Copyright, 1914, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Winifred Black

Where did you go on Mothers' day? To church, to hear a sermon about the good old fashioned mother and an attack on the bad new-fashioned one?

I did, and it made me cross.

Maybe it's because I had a good old-fashioned mother myself and loved every hair in her head and every line in her kind face and every freckle on her busy hands—hands that were never too busy to stop and do something for a naughty, foolish, self-willed little girl.

An old-fashioned mother, who may not have had all the isms and the ology of child culture at the tips of her fingers, but who knew the ins and outs of every quirk of the brain of every one of her own children—and knew it by the intellect of the heart, which is so much mightier than the mere intellect of the brain.

She loved flowers, this old-fashioned mother that I knew, and no gardener could ever take the right care of her flowers for her. It was up in the morning, bright and early, and into the garden for the old-fashioned mother that I knew, and we children thought it a great privilege to get up early, too, and "help"—by pulling up quite as many flowers as we pulled weeds, and getting such delicious backaches that sometimes we stayed at home from school. Of course, we hated to do so, but the old fashioned mother felt so sorry for us she simply couldn't let us go; and so we stayed at home and had doughnuts and maple sugar out on the porch at 11 o'clock and waved triumphantly to the prisoners who escaped at recess to look and see what was the matter with us.

She knew fairy stories, did the old-fashioned mother—fairy stories a thousand times better than the ones in the book.

She always told us just exactly what the princess wore when she married Aladdin and what they had for their wedding breakfast. I remember that there was always strawberry shortcake and hot biscuits and honey and all the chocolate layer cake that they could eat.

Little Red Riding Hood was not eaten by the wolf when the old-fashioned mother I knew told us the story. The wood-chopper came home just in time and rescued her and they all sat down together to the most delightful dinner of chicken potpie and hot gingerbread and some of the fresh butter which Little Red Riding Hood had brought in the pat in her own little basket that very morning.

And when Cinderella married the Prince we knew what she had on and how it all fitted her, and just who among her schoolmates she was going to ask to come and spend a week at a time with her at the palace.

Oh, she was a famous story-teller, the old-fashioned mother that I knew! And she could sing, too, such funny, old-fashioned songs.

"Wild roved an Indian girl, sweet
Alfereta,
Where rolled the waters of the deep,
blue Juniata."

And, "When they brought me hither
My heart was dancing with delight.
I would I were at home again,
I cannot dance tonight."

And sometimes when the littlest one of us was overcome with the sorrow of not being able to "dance to night" the old-fashioned mother I knew would be very gay indeed and sing to us all about Old Dan Tucker and how late, how very, very late, he was in getting home to supper.

Dear old-fashioned mother that I knew, the grass is green above you and it is long and long since your kind heart warmed to human suffering; but for your sake I love and shall always love all the old fashioned mothers that ever were anywhere in the world.

And for your sake I love now and shall always love all the new-fashioned mothers, who are so different from you in so many ways, but, Oh, so like you in everything that really counts!

So like you in love; so like you in faith; so like you in charity; so like you in quivering hope; so like you in gentle ministration; so like you in light-hearted fancy; so like you in deep and tender sympathy. Dear new-fashioned mother, you're the same mother that you always were, and always will be!

I don't care if you wear a slit skirt and a "sassy hat"; I don't care if you do belong to a child culture class; I don't care if you do talk about child study and the child heart in accents fervent and far away. They can't spoil you, they can't hurt you, they can't stop you from being what you are and always will be—a mother; and it makes very little difference to me whether you're new fashioned or old-fashioned.

Secrets of Health and Happiness

What Your Eyebrows Show; How to Aid Their Growth

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins).

DR. HIRSHBERG

The bashful virgin's sidelong looks of love are archly dependent upon the contour, form, shape, size and thickness of her eyebrows. Man for his glory to ancestry flies, while woman's love story is told in her eyes.

The lover, sighing like a furnace, with a woeful ballad made to his mistress's eyebrows, but poorly appreciates the great part the eyebrow plays in the masterful passion.

The fringe of hairs which grows upon the brow of the eye form the upper margin of the ocular orbit. The beetle-browed gorilla, true enough, has a more forward looking eyebrow than man, but, even so, the human eyebrow has some indication of the race.

In birds, reptiles and many fish the eyebrow is a separate formation of the chain of bones along the upper part of the eyecup. One of these bones forms a movable shield in some birds, such as the eagle. It projects like the eaves of a roof over the eye.

Bushy eyebrows of the deep, dark, dreamy sort are more common among eastern and tropical races than occidental and northern ones. Similarly, just as the crescent and the scimitar mean Arabia, Turkey and Persia, so the arched, curved eyebrow prevails among some nations rather than others.

There are families, tribes and people who really lack all eyebrows. Not the faintest vestige of these prominent ridges crowned with hairs are there to be seen.

This condition is independent of infections and other maladies which cause a rain of loosened hairs to fall out until the eyebrows have gone a-glimmering.

The symmetry and harmony of delicately arched and properly shaded eyebrows with tresses of the same hue, is too evident to need comment. The ugliness and disfigurement of a pretty face, with dark eyelashes and bleached hair, is too terrifying even to think about.

Yet this facial blemish and uncosmetic tarnish may be seen from time to time. The hair receives its due meed of attention, but the eyebrows escape with a lick and a promise.

Squinting, scowling, frowning and otherwise habitually moving one group of muscles on one side of the forehead may cause one eyebrow to be lower or higher than the other.

The weak sight of flaxen-haired persons with Albino eyes often causes squinting. This has a weird and uncanny effect upon the eyebrows.

Like the gathered brows which show a fretful disposition, or some eye disturbance, scowling, twisted eyebrows spell an unhappy, grouchy, hypercritical misery.

Eyebrows, unlike moustaches, beards and the hair, should never be brushed or cut. A soft bit of chamois, or a piece of sterilized absorbent cotton, may be used to wipe the hair flat and clean. A new fragment should be used each time.

If dandruff is present, red vaseline with a dram of sulphur and five grains of resorcin to the ounce may occasionally be massaged into the ridge. Plain vaseline is useful to massage into clean eyebrows to augment the growth of the lashes.

Answers to Health Questions

T. P.—1—What is a cure for varicose veins in the nose? Have been told to use "ichthyol." Will that dispel them? 2—I also wish to use sulphur on my head for dandruff. How can I dissolve it?

1—These swollen, turgid, dilated blood canals are best and most permanently remedied only by a surgeon.

2—One-half ounce sulphur, three drams oil of theobromine, 10 grains resorcin, one-half dram balsam of peru and two ounces castor oil at night as a massage.

L. M. R.—How can one guard against consumption? For two years I have had a hawking cough. I am afraid, as I had a friend recently die who began as I seem to be.

Take a warm sea salt sponge bath every night on going to bed. You can take this in your room, using a basin of water to which a tablespoonful of salt has been added. Rub the body on drying it until it is in a glow. Go to bed every night at 10 o'clock. Have plenty of fresh air in your bedroom at night. Try to have a bedroom that is sunny during part of the day. Practise exercises 15 minutes twice a day to develop the chest. Join a gymnasium. Live as much in the fresh air during the daytime as possible. Paint the back between the shoulder blades once a day with tincture of iodine until the skin begins to peel, then discontinue.

Advice to Girls

By ANNIE LAURIE

Dear Annie Laurie:

I am a young girl, 17 years of age. I have been keeping company with a young man for eight months. I thought I loved him very much, as I know he loves me, and we were as good as engaged. But I have been going skating and have met a man I like, although I have not seen him very much, and I think he likes me a little. Somehow I feel as if I did not love the other one any more.

Please advise me what I should do, as I am so worried.

SILLY SEVENTEEN.

Well, Silly Seventeen, you've chosen a pretty fair name for yourself, haven't you?

Of course, you've changed your mind. That's what minds are for—at 17.

If you like the new man best, make him your friend, and then when you meet somebody else that you like better than him, forget him, too. That is the way—with 17.

How else are you going to find out who it is that you really like and who really likes you? Perhaps the one you think is so dead in love with you is writing to me this very minute asking me how to break the news gently to you, that you are no longer the lodestar of his existence.

Don't take yourself so seriously—at 17. You're in the playtime of life, the laughing time, the singing time. Laugh, sing, play, and get ready for your serious love affair when you are a little older.

Annie Laurie

Miss Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. They should be addressed to her, care this office.

The Good Night Story

Bearskin :: ::

By VERNON MERRY

Once upon a time there was a poor soldier who could find nothing to do when the war was over. One night, after he had spent all day looking for work, he went out into the forest to sleep, because he had no money to pay for a bed.

While he slept there came an Evil Fairy, who woke him up and said: "Show me that you are brave and I will give you a chance to gain great wealth."

"Put me to the test," pleaded the soldier.

The Evil Fairy did not answer, but pointed behind him. Turning around the soldier saw a great bear. He took up his gun and shot the bear dead.

"You are brave," said the Evil Fairy. "Now prove you can keep a promise. All you have to do to gain great wealth is to wear this green cloak, never to wash or cut your hair, and always, during seven years, to sleep in this bearskin."

After the Evil Fairy had disappeared the soldier began to repent of his bargain, but he had to keep a promise. And every time he put his hand into the pocket of the green coat he found it filled with money.

After five years the soldier, who was known everywhere as "Bearskin," had the chance to save an old man from prison because of the money he always found in the green cloak. To repay Bearskin the old man promised him the youngest of his beautiful daughters for a wife. This daughter, named Rose, did not at first like to have so dirty a man as her lover, and her sisters teased her about him. But, when Bearskin gave her half a golden ring, she promised to wait for him the two years.

At the end of the two years Bearskin met the Evil Fairy once more and gave him back his cloak. The Evil Fairy was disappointed, because he had hoped that Bearskin would break the promise, but he was compelled to give Bearskin all the money he wanted. Bearskin had proved that he could keep a promise.

Then Bearskin went away from the forest, washed his face and hands, had his hair cut and bought a beautiful new suit. In a coach and four he drove to the house of his sweetheart, Rose, and when she saw him she was so happy that Bearskin was glad he had endured all of his troubles for her sake.

BECK AND HANNA

Magnificent Work For Hydro-Electric Cause and Prison Reform Awaits Electors' Endorsement

The people of Ontario will be called upon on June 29th to express approval along with other matters, of the admittedly great work accomplished by Hon. Adam Beck for Hydro-electric development and by Hon. W. J. Hanna for Prison Reform. That either man could be spared from the public's service may well seem inconceivable, and yet the summary dismissal of both from tasks which even Mr. Rowell admits have been magnificently managed is one of the grave consequences which Mr. Rowell asks the people to permit.

Hon. Mr. Hanna has, by his personal enthusiasm for prison reform, upset the old regime of stone walls, striped clothes, armed guards and shackles. At the Guelph Prison Farm and the various Industrial Farms now dotting the province the reclamation of unfortunate men has attracted attention from all over the world, and the public purse has been relieved by making the institutions self-sustaining. Mr. Hanna's reforms in the methods of treating the insane in the asylums and in managing the hospitals have been as radical and quite as successful, gaining the heartiest approval of the medical profession.

Hon. Adam Beck's whole public career is written in the success of the Hydro-Electric movement, which though now of mammoth proportions is only at the commencement of its usefulness. In 1913 there were over 62,000 customers for light and over 3,500 for power, enjoying rates much below the old monopoly standard. The demand for public-owned power has become universal in the province and estimates are prepared and surveys made in new sections as quickly as the engineering department can take the different sections up. Hon. Mr. Beck capped the climax of his endeavors so far when at the last session the Government unanimously endorsed his measure to construct hydro-electric radials.

Gossip and Women's Clubs

Only one thing is fatal to the happy social life of any country community and that is gossip. If the ladies can not find in the wide field of house keeping, chicken-raising, preserving, care of children, public schools, music art, reading, public improvements, good government, health, sewing, entertaining and all other delightful household tasks, enough material to lift the meetings above petty personalities, then the little club, or whatever it is called, is doomed. Whenever gossip is allowed into any organization people will begin to break up into little cliques or circles or groups, and the whole thing fails.—Farm and Fireside.

SIGHTS IN CHINATOWN

The Chinese Lend a Picturesque Touch to Vancouver Streets

It is hard to tell whether the Chinese and Japanese settlers that are so numerous on the Pacific coast should be called Westerners or Easterners, but they claim the latter term themselves. You meet them in Vancouver wherever you go, said a visitor to British Columbia. The most picturesque figures on the streets of Vancouver are the Chinamen you occasionally meet in a blue blouse, and umbrella-shaped straw hat with a long pole across their shoulders from which baskets of vegetables hang at each end. It is only in Chinatown that one sees Chinese women, and even these are very rare.

On entering a Chinese store you are transported for the time being across the seas. The silks, embroideries, basket-work, carving and china, all in Eastern designs, either beautiful or strangely intricate; the display of rich coloring and the haunting smell, suggesting sandalwood or the sickly, sweet perfume of opium, all makes you feel you are in another quarter of the globe. There is also a profusion of toys and knick-knacks, the prices of which seem surprisingly small compared to the amount of hard-work necessary for their manufacturing.

These stores of general merchandise are found on the main business streets where they attract the eyes of tourists and English-speaking residents, but the shops that cater to the needs of the Chinese population are found in a crowded section of the city known as Chinatown. Some of the buildings are distinctly Chinese in character and they all are ornamented with picturesque signs. There are barber-shops and sometimes the barber is a woman; there are tailors who make garments of European cut, preferably in a fine cloth of light blue or purple; there are food shops where the most interesting variety of cooked foods is sold, and there are many restaurants labelled "Chop Suey," some of which are well patronized by the British population.

Of course here, as in China, the chief food of the people is rice and there are rice mills in Chinatown where the rice is separated from its barley-like hulls by being pounded in a stone jar operated by the treadmill power of a patient Chinaman.

In Victoria the Chinese settlers are even more in evidence, forming one-sixth of the total population of the city and the buildings there are more picturesque and more evidently Chinese in character. Some of the Chinamen live in house-boats, others in little houses in the country and are very successful in intensified farming.

To find if hooks and eyes will wash without leaving rust marks test them with a magnet. If they can be drawn by the magnet they contain steel and should not be put upon wash dresses.

For refracting either sunlight or artificial light for use as a curative agent a Philadelphian invented a lens shaped glass vessel that can be filled with liquids of any desired color.

Clean pots and pans with GOLD DUST

Germs of decay accumulate on oft-used pots and pans, and ordinary soap and water only clean off the surface.

Gold Dust does the work—and does it right. It digs deep after germs, cleans like a new whistle and leaves your pots and pans as new, as bright as the day they were new—and sanitarily safe.

Gold Dust does this work in just half the time required by soap or any other cleanser. Does it better, too.

Gold Dust cleans everything like magic.

Gold Dust is sold in 5c size and large packages. The large package means greater economy.

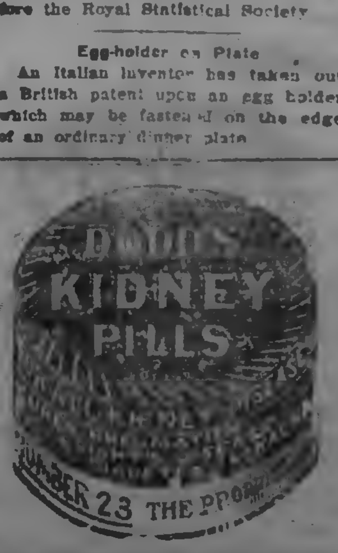
Toll of the Mother's Toil

Dunlop, superintendent of the statistical department of the Registrar-General for Scotland, in a lecture on marriage before the Royal Statistical Society.

Egg-holder on Plate

An Italian inventor has taken out a British patent upon an egg holder which may be fastened on the edge of an ordinary dinner plate.



How People Feel
When They Have
Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulveney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them can not imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ½ of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution, have very little distress.

Prof. Mulveney's world-famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, sure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, is not disagreeable to take. One dose nearly always affects a cure. Further information free. Send stamped envelope, telephone Parkdale 4830, or call at 167 Dundas street, Toronto. Open from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

SMOTHERING OF ASTHMA STOPS QUICK THOUSANDS CURED BY "CATARRHOZONE"

Count Ten—Then Relief Comes From Chronic Asthma

Nothing yet discovered can compare with Catarrhozone in bad, ugly cases of Asthma.

Catarrhozone is the only remedy that can be sent quickly and direct to all parts of the breathing apparatus.

The effect from Catarrhozone is a quick one—you feel better in no time—keep up the good work, use Catarrhozone as directed and you get well.

If your case is curable, if anything on earth can rid you permanently of Asthma, it will be Catarrhozone. It contains that strangely soothing and powerful antiseptic found in the Blue Gum Tree of Australia, and this is fortified by other germ killing properties which, when so scientifically combined, make Catarrhozone a veritable specific for Asthma, Catarrh Bronchitis.

Even though many other remedies have failed—even though you are discouraged and blue—cheer up and try Catarrhozone to-day. What it repeatedly has done for others it will surely not fail to accomplish for you.

Catarrhozone is not expensive. One dollar will buy a complete outfit from any Druggist. The money will be well spent because your immediate improvement in health will surpass your fondest expectations. Don't wait—to-day is the time to use Catarrhozone.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh [illegible] nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

A MAGNIFICENT VOICE AND A FAULTLESS METHOD

EVA MYLOTT, the Australian contralto (who scored a complete triumph in her American and Canadian Tours last Fall), possesses a pure contralto voice of exceptional richness, with the lower register equal to that of Clara Butt. The greatest critics of the world have paid glowing tributes to her wonderful voice, artistic temperament and superb interpretation, while her diction has been described as the finest of any singer now before the public.

MISS MYLOTT inherited her musical gifts from both parents. At the age of seven her voice was already attracting attention, and while yet a mere child she was famous all over the continent. Mme. Melba, returning to the land of her birth, heard her and with the magnanimity of the truly great artist, recognized her unmistakable genius, and taking the warmest interest in the young singer, personally introduced her to Mme. Marchesi in Paris.

MISS MYLOTT, at the close of her studies under this great teacher, created a furore at the pupils' concert in the Salle Hoch, and Mme. Marchesi referred to her as a "favorite Pupil," and said, "I have no hesitation in prophesying for Miss Mylott a great future in the artistic and musical world, from her great power and compass, artistic perception and temperament.

In London she studied under Randegger and Henry Wood (Oratorio) Mme. Guy d'Hardelot (Ballads). Mme. Minna Fischer (Germanlieder) and also received private tuition from Mme. Melba, who took the greatest pride and interest in her protege. She was immediately engaged for the Albert Hall, Queen's Hall concerts, Philharmonic and Choral Societies from all over the British Isles. She toured with Melba, Trebelli and Albani and was honored with the special patronage of Their Royal Highnesses, The Prince and Princess of Wales.

MISS MYLOTT has a striking stage presence and a charming personality. This, added to the rich, powerful organ quality of her mellow contralto voice, which she controls with perfect ease and faultless method, it is small wonder that she has roused vast audiences to the highest pitch of enthusiasm, and that in the land of her birth it is a nation's pride that bestows on her the affectionate title of "Australia's Contralto."

WHITNEY'S WORK FOR TEMPERANCE

Liquor Licenses Reduced From 2814 to 1600 in Ten Years

ROWELL UPHELD ROSS

During Notorious Era of Liquor Law Frauds, Liberals Twice Sold Temperance Sentiment

Mr. Rowell hopes [illegible] for victory on the [illegible] of a single campaign [illegible] that the electors of Ontario may be blinded to the other great issues [illegible] the chance of success into which he is throwing all his efforts. The Whitney Government's request that the electorate express their opinion on the Workmen's Compensation Act, the highways improvement proposals apportioning $5,000,000 to new roads, and the Hydro radials legislation, excites Mr. Rowell only to an expression of agreement or the most meagre criticism. Even upon the single issue which he has selected, the Government of Sir James Whitney is doubly willing to have the judgment of the electors. Placed side by side the records of Sir James Whitney and Mr. Rowell in regard to temperance are precisely as follows:

Rowell Upheld Ross

Mr. Rowell supported by his votes and numerous platform appearances the long era of Liberal rule in Ontario during which two Liberal Governments pledged themselves to enact the largest measure of prohibition in their power, although upon receiving large majorities favoring prohibition deliberately disregarded either promises or plebiscites. Mr. Rowell stood shoulder to shoulder with his party in those twin fiascos. The notorious maladministration of liquor laws by the Ross Government brought from him no word of condemnation, even though the laxity of law enforcement and the misuse of the licensing power excited distrust throughout the ranks of Liberal electors, and caused in part the downfall of that administration.

HON. SIR JAMES P. WHITNEY, K.C.M.G., Prime Minister of Ontario

With that as his political past, Mr. Rowell resurrects in 1914 the old Liberal device, the promise of partial prohibition trusting that memories may not recall the dismal associations which Liberalism has contributed to the cause of temperance in Ontario.

Against Mr. Rowell's third-time offer of the Liberal sudden-cure, Sir James Whitney and his Government place the demonstrated facts of an enormous advance towards real temperance since the term of their administration began.

The Ross Government left the province with 2,814 liquor licenses in 1904. In ten years under the Whitney Government's plan of constantly strengthening the hands of the temperance forces, no less than 1,214 licenses were cut off. In the past eight years the number of municipalities under local option has increased from 96 to 347, while the taxes placed on the liquor trade have been exactly doubled. Only by the strictest and non-partisan enforcement of the license laws, and by over two-score important amendments to the Act, has such striking progress been possible. The ill-working local option bylaws of the old government was rendered practicable and clear, the power of the municipal councils over local option votes was cancelled, and the expressed will of the people was otherwise made supreme and easy of application.

Unsolicited Testimonies

Testimonies to the Whitney Government's achievements in the interests of temperance have come from all quarters. The Pioneer, the organ of the Dominion Alliance, said on Nov. 11th, 1910: "One of the best forms of local option is in force in the province of Ontario."

General Booth, on Ontario's management of the liquor traffic: "In this respect Ontario leads the world."

The Pioneer, March, 1910: "The liquor laws are carried out in a manner that reflects credit upon the Government in general and in particular upon the gentleman at the head of that department."

Mr. Joseph Gibson, President Ontario Alliance: "You did your duty You said at the start that you would make the license holders keep hotel and you did."

MR. SODEN'S POLICY

When Mr. Soden, in his telegram to the Toronto Star, June 13, 1914, said, "I regard Rowell's policy as even more dangerous to true temperance than the present arrangement" he in effect said:

"I believe that if Mr. Rowell wipes out 1300 hotel licenses, and 58 club licenses, abolishes the treating system and makes it easy for the people to wipe out the remaining 215 shop licenses by making it possible to do so on a straight majority vote, conditions will be worse and more liquor will be drunk in the 215 shops that remain than there is now in the same 215 shops, plus 1300 hotel bar rooms bar policy" If returned how would he reconcile these factions.

Mr. Soden quoted from the Globe newspaper, showing that candidates in Eastern Ontario were advocating Bilingualism quite as much as "Abolish the bar," and if returned were very likely to demand (and if Rowell were returned) obtain bilingual schools in payment for their support of "Abolish the bar." In concluding the speaker asked for support for the Whitney Government on the ground of their safe, sane and progressive legislation in the past. They said to the Temperance people if you want more advanced measures send me the men who advocate and believe in them. While Rowell promised the measures irrespective of what class of candidate was chosen by the party. And even if returned was likely to find himself bound by a promise he could not fulfill.

Mr. Soden on resuming his seat was loudly applauded.

After cheers had been given for the King, The Whitney Government and the Candidate, the meeting adjourned by singing "For He is a Jolly Good Fellow."

Bright Brass

Next time you are cleaning brassware of any kind, try using lemon juice. Cut a lemon in half, dip it in coarse salt, and rub it thoroughly over the surface of the brass until all the stains have disappeared. Then rinse well in warm water, and polish with a soft duster and a little finely powdered bathbrick.

ROWELL COAXES HELP OF FRENC

Liberal Leader's Promises to R tain Their "Mother Tongue" in English Schools

That N. W. Rowell, leader of t Liberal party in Ontario, is s by every means in his power to str a pre-election bargain with F Canadian voters throughout the pro vince is by this time abundantly cl Challenged again and again to m his position on the bi-lingual is plain to the electors, he has evad a direct reply, smothering his mean ing in round-about phraseology.

In his manifesto to the people of the province while he deluges the Minister and Department of Education with abuse, he cunningly omits an mention of bi-lingualism. But not so when he finds himself before an audience at New Liskeard on Jan 10th. There the topic of the rig of the French language in the pub schools of the Province looms alm as big in Mr. Rowell's hands "Abolish the Bar." These were hi words:

"But as there are children in th Province belonging to other races as English is the language of com merce, so is their's the language of diplomacy and of literature and of science, and it is only natural th they should desire to retain th mother tongue, and so, consis with a good English educat the one hand, I would be see, and I believe all public-s rited citizens would be glad to see, the children of our French-Canadia fellow-citizens receive an educatio in their mother tongue as well." (Loud applause).—Toronto Glob June 11, 1914.

Again at the nomination of Mr Racine in Russell, Mr. Sam Clarke of Northumberland, one Mr. Rowell's most zealous supporters in the Legislature, declared on a public platform that the Toronto attitude on the bi lingual question was to be attribute to "the ignorance and miserable sus picions that the Conservatives enter tained."

In other places, speakers hav pointed to Mr. Rowell as the man wh would "settle" the bi-lingual question

Before that opportunity reaches M Rowell the electors will have an op portunity to express an opinion.

Lemon Foam

Three eggs, whites only; two cups boiling water; the juice of two lemons; one cup sugar; two tablespoons corn starch and a pinch of salt.

Bring the water and sugar to the boil, add the corn starch after blending it in water, and the salt. Boil for five minutes, then add the juice of the lemons. After the mixture cools somewhat add the whites of the eggs, well beaten. Stir occasionally while cooling, and then pour into a mould. Make a boiled custard with the yokes of the eggs and serve with the foam. You can use the rind of the lemons in the custard if you like, but it would require to be strained.

Steamed Pudding

Two eggs; small half cup of sugar; one half cup butter; three-fourths of a cup of flour; one small teaspoon soda. Beat the butter to a cream, add the sugar and soda, then the beaten eggs, afterwards a dessert spoonful of jam of any kind, and lastly the flour. Steam in a buttered mould for two and a half hours. Be sure and mix as directed.

WHAT A LIBERAL PAPER IN HIS HOME TOWN HAS TO SAY OF MR. R. J. SODEN

An Old Midland Boy Nominated as Conservative Candidate in West Peterborough

(From The Midland Free Press.)

"Mr. R. J. Soden, an old Midland boy, has received the Conservative Nomination for the riding of West Peterborough. We need hardly say that though opposed to us in political creed we wish him success. Mr. Soden, while in Midland, was one of our most progressive citizens, and it was through him that the Canada Iron Furnace Co. was induced to locate its plant here. Always an ardent politician he took an active part in all municipal and parliamentary affairs, and while a staunch Conservative at all times, he still made many friends among his opponents on account of the clean, fair methods which he always adopted in furthering the cause of his party.

"He will make an energetic representative for any riding, and West Peterborough, if it elects him at the coming election, will secure a clean, just and aggressive member, who, from our knowledge of him, will not allow any consideration to outweigh his convictions of what is right in all matters affecting the province.

"Mr. Soden has made a clean-cut statement regarding his stand on the temperance question. He is even willing to go a little further than the Rowell policy of abolish the bar. He is in favor of doing away with the shop and club license as well. It is up to the temperance people of this Province to stand together, regardless of politics, if they ever hope to rid Canada of its greatest curse."

VICTORIA UNIVERSITY TO EXPAND THE COLLEGE TO RAISE MILLIONS

Methodist College Will No Longer Stand Aside While Others, Like the Y.M.C.A., Accumulate Big Funds By Public Appeal

Toronto, June 20.—Chancellor Bowles, of Victoria University wants one million dollars. He has been the "man on the box" since last September and has now decided to drive full speed ahead.

Speaking of the project, the Chancellow said: "Victoria has stood aside from the Y.M.C.A. building fund and other collection campaigns, but Victoria will stand aside no longer for anybody. The time has come for Victoria University to take the place to which she is entitled. Victoria has everything worth having that every other college in the university federation possesses. But there is one thing we don't have that is dancing. I know the newspapers say we have but it is a lie. And they will say it again in spite of my contradicting it."

Chancellor Bowles is the most courteous and gentle of collegians, but his eye flashed as he denounced the circulation of the rumors that went the rounds of college corridors of the giddy dancer with the sacred precincts of the Methodist residence.

No Room for More Students.

Describing the need for the million dollar endowment which he has set out to secure the Chancellor said: "We have 600 students on our roll, more than our present faculty can do full justice to. I am very much amused at the kind of letters I often receive from good Methodists in differents parts of the province. They write imploring me to do something to secure the attendance of young Mr. So and So at Victoria, because they are afraid for various reasons that the young man will go to McMaster or some other college. My reply to such letters," says Chancellor Bowles: "Let him go to McMaster or whatever college he is inclined to by all means, for we have more students than we can properly attend to."

ONLY TWO WERE LOST IN MISSISSIPPI WRECK

St. Louis, June 20.—Thirty-three persons were on board the excursion steamer Majestic when it sank in the Mississippi River near here early today, and of these two were unaccounted for, a watchman and a deckhand. The others either swam ashore were taken off in lifeboats, of which the steamer carried six, or found safety on the upper deck which remained above water.

KINGSTON MAN NOW WINS $1000 PRIZE FOR HIS PLAY

Miss Adele Blood, With Sunday World's Aid, is Successful in Finding a Canadian Author

Toronto, June 20.—Miss Adele Blood's prize of $1,000 for a Canadian play by a Canadian author, was won by H. Benjamin Osborne of Kingston.

The announcement was made late Saturday afternoon by Mr. Hope, her manager, as Shea's Theatre, where Miss Blood's company is in stock.

J. E. Middleton, of the Toronto News, who submitted three plays, received second place for his, "The Buttons." Unfortunately in this play he made a man the leading character contrary to the rules of the contest, which said that the successful play should be one that Miss Blood could use as a starring vehicle.

J. W. L. Forster, the artist receives honorable mention for a play called "Back to Father," written in fifteen days, and exceptionally good.

The judging in the contest in which thirty-seven plays were submitted, was done by Daniel Frawley, of Chicago, producing manager for Oliver Morosco, and whose judgment in the play world is invariably accurate.

Miss Blood read all the plays as they were received, then sent them to Mr. Frawley. The merit of the majority of them was surprising to Miss Blood. Not all, however, were the right length. Some with a little changing, would be suitable for short vaudeville sketches.

The winner of the $1,000 is a Kingston man of 30. He went to the R.M.C. for a year in 1900 and later to Queen's for two or three years.

To the Electors of West Peterborough

Mr. Soden solicits the Temperance vote on the ground that he is in favor of the abolition of the Bar, Club and Shop Licenses. Will Mr. Soden state on the platform that he will vote with either Political Party for the abolition of the Bar, Club and Shop License, or over his own signature in the public press?

My promise to the Electors is — I WILL.

JAP WORSHIPS TO COERCE HINDUS

Legion of Frontiersman of Vancouver Will Also Assist in Getting Them Away

Vancouver, B.C., June 20.—Captain Yamamoto, of the Komogata Maru, which brought a large party of Hindus to Vancouver and whose vessel with all passengers aboard is still anchored in the harbor, will confer to-day with the officers of the two visiting Japanese warships Asama and Adzuma, which are due to arrive in port this morning. The present plans is to place a guard of white men aboard the Komagata Maru tonight or Sunday and to tow her out beyond the three mile limit off the British Columbia coast. The time, however has not been definitely set. Outside of territorial waters, it is expected that the Japanese cruisers will furnish an armed guard to assist the crew in taking the vessel across the Pacific.

At present the Hindus are in absolute command aboard the vessel and the thirty members of the crew can do nothing with them. Fifty armed members of the Legion of Frontiersmen of Vancouver have agreed to act as a guard over the troublesome Hindus until the vessel is outside the harbor, when the Japanese and East Indians will be allowed to fight out their own troubles aboard the Japanese passenger vessel.

FIRE PREVENTS RESCUE WORK HILLCREST

Wash Room Ghastly Scene as Victims Were Lifted to the Surface—Bodies Piled in Heaps

Lethbridge, Alta., June 20.—Latest news from Hillcrest is that all rescue work at the mine has had to be abandoned owing to the outbreak of fire at the No. 1 new shaft. Some 60 bodies have so far been recovered. It has been ascertained that 219 were in the mine at the time, which is divided into two parts. Of this number, 40 came out alive. The force of the explosion was in the south workings, where over one hundred are at present entombed through a cave-in, and hope of them being alive is given up.

The force of the explosion was so terrific that both the north and the south entrances of the mine, two miles away from the occurrence, together with the roof of the engine house outside the south entrance, were shattered.

The first rescue team to enter the mine were lads from nearby mines., one of the heroes of the day, who was nearly overcome by the poisonous fumes, and who was compelled to go to the hospital. The teams equipped with the oxygen apparatus, were sent down in fives and sevens. They worked for two hours on a shift, when another party took their places. The bodies came out slowly and were brought to the surface along the slope by miners who risked their lives to go down and meet the men. As the bodies came to the surface they were taken to the wash house, where they were washed and identified if possible. They were then removed to the miners' hall in the little village 800 feet below the mine slopes.

The wash room presented the most ghastly sight ever beheld in the entire past. Bodies were brought up in twos, and as the cinders and debris were removed from their clothing, they became recognizable and many such remark as "Here's old—— boy's" was passed by the comrades, who were engaged in the ghastly task.

Many of the bodies were almost unrecognizable. Arms were torn out and one man's head was completely torn off, while nearly everybody was charred to a crisp.

Malcolm Link, one of the men who managed to escape, stated that the interior of the mine was in a terrible state. Bodies were piled in heaps, along with pieces of twisted tracks, cars, hoses and mine timbers, many of which were torn from their places.

BOYS PREPARE FOR Y.M.C.A. CAMP

Thirty to Forty Lads to Take in the Annual Outing to Sandy Point—Camp Opens June 29 and Closes July 11

Now is the time when the boy is longing to get away from the heat of the city, after the examinations are over. We see large numbers of boys going off to the woods, or sitting at the side of the river, enjoying the cool breezes and getting next to nature.

Without a doubt a few weeks of a growing boy's time spent as near the wild and nature as possible, affords not only a recreation but a basis for healthful growth that places a boy far in advance of the one who in the same class does not have the same opportunity to live with Nature. The boy, who is not endowed with animal spirits is lacking in the first requisites for a perfect young manhood; he needs physical development. In the camp he is free to receive from Nature the benefits she delights to give. Let him dress in an athletic suit, minus shoes, if he wishes and give his skin a chance to breathe the fresh air. You may call him an Indian if you wish but let him gain the health and strength that only a free outdoor life can five. It is well to encourage athletic field games that opportunity to tramp through the woods looking for something. Give him a definite aim, whether a rock, or plant or Indian relic. It little matters, but on his return to camp he will be physically tired and very hungry and possessed with the consciousness that he has learned something. The period for sleep should be one. A healthy boy, physically weary and not mentally fagged will, like the farmer boy, fall asleep at taps or before and sleep till reveille is sounded in the morning. For evening entertainments in camp there are concerts, camp first, marshmellow roasts mock trials, and numerous other things.

In no station in life can a man come into closer touch with a boy than out in the open, away from the restriction and formalities of city life. He can there help the boy to get along with his fellows, to adjust himself to circumstances, and to know that his life may be a factor for good in the world.

This year the Y. M. C. A. Boys' Camp promises to be the best in the history of the association. The camp will be held at Sandy Point, Clear Lake, from June 29th to July 11th. Sandy Point has a safe beach for swimming and miles of water for boating and fishing. It has a good field for baseball and other sports and is without a doubt the best spot on the lakes for a boy's camp. This camp is for boys who are members of the Y.M.C.A. and who are twelve years of age or over.

The boys will be under the supervision of the officers of the Association, assisted by young men of character and ability, who are interested in the development of a manly character among boys.

The purpose is to give a boy a happy healthy vacation, and an outdoor life brim full of fun and sport under the most wholesome influence and surroundings.

The cook house which is a very important feature in camp, will be well looked after. A competent cook will be in charge and an abundant supply of good, wholesome food will be supplied three times a day. We know the eating capacity of a boy in camp, especially after a long tramp or a good swim, and we will have everything that a boy likes to eat.

The party will leave the Wolfe St. wharf on Monday morning at 7.30 and go by steamer over the lift lock and arrive at Sandy Point about 11 a.m. when the boys will put up their tents and make everything ready for a long stay under canvas.

Any boy who wants to go to camp can get all necessary information from Mr. G.L. Galley, Boys' Secretary and as all applications must be in by Saturday, June 27th boys who do intend to go would do well to come in as soon as possible.

Huerta Sympathizes to Found Mexican Colony If He is Deposed

Montreal, June 20.—Fleeing from that wrath that is bound to come upon them if Huerta should fall and they remain in troublous Mexico, it is likely that hundreds of members and supporters of the Huerta administration will come to the City of Montreal to found a Mexican colony.

A letter has been received by Mr. Higgins of the St. Lawrence hall from Senor L. M. Rodriguez of Boston, manager of the South American Agricultural Bureau of Information, asking for accommodation for senators, governors and mayors who may have to flee Mexico. The letter asks that one condition be observed, and it is probable that if followers of Huerta do make the hotel their refuge, no Carranzists will be found there.

The St. Lawrence Hall has long been identified with troublous times in America. It was the home of noted confederate refugees during the American civil war.

PUBLIC MEETING.

Editor Morning Times.

Dear Sir,—It is understood that a biscuit-box prayer meeting will be held at the gas works corner in aid of the liquor shop policy now being brought so much to the front. If you are in favor of total abolition and will get up and say so, regardless of partics and in defiance of them, it makes no difference. You must sign what the churches have set out for you or go to the wall. One candidate says he will support whichever party agrees to abolish most and if they "deem it wise." The other man is a champion of immediate prohibition regardless of all parties. Think what he can do for the cause if Whitney is returned. Think what the other man can't do whoever is returned. However, the meeting will be held Monday night (D.V.) and Tuesday whether or no.

Common Sense.

P.S.—What do you think of the consistency of preachers?

THE PREACHER POLITICIAN.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—Protestants have always found fault (and not without reason) with the Roman Hierarchy for meddling in politics. The organization of the society known as the Protestant Federation was for the sole purpose of combating this evil. What do the same people think of Protestant ministers taking to the stump on the present political campaign?

If Roman Catholic priests would attempt to do what some impulsive Protestant ministers are now doing along political lines, there would be a howl that would be heard all over the land. Roman Catholic priests doubtless do political work, but I think I am safe in saying they have never been known to go as far as stumping the constituency.

HOME TREATMENT FOR SALLOW, WRINKLED SKIN

A.C.F. asks: "What should I do for my sallow complexion, and how can I get rid of my wrinkles?"

Sallowness is best removed by removing the skin itself. This is effectually accomplished by the use of ordinary mercolized wax, which causes the offensive outer skin gradually to peel off, in fine particles scarcely noticeable to the naked eye. Within a week or so you will have an enviable complexion, the new skin exhibiting a healthful, youthful tint incomparable with artificial coloring. Get an ounce of this wax at your drugstore, apply at night like cold cream, only don't rub it in. Wash it off in the morning with warm water.

For your wrinkles try a solution of powdered saxolite, 1 oz., dissolved in ½ pint witch hazel. Bathe your face in this every morning for a while. The result will surprise you.—Beauty's Mirror.

BOB PERRY BREAKS COLLER-BONE WHEN MACHINE SKIDS IN PRACTICE

American Crack Was Thrown at the West Turn First Time Round--Big Crowd and Great Racing at T.M.C.

Exhibition Park, Toronto, June 20.—What promises to develop into a very good crowd has already assembled here to witness the second race meet of the season being held under the auspices of the Toronto Motorcycle Club.

There are several riders of note at the track, including "Dare Devil" Cole, Joe Baribeau, "Mud" Gardiner, Bob Perry, Patterson and other Canadian stars. In practice before the races, Bob Perry's machine skidded on the west turn and he was thrown to the ground breaking his collar bone. He will, therefore, be prevented from taking part in the professional events in which he is entered.

The program arranged by the racing committee is an exceptionally good one and will undoubtedly bring out some great riding. The weather is ideal for racing and the track is in excellent condition, having been well oiled this morning, in order to prevent dust to a great extent.

The races were started by Controller James Simpson, who received a great hand when he appeared.

VASTNESS OF CANADA

The Right Hon. R.L. Borden, Prime Minister of Canada, dealing with the dimensions of the Dominion of Canada, recently asked his audience: "Do you realize how great a country Canada is? If you could pivot Canada upon its eastern seaboard, it would cover the northern part of the Atlantic ocean, the British Isles, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Holland, Belguim, the northern part of France, the entire German Empire, and a considerable part of European Russia, and a man who lives in Halifax, Nova Scotia, is a thousand miles farther away from Victoria, British Columbia, than he is from London, Eng."

GRAIN MEN PREPARING NOW FOR A BIG WESTERN CROP

Toronto, June 20.—James Carruthers, the big Montreal grain man, wired the following Saturday at noon:

Rather early to give estimates on Northwestern wheat crop, but everything to date looks exceedingly promising. Conditions have been as near perfect as possible since seed went into ground, and extraordinary growth has taken place over the entire grain belt. Soil has abundant moisture and recent cold weather has strengthened the plant to a state where it can withstand a great many vicissitudes. Present conditions point to a slight increase in wheat, 20 per cent. increase in barley and oats, with a decrease in flax. A good demand has already sprung up for fall lake tonnage from Fort William to the bay and Montreal, showing that the grain trade feel there will be a big crop to move and consequently are making early contracts to take care of same.

SCHNECTADY BOATMAN GIVES MURDERER CLUE

Schenectady, N.Y., June 20.—A definite clue to the slayer of the girl whose dismembered torso was found in Mohawk River developed to-day, when Claude Hanlon, manager of a boat supply house near the scene where the gruesome find was made, declared that a man carrying a burlap bag hired a row-boat from him on the night of May 20. This man before putting out from shore, Hanlon said, picked up from the bank a concrete block similar to the one used to weight down the burlap bag in which the torso of the victim in the sack mystery was found.

The body, according to Coroner Jackson had been in the water about a month. It was just a month ago to-day that Hanlon hired out his rowboat. He had given the police a detailed description of this man, who was well dressed and apparently an American, and widespread search is being made for him.

POLICE LOOKING FOR TWO MISSING MEN

Toronto, June 20.—The relatives of Simon Hayes, aged 50, of Matheson, Ont., fear that the aged man has met with foul play and have asked the police to try and locate him. Hayes, who is suffering from eye trouble, came to the city on Friday intending to undergo an operation for the eye trouble. He registered at the Gladstone Hotel, and going out on Friday night has not been seen since. He had quite a sum of money on him.

The Toronto police have also received word from Oshawa to try and locate Wm. Pomeroy, aged 29, of that place, who left for Toronto on an excursion and has disappeared.

Link With Dickens

There is living in Melbourne an old man named Woolcott, who when a boy was a "copy-holder" at Messrs. Chapman and Hall's when "The Pickwick Papers" were published as a serial story in monthly parts. Woolcott, who emigrated in 1851, says he carried Dickens's manuscript about a dozen times, and sometimes returned it for correction. "It was wrapped in brown paper, loosely tied with string. I remember on one occasion that I dared to untie the string and read the story. It was at that glorious scene between Sam Weller and his father, when Sam reads out his valentine."

INTRODUCTION

The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Company, Limited, was incorporated in 1913 with six pairs of foxes, at $60,000. This Company re-capitalized in 1914, with 20 pairs of beautiful Silver Black Foxes, at $15,000 per pair, making a total capitalization of $300,000.

THE FOXES

Six pairs (one year old) proven breeders, and fourteen pairs (1914 pups), making a total of 20 pairs — all young foxes— good for at least 10 years. This Company has bought some of this year's options on foxes with a guarantee that they are pedigreed and of the highest strain and very best quality P. E. Island famous foxes.

THE RANCH

The ranch is situated on the well known Glenaladale Farm, owned by Major C. McKinnon, formerly the homestead of Sir William McDonald, and is only 12 miles from Charlottetown, in a quiet locality sufficiently removed from any disturbance.

THE RANCHER

Mr. Arthur W. McKinnon, our Ranch Manager, has had much experience in breeding foxes, and has the practical knowledge necessary to efficiently manage and care for the animals.

The foxes will be ranched free of charge to the Company for the first year. This means a large saving to the shareholders, as some companies have to pay as high as 25 per cent. of the increase for ranching purposes.

The promoters of this Company are retaining $80,000 worth of stock for themselves. $20,000 worth has already been disposed of, leavinb $200,000 to be offered to investors at $25.00 per share, with a guarantee that a dividend of 50 per cent. will be paid in cash in 1915, or whatever more it may be.

The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Co., Limited, in 1913 guaranteed a dividend of 50 per cent. but are going to pay 50 per cent. in cash and 50 per cent., in stock in 1914. The Company is in good standing and to each and every investor the first of September, 1914, we can say:— "We have given you 50 per cent. more than we promised." And we feel sure that in 1915 all the shareholders in this re-capitalized company will be able to say they received more than they were promised.

This Company can truthfully say that they have not one cent of watered stock in the Company. Now Mr. Investor, if you were a Company and we the shareholders, we would look to you for justice to give us all that was honestly due us. We would not like for you to buy 3 pairs of foxes at $15,000 per pair ($45,000) and form a fox company and capitalise your concern at $60,000 and make us pay, as shareholders, for it. The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Company, Limited, will ask you to do nothing like that. We want to let you in on the ground floor.

NOTICE

When a fox company guarantees any specified dividend to its shareholders, and when said company is an incorporated body, you need not be afraid of any unfair play, for such a company is compelled to pay what they promise, and, besides, every interest is taken for the welfare of both the investor and the company.

The promoters of this Company are all above board and will not permit any crook to come in and do anything that is not right. Anyone holding stock in this Comnany who is dissatisfied can, by notifying the Secretary-Treasurer, have his or her money promptly refunded.

FORTUNES IN FOXES

There is money in fox ranching more than anything else ever known. It is good for the rich man and good for the poor man. A poor man cannot buy a pair of Silver Black Foxes but he can easily raise $25.00, $50.00 or $100.00. By investing in this Company he gets back his money in at least two years and then he will have an income for life and for his children to come—and after there will be money in fox farming. One of the reasons for this is that P. E. Island has now 95 per cent. of the world's foxes in captivity. For every one pelt that can be raised there are more than 25 wealthy people waiting for it in London, Russia, France and America.

PELT VALUES

The Fox Pelts have advanced greatly in price since 1910 and you can see for yourself what money was in them then.

Below are the particulars of sale of a consignment of Silver Fox Furs, shipped from Prince Edward Island ranches to London, England, and sold there in March, 1910:

SHARES

Shares are selling at $25.00 each; 25 per cent. with application and the balance on or before September 1st, 1914.

Simply fill out the application form and mail to Major C. McKinnon, Secretary-Treasurer, Glenaladale, P. E. I.

All cheques must be made payable to "The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Co., Ltd."

A POINTER

Just to give you a little idea of what the free ranching of foxes mean to the investor, we will figure it out for you.

We have twenty pairs of foxes in the ranch and suppose each pair produces a litter of only four foxes this is equal to 40 pairs and at $15,000 per year it would figure out at $600,000. Now, if we had to pay even 15 per cent. of the increase for ranching purposes (which is considerably lower than some companies pay) it would mean that we would have to pay $90,000 for ranching expenses.

We ranch the foxes free for the first year, so that in addition to a guaranteed dividend of 50 per cent., we save you this large outlay of money. While we guarantee 50 per cent., still should each pair in our ranch produce four pups it would mean that your dividend would be about 200 per cent. instead of 50 per cent.

FINAL WORD

A great deal has been written about Ranches, Grades of Foxes, etc., but after all the one object that every investor should keep before him is the dividend he is going to get. We have tried to show you in plain English what we can do for you and now that you have our proposition, compare it with the offer made by any other company now in business and then judge for yourself to have been said by some of the Charlottetown daily newspapers.

A Chafing Dish Supper

Into a chafing dish put half a cup of milk—add to this half an onion chopped fine—a red and a green pepper seeded and cut in small pieces, a large juicy tomato, skinned and cut in small pieces, together with a teaspoonful of salt and three lumps of sugar. Let these boil slowly for ten minutes. Add to this a cupful of cheese and when it is thoroughly melted pour in a well beaten egg beating all the time until the mixture is smooth. Have ready sufficient toast beautifully browned and serve a large spoonful on each square of toast. Five people can be served with this quantity. It makes an appetizing supper dish, and one which will often be called for by those who care for cheese.

Our Point of View

Mr. Rowell is unwilling to talk shop, but he has to.

—o—

The fact that Thomas Edison is deaf probably explains why he thinks more of the phonograph than of his other inventions.

—o—

If there is anything calculated to cause mourning in the boarding houses of the land it is the news that the prune crop is a failure.

—o—

From Ottawa comes the news that the hurricane season is due. The announcement will be regarded by many persons as a sarcastical reference to the coming debate in the Senate on the C.N.R. bill.

—o—

In the light of the fact that seventeen sailors and marines killed at Vera Cruz have just been buried no one will challenge Secretary Bryan's statement that the Mexican situation is a grave affair.

—o—

We are told that 12,000 persons daily contemplate suicide in Chicago. This impresses us as a modest estimate, considering the two millions of people who are obliged to live there.

—o—

"People in this vicinity," says a Hamilton paper, "are warned against [illegible] money to a stranger disguised as the Salvation Army." Evidently some fellow is going through that part of the country dressed in a bass drum and a tambourine.

—o—

Rev. W. J. Spence, of Chatham, did what he could to bring about the adoption of a local option by-law to close the bars in that city. In the interest of the temperance cause he advises every temperance elector to support Mr. Sulman, the Whitney candidate in West Kent.

Bearing True Witness

The Montreal Witness, one of the chief prohibitionist newspapers in Canada, pays this compliment to the Whitney Administration:

"As the passing of the days draws us closer to the date of the Ontario elections, the electors find the problems facing them growing more serious. It was to the relief of the Liberals as well as to the Conservatives when Sir James Whitney secured power in Ontario and showed that he had both the intention and ability to give to the province a clearer and more business like government that it had known for some years. There is no denying, not any wish to deny, that the Government of Sir James Whitney has passed some temperance measures, and that it has enforced them in a way temperance legislation had never been enforced before. The enforcement of local option and the hydro-electric have proved popular works of the Government, so also has the Act for bilingual schools, and its enforcement. With all this to his credit, Sir James has a strong claim for support from the people of both parties; he has been an upright, forceful leader, who knew his own mind. For his conduct in office he will get many votes, but the thing that is [illegible] to tell as much in the coming election as anything that Sir James Whitney has done is his recent serious illness. It won for him a great amount of sympathy which has not died out, and which will be registered at the polls."

Cure Children's Colds By External Treatment

Mothers Will Find Nothing So Speedily and Reliable as Old-Time "Nerviline."

It's really a shame to upset a young child's stomach by internal dosing, when external treatment will so promptly break up a cold.

When your boy comes in after play with his feet soaking wet, his throat hoarse and sore, his little chest tight and congested, just apply Nerviline. Give him a vigorous rubbing over his throat, and put lots of Nerviline on his chest and rub it right in. To make Nerviline penetrate more quickly cover his chest and throat with a hot flannel bandage. This treatment WON'T fail. Your boy will be feeling better in half an hour and you will have the satisfaction of knowing you have warded off perhaps a cold, or grippe, or illness that might have laid him up.

Nerviline is mighty good for preventing colds and for breaking up a bad one, too. For general family use it cures all sorts of external aches and pains—you simply can't beat it. Try it for earache, toothache, neuralgia, sciatica, lame back, rheumatism, or lumbago. Wherever there is congestion, inflammation or pain in the joints or muscles, Nerviline will cure mighty quick. The large 50c. family size bottle is so economical, so useful, it should be in every home. There is also a small, 25c. size. Dealers anywhere sell Nerviline.

Our Street Paving

Now that the City Council is considering the question of laying more pavements in this city, there is a more serious question than the initial cost of such work. Anyone may secure what appears at the price charged a bargain. To buy blindfold because an article appears cheap is false economy. The far sighted man considers not only the first cost but asks himself how long will this article last. How much of a sinking fund must be laid aside to provide for repairs. This argument possibly applies more strongly to street paving that to any other commodity, in life. In this city good work has been done- judging by present appearance on the streets paved. Still in the lengeh of every block appear scores of slight depressions. These fill with water. This accumulating water must naturally, in time, disintegrate the pavement beneath. When the contractors' term of guarantee expires, who is going to pay for repairs? particularly should the guarantors be out of existence. How much will the city have to pay for all time for such repairs.

Timber as Strong as Cast Iron

Probably the strongest timber in the world is a species of eucalyptus, known as yate, which grows to a considerable size in Australia. Its average tensile strength is 24,006 pounds per square inch; in other words a bar of this wood one inch square will (in theory, at least) hold up a weight of twelve tons. This is equal to good cast iron.

A happy man or woman is a better thing to find than a five pound note. He or she is a radiating focus of good will, and their entrance into a room is as though another candle had been lighted. We need not care whether they could prove the forty-seventh proposition; they do a better thing than that—they practically demonstrate the great theorem of the Livableness of Life. Robert Louis Stevenson.

Gossip and Women's Clubs

Only one thing is fatal to the happy social life of any country community, and that is gossip. If the ladies cannot find in the wide field of housekeeping, chicken-raising, preserving, care of children, public schools, music, art, reading, public improvements, good government, health, sewing, entertaining and all other delightful household tasks, enough material to lift the meetings above petty personalities, then the little club, or whatever it is called, is doomed. Whenever gossip is allowed into any organization people will begin to break up into little cliques or circles or groups, and the whole thing fails.—Farm and Fireside.

Peter's Adventures in Matrimony

By LEONA DALRYMPLE

Author of the new novel, "Diane of the Green Van," awarded a prize of $10,000 by Ida M. Tarbell and S.S. McClure as judges.

The truth about "the girl in the case" distinguishes this new series by Miss Dalrymple. Her character studies will not appear unfamiliar to the majority of readers, who will follow the fortunes of "Peter" with interest.

No. 95

Facing Realities.

LEONA DALRYMPLE

THE building inspectors came out in the morning and condemned my little home as utterly unsafe. The daily papers printed pictures of it and spoke charitably of Mary's having forgotten the gas heater, but, all in all, we suffered a notoriety far from pleasant. After a time it died out, as even sensations in a country town will, and Mary and I were face to face with certain facts. I must buy new furniture. That in itself would commit us to debt, for we were living up to our means. And we would shake the dust of suburbanism from our feet and take a little apartment near mother and dad.

Vain Regrets.

Mary gave up utterly. She cried a great deal, and grew so nervous and hysterical that I did not know at times how to pacify her.

"To think, Peter," she would exclaim shuddering, "it was all my fault—just—just because I would forget things. If—if I hadn't forgotten to turn off the gas heater the boiler wouldn't have exploded, and we'd have our home still. And the cat wouldn't be dead."

It was odd how the sight of that dead cat on the sidewalk had seemed to impress the tragedy more on Mary's mind than anything else. What an abnormal gift of sympathy women possess!

"Well," I would answer hopefully, "let's not worry any more about it. We'll take a little apartment in town and begin all over. To be perfectly truthful, dear, the suburban atmosphere of this place has been getting horribly on my nerves for some time. We'll soon forget this experience and be none the worse for it."

But it was destined to have an effect on my life that I was not to forget.

After Mary was quite herself again we hunted up a cosey little apartment in town and bought furniture again as in our honeymoon days. There was really very little of value left in our cottage. Most of the furniture had been pretty well wrecked. Here and there, to be sure, were pieces of furniture that we had polished over and fixed up, but for the most part the terrific explosion of the water heater had done deadly work.

Beginning Over Again.

Mary and I talked things over very seriously one night after our little apartment was quite in order.

"Peter," she said, "I—I've laid awake nights thinking of how this dreadful thing is all my fault, and I—I want to promise you that I—I'm going to begin all over again. The flat's new and the furniture's new, and I'm going to turn over quite a new leaf. I won't forget soap and matches or anything."

There was such a wistful desire to atone in her eyes that I felt a lump in my throat.

"Don't worry, sweetheart!" I said cheerfully. "Let's rather think how pleasant the apartment looks. It's like another honeymoon."

Which pleased Mary mightily.

"You don't hate me, Peter?" she whispered.

"Certainly not," said I. And Mary and I shook hands, with a feeling that we were beginning over again. As, indeed, we were.

After all, I must not blame Mary so much. Looking back over her idle, frivolous girlhood, shielded from all knowledge of the things that would have fitted her for wifehood and womanhood, what was there to help her steer her course aright? She fancied I was merely to replace her mother's care and protection. There was no realization in her pretty conception of our idyllic relations that I wanted her for a stanch, true partner of weal and woe not as a pretty playmate who'd shirk when she was tired. Her mind was filled with dresses and the acute sentimentality with which every girl colors her dreams of marriage.

Now at last we are beginning to face realities. Mary is beginning to think.

Newest Hats for Summer

By Madge Marvel

THE all-white hat is replacing the all-black one for midsummer wear. Big flowers, enormous peonies, roses, pond lilies are used for trimming. Horsehair lace is sometimes draped over the crown and allowed to extend in a little frill at the edge of the brim. The sailor shape is most popular. White chip seems the favored straw. Where color is used on the white hats the hat itself is often of shadow lace over a wire frame, and the trimming is in pale tints of broad satin ribbon, pale pink, blue, lavender, while the flowers used are big and faintly tinted.

They are charming hats to wear with light summer dresses, and after the reign of the black hat give a particularly attractive appearance to all women. There are many variations of the sailor shape in these chip models. The high-crowned, narrow-brimmed shape is seen, and is either trimmed with two narrow, tall, white wings, or three enormous, bigger-than-life roses set around the crown, almost obscuring the brim, while one tall rose nods at the centre back of the hat.

The larger sailor, which has some of the lines of a "picture hat" with its greatest length from back to front, may have a curve of the brim at one side and the massing of big posies around the crown with the height of arrangement in front. I notice many of the white hats have white foliage for the flowers, no color at all being allowed to creep into the trimming. The Watteau hat, which one might reasonably have expected to be the very style in vogue in the summer season, seems less desirable than some of the mode's which are less picturesque but much smarter.

Lace shapes which suggest the poke are being shown with the back, where the brim is upturned, filled in with pale pink blossoms and a broad ribbon of pink satin arranged across the crown.

White lace over pink tulle with clouds of pink tulle for trimming make a veritable dream of a hat to top a summer frock. With the all-white hat comes the all-white veil. The sheer lace veil with very delicate patterning is favored for the straight-brimmed hats and is worn hanging free, fastened merely at the back to the edge of the brim, and falling evenly all around.

More and more one notices the wearing of the mask veil, as the bit of sheer net ending at the nose is called. It is many years since we have worn our veils this way. The revival has a certain charm. The mask veil must be thin and carefully adjusted. It must cover the tip of the nose and must not be drawn tight. And the wearer with an attractive mouth will find it more becoming than the one whose mouth is not her best feature. The secret of this type of veil being at all possible lies in the care with which it is adjusted. It must not be drawn upward toward the back, but placed about the face and hat with the lower edge perfectly even way around to the back of the head. Otherwise it gives the impression that it is used to tie the nose on the face.

Ruffs of white tulle are favored as accompaniments for the white hats and light dresses. Indeed, all wearing apparel for the summer, aside from the linens and fabrics for morning wear, have this inconsequential airiness, which is delightfully appropriate to the needs of the season.

Champagne is a shade that has crept quietly back into sartorial favor and is appearing in many of the exclusive blouses of chiffon or batiste and in the crepe, voile and chiffon gowns. There is a soft shade of yellow which combines effectively with champagne, and a certain clear green and a dull blue which add to its loveliness.

Attraction Lost.

"[illegible] still devoted to Mrs. [illegible]?"

"[illegible] speaks to her. Her husband is dead, you know."

BUTTERFLIES * * * * * By Michelson

WHEN one butterfly looks at another it is difficult to guess what each of them is thinking. The human butterfly, fluttering through life, sipping here and there, of most eccentric flight, and seemingly hard to catch, maybe has a sincere admiration for the dainty thing that is making believe, just as the girl might, that it is going to alight.

If that other flutterer in the air really could think, what do you suppose she WOULD think of the bigger, glittering, glowing, noisy girl butterfly who is watching her?

Both may seem very foolish, and both may be very wise, each in her own way. You can't tell about butterflies. You know they come out of a chrysalis—a WONDERFUL piece of magic. Maybe you had better not be too sure as to what magic may yet happen to the girl butterfly. Some one may hold out a hand to HER. After she is CAUGHT she may change marvellously.

Great Novels in a Nutshell

Charles Dickens'
OLIVER TWIST

Condensed by
HELEN S. GRAY

OLIVER TWIST was born in the workhouse, his mother dying at his birth. So Mr. Bumble, the beadle, who invented names in alphabetical order for orphans under such circumstances, named him. The inmates were half-starved, so that the place would not be too attractive. When he was 9 years old, Oliver was taken on trial apprenticeship by an undertaker, but was so ill-treated he ran away to London.

On the way he fell in with a pickpocket, the Artful Dodger. Seeing that the boy was friendless and starving he invited him to share his lodgings, which proved to be a den of thieves in charge of an old Jew, Fagin, who disposed of stolen goods. Every day he drilled the boys in picking pockets.

Oliver did not understand the situation until he was on the streets one day with the other two boys and saw one of them pick an old gentleman's pocket. On being discovered they darted around a corner into a doorway. Oliver ran, and was therefore taken for the thief. He was caught and haled into court, and was just being sentenced when a witness arrived who said he saw another boy commit the theft.

Oliver was so terrified he fainted. The old gentleman, Mr. Brownlow, was a very kind-hearted man. He called a carriage and took the boy home with him, where he was ill for a long time with a fever. He had decided to question him the next morning about his past history. Meantime he sent him out on an errand. On the way he was seen by Nancy, one of the gang of thieves, claimed as her lost brother, and marched back to Fagin, who was in terror lest the boy should betray them.

The thieves decided to initiate Oliver by having him help in a burglary Bill Sikes was about to execute. A slender boy was needed who could crawl through a small window and unlock a door. The butler awoke just as Oliver was dropped through the window by Sikes, and had resolved to run through the house and cry out and awake the owners. Bill and his accomplice made their escape. Oliver was hit by a bullet. The owner, Mrs. Maylie, and her adopted child, Rose, believed Oliver's story. They nursed him back to health and became fond of him.

When Fagin read in the newspapers of the failure, he went in quest of Sikes; but he had not yet returned. Some inadvertent words he let fall aroused Nancy's suspicions. She followed him home and overheard a conversation he had with a man named Monks. She heard Monks agree to pay Fagin a certain sum if Fagin got Oliver back again, and more if he made a thief of him. Subsequently she saw Monks at Fagin's and overheard still more.

Mr. Bumble decided to marry the matron of the workhouse, a widow. His proposal was interrupted by her being summoned to hear the dying confession of an old woman, who said she stole a gold ring from Oliver Twist's mother some 12 years before, which bore the name Agnes, with a blank space left and a date. She gave the pawn ticket for it to the matron. Monks afterward bribed the matron to let him have the ring and destroyed it.

Fagin Accusing Nancy of Having Betrayed Him.

Men who intimidate others, it so happens, frequently marry women they are afraid of, and before whom they are meek and submissive. So with Mr. Bumble. One of the most amusing parts of the book is that describing him vanquished in domestic frays and held up to ridicule before the paupers. Hearing some old women gabbing over the wash tubs one day, he went in, and, to show his authority, ordered less noise. His wife appeared on the scene just at that moment and demanded to know what business it was of his. Threatening him with a bowl of soft soap, she drove him out.

Nancy, who had always felt a friendly interest in Oliver, went to Rose Maylie and told her all she knew about Monks's designs against Oliver. Because of her attachment to Bill Sikes, a brutal criminal, she refused to forsake the life she was living when offered a chance by Rose. The next time Nancy tried to slip away to see Rose, Bill locked her in. Fagin was present, and, noticing how anxious she was to get out of the house, became suspicious and had her watched. The spy overheard a conversation in which she refused to betray her pals, but told all she knew about Monks. Fagin represented to Sikes that Nancy was betraying them all. Enraged, Sikes killed her. He was haunted by his crime until, brought to bay, he accidentally strangled himself in trying to lower himself from a roof with a rope.

As soon as Oliver recovered from his wound at Mrs. Maylie's he went to hunt up his former benefactor, Mr. Brownlow, but found he had gone to the West Indies. Later Oliver ran across him on the street. He and Rose called, and Rose told him all she had learned about Monks.

Mr. Brownlow was greatly interested, and succeeded in catching Monks. When the latter saw that Mr. Brownlow knew all about him he confessed everything. Monks's father and Mr. Brownlow had been warm friends. Mr. Brownlow had been engaged to marry Monks's father's sister, but she died before the wedding day. Monks, which was an assumed name, was Oliver's half-brother. His father's first marriage proved very unhappy, ending in a separation. Subsequently he fell in love with a beautiful girl, Agnes Fleming, by whom he had a son, Oliver.

A relative died and left Oliver's father a great deal of money, but he himself died shortly after. He had settled a generous annuity on both his wife and Monks and bequeathed the rest of his estate to Agnes and her son, Oliver, on condition that the latter during his minority should not be guilty of any public act of dishonor or wrong. If he should be, the property bequeathed to him should go to Monks.

On hearing of her husband's death his wife went to the scene at once and destroyed the will. A letter he had written to Agnes Fleming, in which he spoke of the gold ring he had given her with the blank left in the name and of her approaching maternity, she saved for evidence. Monks's confession as to Oliver's birth and the ring was corroborated by Mrs. Bumble, a pawnbroker and two old women paupers. Rose Maylie was Agnes's sister.

Fagin was arrested and executed. Monks, in return for his confession and making restitution to Oliver, was not prosecuted. Mr. Brownlow adopted Oliver.

Words of Wise Men

Honorable industry always travels the same road with enjoyment and duty, and progress is altogether impossible without it.—S. Smiles.

Under this sycamore tree, with the sound of the clear river Dove in our ears, with the odor of the May flowers freshly around us after this gentle shower, and in the sight of these meadows gold and silver, the overflowing of nature for the delectation of all quiet and contemplative anglers, we do well sigh that our life is so much in walls and so little here.—Izaak Walton.

Good laws make it easier to do right and harder to do wrong.—Gladstone.

The most cultivated minds are usually the most patient, most clear, most rationally progressive, most studious of accuracy in details.—James Martineau.

History instructs us that this love of religious liberty, made up of the clearest sense of right and the highest conviction of duty, is able to look the sternest despotism in the face, and, with means apparently inadequate, to shake principalities and powers.—Daniel Webster.

The test of every religious, political or educational system is the man that it forms.—Amiel.

It is curious to observe the triumph of slight incidents upon the mind; and what incredible weight they have in forming and governing our opinions, both of men and things, that trifles light as air shall waft a belief into the soul and plant it so immovable within it, that Euclid's demonstrations, could they be brought to batter it in the breach, should not all have power to overthrow it.—Sterne.

Secrets of Health and Happiness

How Your Blood "Animals" Protect You from Illness

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins).

DR. HIRSHBERG

WHITE is the color, if it can be called a color, of purity and truth. That is to say, white is associated in human thought with all that is good and true. "As pure as the driven snow" is the colloquial tribute of street speech to the usually understood fact that "white" brings to mind "perfection."

The blood is regarded by most persons as red. Just as the snow is wrongly thought to be white, so the blood is mistakenly called red.

Briefly, snow is a motley of transparent crystals. Blood, at the same time, is mostly white, semi-translucent, opaque, in spots, and straw colored.

Yet there is a red element in the blood. The tiny little discs called red corpuscles, which are miniature Chinese pennies when viewed under the microscope, contain the scarlet stain called hemoglobin. Hemoglobin is like a magnet. Just as the little horseshoes pick up and let go of needles, pins and small metallic articles, so the hemoglobin, or vermillion element in the sanguinary stream seizes and releases oxygen and other gases.

Nature's Own Warriors.

When the wobbling, rolling, gyrating red corpuscles roll merrily along in the channels of veins and arteries they are either blue from loss of oxygen to the greedy-gut tissues, or blushing a cherry hue from the oxygen present. Literally, they are not an ultra-marine blue unless some poisonous gas or drug, such as illuminating gas, acetanilid, phenacetin, antipyrine or similar toxic thing, has replaced the much craved oxygen.

Notwithstanding these vermillion corpuscles, let it be noted that the vital stream of life is whiter, transparent or more lemon-tinted than brick colored.

One of the most aggressive, active members is the white corpuscle, called by physiologists the "leucocyte." Leucocytes, unlike the red unit which tosses and rolls with the ebb and flow, the flotsam and jetsam of the serum, are independent and self-impelling little bodies.

Indeed, you might, without stretching the truth, call them animalculae, or creatures which live along with you and co-operate with all the vital forces.

In fine, the leucocyte is a power, if not a law, unto itself. It takes up the cudgels of the body and fights many battles for you.

When your internal fabric, your membranes, your delicate structures, your flesh or blood is set upon by the marauders of disease, to wit, germs and microbes, molds and fungi, the white corpuscles rush to the defence like Funston's men to the Vera Cruz waterworks.

Plainly, then, one of the many and various functions of the leucocytes is to combat those plagues and enemies of health, bacteria.

Actually you may observe it for yourself. If a drop of salt water is warmed a bit, bacteria dropped in it, and active, heated leucocytes are mixed with them, a battle royal will take place.

Life-Saving Sight.

A muckle of matter from the head of a boil will show the same thing. There you will be amazed and overjoyed to see the busy little white corpuscle stretching out a part of itself—much as a drop of water on a window pane stretches out and fuses with another nearby drop—and really gobbling up, as a snake does a rabbit, as many microbes as it can reach.

It is more than an inspiring sight. It is a life-saving one. Without this wonderful provision of nature higher animals would long ago have died out.

Dr. Philip Hansom Hiss, a bacteriologist, formerly of the Johns Hopkins and Columbia universities, has just put these important facts to practical use. By an ingenious method he succeeds in stirring up and concentrating the leucocyte of rabbits under their ribs. This copious quantity of massed white unites are then still further concentrated by whizzing them around on a horizontal wheel called a centrifuge.

Now they are warmed up and injected in persons sick with erysipelas, pneumonia and other maladies known to be shy of white corpuscles. There are some human distempers which reduce the leucocytes. Erysipelas and malignant pneumonia, tuberculosis and typhoid are among them.

Of 146 patients with erysipelas inoculated with these rabbit leucocytes, less than 1 per cent. died—an extraordinary improvement over older forms of treatment.

Moreover, the duration of the malady was shortened from many weeks to about three days. This is looking forward medically with a flourish.

1—Salt is one of the many necessary constituents of living tissues. Too much of it, however, plays havoc with health.

2—Ear and throat surgeons are at times able to correct this defect.

3—They are as good and as bad as any artificial aid to constipation. Natural measures are superior.

Delicious Fig Dishes

ONE of the most delicious preserves is rhubarb marmalade with figs, which will be found welcome served with cold meats:

Five pounds of rhubarb and five pounds of sugar. Cut the rhubarb in small pieces and sprinkle the sugar over and let it stand over night. Cut four lemons in fine pieces and chop with them a pound of figs. Use both pulp and peel of the lemons. Add to the rhubarb and boil several hours until it is quite thick. When ready to remove from the fire add two teaspoonfuls of Jamaica ginger.

Figs, finely chopped, may be added to plain fritter batter, fried brown in deep fat, dusted with sugar and served with any sauce.

When you want something a little different for the Sunday dessert, try fig ice cream.

To make two quarts, mix one quart of cream with two cups of sugar and partially freeze. Add two cups of fig marmalade (which may be purchased at any fancy grocery store), the juice of one lemon, a teaspoonful of lemon extract and the whites of four eggs which have been beaten to a stiff froth with the invariable pinch of salt added and finish freezing. Some like the addition of a teaspoonful of Jamaica ginger extract, but this is largely a matter of personal preference. Ginger flavor blends peculiarly well with the rich sweetness of figs.

Advice to Girls

By ANNIE LAURIE

Dear Annie Laurie:

Your answers to girls' questions are so good that I thought I would write to you.

The girls around my own age do not like me, although they are always nice to me when I am with them. I am 18, a stenographer, and I live at home. People older than myself seem to like me, and old ladies and gentlemen do like me, I know.

Boys of my acquaintance all tell me their troubles and ask my advice; they tell me about girls, although, of course, I do not let them mention any names, and do not let them run girls down. The girls do not approve of the friendly way I talk to the boys who, they think, belong to them.

I do not care particularly for the companionship of people, and when I am home in the summer I get out to the woods or away by the beach where I can be alone.

What will I do? Am I not supposed to hold any conversation with any one that my girl friends do not wish me to talk to, or will I just be natural?

My brother's friends talk to me in the same way as any other friends themselves.

ALMOST HOPELESS.

NOW, Almost Hopeless, what are you so hopeless about? Nothing of the least importance that I can see. If you do not care for companionship, why do you worry when you do not get it?

You like the woods and the beach and "all outdoors" better than you do people, and you show it, and people don't like it, that's all.

You are probably cleverer than the other girls you know, and you are deeper and have more sentiment and more heart, and they don't understand you. You're like a hen with a red ribbon around her neck; all the other hens want to tear you to pieces.

But don't you let them do it. Never mind whether they like you or not; you like them, and be nice to them and don't let them see if they bore you, and they'll like you all right.

You'll probably marry some man older than yourself and be happy with him and make him happy.

In the meantime just go on and be natural and wholesome and agreeable and you'll be happy.

Only don't think too much about yourself. That's fatal.

Annie Laurie

SIGNIFICANT NAMES

There is a Marked Difference in Place Names in Ontario and Quebec

The place names of Ontario and Quebec eloquently reflect the historical background of the respective peoples. Journey through Ontario and you are confronted with names of counties, townships, towns and villages lifted almost bodily from England, as in Middlesex, Lincoln or York. Go through Quebec and you meet the names of French Kings, Governors and explorers, not to speak of innumerable saints held in close reverence by a devoted people. In Ontario we find in the nomenclature a solemn march of heroes, Governors, poets, philanthropists, statesmen, discoverers and martyrs, connected with the expansion or glory of England such as Sir Isaac Brock, Sir Guy Carleton, General [illegible], Governor Hamilton, [illegible] Hope, General Prescott, the Duke of Richmond, Lords Durham, Sydenham and Aylmer, Governor [illegible], [illegible] Bagot, Hilton, Collingwood, Wellington, Nelson, Raleigh, Hampden, Palmerston, Pitt, Harvey, Franklin, Wilberforce, and Macaulay; with such reminders of victory as Blenheim, Trafalgar, Vincent, Waterloo and Sebastopol.

In Quebec how different are the scenes called up by the names of cities, rivers, counties and parishes. Champlain, after the founder of Quebec; Chicoutimi, the first French Viceroy; Montmagny, who succeeded Champlain. Two officers of the Carignan regiment, St. Louis and Richelieu, perpetrate the [illegible] and Monarch of France and his long-trusted Minister; Frontenac, Vaudreuil and Beauharnois were three of the most able and energetic of the French Governors of Canada, while Bishop Laval, Generals Montcalm and de Levis, Cardinal Richelieu, Charlevoix, and other celebrities are similarly remembered. As to the names of saints, the calendar and Acta Sanctorum seem to have been ransacked, and not even the most obscure result of canonization overlooked.

POULTRY POINTERS

Young turkeys are of a delicate nature until they are fully feathered and have thrown out the red on their heads, which usually occurs at about three months of age. After that they are hardy, and may be allowed an unlimited range at all times.

When the hens have the run of the farm, which is common, many are disposed to make their nests away from the regular buildings, says The Weekly Witness. Unless they are to be allowed to set, much care is needed in locating these nests and gathering eggs. Indeed, it is best to confine the hens for a time to induce them to lay in the regular nests.

THE LENGTH OF A DREAM

Countless Events May be Crowded Into One Brief Moment

The probability that we get snatches of sleep at odd moments when we suppose ourselves to have remained continuously awake is supported by the phenomena of dreams. Mark Twain accounted for his own "disappearing visitor" experience by the belief that he had unconsciously had a very short nap; and many have explained visions of ghosts as due to dreams during such short naps. For nothing is better established in connection with dreams than that an apparently very long one can occur during an almost infinitesimal time. Alfred Maury had a long, vivid dream of the Reign of Terror, including the trial of himself before the Revolutionary Tribunal and his execution, and was able to show that it all happened during the moment of awakening of the fall of a rod from the bed canopy upon his neck.

Most of us have our special form of bad dreams, born of ill-advised and ill-digested supper, usually. The commonest of the smaller nightmares is the experience of facing a drawing room or a public thoroughfare without clothes. But probably everyone has his special horror on the edge between sleeping and waking.

PRIMITIVE ACCOUNTS

Knots in a String Were Probably the Earliest Records

The carpenter who kept his accounts on a plank and receipted them with a plane, was hardly equal in ingenuity to the Aztecs, who managed with string. The numbers were indicated by knots. A single knot was ten, two single knots 20, and so on. The hundreds were indicated by double knots. The color of the string indicated what the numbers referred to. Soldiers were red, gold yellow, silver white and corn green. This method is still in use on the sierras of the Argentine, where the herdsmen keep tale of their charges in a similar way. Several strands depend from one, the first of these strands being reserved for bulls, the next for cows, the milch and dry being differentiated, the next for sheep and so on.

Knots were probably among the first methods of man to record figures—the knot or the notch on a bit of stick. And in the hop gardens the tallyman (generally the local schoolmaster) goes around with the tally and its mark, and the most civilised of us still tie a knot in the handkerchief when we are asked "to be sure and remember."

You wash dishes about two hours every day. That's one hour wasted!

Dishes get dirty, greasy and sticky and soap will not clean them. Soapy dish water merely cleans the surface; it doesn't dig into the corners and drive out the decayed food particles.

Gold Dust is the sanitary dish washer. It not only cleans the surface, but digs deep after hidden particles of dirt and kills the germs of decayed food which ordinary dish-water overlooks. Gold Dust sterilizes as well as cleanses.

Besides doing the work better than soap or any other cleanser can, Gold Dust will save just half the time you spend in washing dishes.

Gold Dust is sold in 5c size and large packages. The large package means greater economy.

How People Feel When They Have Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia nervous prostration, melancholia hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulvener has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them can not imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ½ of an inch to 1 inch long; which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution, have very little distress.

Prof. Mulveney's world-famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, sure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, is not disagreeable to take. One dose nearly always affects a cure. Further information free. Send stamped envelope, telephone Parkdale 4830, or call at 167 Dundas street, Toronto. Open from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

OLD GOV'T HOUSE PAID ENTIRE COST

Handsome Building to House Ontario's Governor Places no Burden on Taxpayers

In securing for Ontario a new Government House the Whitney Government has used only the money derived from the sale of the old Government House. This money could, under the law as it existed, be used only for Government House purposes. Originally the property belonged to the Dominion of Canada, but was transferred to the province on the undertaking that the property, or the proceeds of any sale of it, would be utilized for a Government House.

Too Good For Ontario?

Accordingly, a new site was obtained and a building erected which will in every way be a credit to the province. The chief objection the Opposition has to it is that it is too good for Ontario, but the better the building is the better is the bargain Ontario has secured. So far the province has spent $608,000 on the site, laying out the grounds and erecting the building, which is nearly completed. There remains on hand a balance of about $200,000 to pay for the completion of the undertaking, so that the land given to the province for Government House purposes and sold so advantageously by the Whitney Government will about provide a new and modern Government House for the province.

Uses of Government House

It should be remembered that the Government House is more than the official residence of the Lieutenant-Governor. It is a building in which the people of Ontario offer accommodation at the Capital for the Governor-General, his family and staff from time to time. Here also are entertained, sometimes at the request of the Imperial Government, the representatives of foreign nations, as well as distinguished men from different parts of the British Empire. The Government House is also used on behalf of the people of Ontario to show respect to great public bodies promoting philanthropic, religious and industrial enterprises who may visit the capital of the Province. Considering that the structure now approaching completion is intended to meet the requirements of the province for perhaps a long period, it is evident that those who think the Government House is too good for Ontario fail to appreciate the future of this province and its importance as a part of the Empire.

WHERE TASTE IS LOCATED

Very Little is Known About Organ of Taste in Lower Animals.

Many experiments have been made by scientists in an attempt to discover where the organ of taste is located in the lower animals, but so far little headway has been made in this line of investigation.

Crayfish and worms, it is stated seem to have decided preferences in the matter of food, though no special taste organ has yet been found. The crab is more dainty in its diet.

Snails and slugs show a decided preference for certain kinds of food Peas, cabbages, dahlias and sunflowers are great favorites with them Spiders have only a slight sense of taste; flies soaked in paraffin seem quite palatable to them; though one species, the diadema, is somewhat more particular, and refuses to touch alcohol in any form whatever.

The proboscis of the fly and the tongue of bees and ants are furnished with numerous delicate hairs set in minute pits. These are, perhaps, connected with the organ of taste; but though the exact locality of this sense in insects is uncertain, it is known that groups of cells in the tongues of animals, called taste bulbs form in part the ends of the organ of the higher animals. They are very close and exceedingly numerous in many, while the tongue of even the cow has some 35,000 taste bulbs.

These taste bulbs were discovered in 1867. Each one consists of two kinds of cells—one set forming an outer protective covering, through an opening in which project from five to ten of the true taste cells. Though important, they are not apparently an essential part of the organ, for birds and reptiles have none, but neither have they a keen sense of taste, except, perhaps, the parrot.

Games and Their Origin

Tennis is undoubtedly the oldest of all existing ball games. Its origin is buried in antiquity, but it was played largely in Europe during the Middle Ages in the parks and ditches of feudal castles. The French learned the game from the Italians, the British from the French.

Golf is popularly said to be a Scottish game, but there is good reason to suppose that, in the first instance, it came from Holland. Cricket, however, is essentially all British. The first mention of the game is found in a thirteenth-century manuscript, and it derives its name from the Saxon word "cric," or "cryc," meaning "a staff."

Billiards is believed to have been brought from the East by the Crusaders; though some people say that the French developed it from an ancient German game. Chess, however, which is the most intellectual of all games, is also the most ancient.

The Chicken Oath

The chicken oath was administered in a Vancouver court, to Mah Quang, a Chinaman who was a witness in the case of seven men charged with rioting at Nanaimo. After the oath was administered a young white cock was procured, its head placed on a block of wood, and chopped off by the Chinaman. The ceremony was witnessed by a large crowd of persons.

ELEPHANTS' TEETH

The Huge Molars Are Renewed Several Times

The elephant has no cutting teeth like most animals, but only a series of molars. These molars, or grinders as they wear away, gradually move forward in the jaw, and the remnant of the tooth when the surface is completely destroyed is cast out in front. The same molar can thus be replaced as many as eight times. The tusks which are only enormously-elongate teeth, can be renewed only once. The wearing process and the ejection of the stump of the tooth go on very slowly during the life of the elephant. Only one or two teeth at a time are in use or in view, in each jaw. There are always other teeth waiting to pass forward and begin their work, although there is a limit to this succession, for, when the last has come into use and been worn down the elephant can no longer chew his food, and must die of starvation, if he has not already succumbed to old age.

Remarkably Durable Wood

The lock-gates and sills of the Panama Canal are all made from "Greenheart," a large tree found in the dense jungles of northern South America, especially British Guiana. The wood will bear, without crushing, a weight of six tons to the square inch, and will remain sound one hundred years under water, being immune to the attacks of the salt water torpedo. A single log cost several hundred dollars.

Richest Radium Deposits

The richest known radium-bearing region in the world occurs in the Paradox valley, Colorado, where carnotite ore is the raw material. There are deposits of carnotite in Australia and Russia, but they are not as rich as those of Colorado. Besides pitchblende and carnotite there is one other radium-producing ore (only the uranium minerals contain radium). It is called autunite and occurs in Portugal and South Australia.

Whole of Tree Utilized

In Sweden, the problem of brush disposal after logging operations in order to prevent forest fires does not exist, for in that country tree-tops and branches are all used for fuel, and even the pine needles are collected and distilled, the resulting extracts being used in the manufacture of caramels for colds, and soap for medicinal purposes.

IS MR. ROWELL SINCERE?

Editor Morning Times

Sir,—Mr. N. W. Rowell asks the electors of Ontario to believe him sincere when he pledges his party to abolish the bar.

Mr. N. W. Rowell asks the electors of Ontario to elect Mr. C. A. Moss, his candidate in North East Toronto. Mr. Rowell says Mr. Moss will render him magnificent support in clearing out the open bars.

On the evening of June 17th, says the Toronto "Globe," "Mr. Moss was given a most attentive hearing. He denounced the liquor traffic in most scathing terms."

"Is it true that following your nomination by a Liberal convention you had a drink in Mossop's Hotel?" asked Mr. W. Younger, standing in the audience.

"I had a drink before I went home" replied Mr. Moss. "I frankly admit I am not a total abstainer. I went in the bar, and if they are left open I may go in again."

"Does that satisfy you?" echoed a voice from the rear of the hall.

"It is a good straightforward answer," responded Mr. Younger. Prolonged cheering followed.

Mr. Rowell still wants Mr. Moss to help him abolish the bar

Mr. Moss is a lawyer regularly employed by such Corporations as Mackenzie & Mann. He gets his living from them.

Mr. Rowell wants Mr. Moss in the Legislature to help along public ownership. Mr. Moss would like to have a hand in shaping the Hydro-Electric's policy.

ONLY the voter stands between Mr. Moss and his ambitions.

And the voter will prove sufficient.

THE CHOIR WELL PLEASED.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—On behalf of the members of the choir of the Murray St. Baptist Church, I am requested to publicly thank the captain and crew of the Steamer Manita for the kindness and courtesy shown the choir on their excursion to Gore's Landing and return on Thursday last. The Steamer is an ideal craft for pleasure, while the crew were most obliging and courteous. The run from Rice Lake to Peterborough on the return trip was made in about two hours, the trim little steamer travelling her natural gait all the way.

KELLY-SPRINGFIELD TIRES

A GOOD RESOLUTION.

The way was long, the wind was cold,
The car was new, but the tires old,
The driver sat and tore his hair,
And cursed himself in his despair,
Of punctures he had had a score,
He vowed he'd buy cheap tires no more.
And if he ever got to town
He'd get those tires of renown
That never leave you on the road
But bring you safe to your abode.
The ones that set the town on fire
The famous KELLY-SPRINGFIELD Tire.

BAR POLITICAL SERMONS

Members of Churches in Brampton Refuse to Eave Pulpit Used fox Political Purposes

Brampton, June 22.—The announcement in the local papers that representatives of the Dominion Alliance were to occupy the pulpits of different churches in Peel on Sunday was the occasion of a good deal of discussion in Brampton, and members of a number of congregations protested against political sermons. F. S. Spence, the well known Alliance president, who is actively promoting the Liberal cause, was announced as the speaker at Grace church. Members of the Board of Management of the church questioned the wisdom of having him speak at this time. It was stated in reply that the arrangements were made several weeks ago, and had nothing to do with politics, but Mr. Spence's tendency to help the Liberal cause is well known, and it was felt that a political speech on a Sunday morning would have probably divided the congregation. Mr. Spence was communicated with. He did not come to Brampton, Dr. Ross was the speaker at St. Paul's Methodist church. Members of that congregation waited upon the pastor, and stated their objection to political sermons. Mr. Ross was warned to eschew controversial topics. He carried out instructions, no reference to party leaders being made. Gentlemen sent to the Brampton East Circuit were also given to understand that the pastor and officiary of the circuit were opposed to anything of a party character. Peel has abolished the bar by a legitimate vote of the people. Many good temperance people regard the invasion of this county by alliance speakers a week before the election as altogether unjustifiable, having for its object not the promotion of temperance, but the advancement of the interests of the Liberal party. If the alliance was only anxious to abolish the bar it would send its paid officials into counties where there are bars, not into Peel where the business has been outlawed.

GRADUATING NURSES OF NICHOLL'S HOSPITAL

The chairman opened with a few remarks descriptive of the hospital's history.

Dr. Moir gave an address and presented the bandaging prize to Miss Smith.

NOMINATION

R. J. Soden and G. A. Gillespie Did Not Speak

The nominations for the riding of West Peterborough were held yesterday in the office of the county sheriff and created only minor interest. R. J. Soden the Conservative choice and G. A. R. J. SODEN HOLDS LARGE AND ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING

Temperance Hall of Fourth Line Smith, Was Well Filled With Enthusiastic Audience

A well filled house greeted Mr. H. P. Lindsay and Mr. R. J. Soden, at Temperance Hall, Fourth Line of Smith Township where they opened this week's campaign. Mr. Chas. Moore occupied the chair and in a few well chosen words introduced the speakers.

Mr. H. P. Lindsay dealt with the License Laws and Local Option measures under the Ross Government, showing the lack of enforcement of the former and total absence of attempt to enforce the latter. He then quoted from "The Montreal Witness," "The Pioneer" and other papers which bore testimony to the rigid enforcement of the Whitney Government and which praised their temperance legislation.

He also bore testimony to the good and effective work done for prohibition by the Conservative candidate and quoted the Liberal paper of his own home town in regard to his worth as a citizen and a man.

Mr. Soden on rising took a few minutes in which to deal with the statement made by Mr. Lindsey of Toronto, at Mr. Rowell's meeting to the effect that all the Christian ministers of the province were backing Rowell and showed how false was that statement.

He then dealt with Mr. Gillespie's question to himself as printed in the Examiner, and his answer to the same.

Taking up Mr. Rowell's promise to "abolish the bar," he showed that he could only do as the men behind him allowed him to do, and went over the list of nominees of the Liberal party, showing that several of them were opposed to the Rowell policy, while many of them were not total abstainers and still more were making little or no declaration on the "abolish the bar" policy.

He then made his plea for the inclusion of the shop license with the bar and club licenses, and showed that there was no good reason for leaving it out, but many urgent reasons for including it.

The meeting which was deeply attentive throughout and enthusiastic at the close of Mr. Soden's address was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem and cheers for Whitney. The crowd cheering for the candidate as the autos rolled away from the hall.

THE WEATHER.

To-day—Showers and Thunderstorms with higher temperature.

To the Electors of West Peterborough

Mr. Soden solicits the Temperance vote on the ground that he is in favor of the abolition of the Bar, Club and Shop Licenses. Will Mr. Soden state on the platform that he will vote with either Political Party for the abolition of the Bar, Club and Shop License, or over his own signature in the public press?

My promise to the Electors is — I WILL.

BEST TEMPERANCE GOVERNMENT.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir :—I am anxious to see the bar abolished, but I am not anxious to see the best temperance government Ontario ever had abolished." So says Mr. T. F. Best, secretary of the Y. M. C. A. of Hamilton. In nine years' practice the Whitney Government has abolished 1,600 bars, and cut down the number of days and shortened the hours for selling liquor. And yet this record is to be wiped aside by a lofty move of the hand of the Liberals, many of whom in convention adopted the "Abolish the Bar" policy—leaving in the shops—frankly as a means to get into office. Practice versus theory, and a theory promulgated by a man who up to the last minute of the dying Ross Government did not utter a syllable of protest against its betrayal of temperance interests.

Shall practice or theory prevail in this election?

Veritas.

SIR ADAM BECK.
Honored with Knighthood.

MR. G. N. GORDON SPEAKS.

Editor of the Times.

Dear Sir,—According to the report of the Times of Saturday morning, Alderman Johnston stated at May's School House, that Mr. Gillespie's endorsation of the Hydro Electric, was luke warm when he was a member of the City Council.

I beg to say that I was a member of the City Council during this time, and Alderman Gillespie's support was whole hearted, enthusiastic and could always be depended upon to support the Municipal enterprise of Hydro Electric lighting. If I am wrong, I am willing to leave it to ex-Mayor Bradburn and to City Clerk Armstrong, or any one else who knows the whole facts.

"Tea and Coffee are just as harmful to children as alcohol is to grown-ups," says Dr. Charlotte Abbey, superintendent of the Women's Directory.

The reason why tea and coffee injure anybody is because these beverages contain the poisonous drug, caffeine, (from 1½ to 3 grains to the cup) which physicians have long known affects the heart, stomach and liver.

Children especially, with their delicate nerves, are susceptible to the action of caffeine, and should never be allowed to have tea or coffee or any other beverage containing drugs.

Thousands of adults have found that their headaches, nervousness, indigestion, and sleeplessness have vanished when a change was made from tea and coffee to

CALGARY OIL A BONANZA

Many Ontario Investors Have Made Big Money Through the Big Oil Strike

The discovery of oil in Calgary district, Alberta, has already made many rich, and the development is only just beginning. One Ontario man who resides not far from Peterborough is said to have made nearly a quarter of a million dollars, while a local citizen who invested a comparatively small sum in stock in one of the companies advertised in the Times, has doubled his money several times over. No doubt there are also many others also.

There is a strong probability that many of those who invest in Calgary oil stocks will make big money, as the latest information from the oil section bears out the opinion of oil experts that the country in that locality is rich in oil.

SHOP LICENSES STAND

The Waterloo Chronicle-Telegraph is careful to explain to the Liberals of North Waterloo that the "abolish-the-bar" policy "will not interfere "with the present shop licenses, and those who so desire "may continue to procure liquor in bulk." It is not much wonder that the Liberals of North Waterloo did not have enough heart for the Rowell policy to put up a candidate.

The Whitney Government have increased the School Grants to Peterboro County by $5,860 per year. If you want this increase maintained—

THE W. C. T. U. AND MRS. KENDRY'S LETTER

The following letter is published in The Times at the request of Mr. Burnham, M.P., since it was refused by The Review on plainly insufficient grounds and for reasons that no doubt Mrs. Kendry would consider insufficient. The press has a duty and responsibility to the public: It must be fair:

Editor Morning Times.

Dear Sir, Kindly grant me space in your paper to reply to the letter signed Elizabeth Kendry. If Mrs. Kendry had been to the Opera House Thursday evening along with the W. C.T.U. women together with other temperance women, she would have known that it is true that Mr. Rowell promises the franchise to women —not as a bribe, but because the W.C.T.U. and all other organizations of women throughout the province have asked for it. (Rowell and his party, with the Labour members always voting for it).

If Mrs. Kendry had attended the temperance meeting held in the Y.M. C.A. addressed by Mrs. Stevens of Toronto, a Conservative, she would have found out that the W.C.T.U is not a partizan organization even though it has had Mrs. Gordon Wright as one of its honorary members for many years. By the way Mrs. Gordon Wright is very prominent in Women's Missionary work too.

The W.C.T.U. resolution to support the Rowell platform was drawn up by a committee of women half of whom were Conservative, and half Liberal. The W.C.T.U. women are behind Rowell because he has adopted to a large extent their platform and given them their first opportunity to strike out, at one blow, all the bars of Ontario and the shops by a majority vote, and also to grant them the franchise.

"We are standing where our sisters never stood
In the place of great decision by the altar of our God.
And a million souls in bondage send to us high freedom's call.
As one woman we lift the call—
By our homes, and lands and altars
(Rum delenda est!) shall fall"

It is difficult to characterize Mrs. Kendry's attempt to discredit the motives of the faithful White Ribbon women, whose watchword has always been "For God, and Home and Every Land"—and who have always arrayed themselves behind forward temperance legislation.

It seems to belong to the method of petty politicians, and is unworthy of true women, much less one so active in missionary work, as the writer of her letter.

Yours respectively,
(Mrs.) Margaret Lewis,
Ex-Pres. W.C.T.U.
(Mrs.) Margaret Goodfellow,
Corresponding Secretary.

HOW TO BANISH WRINKLES QUICKLY

If your face is disfigured with wrinkles, no matter what the cause, you can quickly dispel every line, even the most obstinate, by using a simple, home-made wash lotion. Merely dissolve an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half pint of witch hazel —inexpensive ingredients found in any drug store. Bathe the face in this, and—presto!—you scarcely believe your own eyes when you look into your mirror and behold the marvelous transformation!

The remarkable astringent action of the saxolite so tightens the skin wrinkles are literally pressed out. Best of all, this result is not purely temporary, for the lotion also has a healthful tonic action, which tends to strengthen and tone up the weakened tissue, and added benefit may be expected with continued use. Use this once a day for awhile; it cannot injure the most delicate skin, the treatment itself leaves no trace—no one guesses the secret of your increasing youthful appearance.

MR. SODEN WILL HIMSELF MOVE

To Abolish the Liquor Traffic if Elected to the Legislature

Editor Morning Times.

Sir. You publish the following letter to me from Mr. Gillespie:

"To The Electors of West Peterborough."

Mr. Soden solicits the Temperance vote on the ground that he is in favour of the abolition of the Bar, Club, and Shop Licenses. Will Mr. Soden state on the public platform that he will VOTE WITH EITHER POLITICAL PARTY for the abolition of the Bar, Club and Shop License, or over his own signature in the Public Press.

My promise to the Electors is— I WILL.

G.A. GILLESPIE."

My reply to Mr. Gillespie is that I will do far more than that. I am resolved if elected to myself move in the Legislature for the abolition of the liquor traffic in every form and I will invite and compel all those of BOTH political parties who are temperance men to show their hand. Mr. Gillespie said as reported in the Globe and published in the local papers and not denied by him that he will support either political party IF either political party "deems it wise" to abolish the shop as well as the bar and the Club. I will do more. I will do it "whether either political party deems it wise or not."

I now and always "deem it wise." Why has Mr. Gillespie in this way ties his own hands? The man who wants abolition without the "IF" will vote for me. If not, then let him vote for my friend Gillespie who will support the abolition of the shop only when political parties have so far got out of the clutches of whiskey as to "deem it wise" and to do what they are afraid to do NOW. Do you believe they will "THEN" if afraid "NOW"? It would be a strange temperance man who would reason in that way. Do I make myself clear or is there still room for the politicians to charge me with quibbling?

R. J. SODEN.

PETES DEFEAT BRANTFORD 7-1

One of the best games of the season was played yesterday afternoon at Riverside Park between the Petes and Brantford. The Petes played a real snappy game, while the visitors lost heart in the first innings and never seemed to rally.

Tracey in the box for the Petes, pitched excellent ball and was never in trouble, while Kelly, receiving, kept the boys full of pep. Every man played his limit and only one error crept into the Petes end of the score. The boys pounded the ball all over the lot to the delight of the fans present.

The score—7—1 for the Petes.

Buck Freeman, the old Toronto star handled the indicator to the entire satisfaction of all concerned.

To-day is Ladies' Day and a goodly number of the fair fans are expected to be on hand.

Fungus on Poplar Trees

The ghostly glimmering of poplar chips and stumps, frequently observed in Canadian forests at night, is due to a fungus known as the "shoe-string" fungus, which is commonly found on large-sized poplars throughout Canada. It causes a yellowish-white rot which detracts much from the value of this wood. The presence of this fungus is externally indicated by the mushroom-like fruiting bodies which cluster around the base of the trees.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Our Point of View

Local Temperance advocates will be interested to learn that Mr. Rowell has not resigned from the Liberal "Ontario" Club because that Reform headquarters sells liquor across the buffet bar.

—o—

"In this country everything is speed," says George Brandes, the English critic. This proves that George has never seen the Canadian Senate trying to pass an important bill.

—o—

A dispatch from London says natural gas has been found in Spain, but it is well to bear in mind that the discovery was not made until after the Hon. Ted Roosevelt had arrived there.

—o—

In the happy old days when a baseball pitcher wore side whiskers he could, when winding himself up, conceal from the batsman the kind of ball he was going to deliver. Now he has to work in the open.

—o—

This is the leafy month of June
when the mosquito is in tune,
And the caterpillar on your neck
doth play,
When the springhtly little flea which you feel but cannot see,
Is feasting on you every night and day.

—o—

It was a Liberal paper, the London Advertiser, which reported Mrs. Rowell as having said in addressing a gathering of women in London, that if the Liberal party was beaten at the polls on June 29 her husband would abandon the "banish-the-bar," policy. Mrs. Rowell, however, denies that she made that statement, and the lady's word must be accepted.

An Independent Opinion

The following from the Hamilton Herald, a paper that has always been fair and square in political matters, will be read with interest:

"The day after Mr. Rowell announced his policy the Herald expressed the opinion that that policy goes to far. We are of the same opinion still. The policy can be justified on one theory only—that it is a vice to use alcoholic beverages in any form, however mild they may be and in however moderate quantity—a vice so dangerous and immoral that it is both just and expedient to make it unlawful in any place where food is served for pay. If this theory be sound, the Rowell policy is justifiable, if it be unsound, the Rowell policy involves unreasonable and unfair interference with personal liberty.

"And mark how inconsistent and illogical that policy is. Mr. Rowell says to the traveler: 'You shall not be allowed to take your customary glass of light beer or wine at dinner when you travel in this province of Ontario, because we regard the practice as vicious; but you may go to a liquor store which we license and there buy as many bottles of whiskey, rum, brandy or gin as you want and drink as long and hard as you like, so long as you don't drink it on the premises.'

"We cannot admit that the Rowell policy, considered as a temperance policy, is fair, wise or consistent."

Best Liniment of All Destroys Every Pain But Never Burns

"How thankful we are to get hold of such a wonderful household remedy as Nerviline," writes Mr. E. P. Lamontagne from her home near Wetaskawin, Alberta. "In this far-away section, far away from a doctor or druggist, every family needs a good supply of liniment. Nerviline is the best of all. It destroys every pain, but never burns. We use Nerviline in a score of ways. If it's rheumatism aching back, pain in the side, sciatica or stiff neck,—you can laugh at them if you have lots of Nerviline handy. For earache, toothache or cramps I don't think anything could act more quickly. For a general all-round pain remedy I can think of nothing more valuable and speedy to cure than Nerviline."

The above letter is convincing — it tells how reliable and trusty this old-time remedy is. Nerviline for forty years has been a household word in Canada. Scarcely a home in Canada you can find without Nerviline. Every community has its living examples of the wonderful curative properties of Nerviline, which will cure pains and aches anywhere in the joints or muscles. It's penetrating, soothing, warming and safe for young and old to use. Get the large 50c. family size bottle; it's the most economical. Small trial size 25c. at any dealer's anywhere.

War On "America"

And now our Roman Catholic friends have declared war on "America," and if they can have their way, "My country, 'tis of thee," will no more be sung by Roman Catholic citizens of the republic. The Freeman's Journal, New York, attacks poor "America" in most vigorous fashion. The editor says: "We have heard of the doggerel lines of 'America' being sung at Catholic school exhibitions under the auspices of Catholic priests. We hope that the next time this song shall be sung at one of these exhibitions something shall be done to call attention to the inappropriateness of doing honor to the memory of narrow-minded bigots of the Cromwellian breed. If any of our readers happen to be present on an occasion when this offense shall be repeated we advise them to hiss and hiss vigorously. No matter if they disturb the harmony of the proceedings. Their doing so will help bring out the true character of 'America,' which should never be sung at a Catholic gathering." Evidently the Journal does not like either the "Cromwellian breed" or their descendants.

We Submit the Following Companies for Your Consideration

MONITOR OIL & NATURAL GAS COMPANY LTD. CALGARY

Capital $500,000 Non-Personal Liability.

The strong feature in this Company is the location of their properties. Their holdings are adjacent to the MOWBRAY-BERKLEY WELL (located by Cunningham Craig), the McDOUGAL-SEGUR WELL, the MONARCH WELL and the FABER WELLS. The Company has four separate fields, and a strike of oil in practically any part of the oil fields will have an immediate effect on their stock. The first three named are liable to strike oil at any minute. The Faber Company are just starting to drill, after a very careful consideration of reports from their geologists.

The Company offer a small allotment at $1.00 per share (par $1.00) each share carrying with it an option to purchase one more at par when oil is next struck.

The Directorate whose names you are now familiar with are sufficient guarantee for the integrity of the Company.

Capital $150,000 Non-Personal Liability

This Company is offering 75,000 shares at their par value price $1.00 each.

The Company is noted for its low capitalization and its excellent holdings of 1211 acres in one block. The leases were carefully chosen by Mr. Ellson Fawkes and the Company has engaged a well-known Eastern geologist to locate its first well. Drilling will commence directly there are sufficient funds in the treasury to place a contract.

On account of its low capitalization this stock is bound to find immediate favour at the next strike of oil. The price will be advanced directly oil is struck, to at least $1.25 a share.

The officers of the Company are "clean," successful business men—

We can honestly advise you to invest in either of these companies. Both of them have on their Directorates men known for their stability and honesty. There is no "wild-catting" or watered stock in either of them and at the next strike of oil the stock is bound to increase in price.

We advise you to invest in both. $100 will secure you say 50 Crest and 100 Monitor shares (option stock) and then when the next strike comes, which may be now as you are reading this, you will be able to smile at the man paying $5,00 a share for Monitor and buy them yourself for $1.00 each.

GEMS FROM NATURE'S GALLERY PICTURED ON GRAND TRUNK MENU CARDS

The menu cards recently put into use on the dining cars of the Grand Trunk and Grand Trunk Pacific Railways are exceptionally beautiful productions, and are attracting wide attention among the travelling public. On their covers are reproduced in colors many of the gems of Canadian scenery—Mountain, Lake and Woodland. The Canadian Rockies, the Lake of Bays, Muskoka Lakes, Niagara Falls and the chain of modern hotels provided by the Company for the comfort of the tourist have all supplied subjects for the artist's brush, and the coloring of the prints represents the last word in this class of work.

Reign of Golf in Britain

Nearly $30,000,000 is spent on golf in the United Kingdom every year and of this huge sum only a little less than half, or $12,500,000, goes to the caddies. The estimate is made by a well known English golf specialist who, after a careful census, placed the number of players in the country at roughly 250,000.

Black and White Scheme Dominates Summer Gowns

By MADGE MARVEL

THE magpie has superseded the rainbow in furnishing inspiration for feminine clothes. There is a rage of black and white in varying combinations.

A group of women at a recent lawn fete reminded me of a flock of birds with wings pointed skyward. And the wings were all either black or white. Some came from the bodies of birds evidently manufactured instead of hatched, for where could one find a bird no larger than a canary with wings a crow might envy? As nature fakers, milliners reign supreme. Their ornithological collection is unique and defies classification.

White satin sailors have crowded the more picturesque Leghorn hats out of popular reckoning with women who seek novelties. They are trimmed with black birds, or black velvet bands and white birds. Sometimes the bird, black with long, slender wings, is poised for flight almost in the centre of the crown.

Such a hat was worn at a recent wedding by a stately matron whose costume of white charmeuse with postillion coat of black chiffon velvet created much comment and admiration, for she was exactly the type that could wear so unusual a costume and have it attractive.

The underskirt was close fitting, and the long tunic, also of the white charmeuse, was box-pleated and reached within four inches of the hem. The coat of black velvet was fitted to the figure, fastened with a slightly double-breasted effect, had a standing collar, ended in front at the waist line, in the style of an Eton, and had long postillion tails reaching nearly to the knees.

With the wearer was a younger woman, whose gown of white organdie had a tunic gathered full and flaring, edged with corded silk, the same silk forming the vestee and flare collar. The girdle was of black and was drawn close to the waist, making the flare of the tunic and the snugness of the bodice all the more striking. The hat was of white satin with two white birds, like bleached canaries, peeping at each other from opposite sides of the crown. The one directly in front faced his mate, which was perched in the centre back of the crown as if just crawling over the edge from the brim. A circular cape of black satin, lined with white and having a wide, white satin collar, completed the costume and was held by heavy black cords ending in tassels.

The fancy for black and white has extended to beach and bathing attire. The most exclusive and smartest bathing suits are very conservative affairs of black satin or silk, with three-quarter or full length sleeves, and with fairly high necks finished by a rolling collar. Some are entirely in black, made with tunics plain or scalloped at the edges, or with triple flounces or panniers. Others have white satin collars and vestees and cuffs.

One model, which will be worn at Bar Harbor, has a white satin collar edged with a fine frilling of satin extending each side of the fronts, where the suit buttons with white buttons, and finishing the turned-back cuffs of the full length sleeves. The caps to wear with these suits are either black with white bows or white with black bows.

Stockings and boots show the same combination. All color seems studiously avoided. One woman gave me the keynote for this severity when she said: "All the public beaches are made the parade ground for such atrocious suits in such outrageous color combinations that it is time there was a revolt from such bad taste."

PETER'S ADVENTURES IN MATRIMONY

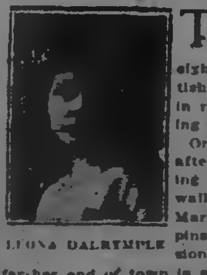
By LEONA DALRYMPLE

Author of the new novel, "Diane of the Green Van," awarded a prize of $10,000 by Ida M. Tarbell and S. S. McClure as judges.

The truth about "the girl in the case" distinguishes this new series by Miss Dalrymple. Her character studies will not appear unfamiliar to the majority of readers, who will follow the fortunes of "Peter" with interest.

No. 107.

What I Overheard.



LEONA DALRYMPLE

THE theft of Mary's jewelry gave me an insight into the cattishness of women in rather an amusing way.

One morning, soon after the enterprising gas man had walked away with Mary's rings and pins, I had occasion to go to the farther end of town in a trolley. There were two women just back of me whom I didn't know, and who, certainly, from the nature of their conversation, didn't know me.

"Did you see about Mary Hunt letting the gas man in?" said the first woman, "and he stole all her jewelry?"

"Yes," said the second, "wasn't it funny?"

The first woman laughed unpleasantly. "Did you read the list of things she lost?"

"Yes, that was what I meant. Wasn't it amusing?"

"Honestly," said the first woman, "I sometimes suspect people of faking robberies merely to boost their social caste a little. There are some people, you know, who regard a robbery as a distinction, for it presupposes something to steal. How very easy, too, to give out a long list of fictitious jewelry worth twice as much as it really was, and then every one who reads is dazzled and they think, 'My, what a lot of valuable stuff she had, didn't she?' Immediately there's a new respect in the community for the owner of so much wealth."

"Don't you think she had all that jewelry?"

"Certainly not. How could she?"

"Her people are well off, aren't they?"

"Her father's the leading lawyer here, but they live up to every cent of their means, and a little ahead. Mary and her husband, however, live very simply—in a flat I'm told."

"Do you know the husband?"

"No, I merely met Mary at a club meeting. She's a pretty little thing—the soft, clinging type, very young. I disapprove of girls marrying as young as she is—or was. I don't believe she's more than 22 or so now, and I understand they've been married a year and a half."

"How badly she must have felt at losing all that jewelry—wedding stuff likely that her husband and her people gave her——"

"If she lost it!"

"You mean if there really was any gas man."

"Oh, no, there probably was a burglary, and no doubt he got some simple, sweet, pretty, little things, but as for a genuine emerald ring and a pearl crescent and a diamond brooch and all the rest of the expensive things the paper mentioned last night I simply do not believe it. I've read those things before. It all looks very well indeed in print."

"I remember that a friend of mine once had a robbery. They really had nothing to speak of in the house, and the paper gave out the most astonishing list of things that had been stolen. It helped the man's credit some—it really did—my husband said so."

There was silence for an interval, then:

"You had a ruby brooch stolen once, didn't you?"

"Oh, my yes, dreadful shock it was, too. Why, do you know that brooch was the most marvellous thing you ever saw; just a thing of blood and fire, and it had 132 small rubies in it—think of it! It was a sunburst, an antique, too, worth a small fortune, and I've never found it."

There was an excellent opportunity there for something cattish, but the other woman didn't take it.

I smiled, but as I went out I contrived to drop my card very near them. I hope they got it.

:: Word Origins ::

"Take no thought for the morrow" is now understood in an entirely different manner from that in which it was intended when the King James version was prepared. Then the expression "to take thought" was universal as a synonym for anxious solicitude.

Tabby, the name of a well known species of cat, was formerly atabi, which was a term used to designate a peculiar pattern in the silks manufactured in Persia. The markings in the fur of the cat resemble the pattern in the silk, hence the double application of the name.

Jovial once meant the type of character supposed to belong to all persons who were born when the planet Jupiter, or Jove, was in the ascendant. They were supposed to possess more of the cheerful elements of character than others, and hence to partake of the benign qualities attributed to the Father of the Gods.

WHAT WILL SHE DO WITH THEM?

By Michelson

OF course she isn't sure that she really wants them and she hasn't the slightest notion of what she is to do with them, but they have come just the same.

As for the men, after ridiculing her helplessness without pockets, they will be profoundly amused at her new endowment and will say things that will be supposed to be exquisitely funny.

Naturally no one knows why pockets came or where they came from. But there is one thing that has no uncertainty about it at all. This is the manner in which she will GET AWAY with the pocket idea. She will find a method and form a habit of making them charming. She will be able to do this because she won't take them seriously. She will use them simply as part of her ART. And when the time comes you will hate to see them GO again.

Motor Cars and Our Crowded City Streets

By Winifred Black

Copyright, 1914, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Winifred Black

DEATH the chauffeur is on the rampage again. There were 18 automobile accidents in the city and county where I live in just one day this week.

That day, to be sure, was Sunday, but think of it, 17 accidents, [illegible] people injured seriously and [illegible] killed outright. There's nothing queer or peculiar about this city and county at all.

What in the world has become of our common sense and our common humanity, to say nothing of our common manners?

What would you think of a man who grabbed his hat off and started down the middle of the street of any town in any county in this or any other country, yelling at the top of his voice: "Get out of my way, get out of my way—I'm in a hurry."

How many feet do you suppose that man would get in his wild rush before he was arrested, and how long do you think it would take to get him locked up in the insane asylum?

What's the difference between being crazy on foot and being crazy in an automobile? I can't see any, can you?

The Psychology of Speed.

What is there about an automobile that turns the head of every man in three who tries to drive one? I'm not talking about the joy idiots. I mean the plain, every day, sensible man who lives next to you or opposite to me.

Give him an automobile and he turns into a rude, ill-bred, overbearing, disagreeable, unreasonable, dangerous enemy to society.

What on earth is the matter with him?

Have you ever been to a police court on a good, busy morning, say Monday, when the automobile people came in to answer to the charges against them? You ought to go some morning; you'd get a brand new side light on human nature.

I went the other morning and spent two hours listening to several rather intelligent looking men and two more than usually intelligent looking women. They had all run over people in the public streets, and they were all very cross with the people for being run over.

One man had run down and killed an inoffensive old gentleman who was on his way home from church. The man who did the killing admitted that he was running rather fast—he wanted to get somewhere in the country in time for Sunday dinner, he said.

Yes, he saw the old gentleman when he started across the street; no, he was not confused or excited—he saw him quite plainly. He sounded the horn, sounded it not once, but three times. The old gentleman did not get out of the way—and—what could he expect? What was an automobile born for, anyhow?

It turned out that the old gentleman was deaf. The man who killed him smiled triumphantly when that fact came out in the testimony.

An Unfortunate Accident.

He turned in his seat and smiled at the judge, as much as to say, "There, now, what did I tell you." And the judge, being a man of sense, from the point of view of a chauffeur, said that it was all a most unfortunate accident, so instructed the jury, and the man who had killed the old gentleman went home just a bit cross over the time he had wasted in such a trivial affair.

There was another serious case on the docket that same morning: a little boy had been run over and had both his legs cut off.

The machine which ran him down was driven by a woman, a rather pretty woman at that. She was not in the least disturbed over what she had done.

Oh, yes, she was sorry for the little boy; she had sent some one to inquire after him—once; no, she didn't take him into her machine when she saw she had hurt him—he was bleeding a good deal, and it always made her faint to see blood—and besides, she didn't know who he was, hadn't the faintest idea where he lived.

He was playing ball or something and ran across the street. No, she couldn't remember whether she sounded the horn or not; but she was quite sure he didn't even look around to see whether he had any right to cross the street or not.

What was she going to do, stay at home and never go out at all just because some mother didn't watch her own children and keep them in the house all the time where there was nothing to hurt them?

The other cases were more trivial—one elderly woman had been knocked down and hurt severely, but she was still alive. One little girl had had her arm broken and her face scarred—for life. The other people were simply hurt enough to keep them in the hospital some weeks and give them at least a fighting chance for life.

And not one of the people who had done a single one of these things seemed to have the least feeling of shame or remorse or disgrace.

I wonder why?

If you should take a pistol and shoot it off in a crowded street, nobody would listen to you if you said you just did it for fun and didn't mean to hurt any one.

What's your hurry, Mr. Chauffeur? Look, there's an old lady trying to cross the street—why should she wait for you?

Zip—crash—zim—around the corner, down the street as if the very fiends were after you. What's your hurry, where are you going in such desperate haste?

The Right of Way.

We own the streets, we run them anyway—we in the motor cars—and this is not France, where the laws protect the carriage people and make a man pay a fine for daring to be run over, but America, where the man in the car makes his own law.

But pshaw, what difference do a few little things like laws make anyway when you're running an automobile?

It's Sunday morning, the sun is shining, the wild flowers are in bloom, and all the birds of all the earth are singing. Hurrah! Let's all be joy idiots and go out and kill some one, or make a few cripples for life—just to show that we can do it.

Secrets of Health and Happiness

What Your Appendix Is; How Germs Infest It

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins).

DR. HIRSHBERG

APPENDICITIS is a disease which the general public has come to look upon as an invention in the doctor's thoughts—but, in truth, it is a very real and serious disorder.

Three factors have combined to increase its apparent occurrence. In the first place, medicine has made great advances in exactness in the last 20 years, and many disorders formerly described vaguely as colic and bowel trouble are now placed under the head of appendicitis. In the second, there is reason to believe that the disease is actually more prevalent than it used to be, and that the spread of influenza is in some way to blame for this.

In the third place, the widespread interest in appendicitis has caused a great many persons to produce its symptoms, or simulations of its symptoms, in themselves by efforts of the imagination. Some of the persons who thus fancy they have the malady without really having it, are actually inspired by nothing more than a desire to be in the fashion.

A Germ Disease.

As every one knows, appendicitis is an inflammation of the queer little sac called the vermiform appendix. This sac, which is about the size and shape of a gloved finger, has no apparent use, and most anatomists agree that it is nothing but a surviving stump or root of some forgotten part that man at some early period of his development found useful. It makes off from a part of the intestines and lies on the right side.

So long as it remains empty and healthy it is unobtrusive and harmless. But so soon as it fills up with poisons, germs, grape seeds and other things of that sort, and begins to swell and fester, it becomes a source of danger and a possible cause of death.

Appendicitis is a germ disease. But, unlike diphtheria, typhoid fever and measles, it has no specific germ of its own. Almost any malignant microbe, in fact, may cause it. When a man has rheumatic fever, for example, some of the stray germs of that disease may wander into his appendix, set up an inflammation and kill him. Again, the same thing may be done by the germs of typhoid fever, common boils or influenza. The last named disease has been shown to be a precursor of appendicitis, and there is good reason to believe, as has been stated, that the recent epidemics of influenza have caused the parallel epidemics of trouble in the vermiform appendix.

Often the disturbance these invading germs cause is very slight. Even when the number of germs in the appendix is enormous, and the resultant inflammation and suppuration have gone very far, the germ killing leucocytes of the blood keep up a terrific battle with the invaders. In an otherwise healthy man this battle is apt to be successful, but there is always the chance that the leucocytes may lose, and that the germs will spread from the appendix to the abdominal cavity in general, and, thereby, cause death by peritonitis.

Therefore, it is the custom of physicians, as soon as they are sure that a patient has appendicitis, to hand him over to a surgeon to have the germ-ridden appendix cut out. When it is cut out the germs in it go with it, and if the wound heals properly, as it does in the vast majority of cases, the patient recovers. This fact explains the general tendency to operate in appendicitis.

It is always possible that the patient will recover without an operation, but if the latter is performed in time his chances are innumerably increased. If we put his risk of dying from the disease itself at 100 we may put his chance of dying from the operation at five. It is thus plain that, in the long run, it is wisest to operate.

The Ordinary Symptoms.

The symptoms of appendicitis are pretty well known to every one. The disease usually makes itself manifest quite suddenly, and the first sign is commonly a severe and sharp pain in the abdomen, somewhere to the right of the centre line. A moderate fever accompanies this and other slight symptoms, such as a coated tongue, loss of appetite and vomiting follow. The muscles of the abdomen are drawn taut, and the pressure of the appendix causes excruciating pain. This is the general picture. In addition there are a hundred and one other indications, apparent only to a physician.

Therefore, if you are seized by a sudden and violent pain in the right side, somewhere in the vicinity of the belt, and this is followed by a slight fever, the customary symptoms of a sick stomach, it is best to send for a doctor at once. And if he advises you to go to a hospital for an operation do so without senseless protest or delay. In appendicitis the surgeon is often called too late, but never too soon. Five minutes delay may decide the issue between life and death.

Medical treatment of appendicitis at best is inexact and hazardous. No known drug is capable of going to a patient's diseased appendix and killing the germs therein, and no known course of treatment is capable of insuring him absolutely against attacks in future.

Those who oppose surgical interference base their own chief argument upon the fact that appendicitis is a self-limiting and self-curing disease. The leucocytes of the blood, as we have seen, engaged in a battle with the germs in the appendix as soon as they appear, and under proper condition this battle is likely to be successful.

Removal Only Sure Cure.

But it is plain that a man who has once had appendicitis has proved that his appendix is liable to the disease, and that, in consequence, his chances of having it again are above the average. The only man who is certainly protected against it is he who has lost his appendix. When the leucocytes are defeated in their battle, and there is no surgical interference, the diseased appendix becomes more and more inflamed, and the number of germs in it increases innumerably. Finally they break through its walls, and are scattered broadcast through the abdominal cavity. Here they find immediate lodgement in the peritoneum, the thin membrane which encloses, like a bag, the whole contents of the cavity. These poisons then disable the heart and brain, and the patient dies.

The death rate from appendicitis is slight. In the United States each year about 140 persons in every million die of it. In certain large cities the percentage is higher, and in other districts it is lower. In Germany, Austria and England it is decidedly less prevalent.

A few years ago it was the universal opinion, among the laity, that appendicitis was always caused by grape seeds or similar substances. Recent research scarcely bears out this notion. True enough, it is common to find foreign bodies in diseased appendices, but whether these things have actually caused the preliminary irritation, or have merely had their entry into the appendix facilitated by conditions already existing, is a matter for debate.

It is known, however, that severe blows over the appendix occasionally cause appendicitis. The resultant injury affords stray germs a lodgement, such as a scratch on the face affords a chance for germs to settle down and produce a boil, and after a while a general inflammation is in progress, and the surgeon has another task.

Advice to Girls

By ANNIE LAURIE

Dear Annie Laurie:

For about three months I have been going quite regularly with a young girl.

I have been to her home and have met her parents, and have had her to my home to meet my parents.

I know she does not go with other young men, nor do I go with any other girl. In fact, she is the first girl I have ever been interested in.

Now, Miss Laurie, I want to find out, if possible, whether she cares anything for me. I want to marry her, but she has never given me the least encouragement.

I tried to kiss her a couple of times and she always goes to the other end of the room or as far away from me as possible. She says that she does not approve of kissing. It pains me very much when she repulses me. I feel that if she cared at all for me she would not treat me so coldly.

Please give me your advice as to the best way to win her love, for she means a great deal to me.

PERPLEXED.

WELL, Perplexed, what is it that perplexes you? I can't see! What do you want the girl to do—throw herself into your arms and say, oh, please, sir, marry me or I shall die?

Do you expect her to let you kiss her and make love to her as if she were some silly, headless creature who didn't care whether you really respected her at all or not? Of course she isn't going to let you kiss her—unless she's sure you really love her.

Has she brothers? From what you say of her I believe she has, and she's heard those brothers talk about the kissing girl, and her cunning little ways, and she's determined that no man on earth will ever have a chance to talk like that about her.

If you want her to marry you, ask her. What if she does refuse you? You will be hurt, of course, but some girls have to say "no" half a dozen times before they learn how to say "yes." But, when they do say yes they mean it.

Brace up, Perplexed; tell the girl you love her, and ask her if she could ever love you well enough to marry you. It isn't fair to keep her in the dark as to your real intentions. I think she'll say yes, myself. And then won't you be happy!

Tantalum For Pen Nibs

The Germans utilise tantalum in the manufacture of pens. A difficulty in the case of steel pens is that they oxidise easily, the ink sticking to them. This fault is not to be found in the case of gold pens: but, on the other hand, these are too flexible to be entirely satisfactory. Moreover, in order to form a point suitable for writing purposes, the material of that part of the pen must be mixed with some hard metal like iridium, an operation that is at once expensive and complicated. This German pen is of tantalum and comes to the manufacturer in the form of a black powder. The pen that is made from this is reported to possess the tenacity of steel and the flexibility of gold.

Why is 't that we neglect to use the left hand so much? Among English-speaking people 97 out of every 100 are right-handed when they reach maturity. Out of every 100 such persons 17 are born right-handed, and the remaining 83 are born without preference. Eighty are influenced to become strongly right-handed during the early childhood.

No great asset of the world is so neglected as the average left hand. Formerly all the world was ambidextrous. Primitive man had no preference which hand he used. And in various parts of the world efforts are being made to revive the use of the left hand. Japan has for many years been teaching two-handedness to the men of her army and in her public schools.

WHAT A LIBERAL PAPER IN HIS HOME TOWN HAS TO SAY OF MR. R. J. SODEN

An Old Midland Boy Nominated as Conservative Candidate in West Peterborough

(From The Midland Free Press.)

"Mr. R. J. Soden, an old Midland boy, has received the Conservative Nomination for the riding of West Peterborough. We need hardly say that though opposed to us in political creed we wish him success. Mr. Soden, while in Midland, was one of our most progressive citizens, and it was through him that the Canada Iron Furnace Co. was induced to locate its plant here. Always an ardent politician he took an active part in all municipal and parliamentary affairs, and while a staunch Conservative at all times, he still made many friends among his opponents on account of the clean, fair methods which he always adopted in furthering the cause of his party.

"He will make an energetic representative for any riding, and West Peterborough, if it elects him at the coming election, will secure a clean, just and aggressive member, who, from our knowledge of him, will not allow any consideration to outweigh his convictions of what is right in all matters affecting the province.

"Mr. Soden has made a clean-cut statement regarding his stand on the temperance question. He is even willing to go a little further than the Rowell policy of abolish the bar. He is in favor of doing away with the shop and club license as well. It is up to the temperance people of this Province to stand together, regardless of politics, if they ever hope to rid Canada of its greatest curse."

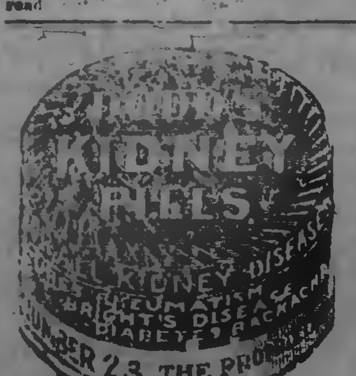
Link With Dickens

There is living in Melbourne an old man named Woolcott, who when a boy was a "copy-holder" at Messrs. Chapman and Hall's, when "The Pickwick Papers" were published as a serial story in monthly parts. Woolcott, who emigrated in 1851, says he carried Dickens's manuscript about a dozen times, and sometimes returned it for correction. "It was wrapped in brown paper, loosely tied with string. I remember on [illegible] that I dared to untie the string and read the story. It was at that [illegible] between Sam Weller [illegible] father, when I am read [illegible]



How People Feel When They Have Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulveney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them can not imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ½ of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution, have very little distress.

Prof. Mulveney's world-famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, sure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, is not disagreeable to take. One dose nearly always affects a cure. Further information free. Send stamped envelope, telephone Parkdale 4830, or call at 167 Dundas street, Toronto. Open from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

A New (?) Disease.

Yesterday a Times scribe had a chat with Mr. Colquhoun, formerly with the Quaker Oats Co., Mr. Colquohoun has for many years been engaged in blasting work both subaqueous and surface. He has handled and used hundreds of tons of nitroglycerine and dynamite. He related how in British Columbia a defective fuse failing to set off the detonating cap which, with its "kick" of 300 pounds explodes a charge of dynamite. His three assistants after waiting suit. The rubber lining of the gate the cause of the trouble. He warned them not to go near the scene until an hour had passed. However they insisted on going. All that was left of them, three minutes later were two or three fingers found in the fork of a tree. Mr. Colquohoun is now an invalid from rubber poisoning. He has had occasion for months at a time to do submarine work in a diving suit. The rubber lining of the suits is absorbed by the wearer and causes a partial paralysis.

Alderman Johnston is also reported to have said that the Rowell party had lent no assistance when special legislation was required for carrying out the scheme for the City of Peterborough, and in answer to this I wish to say that the Private Bill for the City of Peterborough, for its Municipal lighting could not have passed the Private Bills Committee without the Liberals voting for it, who had voted for it, and the Liberals of the Private Bills Committee carried the City of Peterborough Private Bill with the help of a majority of two Conservatives. In other words half of the Conservative Private Bills Committee in the Legislature with the exception of two Conservatives, voted against the City's Bill, and all the Liberals of the Committee voted for it.

I canvassed a large number of the members of the Legislature in 1913, and I was turned down by Sam Nesbitt, Conservative, M.P.P., Mr. Johnston of Belleville, Conservative M.P.P, and the Conservative member of the Legislature for West Hastings.

The Hon. Adam Beck told me, and I believe that he told Ex-Mayor Bradburn, that the support of the Toronto Globe and Toronto Star in favor of Hydro Electric, was strong and extremely valuable in supporting Mr. Beck in the Legislature and with the Public.

I am willing to leave all the above facts to Ex-Mayor Bradburn, or to Mr. S. R. Armstrong, City Clerk, to verify, and I have spoken to neither one of them as to these facts.

I wish to correct an error which Alderman Johnston has apparently fallen into.

Yours truly,
G. N. Gordon.

FURIOUS PARTIZANSHIP.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I would like to call the attention of the public to the strongly partisan attitude of one or more of the local clergymen. I think it is unbecoming and unchristian for a minister to compare the clergymen who are supporting Mr. Rowell to the "red nosed" politicians who are on the other side." These are the words used by one of the clergymen referred to on Sunday morning.

How do Conservatives who are just as sincere in their desire, having the bars closed as Mr. Rowell, like the comparison?

One Who Was Present.

EXCLUSION OF ULSTER UNTIL TWO ELECTIONS HAVE PASSED

London, June 22.—"Next week you will have introduced in the Lords, on behalf of the Government, a bill that will give every county in Ulster the option of voting itself out of Home Rule until two general elections have passed in this country."

So spoke Mr. Lloyd George on Saturday. The Times to-day says that the assumption is that the Government, who are fully aware of the inadequacy of their original offer, intend to yield to pressure from the Lords rather than frame an acceptable scheme themselves. They hope thus to save their face with John Redmond, who has plainly prevented them so far, from making concessions which the bulk of their own party regarded as desirable.

While Lloyd George was declaring this week's bill in the Lords would embody the Premier's standing offer of county option to Ulster, Sir Edward Carson in Lancashire, was saying that if it did, he would once more describe it as a hypocritical shame and his party would prevent it becoming law.

ELECTROCUTED IN PRISON

Ossining, N.Y., June 22.—Peter Rebacci, a 19-year-old Italian, a tool of a Black Hand "murder syndicate" in Westchester county, was put to death in the electric chair at Sing Sing Prison to-day, for the murder of Tony Marro, of White Plains. Rebacci had figured in other crimes and on his promise to expose the workings of the "murder syndicate," Governor Glynn granted him a six months' reprieve. He failed, however to give the authorities any evidence of value.

SIX YEAR TERM CONSIDERED IN THE IRISH AMENDING BILL

Measure Same as That Rejected by Carson as "Hypocritical Sham."

London, June 23.—The crisis in connection with the deadlock in regard to the granting of Home Rule to Ireland entered another stage to-day when the Marquis of Crewe, Liberal leader in the House of Lords introduced a bill to amend the Irish Home Rule Bill.

The terms of the amending bill are identical with those offered on March 9 by Premier Asquith and contemptuously refused by Sir Edward Carson, the Irish Unionist leader, who described the Premier's proposal as "hypocritical sham".

Six Year Term.

By the new bill the parliamentary electors of each county of Ulster are to be allowed to decide by vote whether the county shall be excluded from the provisions of the Home Rule bill for a period of six years from the first meeting of the First Irish Parliament.

The situation has never been paralleled in Parliamentary procedure on the British Isles. Never before has a bill been presented to Parliament to amend a measure not yet on the statute books. This was, however, the only means of overcoming the deadlock as the House of Lords refused to consider the main bill until the full proposals of the Government were before it.

Religious Aspect.

In introducing the amending bill the Marquis of Crewe dwelt much on the religious difficulties surrounding the question of Ulster, but while he admitted the necessity for some form of exclusion for those who deemed themselves affected by the Home Rule bill, he contended that the exclusion of the entire province of Ulster would involve great injustice.

HON. S. H. BLAKE, CANADA'S GREAT COUNSEL, IS DEAD

Quietly Crossed the Bar at 3.30 This Morning--Conscious to the End

Toronto, June 23.—The Honorable Samuel Hume Blake, K.C., the oldest and probably the best known of the great counsel of the Dominion, her most brilliant exponent of repartee and one of the few men who have become known from coast to coast without either entering Parliament or Legislature, died at his home, 46 Maple avenue, at 3.30 this morning. He was 79 years of age and had been struggling with the malady which undermined his health and resulted in his death for years past.

In perfect peace and quietness, with no perceptible change to mark the transition, Mr. Blake passed out. Immediate relatives who were present at his bedside from early evening realized that the end was but a matter of hours. Less than a week ago the late Mr. Blake was up and around and actively engaged in transacting his philanthropic affairs, which were always very close to his heart. Increasing infirmities caused him to relinquish his life long work some time since and forced him to take to his bed four days ago. His condition rapidly changed for the worse and latterly no hope for his recovery was held out. Consciousness remained almost to the last and yesterday he talked for a short time to various members of the family.

Funeral on Thursday.

The funeral will take place on Thursday afternoon at 3.30, preceded by a short service in St. Paul's Church.

How To Keep Your Face Free From Ugly Hairs

(Modes of Today.)

A small, original package of powdered delatone is a necessary toilet requisite, for with its aid the skin can be kept free from hair or fuzz. A thick paste is made with some of the powder and water and spread on the hairy surface; then in about two minutes it is rubbed off and with it comes every trace of hair. Washing the skin will remove the rest of the delatone. While this a simple, effective method and quite harmless, you should be careful to get real delatone.

To the Electors of West Peterborough

Mr. Soden solicits the Temperance vote on the ground that he is in favor of the abolition of the Bar, Club and Shop Licenses. Will Mr. Soden state on the platform that he will vote with either Political Party for the abolition of the Bar, Club and Shop License, or over his own signature in the public press?

My promise to the Electors is — I WILL.

PUBLIC OPINION

PREACHER POLITICIANS.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir, I am of opinion that those ministers who deliver campaign speeches from the sacred desk are very ill-advised. It is the mission of the man of God to preach the gospel—not politics. It should be the object of the pulpit to direct men's minds to spiritual things, away from worldly matters. But this can't be done by preaching political sermons in the heat of an election. The preacher should seek to still the passions of his hearers. But can this be done by advocating the election of one party and the defeat of another? Men are human at all times, and they are especially human at election time. The sky pilots can, therefore, be better employed in guiding their flock in the realms of peace after the storm and stress of the week, than in quickening their passions.

ROWELL'S MOTTLED TEMPERANCE RECORD.

(Editor Morning Times)

Sir.—During the reign of two Liberal Governments in Ontario, N. W. Rowell remained a devoted adherent and spoke frequently upon public platforms in their interests.

Those Liberal Governments on two occasions pledged their honour to put into operation the fullest possible measure of prohibition. When the issue was submitted to the vote of the people, large majorities declared in the affirmative. Absolutely no action to fulfill those pledges or in obedience to the plebiscites was ever taken. The prohibition appeal was designed as a political trap and served its purpose to the satisfaction of the Liberal party. Where was Mr. Rowell in the fact of this juggling?

The corrupt and careless administration of the liquor license laws under the Ross Government became a national scandal. Temperance sentiment fought almost in vain to take forward steps in presence of loose Governmental methods. Where was Mr. Rowell and where were his impassioned affirmations in that period when his voice had influence with the government in power? Not one word can be found on record to stamp him as other than an apologist for those who flouted temperance. Mr. Rowell's only protest towards the close of the Ross Government's regime made no reference to that government's hostility to temperance reform.

Mr. Rowell appeared on public platforms to prevent the election to the Legislature of Mr. Butler, then running as a temperance candidate and now opposing Mr. Rowell in North Oxford.

Mr. Rowell was for more than a decade a director of The Toronto Globe, which paid part of its dividends from the receipts of liquor advertising. Only when the inconsistency of his position was pointed out by Conservative newspapers did he resign his newspaper connection.

Mr. Rowell was a leading member of the Ontario Club, the headquarters of the Liberal party in Ontario. The Ontario Club holds a liquor license, and dispenses spirituous drinks daily on its premises. At this Club the campaign to "Abolish the Bar" is in part directed.

F. E. WILSON.

Toronto, June 22.

DOWN WITH THE SHOP.

Editor Morning Times

Sir,—Why did the County Association go back on Temperance by standing up for the shops? If a voter asked that association which candidate he should vote for—the one whose sole policy is to smash all forms of the liquor traffic, viz.: Mr. Soden, or the one who said he would not vote for the abolition of the shop until a political party gave him the cue, viz,: Mr. Gillespie, what would the association say? Come, Mr. Cowan; Come, Mr. Cunningham, answer! There is a terrible responsibility resting upon you in the name of the children of men and women who will yet drink destruction and eternal damnation at the County Association's liquor shops. "Is that you, Daddy?" will be transferred from the lamppost to the fence-corner and yet Mr. Gillespie will wait until a political party "deem it wise" before he will even vote to stop it. But Mr. Soden will begin, from the moment he enters the legislature, war upon bar, SHOP and club. And yet, yet I say, men can be found who would lay him politically dead at the craven feet of political exigency. Shame! Shame! Yes, twenty times Shame! Which then, is an ally of the liquor traffic?

Consistency.

MR. SODEN WILL HIMSELF MOVE

To Abolish the Liquor Traffic if Elected to the Legislature

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—You publish the following letter to me from Mr. Gillespie:—

"To The Electors of West Peterborough."

Mr. Soden solicits the Temperance vote on the ground that he is in favour of the abolition of the Bar, Club, and Shop Licenses. Will Mr. Soden state on the public platform that he will VOTE WITH EITHER POLITICAL PARTY for the abolition of the Bar, Club and Shop License, or over his own signature in the Public Press.

My promise to the Electors is— I WILL.

G.A. GILLESPIE."

My reply to Mr. Gillespie is that I will do far more than that. I am resolved if elected to myself move in the Legislature for the abolition of the liquor traffic in every form and I will invite and compel all those of BOTH political parties who are temperance men to show their hand. Mr. Gillespie said as reported in the Globe and published in the local papers and not denied by him that he will support either political party IF either political party "deems it wise" to abolish the shop as well as the bar and the Club. I will do more. I will do it "whether either political party deems it wise or not."

I now and always "deem it wise." Why has Mr. Gillespie in this way ties his own hands? The man who wants abolition without the "IF" will vote for me. If not, then let him vote for my friend Gillespie who will support the abolition of the shop only when political parties have so far got out of the clutches of whiskey as to "deem it wise" and to do what they are afraid to do NOW. Do you believe they will "THEN" if afraid "NOW"? It would be a strange temperance man who would reason in that way. Do I make myself clear or is there still room for the politicians to charge me with quibbling?

R. J. SODEN.

TO GEO. GILLESPIE, A.D., 1917.

Dear George,—It is now three years since you were elected by the clergy to represent W. Peterborough, and I have not heard a peep out of you about the shops. It is true you said you would vote right if either political party deemed it wise to touch the shops, but darn it, George, nobody is sayin' nuthin', you're sittin there in the back seats of Queen Park and the shops is sellin' all the liquor W. Peterborough kin hold. Four drunks lay outside my window like a Ford car, and says I to the wife, was it for this that I stormed the churches and Sunday-schools of Smith Township when Soden, by this time, would have been up shoutin' "Mr. Speaker" and moving resolutions to wipe out everything, whether the political parties and their friends the clergy deemed it wise or not. Oh, George, this is awful! I admit you told us the truth, but gee, it wasn't that kind of truth we wanted, and I kin tell you, that if Soden had only done as we ordered him to do we would have had him for member now and would not be left to the bashfulness of Geo. Gillespie and the "deeming it wise" of the political parties jockeying each other for the liquor vote.

PETES DEFEAT BRANTFORD 8-3

And again the Petes take another round out of the Brantford aggregation yesterday at Riverside Park before a fairly good crowd of fans. The boys were right on edge and gave Schettler, pitching for the Petes the very best of support. Schet was never in trouble, the game being cinched at the beginning.

The Petes are on the upward move and the fans should be on hand today to shove them up a notch higher.

Quite a large number of ladies were present yesterday and all seemed to take a great interest in the game.

The score, 8-3 for the Petes.

LAND THAT IS VALUABLE.

New York, June 23.—Per inch $2,369.67. That's the latest estimate of the value of property on Broadway. The figures came out to-day with the announcement of the sale of a corner at 35th street, which for many years has been occupied as a theatre.

OLD AT TWENTY.

Return of Youth with Proper Food.

Many persons who eat plenty never seem to be properly nourished.

That's because the food is not digested and absorbed. Much that is eaten is never taken up by the system as real food, and so the tissues simply starve and the individual may as in a recent case, look and feel old in what should be the bloom of life, youth.

"At twenty I was permaturel old. The health and vigor and brightness of youth had been, as it seemed, stolen from me. I went to work in the morning with slow steps and a dull head. My work through the day was unsatisfactory for my breakfast lay in my stomach like a hard lump. I was peevish and the gas in my stomach was very annoying. After supper I usually went to bed to toss half the night from sheer nervousness.

"This was all from Indigestion—caused by wrong eating.

"Finally I tried Grape-Nuts and I cannot describe the full benefits received from the food. It gave me back my health. It has completely restored good digestion and my ailments have disappeared. I steadily improved and am now strong and in perfect health."

ROWELL AND THE FRENCH

Rowell Prepared to Pay the Price for French Canadian Support. French Priests Order Children to Pray for Success of Their Bi-Lingual Champions

The boldness of Mr. N. W. Rowell's pandering for the votes of French Canadians received a fitting testimonial on Saturday at Ottawa, when thousands of French-Canadian school children under direction of Abbe Groulx of Valleyfield prayed for the success of their mother tongue. Abbe Groulx has been one of the bitterest opponents of Premier Whitney since the latter promulgated the famous Regulation Seventeen, which declares that no more French shall be taught in the public schools of Ontario than will carry a child until it masters English. Whitney's determined stand that English shall be the dominant language naturally awakened resentment amongst French Canadian extremists, and of that situation N. W. Rowell took immediate advantage. His own "announcement" strikes a pose of impartiality intended to deceive the English voter. He says English must be taught in French schools. BUT French must be "retained." Defied to making his meaning clear by Hon. I. B. Lucas, defied to tell his French supporters that he meant English to be the Dominant tongue, Mr. Rowell merely repeats his early formula, viz.: the French tongue must be "retained."

The Toronto Globe says Regulation Seventeen, which makes English dominant in all public schools, will not bind Rowell. That is exactly why French Canadian Canadian newspapers like Le Temps and Le Droit have instructed their readers to support Rowell, who will "settle" the question.

Last week Sir James Whitney was presented with a fresh set of demands from leaders of the French people. In brief, they want French taught exclusively where French pupils are in the majority and that where the English predominate the French children shall be instructed in French in separate rooms. Sir James Whitney refuses to recede from his firm position. Mr. Rowell pleads for time to consider. Meantime an election is on and he needs the votes.

MONEYED POWER WON A VICTORY IN BRITISH HOUSE

No Grant to Local Relief Rates and Concessions Made to the Rich

London, June 23.—The Speaker's ruling, which prevents a temporary grant being made this year to local authorities for reliefrates, and the Government's concessions to the revolting millionaires is received regretfully by most Liberals, angrily by the Laborites and satirically by the Opposition. It has undoubtedly damaged Lloyd George's prestige. The Daily News considers it may be a blessing in disguise, by tending to shorten the session and relieve the Government of too much top hamper it has on board.

The Daily Chronicle voices the demand heard to-day widely in Liberal circles that the Chancellor should remit the sugar tax instead of reducing the income tax.

DIVING OPERATIONS CEASE

Rimouski, Que., June 23.—Operations at the scene of the wreck of the Empress of Ireland have been again suspended and the Lord Strathcona carrying the men in charge of the work and the divers left at an early hour this morning for Quebec. It is understood that a conference will be held there with Captain Walsh, the marine superintendent, and other officials of the C.P.R., as to the wisdom of pursuing the quest for bodies with possible sacrifice of lives. The death of Cassaboom while attempting to make fast a mooring chain six fathoms below the surface has given rise to the feeling that unless public opinion demands it the search for bodies should not be continued.

THE WEATHER.

To-day—Fair and about the same temperature.

SUPERLATIVES IN TREES

The largest orange tree in the south is a gigantic specimen which grows out of the rich soil in Terrebonne Parish, La. It is fifty feet high and fifteen feet in circumference at the base. Its yield has often been 10,000 oranges per season.

The largest oak tree left standing in England is "Cowthrope's Oak," which is seventy-eight feet in circumference at the ground. The oldest tree in Britain is Parliamentary Oak, in Clipstone Park, London, which is known to be 1,500 years old.

The largest apple tree in New York State is said to be one standing near the town of Wilson. It was planted in the year 1815 and it is on record that it once yielded thirty-three full barrels of apples in a single season.

There are 413 species of trees found growing within the limits of the United States. The curiosity of the whole lot is the black ironwood, of Florida, which is thirty per cent. heavier than water. Well dried black ironwood will sink in water almost as quickly as will a bar of lead.

The "life tree" of Jamaica is harder to kill than any other species of woody growth known to arboriculturists. It continues to grow and thrive for months after being uprooted and exposed to the sun.

FOOD AND EVOLUTION

A Professor Attributes Man's Development to Dietary Causes

Tracing the evolution of man from the anthropoids, Prof. Carveth Reed, in a British Association paper, showed that the prominent differences all arose from a change of food. When some, or even one, of the fruit-eating apes of the forest acquired a taste for animal food sufficiently strong to lead to persistent seeking for it, then a new habit was formed, and it brought remarkable results.

The beast of prey would be able to live on the ground and to go beyond the forest. He would join other animals in hunting—especially in hunting big game—and from co-operation would arise communication leading to articulate speech. The food supply being more regular through the year, the seasonable marriage and birth time would cease.

The new life would require great increase in knowledge and intelligence, for a higher skill was required to catch a rabbit than to pluck a banana, and he would have to learn the different animals and how to track them. He would evolve the use of weapons and snares. The best hunter would follow his prey on the ground and on foot, and the erect gait would become normal, the legs becoming lengthened, the arms shortened, the feet specialized, and the hands developed.

The flesh diet would bring shortening of the alimentary canal, while great variability in stature, size of brain and shape of skull would result. Cannibalism may have been simply the inclusion of foes in the game eaten, and is a mark of the experimental stage of human development instead of being a general practice of true carnivores.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, [illegible] nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

FOSSILS IN THE YUKON

Geologist Discovered Bones of a Camel in the North

At the time of the discovery of America horses and camels were entirely unknown in the western hemisphere. The Indians had never seen a horse, and the nearest living American representative of the camel was the llama. It has long been known to zoologists, however, that both horses and camels existed in North America, in a geological age, not very remote, though one would hardly look for them in Arctic regions. However, discoveries have been made which indicate that camels once inhabited the Yukon region of Canada, and a skull of an Alaskan horse has also been found.

In the summer of 1912, while collecting specimens of modern land animals along the Yukon-Alaskan boundary, Copley Amory, jr., obtained a small collection of fossil bones of the Pleistocene age, or that immediately preceding the age of man. These bones included several parts of a mammoth horse, bison and camel, and altogether proved to be of no little importance, since the bones of a camel had never before been found in this region. There is little doubt, however, that the camel is Pleistocene on account of the fact that the bone found by Mr. Amory agrees exactly in color and degree of fossilization with those of the mammals known to be of that epoch, which were found with it.

Uses of Government House

It should be remembered that the Government House is more than the official residence of the Lieutenant-Governor. It is a building in which the people of Ontario offer accommodation at the Capital for the Governor-General, his family and staff from time to time. Here also are entertained, sometimes at the request of the Imperial Government, the representatives of foreign nations, as well as distinguished men from different parts of the British Empire. The Government House is also used on behalf of the people of Ontario to show respect to great public bodies promoting philanthropic, religious and industrial enterprises who may visit the capital of the Province. Considering that the structure now approaching completion is intended to meet the requirements of the province for perhaps a long period, it is evident that those who think the Government House is too good for Ontario fail to appreciate the future of this province and its importance as a part of the Empire.

Fisherman's Unique Find

A fisherman at North Rustico P.E.I., made a great find—a monster lobster, which had evidently been washed ashore by a gale which had raged off that portion of the coast. It was alive when he found it. It weighed between fourteen and fifteen pounds and from the tip of its tail to the end of its outstretched claw it measured thirty-one inches. Evidently it was of considerable age as sea moss was thick upon it while there was a barnacle of considerable growth on one claw. That barnacle was inhabited by some member of the phylæ family.

Our Point of View

If Mr. Rowell should become Premier would he abolish the three-fifths clause in communities that have already carried local option.

—o—

So far Mr. Rowell has not contradicted Le Temps, which claims him as an opponent of the Whitney policy in regard to the teaching of French.

—o—

In the platform he issued to the electors of West Kent, R.L. Brackin, the Liberal nominee there, does not mention the temperance question. He is openly opposed to the Rowell policy.

—o—

The Mount Forest representative recalls that in the election in which the iniquitous Ross Government was overthrown, Mr. Rowell spoke at a public meeting in Mount Forest on behalf of Hon. J. M. Gibson and also at the nomination at Fergus on Mr. Gibson's behalf. On neither occasion did he say a word in condemnation of the Ross Administration's broken temperance pledges.

—o—

The Windsor Record, the most prominent Liberal newspaper west of London, is taking no part in the present campaign, as its owners are opposed to the Rowell temperance policy. The Record has plenty of company in the party camp. Half a dozen official Liberal candidates have failed to espouse the abolish-the-bar policy.

—o—

Were Mr. Rowell and his followers sincere in their "Abolish the Bar" propaganda they would long ago have cancelled the liquor license for their Ontario Club in Toronto, the headquarters of Mr. Rowell and the Liberal party. As it is, the Liberals there have their beer and whiskey ad libitum, and an cynically exclaim as they sip their cocktails, "We're playing the game."

Many Ministers Favor Whitney

Speaking at a rally on behalf of the "abolish-the-bar" candidate in West Hamilton, Rev. S. Banks Nelson, a prominent Presbyterian minister, who has seen much of liquor evils in the United States, issued this warning:

"There is certainly good sense in the Conservative argument on this subject, that if you can't get a good majority of the people behind you, you can't abolish this question. Suppose there should be a small Liberal majority on this question, I believe it would be disastrous to try to abolish the bar. I certainly do. Should the Liberal party succeed at the polls, it will not dare to abolish the bar unless there is a preponderance to show that something like three-fifths of the people are behind the movement. Otherwise blind pigs will spring up everywhere. If the great bulk of the people are not with us, it is too soon for this reform."

At the Conservative convention in Chatham Rev. W. J. Spence, and Charles Austin, a prominent Methodist and temperance worker, announced their preference for the Whitney method of handling the temperance matter. They take the same cautionary attitude as Rev. Dr. Nelson adopted. In the Methodist conferences of Western Ontario there is also a strong body of opinion against the Church too prominently identifying itself with the "abolish-the-bar" movement because there is so much to be said for the Whitney method. Rev. J. E. Ford, of Goderich; Rev. Dr. Manning, of Stratford; Rev. W. H. Harvey, of London; Rev. F. E. Malott, of St. Mary's; Rev. W. H. Graham, of Sarnia, and others attending the London conferences objected to the conference endorsing the Rowell policy. From nearly all sections of the province come reports of enthusiastic temperance workers, many of them Liberals, who prefer the slower but surer Whitney method of attacking the liquor evil. There are no "honor rolls" for these supporters of moral reform, but they count just the same.

Good-Bye Old Backache Nerviline Will Fix You

Stiffness Is Rubbed Right Out; Every Sign of Pain Disappears.

Just think of it!

No more stomach dosing necessary to cure your lame back.

Every trace of lameness, every bit of stiffness, every sign of weakness in the back's muscles can be rubbed away for all time to come by good old "Nerviline."

No other liniment can do the work so quickly, can penetrate so deeply, can bring ease and comfort to the back-weary sufferer as Nerviline invariably does.

Backache isn't the only malady Nerviline is quick to cure. For lumbago or sciatica you would go far to find relief so speedy as Nerviline gives. For chronic rheumatism there are pain-destroying properties in Nerviline that give it first rank. The way it limbers up a stiff joint and takes soreness out of strained or rheumatic muscles is simply a wonder.

If you have an ache or a pain anywhere, if you have a sore back, a stiff neck, a stiff joint, a strained muscle—if you have lumbago, congested chest or sore throat, just try Nerviline. Rub it on plentifully—it won't blister. It can't do anything but cure you quickly. The large 50c. family size bottle is the most economical, of course, but you can, from any dealer, also get the 25c. small size of Nerviline, the king of all pain relieving remedies.

Will ease your throbbing

Burning Cubes of Solid Alcohol

Cubes of solid alcohol are used in Germany and to some extent in America for cooking, heating curling irons or small amounts of water, and for any purpose which requires a small amount of heat for a short time. Put up in pills or small metal containers solid alcohol is much more convenient than liquid alcohol, because it can be used on a sheet of metal or asbestos without a burner and the user knows just how much heat to expect.

Their holdings are adjacent to the MOWBRAY-BERKLEY WELL (located by Cunningham Craig), the McDOUGAL-SEGUR WELL, the MONARCH WELL and the FABER WELLS. The Company has four separate fields, and a strike of oil in practically any part of the oil fields will have an immediate effect on their stock. The first three named are liable to strike oil at any minute. The Faber Company are just starting to drill, after a very careful consideration of reports from their geologists.

The Company offer a small allotment at $1.00 per share (par $1.00) each share carrying with it an option to purchase one more at par when oil is next struck.

The Directorate whose names you are now familiar with are sufficient guarantee for the integrity of the Company.

CREST OIL & DEVELOPMENT COMPANY, LIMITED, CALGARY

Capital $150,000 Non-Personal Liability

This Company is offering 75,000 shares at their par value price $1.00 each.

The Company is noted for its low capitalization and its excellent holdings of 1211 acres in one block. The leases were carefully chosen by Mr. Ellson Fawkes and the Company has engaged a well-known Eastern geologist to locate its first well. Drilling will commence directly there are sufficient funds in the treasury to place a contract.

On account of its low capitalization this stock is bound to find immediate favour at the next strike of oil. The price will be advanced directly oil is struck, to at least $1.25 a share.

The officers of the Company are "clean," successful business men—

PRESIDENT—A. W. Ellson Fawkes, M.I.C.E., City Waterworks Engineer, Calgary. (Late Peterboro' Ontario).

VICE-PRESIDENT—C. S. Mahood, M.D., Medical Health Officer, Calgary.

MANAGING DIRECTOR—D. Algar-Bailey, Engineer, Calgary.

DIRECTORS—Beach A. Laselle, Director Pacific Lime Co., Ltd., Vancouver, B.C.; R. A. Barron, Department of Education, Edmonton; B. Ginsberg, Barrister, Calgary.

This is NOT a gambling proposition — it is an investment! English and American Capital is pouring into the Calgary Oil Fields. Millions of dollars have been invested by large interests during the past four weeks.

We can honestly advise you to invest in either of these companies. Both of them have on their Directorates men known for their stability and honesty. There is no "wild-catting" or watered stock in either of them and at the next strike of oil the stock is bound to increase in price.

We advise you to invest in both. $100 will secure you say 50 Crest and 100 Monitor shares (option stock) and then when the next strike comes, which may be now as you are reading this, you will be able to smile at the man paying $5,00 a share for Monitor and buy them yourself for $1.00 each.

It will need prompt action on your part to get this stock at the present market price, because, remember, it takes several days for your application to reach here. Do not delay: Fill out the coupon. We will honor all applications bearing post mark prior to rise in price.

SPENDING AN ART

Those Who Accumulate Wealth Should Dispose of It Themselves

It is not necessarily a great achievement to accumulate millions. The accumulation is merely a means to an end. If you merely pile up the millions and die before you have done anything with them or indicated what you want done, your life is a failure. You have failed to impress your personality upon the world. Somebody else will [illegible] the spending of the money, will say whether it is to be spent in luxury or in benevolence, or in the development of some industry or in the advocacy of a cause. The spender's personality, not yours, will be impressed upon the world.

The lesson would seem to be that after [illegible] your old age and your family you should spend your money as you go. In that way you can control it, devoting it to such enterprises, whether industrial or philanthropic or otherwise, as you deem worthy.

A millionaire may live as frugal a life as his clerk. But what avails his frugality if he leaves millions to be squandered by an extravagant family in senseless luxury and show.

It is true that our present system places too much power in the hands of a man of enormous wealth—more power than any wise man, conscious of his own limitations, would like to enjoy. But as the power is there it must be used, and it is foolish to devote every faculty and every pound of energy to accumulating the power and none to the wise exercise of the power. Spending is quite as important as getting.—Toronto Star Weekly.

Peter's Adventures in Matrimony

By LEONA DALRYMPLE

Author of the new novel, "Diane of the Green Van," awarded a prize of $10,000 by Ida M. Tarbell and S. S. McClure as judges.

The truth about "the girl in the case" distinguishes this new series by Miss Dalrymple. Her character studies will not appear unfamiliar to the majority of readers, who will follow the fortunes of "Peter" with interest.

No. 106.

Mary's "Jewel" Memory.

LEONA DALRYMPLE

I TELEPHONED the police, and that night's papers reported the loss in full. Incidentally, it warned the women of the town again to demand credentials from alluring strangers, particularly men purporting to come from water, gas and telephone companies. No matter how frequently this warning goes forth, however, there are always some foolish little women who fall for a good-looking scoundrel with an engaging line of talk.

Why is it that a woman seems to retain her trustfulness so much longer than a man? No matter what terrific jolts she may have she rises from the ashes full of serene confidence again in mankind. Only the woman whom life has badly burned gives up that charitable confidence that seems to be the very essence of a woman's nature. And I don't know which I like better, the woman whose trustfulness traps her into impulsive mistakes occasionally, or the utterly sophisticated creature armored against every trivial mishap by a calloused cynicism.

To be sure, with some women that delightful air of trustfulness is a cloak veiling utter sophistication, and with others an air of complete sophistication merely disguises a childish trustfulness of which they are ashamed, but taking it all in all, women do retain their trust longer than men, and in the face of innumerable things likely to destroy it.

Fortunately, Mary's pretty jewelry was fully covered by burglar insurance.

"If I can't have my things duplicated exactly," said Mary, when we were talking the situation over, "then I don't want them at all."

"It will be pretty difficult to duplicate them exactly," I hinted. "Besides, neither of us is likely to remember—"

"Oh, yes," said Mary positively, "I can remember even to the tiniest twist in a scroll."

And she did remember.

We quarrelled some with the insurance people, and pored over jewelry pictures until I began to dream I was a jeweller's apprentice, but in the end Mary came through with bells on and the jewelry was duplicated exactly.

"What a memory you have," I said to her in a sudden spasm of envy. "I couldn't possibly remember the exact pattern of a brooch or how many pearls were in it."

"That's queer," said Mary, "for I really haven't such a wonderful memory. Look how I used to forget to order matches. I can just seem to remember things to wear."

It's true. Have you ever noticed what marvellous memories women do have for dress details? They can look casually at another woman and absorb enough details to dazzle a memory expert—the kind of lace, how it was arranged, material, cut, buttons, every tiny twist of style will be indelibly stamped on the memory by a glance.

What a pity that such a moment of complete concentration can't be repeated in a worthier cause. Mary could remember the most intricate twists of jewelry patterns, yet she can't remember anything she reads. Sometimes when I ask her the news of a paper she has just laid aside she gives me such a catalogue of inaccuracies that I straightway consult the news sheet myself, appalled at the peculiar things that have been happening. I find she's always wrong. She has an impressionistic faculty with headlines and can distort them at a single glance.

"This," I said to Mary, in the presence of one of the insurance men, "this is a tremendous sermon to you, little lady, not to let a good-looking scoundrel get into the flat again unless he presents proper credentials."

"This," said the burglar insurance man with an eye to business, "is a tremendous argument, Mr. Hunt, for burglar insurance."

Beauty Found in Comfort

By LUCREZIA BORI

Prima Donna of the Metropolitan Opera Company, New York.

LUCREZIA BORI

SUMMER beauty depends largely upon physical comfort and mental calm. If you are clad in unsuitably warm clothing with tight stays and heavy, dragging skirts, and if your stomach is oversupplied with rich and indigestible foods, you need not expect to have good looks. It is only a waste of time to pursue beauty until you have captured comfort.

The bath is the first element of hot weather comfort. Every one should take two baths a day, and an extra cooling sponge will do no harm if there is time and opportunity for it. The morning bath should be either a tub, shower or sponge in cool water, to which has been added some sea salt or borax or bicarbonate of soda. This will allay the irritation of the skin which frequently comes with excessive heat. Also after the bath, if the body is sponged with diluted alcohol or lavender water or cologne it will add to one's comfort. The night bath may be taken immediately before retiring, or before dinner after the day's work is over. This will be the time when it will give greatest benefit.

If there is a tendency to insomnia or headache caused by the heat, a cloth wrung from ice water and laid on the back of the neck will often quiet the nerves and bring sleep.

Bathing the back of the neck and back of the ears with hot water when the work of the day is over will rest one as much as a nap.

Clean clothing is another summer necessity. All undergarments should be put on fresh and clean each day. If you feel that you cannot afford laundry expenses then wear simple undergarments which you can wash yourself. Plain cleanliness is to be chosen in preference to mussy stylishness. Knitted undervests and crepe combinations are as easily washed as a handkerchief and require no ironing.

For a sponge bath, try a lotion made of an ounce of tincture of camphor and half an ounce of tincture of benzoin mixed with two ounces of cologne. Add just enough to the basin of water to make it fragrant and milky.

Mme. Bernhardt and other celebrated beauties have used a simple rubdown lotion for years with great satisfaction. To make it, put a pint of alcohol into a quart bottle and dissolve an ounce of camphor gum and two tablespoonfuls of salt in it and fill the bottle with water. Shake well, and it is ready for use. Just before retiring it will cool and soothe the body and make sleep possible and pleasant.

Rid your mind of worry. Don't smile superciliously and say: "That is easy to say, but how about doing it?" If you mean do I worry, I can answer with emphasis: "I do not, never did and never will!" Worry never does anything more useful than make wrinkles. It's a lot harder to do than work. It has nothing in common with beauty, either of face or of mind.

Eat simple foods, fruits, salads and vegetables, meat not more than once a day, and heavy rich gravies and pastries not at all. Forget to nibble candy.

Keep your excretory organs active. I will give you the rule for making fig paste which is harmless, palatable and efficient.

Half a pound each of raisins and figs chopped fine with an ounce of senna leaves. Put in a stew pan with half a pound of sugar and half a pint of water and simmer slowly for half an hour. Pour into a pan and when cool cut into inch squares. Take one at bedtime.

Advice to Girls

By ANNIE LAURIE

Dear Annie Laurie:

I am 17 years of age. I have a young gentleman friend I love very much, and I know he loves me. Yet when he promises me he will come and spend an evening with me, very often he disappoints me. He is in the habit of getting intoxicated when he is with other boys and forgets me. It's the only fault he has. He never goes with any other girl, and has promised me to quit drinking. Should I depend on him or not? T. F. H.

THE promise of a beggar and the word of a drunkard—they are of the same piece of goods.

How romantic it seems to you to be in love with a young man who is "dissipated," and how stupid and sordid and commonplace all his "dissipation" really is! There's nothing romantic about getting drunk. Any one can do that, and any one who does do it is the last person in the world to trust or to lean upon.

Marry a thief, put your trust in a gambler, tear your heart out of your breast and give it to a careless child for a plaything, but do not fall in love with a drunkard, or let a drunkard make you believe that he is in love with you. He isn't in love with anyone but himself and his own self-indulgence.

Get a sweetheart who can stay sober, little girl, and let the man who drinks go by on the other side.

Annie Laurie

Miss Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. They should be addressed to her, care this office.

HOW to "CHECK UP" on PERSONALITY

Rene Detling
New Prima Donna of "Sari."

Did You Ever Seriously Try Renovating Your Habits?

By ELEANOR AMES

WHEN cleaning house and looking over last year's wardrobe, did it ever occur to you to renovate your personality? To sit down without any undue partiality in your judgment and look yourself squarely in the face? To take inventory of what characteristics are splendid and fine and worth while, to examine what are pretty shabby and out-of-date and unpresentable, and what are utterly hopeless and not worth keeping? Did you ever start such a renovation?

No? Well—a good many of us have, in a sort of desultory way, but also a good many of us have found it extremely difficult to keep that detached judgment. We have failed in impartiality, and tried to patch up old worn-out habits, and the result has not been satisfactory. Still, maybe the time spent in taking inventory was not wholly wasted.

Rene Detling, who is one of those rare individuals, the American-trained-and-proud-of-it prima donna—and, still rarer, an American prima donna who has never had to hunt for a job—says it is the surest way to progress. Also she says progress is the best word a woman can put in her daily lexicon. Unless you think progress, work toward progress, and are determined to progress (change the pronounciation to suit the occasion) you will never get anywhere. Which I contend is perfectly good logic.

Miss Detling is so on tip-toe to get ahead in the world, to make the most of every ounce of talent in her make-up, to learn everything she can about her art, and all other useful arts, that she seems to be charged with electricity and to have solved the problem of perpetual motion as applied to endeavor.

"System," she explains, when you marvel at all her daily accomplishments. "Simple system. I have my days mapped out before they start and then I work straight ahead.

"I fight shy of side-tracks and switchbacks, unless they mean more progress in the future. Of course, there are times when one sees that 'the longest way 'round is the shortest way home,' but, generally, 'as the crow flies' is the best path.

"Don't fritter away your time. Did you ever stand talking with a friend until you had lost a train, or missed an appointment? Then when you were left, did you ever stop and think what there was worth while in that talk that repaid you for the loss? Did you ever think that when you let a person waste your time you are letting, aiding and abetting him in wasting his own time as well?

"But we were talking about renovations. There are a whole lot of little characteristics and habits in the personalities of most of us that we could very well spare. We don't, if we are wise, keep a lot of old clothes about us as incubators for moths. We know the moths will spread and eat up our good clothes. We don't save useless articles of any kind. We clear them out and make room for worth while objects. Yet we go on year after year carting around a lot of foolish ideas, stupid habits, grouches and memories that are no good to us and are crowding the good things out of our natures.

"That's what I mean by personality renovation. I have had several such cleaning times. And I expect to have several more. Each time I find there is less trash to get rid of. Perhaps, by and by, there will be so little I shall feel jubilant. But I shall never fear there will be no need for the cleaning. When a personality gets beyond the need of renovation it is beyond this earth.

"The first bit of renovation to do is to chase out the gloom. Let in the sunlight of happiness. Germs don't like sunshine. Gloom germs have too firm a grip in too many natures. Light your personality with good-will and kindness. That's a good place to start the renovation, and go on with the story."

Flounces Are the Summer Mode

By MADGE MARVEL

IT is perfectly permissible to call the average young woman of the moment a "flouncing miss" quite in the wording of the stories of some 50 years ago.

The term applies to her dress more than her manner, although when one is literally flounced from head to toe, with a flounced sunshade fluttering overhead, she takes upon herself something of the flouncing manner of walk.

The flounce motif is strong in the summer modes and growing stronger. In most cases it has skilfully avoided finishing the skirt and thus distorting the chic narrowness of hem which so pleasingly accentuates the flounciness of the tunic above.

Flounces are beautifully elastic in their trimming possibilities.

They may be arranged about the knees of the frock in a group of three, giving the exact fulness at the exact point where it is needed to make the latest silhouette. And one of the desirable elements of the flounce is that one may be very exact about it. It may be just the least bit full or very full. It may be any depth one chooses. It may even be so deep it forms the entire tunic, or so narrow that it becomes a ruffle and is repeated to cover the desired space.

The flounce belongs essentially to the filmy fabrics of which summertime clothes are made. It may be developed in any of them, or in embroidery or silk or chiffon or net or lace.

As for lace, it was never so much used and there were never so bewilderingly many laces displayed. Even the lace authorities are puzzled to classify them adequately, but they lose nothing in charm because they defy cataloguing.

An Interesting Model of the Flounced Frock.

The skirt formed of deep triple flounces is one of the popular models of the summer and lends itself to any soft fabric, and is becoming to almost any age. Likewise it is suitable for the gown for morning, afternoon or evening wear.

Consider the frock shown. The model was introduced months ago by an importer who claims that the term "exclusive" applies to every one of his importations. This flounced frock has been copied far and wide. One meets it at every turn in the day. It is surely not "exclusive." But—the significant fact about it is that the original importer is just as stanch in his friendship for it as on that day when he first showed it to women who pooh-poohed the idea of the flounced skirt gaining any headway.

I have seen it developed for morning wear in bordered linens, each flounce showing the border, and the underskirt being of plain linen or of the border, draped close about the feet.

For the afternoon gown I have seen it in dozens of voiles, printed cotton chiffons, taffetas. For evening wear I have noticed it in lace with the under portion black charmeuse or dark blue or the new golden browns which are so fashionable just now. And it was never anything but attractive, and I have never tired of it.

For evening wear in the summer time white lace made in this style is charming and practical. For afternoon wear the embroideries and embroidered muslins and nets are fascinating.

It is literally a style for everybody.

To hark back to the reference to brown, it will grow in importance as the season advances. It appears in the most desirable creations in linen, voile, chiffon, taffeta satin crepe and in a variety of shades. There is a brown to suit almost every type of wearer. In using lace with brown, unless it is very fine, it is wiser to choose that which has the cream or ivory tint than the dead white.

Secrets of Health and Happiness

Why Exercise Is Needed to Aid Proper Digestion

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins).

DR. HIRSHBERG

EXERCISE comes from a Latin root, which means "to drive out of the ark, to work." Possibly this comes down to us from the days of the flood.

No doubt Noah, as soon as the waters settled, drove his lazy creatures, pent up in those close quarters for forty days and nights, out into the moist world to work and bring forth fruit.

To choke up your days with barbarous ignorance and deny your life the rich advantage of good exercise is to stale the flesh and muss up the digestion; to derenovate the muscles and rust the cerebral edge. To be strong of thought and firm of body, to eat like a lion and digest like an ostrich, well disciplined exercises, which teach to dare and to do, are eternally necessary.

Patience may be a makeshift for exercise for ascetics and saints. There may be other ways to acquire fortitude. Yet good digestion waits more on muscular dexterity than on appetite. Forsooth, the last, a falsely worshipped idol, depends upon physical agility.

What Exercise Does.

The stomach, as well as the other sausaged links of the alimentary canal, not to forget the liver, are influenced by every little mechanical movement of your musculature.

Even singing is a form of "strong pull, long pull, and a muscular pull altogether," which sends the lackadaisical debris of your diet sizzling through the gastric sieve.

Piano practice, the exercise of discretion, and the practice of prayer are really what the word signifies, to wit, the use of muscle spasms, even though they be less manifest, or, in a fashion suppressed.

When your liver becomes clogged with victualary clinkers, when the oven of your bread portfolio is saturated with rations, then it behooves you to be up and doing, to bestir your internal mechanism to the utmost.

Your stomach as well as its beginnings and its end is more or less like an inner tire with bulgings here and there, twists and turns, kinks and gyrations. In lieu, however, of rubber, this inner human hose is made of muscle fabric. Thus it is as elastic and decidedly more mechanical in adaptability than garden hose.

To exercise moderately your anatomy at tennis as the wind tries strong trees; to pose and bend, to assume first this posture and then that: to maintain, even when unduly fatigued, the rigid position of a martinet, is to bounce the most mephitic, noxious, uncongenial fodder along the muscled oesophagus and intestines.

The Prophet's Word.

Moses foreknew all this with prophetic sagacity. And also in the New Testament you are told: "Strong meat belongeth to them that are of age; especially those who, by reason of exertion, have their senses exercised."

Note what Bobby Burns wrote in his "Grace Before Meat":

Some hae meat and canna eat, and some wad eat that want it;
But we hae meat, and we can eat, sae let the Lord be thankit.

He shows a poet's insight, and speaks for all to see the divine afflatus which teaches more physiological knowledge than most medical schools.

Here it is correctly set down that unlike toil and hard work, sedentary occupations—which includes all who merely walk and run up and downstairs—preclude your breadbasket's proper powers and capacity to completely digest what you eat.

If you do not labor by the sweat of your brow, even though you eat less, you must exercise more.

Three Minute Journeys

WHERE WICKER ALLIGATORS ARE ORACLES

By Temple Manning

IN the interior of Papua, designated in any atlas made before 1906 as British New Guinea, I came upon the strangest temple I have ever visited.

To comprehend the weird religion of Papua it must be borne in mind that its essentials are witchcraft and cannibalism, and that the alligator is the titular deity. The alligator idea predominates so much in the art and religion of the land that I saw at a glance that the great temple raising its gables to 60 feet, through successive buildings, was built to convey the idea of an alligator with huge open jaws, crouching on the river bank. Words are impossible with which to describe the shape; there is nothing in all architecture, or "Dubu" as it is called, with which to liken it. In length it is quite 200 feet, but the great height of the front tapers off rapidly.

From the muddy bank we crossed a single log to the rickety platform before the "Dubu." The natives, dark and sullen, clothed in beast-faced masks and paint, gave way grudgingly. We entered into a murky darkness, and, when my eyes grew accustomed, I found myself in one of the four great rooms of the "Dubu."

Each one of these rooms contained precisely the same objects, great carved war shields, pig jaws strung together, alligator skulls, with grinning teeth, and human skulls, old and new. But the treasures grew richer as we advanced into the interior. The effect seemed to be to lead up to some great treasure in the centre. And, as we advanced, the natives began to leave us. They seemed to grow afraid. One only remained, an intelligent fellow, who was the priest. He followed us to the final treasure house.

Five monstrous figures made of wicker work stood before us. More than anything else they looked like alligators, nine feet long, with gaping open mouths and red staring eyes. They had legs of wicker work, the two front ones longer than the back two. The priest grinned, and told us that these figures are used as oracles, being consulted as to what luck may be expected on hunting expeditions.

They are supposed to reply by tilting themselves about on their wooden feet. If a pig is caught it is presented to the idols before it is disjointed. Exactly what the idol does then I cannot say. Our guide, the priest, suddenly refused to talk. But I noticed that there is plenty of room inside the idols for the body of a man.

ORIGIN of COMMON THINGS

Several theories are offered to account for the origin of the dollar mark. One declares that it comes from the letters U. S. which were placed on the federal currency, and in the hurry of writing were run together, the S being placed over the U. A more probable explanation is that it is a modification of the figure 8, and denoted a piece of 8 reals, or $1.

The original blue stocking was a man named Stillingfleet. In 1781 there arose a fashion in London of literary assemblies of ladies who met to hear a lecture from a literary character and afterwards participated in general conversation. Stillingfleet, a leading lecturer, wore blue stockings, and so gave a designation to the assemblies.

The word humbug is of Irish origin, and means soft copper, or worthless money. It was originally applied to the money issued by James II. at the Dublin mint. It was made of lead, copper, brass, pewter or any other metal he found available, and soon became known among the people as uimbog, or humbug.

The first forgery of a Bank of England note was executed by a man who was anxious to make a good impression on his sweetheart. He forged 20 of the notes and placed them in her hands as proof of his wealth. No attempt was made to pass them, but the forgery was discovered and he was hanged. His name was Vaughn, and his execution took place in 1758.

FARM MAKES A GOOD HOME

Farmer writing in The Farmers Advocate on "Whither Shall the Young Man Go?" says: "So much has been said on the young men leaving the farm for the city that it would almost seem as if they should all stay on the farm. Now, I think as Bobby Burns says: 'O wad some pow'r the giftie gie us, to see ourselves as ithers see us,' it would prevent many grievous mistakes on the part of young men choosing their life's occupation. In setting out let him take a retrospective view of what his capabilities are and what he is adapted for, then choose accordingly. A Gladstone should not spend his life behind the plow nor Lincoln splitting rails, yet there are many misfits in the professions and [illegible] different occupations of life that [illegible] directly to a wrong choice. It [illegible] the case of a round tenant to fit [illegible] square mortis. If we look around [illegible] the men who have left the farm [illegible] the city we find some occupying [illegible] filling with satisfaction the high[illegible] and noblest positions in the world, [illegible] filling positions of honor and [illegible] with credit to themselves, while [illegible] have gone down to the depths of degradation and ruin. Perhaps for [illegible] average men reared on the farm [illegible] are better adapted to the farm [illegible] anything else, if so, why not [illegible] that? With ordinary intelligence and industry they can make an [illegible], comfortable and respectable [illegible]. There is freedom, there is [illegible] of labor, what a wonderful [illegible] for admiration in the development of the natural resources of the [illegible] and the animal kingdom, the cultivation of flowers, fruit, grain and [illegible] combined with the rearing of [illegible] specimens of animals in any class [illegible] fancy [illegible]. The farm makes a good home.

Gossip and Women's Clubs

Only one thing is fatal to the happy social life of any country community and that is gossip. If the ladies can not find in the wide field of house keeping, chicken-raising, preserving care of children, public schools, music, art, reading, public improvements, good government, health, sewing, entertaining and all other delightful household tasks, enough material to lift the meetings above petty personalities, then the little club, or whatever it is called, is doomed. Whenever gossip is allowed into any organization people will begin to break up into little cliques or circles or groups, and the whole thing fails.—Farm and Fireside.

SALMON INDUSTRY

Quebec Man Started First Packing House on Pacific Coast

Notwithstanding the fact that the first salmon cannery on the Pacific Coast was erected in United States territory—on the Sacramento river—it is interesting to note that it was the creation of one who had learned the canning business in Eastern Canada. This man, Hapgood, had worked in a lobster factory in the Baie des Chaleurs, Que. A school mate named Hume, from Augusta, Maine, who had been to California and returned home, had told Hapgood of the abundance of salmon on the Pacific coast, and Hapgood saw no reason why salmon should not be canned as well as lobster, and entering into partnership with Hume, erected the first Pacific coast cannery in 1864. A year or two later witnessed the establishment of the industry in British Columbia.

In 1876 the total pack of the province was but 10,000 cases of 48 pounds to a case, while now the production of the canneries is around a million cases per year. Many changes are observable in the industry. With the increasing demand for salmon, other kinds than Sockeyes have been increasingly canned, and now a considerable proportion of the pack consists of hitherto neglected kinds of salmon. Then again the Indians and white fishermen are being gradually displaced by Japanese.

Perhaps the most remarkable development is that of the Dog Salmon industry. These fish were until recently regarded with contempt, but so great is the demand from the Japanese market, that more than 3,000 tons, dry salted, have been exported in a single year from British Columbia. Just as the turkey is the universal Christmas dish with us, so a salted dog salmon is the chief item at New Year's feasts in Japan. The average price of a seven pound dog salmon in Japan is said to be fifty cents.

ORIENTAL MENACE

Presbyterians on Coast See a Real Asiatic Peril

The Westminster Presbytery, representing that denomination in Vancouver and all the lower mainland, passed a long resolution as to their policy on Oriental immigration. They view with alarm the ever-increasing arrival of Orientals, whose influence is felt in social, economic and even moral conditions. They add:

"The situation is already exceedingly serious. One in every nine of our population is an Oriental, and as a large proportion of their members are men, it means that one man out of every five in British Columbia is an Oriental.

"This Presbytery would therefore urge that an understanding be arrived at between our Government and the various governments interested to exclude Oriental laborers until the population of Orientals to Occidentals is one to thirty of the population of British Columbia. In case of Hindus already residing here, we urge they be allowed to bring in their wives, providing that no other members of this race will be permitted to enter Canada until the above condition is reached, when the question may be re-opened."

You wash dishes about two hours every day. That's one hour wasted!

Dishes get dirty, greasy and sticky and soap will not clean them. Soapy dish water merely cleans the surface; it doesn't dig into the corners and drive out the decayed food particles.

Gold Dust is the sanitary dish washer. It not only cleans the surface, but digs deep after hidden particles of dirt and kills the germs of decayed food which ordinary dish-water overlooks. Gold Dust sterilizes as well as cleanses.

Besides doing the work better than soap or any other cleanser can, Gold Dust will save just half the time you spend in washing dishes.

Gold Dust is sold in 5c size and large packages. The large package means greater economy.

NATIVES WALK ON STILTS

Means of Locomotion Used in South of France

In Landes, beyond Bayonne, in the south of France, men live on stilts. They shoot wild duck, snipe and woodcock on stilts and guard the big flocks of sheep. On stilts they trim the mulberry trees, and tap the pines for a superior quality of turpentine. Boys and girls play tag on stilts, and in the evening loving couples stroll arm in arm on stilts.

Stilts are used because it is a scrub wood land, as flat and boundless as the ocean. The wilderness of sandy soil, scrubwood and bushes, interspersed with pine forests, stretches on every hand, sparsely inhabited, without roads. Without stilts no one goes far from the house or well known home surroundings. Without stilts walking is difficult, the face is cut and scratched and all sense of direction is abolished.

The inhabitants have always walked on stilts to find their way. Walk twelve feet high and you dominate an ocean of greenery which seems to be at your feet. The shepherds can look down and watch their sheep at ease. Strayed lambs are followed up. The dogs themselves look up to the master for an indication.

From this land, where children are almost born on stilts, come forth these couples, trios or quartets of stilt dancers whose astonishing tricks amuse the cities and little watering places of the Basque country, the Pyrenees and the entire south of France. They can take up a good collection even among the poor villagers, who are familiar with the stilt dancing and therefore competent judges of its adepts. The musical accompanist is generally an elderly man beating a drum and playing a mouth organ fixed on iron brackets from his shoulders. Behind him stalk gravely a boy and girl, and sometimes a wiry mamma.

Standing a clear fifteen or twenty feet high, the stilts strapped to their ankles and knees—where they end—their hands and arms are free, and they use them effectively during the dance performance in theatrical gesticulations of exaggerated grace.

In the case of firms the actual signature, the nature of the occupation and place of residence of each member of the firm must be given.

Spruce a Valuable Asset

There are more than one hundred tree species found in Canada, of which only thirty are conifers. Yet these latter constitute Canada's chief timber wealth. Of these coniferous trees, or "evergreens," spruce easily takes first place. Four of the five species of spruce are of commercial importance and at least two of these are found in every province of the Dominion.

To avoid dampness in the poultry-house the floor should be a foot higher of earth than the level of the outside lay of land. Then grade up to the outside walls so as to turn off the water.

Ducks may be raised at little expense on the farm. They eat the food that is not desired by other fowls. Vegetable parings and food unrelished by other geese or chickens seem to be enjoyed.

How People Feel
When They Have
Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulveney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them can not imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ½ of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution, have very little distress.

Prof. Mulveney's world-famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, sure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, is not disagreeable to take. One dose nearly always affects a cure. Further information free. Send stamped envelope, telephone Parkdale 4830, or call at 167 Dundas street, Toronto. Open from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

ART OF CITY PLANNING

This is a Product of Modern Industrial Revolution

As an organized art, city planning is a new thing. It had its birth in the last generation, when mills, factories and workshops threatened with extinction the life, health and beauty of the towns. Like the city itself, it is a product of the industrial revolution. It is a by-product of machine industry and steam transportation. Individual rulers planned capital cities in ancient Babylon, Greece and Rome, as did the merchant princes of the medieval Italian and Hanseatic towns.

Paris was planned in a commanding way by Louis XIV., who laid its present foundations. The first and third Napoleons projected great boulevards and avenues, beautified the banks of the Seine with embankments and bridges, erected monuments, arches and open spaces and made Paris the capital of the modern world. The kings of Bavaria and Saxony laid out Munich and Dresden in the same big-visioned way.

These cities were the individual creations of ambitious rulers, eager to give expression to their power. Modern city planning is a democratic movement, although it found its first organized expression in monarchical Germany, in which country, in a few years time, it has attained the rank of a profession. To-day there is scarcely a large town in Germany that is not being built according to an official plan, worked out by experts trained to the profession, and often after competition. They plan the city from centre to circumference and for future generations rather than for to-day.

JOCKEY TO EMPEROR

English Rider Chosen to Ride Kaiser's Best Horses

For the next few years Frederick Winter, an English rider, will be the first jockey to the German Emperor's famous Graditz racing stable.

It is believed that this is the first time that a jockey born in England has received a permanent retainer from the Kaiser and it is not only a great compliment to Winter, but it is a compliment to England, for people have been saying England cannot produce jockeys nowadays, and that when the best article is required it is necessary to go out of the country.

The Kaiser takes a deeper and more personal interest in the management of the racing studs at Graditz than the people either in Germany or in England think. It is many years since an English-speaking jockey failed to be engaged, but Count Lehndorff, the controller of the Imperial Stud, who holds much the same position as Lord Marcus Beresford holds to King George, has for a period preferred to engage as trainer and as jockey Britons who have been brought up in Australia. Thus Reginald Day was the trainer and Frank Bullock for six years was the jockey, and it was Day who picked Winter.

BEATING A THROW

Famous Coach Thinks Baseball Players Are Very Poor Runners

Boyd Comstock, famous as an athletic coach, has some original ideas for making ball players fast. It is generally believed that speed is a natural gift, but Comstock thinks it is merely a mechanical proposition and that any well-developed man can be taught to run fifty yards at high speed.

"The way ball players run is simply an athletic crime," says Comstock "They have the wrong idea and place their feet wrongly, and above all do not get the upper part of their bodies into the game at all.

"One peculiarity that a professional coach notices is that the men run better when jogging along than they do at top speed. When jogging, being natural athletes, they bring their arms and legs into proper play. When they try to speed up, however, they immediately bring into play extraordinary faults of action that retard them rather than help them.

"One place that the faults of the base runners are glaringly apparent is when taking a lead off first base. With a lead of two or three yards off first base it is absurd to think that any runner should not be able to beat out the throw from the catcher. The reason that base stealers fail to do so is that when they get a wrong start they lose time at the get away. Instead of getting in full stride at once, as track runners do, they don't get to top speed for at least three strides. They start with their arms at their sides hanging limply like fish, instead of using their arms to give themselves the push-off. So much for the base runners.

"I have found by experiment that the average high fly takes eight seconds from the crack of the bat until it touch the ground. If outfielders knew how to run there would be no such thing as a home run.

"Any outfielder should be able to cover the whole section of his part of the outfielder in two-thirds that time. A centre fielder who knows the science of running should be able to catch any foul fly outside the right field foul line.

"The result of the doctrine of maximum efficiency of baseball would be to make the outfield fly an impossible hit; but would wonderfully increase the run-getting possibilities by increasing the advantage of the base runner over the prowess of the infielder. The fielding averages of the infielder would take a pronounced slump."

THE SALE OF LIQUOR CANNOT BE CONTROLLED AS LONG AS THE SHOP REMAINS OPEN, SAYS MR. J. D. FLAVELLE

"If the Liberal party got into power and are really in earnest in carrying out 'Abolish the Bar,' how are you to control the sale of liquor while the shop is open and you have to depend on personal evidence to convict? I am confident that it would be a repetition of the Scott Act, which was repealed in every constituency in which it passed. Why? First, the maladministration and non-assistance of the Liberal Government then in power; second because it is practically almost impossible to enforce an act of this nature when you have to depend upon personal evidence to convict....................I was an ardent supporter of the Scott Act, but in view of its subsequent failure through difficulty in enforcing, it is one more evidence that hasty legislation very often defeats its own ends."—Mr. J. D. Flavelle, life-long Methodist and temperance worker, of Lindsay, Ont.

MR. E. W. COX IS SAID TO BE HOPELESSLY ILL

Montreal, June 24.—A London cable says that Mr. E. W. Cox, of Toronto, who succeeded his father, the late Senator Cox, as president of the Canada Life Assurance Company, and who is also director of the Central Canada Loan and Savings Company, and other corporations, lies dangerously ill at the Hotel Metropole. He was operated upon on Sunday for an infection of the throat. His condition is thought to be hopeless.

HOLIDAY POSTPONED BY HINDU QUESTION

Situation so Serious That Premier Borden Cannot Leave Capital

Ottawa, June 24.—Judging by the appeals which are coming from British Columbia to shut out the Hindus at all cost, the feeling is very strong against them. A strong protest against allowing them to enter was received to-day by the Government from the New Westminster Board of Trade.

The Government has no intention of allowing them to enter, if it can help it, but it is feared that a loop hole may yet be found in the regulations which will allow the Hindus to temporarily land, at least until the case is settled in the courts. It is feared that there will be riots if they do land.

As a result of the seriousness of the situation Premier Borden may have to postpone his holidays.

Aunt Sally's Advice To Beauty Seekers.

K.C.P. says: "My skin becomes so greasy every summer, and this so attracts dust and dirt, I have an awful time keeping my face clean looking. Can you suggest anything." The method mentioned in reply to Eloise will overcome this condition.

D.N.A. writes: "How can I get rid of crowsfeet and wrinkles about the mouth corners?" Use a wash lotion prepared by dissolving 1 oz. powdered saxolite in ½ pt. witch hazel. This tightens the skin, dispersing the wrinkles, and its tonic effect is more than temporary.

Eloise says: "My freckles are worse than ever this year, made doubly conspicuous by a pallid complexion. Is there any cure?" Ask your druggist for an ounce of mercolized wax, apply nightly like cold cream, removing in the morning with warm water. As the wax gradually, harmlessly absorbs the affected cuticle, not only will the freckles vanish but the new and younger skin which appears will have a healthy color.—Woman's Realm.

THOUSANDS JOIN IN PROTEST AGAINST LANDING OF HINDUS

Vancouver Expresses Herself in No Unmistakable Manner No Surrender by the Government

Vancouver, B.C., June 24.—Thousands were turned away last night from the meeting held to protest against the landing of the Hindus on the steamer Komagata Maru. Resolutions were passed, objecting to the Government allowing the Hindus to enter, and asking that legislation be passed restricting the immigration of Hindus into Canada.

Early in the day an attempt was made by fifteen shore Hindus to force their way to the Komagata Maru and gain communication with their countrymen confined there, but the attempt was frustrated by the police and immigration officers.

Attempt Frustrated.

While J. Edward Bird, the Hindus' lawyer, was trying to effect a pacific entry on the ship, the Hindus themselves took matters into their own hands, chartered a launch and set out from pier "A" of the C.P.R. A few minutes later they were back on the dock hauled off by an immigration department boat. A squad of police arrived soon after, took the names of the ringleaders and forced them and their followers from the waterfront.

ELECTION IS ORDERED IN CARLTON COUNTY

Ottawa, June 24.—The Attorney-General's Department has ordered that an election between Mr. P. H. McElroy, the sitting member, and Lt.-Col. Hamilton, Liberal, must take place in Carlton county. On Monday Returning Officer Craig refused to grant a poll on the ground that the Liberal nominee's paper was not sufficiently signed. He is overriden by the Department.

FIRE THREATENS TO WIPE OUT DISTRICT

Manchester, N.H. June 24.— The fire which for six hours threatened to wipe out the retail business district of this city, was finally brought under control after it had destroyed two large commercial blocks, with a loss of $400,000 to-day. Nine firemen were hurt, but all will recover. The cause of the fire has not been determined.

LARGE, APPRECIATIVE AUDIENCE GREETS R. J. SODEN AT ENNISMORE

Conservative Candidate, Accompanied by Mayor Buller Hold Very Successful Meeting

A large audience greeted Mayor Buller and R. J. Soden, the Conservative candidate in the hall at the Cross in Ennismore Township last evening.

After the meeting had been called to order by the Rev. Father Fitzpatrick, who occupied the platform with the speaker. Mr. Galvin was chosen as chairman. In a few well chosen remarks, Mr. Galvin introduced the first speaker, Mayor Buller.

The Mayor, on rising, complimented those present on the large attendance and then proceeded to lay before them the Whitney policy of Radial Railways in which he was particularly interested, inasmuch as it would benefit the City of Peterborough and also the rural districts adjoining the city.

He drew attention to the facilities offered in this scheme, for drawing city and county closer together, and showed the advantages to the farmer in the matter of transportation, light and power, and closed with a plea that the Whitney Government be allowed to complete so good a work, so well begun by them. The Mayor was enthusiastically applauded on resuming his seat.

The candidate on rising heartily thanked the electors for their large attendance, and Rev. Father Fitzpatrick for the courtesy extended by him to himself and Mayor Buller. Mr. Soden then dealt with the increased revenue of the province under the Whitney Government, showing that the increases were drawn not from the men who could least afford to pay them, but from the large and wealthy corporations to whom the increase was but a small matter as the facilities afforded them by the Government for doing business were such as would justly call for increased taxation, and which taxation their resources enabled them to pay without hardship. He then showed how the Whitney Government has wisely used this increased revenue by increasing grants to education, to agriculture, to hospitals and charities, to the betterment of the roads, etc. He dealt at length with the grants to agriculture and education, and outlined the recommendation of the Good Roads Commission on the proposed legislation to expend $30,000,000 on good roads in the next 15 years. Summing up he showed how besides taking care of the before mentioned increased grants, the Whitney Government had wiped out the deficit of their predecessors, and accumulated a surplus of $1,175,000 in nine years without resorting to the direct taxation which Sir George Ross in 1904 had said was the only means of making the revenue meet the necessary current expenditure.

He appealed to the electors to support Whitney on his record of deeds as shown in his nine years of Government and to vote for himself, the candidate of the best Government the province ever had.

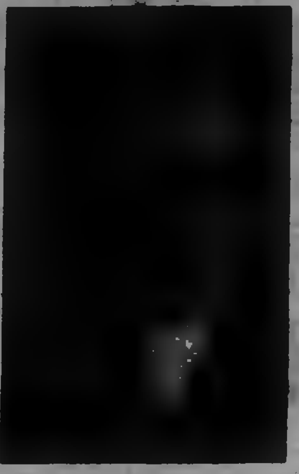
The meeting was closed with cheers for the King, the Whitney Government and the candidate.

To the Electors of West Peterborough

Mr. Soden solicits the Temperance vote on the ground that he is in favor of the abolition of the Bar, Club and Shop Licenses. Will Mr. Soden state on the platform that he will vote with either Political Party for the abolition of the Bar, Club and Shop License, or over his own signature in the public press?

My promise to the Electors is — I WILL.

Geo. A. Gillespie



A Vote for Soden is a Vote for Whitney—who broke the School Book Monopoly and saved you $842,000 in nine years on Public School Books alone—

If you approve of this

VOTE FOR SODEN.

PUBLIC OPINION

The Times does not hold itself responsible for the opinions of its correspondents.

MR. A. B. CUNNINGHAM'S LETTER.

Editor Morning Times

Dear Sir.—In Wednesday's issue of your paper Mr. Soden makes another attempt to persuade voters that he is on the temperance platform. Even if his absurd proposal were feasible his actions and statements on the temperance question have been so ELUSIVE, EVASIVE and CONTRADICTORY, that no confidence can be placed in his position.

Note the following: In a speech to temperance workers in the Y.M.C.A. at the close of the last local option campaign, Mr. Soden vigorously denounced the government three-fifths handicap and stated he "would NEVER CAST A VOTE for the government while that clause remained." (Applause). In his speech at Young's Point he stated "the three-fifths clause is the best thing the country ever had." A flat contradiction.

Mr. Soden's weakness is apparent in that he HAS NOT stated in any public utterance that he will vote with EITHER POLITICAL PARTY on the issues presented by The Temperance Association—that is, the abolition of the three-fifths clause and the abolition of the bar, club and shop licenses, either collectively or separately.

Mr. Soden's insincerity is disclosed in that he repeatedly tries to make pronouncements similar in APPARENT MEANING but utterly valueless when closely scrutinized. The object of such statements is to mislead and hold the unwary temperance voter.

Mr. Gillespie unreservedly places temperance interests before party interests, and merits our support. Mr. Soden utterly fails to do this, but persists in pretending to do it. Soden says, "I may." Gillespie says, "I will!"

Mr. Soden tied his own hands at his own convention by stating he would not pledge himself on these matters. Mr. Soden requested me to have our Executive defer its pronouncement 24 hours that he might go to Toronto and see if he would be recognized as a CONSERVATIVE candidate if he went all the way on temperance matters. He stated to me in the presence of a leading Conservative business man of this city that he was prepared to accept our first two questions for the abolition of the three-fifths clause. We deferred our pronouncement at his request; he went to Toronto, saw Dr. Pyne, returned, and stated to a number of our Executive that he could not sign our questions, and in the course of a few days completely flopped on the three-fifths clause.

We have no use for men of that calibre; they have proved a greater menace to our cause than open opponents. Past experience bids us beware of thinly statements that are hollow, deceptive and misleading.

CANDIDATES SCRIBBLED, WHILE FIRE BLAZED AWAY IN BASEMENT

Harbord Collegiate Institute Struck by Lightning During Examination

Toronto, June 24—While one hundred and sixty scholars were racking their brains over the mysteries of physics at the Harbord Collegiate Institute at 11 a.m. to-day, a fire was raging in the basement of the building almost under their feet. Unaware of this, however, the pupils kept on scribbling and it was not until the flames had been extinguished that they learned anything about it.

The fire was discovered by Mr. Vine the caretaker, during the electric storm. He noticed the electric fans suddenly cease whirling, and concluded that the storm had caused a short circuit among the wires in the building. So he made a tour of the establishment, and on approaching the cellar directly underneath the physics laboratory, at the east end of the building, was met by a volume of smoke and tongues of flame which were issuing from crevices in the ceiling where the electric wires were burned.

Not wishing to alarm the pupils he ran upstairs and quietly calling to about half a dozen scholars, who had finished their examination papers, told them to unhitch the school fire hose. This was quickly done and while one of the pupils ran out to ring the fire alarm, the others under the direction of Mr. Vine, dragged the hose into the basement and commenced to pour a stream of water on the flames.

MR. JAMES THOMPSON HOLDS BIG AND ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING APSLEY

A rousing meeting was held in the Town Hall, of Apsley, on Wednesday evening, the 18th inst., in support of the Conservative candidate, Mr. Jas. Thompson. The Hall was crowded when the meeting opened. Mr. C. R. D. Booth was unanimously elected chairman, and after making the announcement that twenty minutes would be allowed to anyone wishing to ask questions or speak on behalf of the opposition side, he called upon Mr. Sexsmith, M.P., for an address.

His address was one which will long be remembered by members of the party. It was delivered in a clear voice, and his statements were the statements of a man who had the complete mastery of his subject, and knew how to make his points tell. He spoke of the great future that this Dominion had before it, more especially Ontario. After summarizing the possibilities and prospects of other Provinces in the Dominion, the speaker dealt with the Temperance question He said that Mr. Rowell had utterly failed to find any fault with the Whitney Government, so he brought out the policy of "Abolish the Bar" which he (the speaker) was not in favor with at all, he was in favor of the three-fifths clause, and strongly in favor of the furtherance of temperance principles, but he could not favor From that he turned attention to the such an extreme measure as this. great Power schemes, the Hydro-Electric, and others, which had been furthered by the Whitney Government. In closing he remarked upon the good roads and said that the Government were spending money to the best possible advantage and in supporting the candidate, we would be supporting one of the best government.

The chairman next called upon the candidate himself and he delivered a strong speech in support of his cause, he pointed out how much the Whitney Government had done towards the furtherance of Temperance by reducing considerably the number of licenses in the Province, and also by enforcing the Acts passed for temperance, they had done more in 6 years than the Opposition had done in 30 years they were in power. Further he dealt with the question of Education, saying that more money was to be granted for educational purposes, and he also summarized the progress that had been made in this direction. Speaking of the depopulation of this part of the country, he brought out strongly the good points of Northern Ontario, and advised those who intended to move away to consider the possibilities in that part of the Province, he added that it was a pity the Province should lose such experienced farmers. He went over other important schemes such as, power, roads, etc., and in conclusion he hoped that the people of Ontario, would support and return to power a Government that had done so much for the Province.

The Chairman again gave notice of the 20 minutes allowed opposition speakers, but alas, although there were present some of the biggest talkers (not all big physically) and supporters of the Opposition, we heard not a word, they held their peace. It seemed as if the splendid speakers had submerged them. However, it may have been for the best, because the evening was rather warm, and there is one man—the father of the party as it were—who cannot talk politics without getting terribly excited, although it must have been hard to remain silent during such speeches. We congratulate him, for at last realizing that discretion is the better part of valor. The meeting closed with three hearty cheers for the King.

TURN POSTOFFICE INTO REGULAR FORT

Paris June 24.—Six hundred letter carriers of Paris had to-day barricaded themselves within the Central Postoffice, of which they took possession last evening when they went on strike, and a force of 800 policemen was placed in a position around the great block by the authorities, who are considering whether or not to storm the place and forcibly expel the strikers.

McDONALD'S SHINGLE MILL BURNED DOWN

At 11.50 last night, the shingle mill of the McDonald Lumber Co. just south of the C.P.R. bridge, was burned down. The fire had gained considerable headway before the alarm was sent in, and the brigade was soon on the job, but not before a good deal of damage had been done. The men worked like trojans to keep the flames from spreading to other buildings, but the strong northwest wind hampered the boys a good deal and fanned the flames into fury. The origin of the fire was not known. The damage will probably run into thousands of dollars.

Rev. Canon Greene and Rev. Ben Spence Disclaim Responsibility

Toronto, June 24.—Rev. Canon R. W. R. Greene, President of the Ontario Branch of the Dominion Alliance, was surprised to-day when he read the account of the meeting in Massey Hall last night, at which Sir James Whitney referred to a circular over the signature of the Canon and Rev. Ben H. Spence as a mass of falsehoods. Such a circular had never came under Canon Greene's notice and when asked about it this morning he denied that he had ever signed such statements. He, however, promised a statement after he would After a long conference, which lasthave a conference with Mr. Spence. ed nearly three hours, the following statement was handed out:

Stopped Distribution.

"Neither of us saw the leaflet in question until it was printed and partly distributed. As soon as the matter came to our knowledge and the source learned, further distribution was stopped immediately.

"Upon inquiry, we learn the facts to be as follows: An earnest friend of the temperance cause desirous of aiding the candidature of Messrs. McKenzie and Moss in Northeast Toronto, at his own expense, undertook to issue this leaflet:

"The last paragraph of the leaflet are a quotation from the manifesto recently issued officially by the Ontario Branch of the Dominion Alliance, with the change of the word 'Ontario' to 'Toronto.' Our names were signed directly following these paragraphs in the manifesto, and all are printed last in the leaflet without appearing as a quotation. The impression is therefore conveyed that the names are attached to the entire leaflet.

Regret Occurrence.

"The document in question was not passed upon by any committee of the Alliance, and was one which neither official authority or personal inclination to sign.

"We regret the unauthorized use of our names, and the names of the Alliance in this connection, but desire to exonerate from any wrong intent, the persons who made this unfortunate mistake.

Signed

"Richard W. Greene.
"Ben H. Spence."

COMPARISONS

In days of old, when knights were bold,
And warriors held their sway,
They fought and bled, at least 'tis said,
In a way we don't like to-day.
But now we go without fear of foe,
Or sword or the gun's hot fire,
The auto has come to make things hum,
And so has the KELLY TIRE.

Invisible Air Ship

A patent has been granted in England to a man who claims he has invented an airship that will be invisible 1,000 feet in the air, his idea being to coat it with a metal that will reflect the atmosphere surrounding it.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

VALUE OF MAN'S SIZE

Modern Achievements Would be Impossible to Tiny Men

If man were much larger or much smaller than he is he could not have accomplished many of the most important feats of civilization. For man, by his stature, is just the right size to make the best use of everything around him. If a man were the size of an ant, for example, he could have made none of the machines with which he has conquered the world. The dimensions of such machines as he could have built would condemn them to uselessness, as the surfaces upon which friction must take place would be out of all proportion to the volume of the apparatus.

Such a man could not make a balloon that would float in the air. The delicacy of the materials he would have to employ would prevent this, for when a certain point of tenuousness is passed the gas diffuses quickly through the envelope. He could not build ships that would cross the ocean or float on any large body of water, because the dimensions of such vessels would have to be so inferior to the length and height of the wave as to make certain the immediate swamping of the tiny craft.

He could not even produce great heat, because the external surface of his furnaces would be so large in proportion to their volume that most of the heat would be lost. This would cut him off from all the chemistry that involves high temperatures, and therefore from metallurgy and mechanics.

Our Point of View

Kanakapka is the name of an Alberta town, and it sounds very much like a can bumping its way down the back steps.

The Globe says kissing your wife every day is a cure for divorce. Another good remedy, we believe is to avoid kissing other men's wives.

When the British men of war appeared off the coast of Mexico, it caused about the same commotion as a hawk does in a hen yard.

Manufacturers of chewing gum express the fear that the Mexican trouble will stop the importation of chicle from Yucatan, but that will not affect the situation in Parliament, where our statesmen will continue to chew the rag.

If any of the preachers now running for the Legislature are elected, will they resign their churches, or do they think that there is so little work for preachers to do that they can also discharge the duties of members or the Assembly?

Dr. Ross, the Conservative candidate in Kingston, says to the electors: "A temperance man myself, I stand with the Government in favor of a continuation of the same, reasonable, workable policy which has done so much to advance the cause of temperance throughout the province." Dr. Ross is an able and straightforward representative, and should have a large majority over his opponent.

Credit is due to Mr. Rowell for sticking to the fight under immensely discouraging conditions. He does not seem to be getting much enthusiastic support from his own party rank and file, and the Conservatives are staying quite solidly with the Government. The attempt to stampede the electors on a "big moral issue" has failed.

The Election

Ontario votes on the 29th inst, and the general elections in Manitoba are to be held on July 10. Should the Whitney and Roblin governments be returned by big majorities the World thinks that it is quite possible that the Dominion elections might follow in October. Certainly Mr. Borden would have a strong case if he appealed to the country for a mandate to abolish the senate, or at least to make it responsible to the people. The power of the government to dissolve and have an election whenever it suits them best, is unquestioned, and has been freely used in Canada, especially by provincial premiers. The tendency of course, is to make elections more frequent, and that is probably a good thing. It is open, to the objection that it can be used to obtain a snap judgment from the electorate by taking the opposition unawares.

Quite possibly it might be as well to elect our legislators, provincial and federal, for shorter terms, and have a fixed election day. Roughly speaking, we have an election every three years in Ontario and every four years in the Dominion, but there is always a great deal of uncertainty, which might be done away with.

If a city the size of Toronto can elect its legislature at periodical intervals, why cannot the provinces do likewise?

CALGARY OIL FIELDS

Bailey Brokerage Co. Calgary

Stock Brokers

We Submit the Following Companies for Your Consideration

MONITOR OIL & NATURAL GAS COMPANY LTD. CALGARY

Capital $500,000 Non-Personal Liability.

The strong feature in this Company is the location of their properties. Their holdings are adjacent to the MOWBRAY-BERKLEY WELL (located by Cunningham Craig), the McDOUGAL-SEGUR WELL, the MONARCH WELL and the FABER WELLS. The Company has four separate fields, and a strike of oil in practically any part of the oil fields will have an immediate effect on their stock. The first three named are liable to strike oil at any minute. The Faber Company are just starting to drill, after a very careful consideration of reports from their geologists.

The Company offer a small allotment at $1.00 per share (par $1.00) each share carrying with it an option to purchase one more at par when oil is next struck.

The Directorate whose names you are now familiar with are sufficient guarantee for the integrity of the Company.

PRESIDENT :—Capt. Feilden, Pres. Western Canada Oil Co., Ltd., ; Pres. Peerless Oil Works, Ltd. Calgary.

VICE-PRESIDENT :—J. Gordon Savage, of Plunkett and Savage, Calgary.

MANAGING DIRECTOR ;—D. Algar-Bailey, Engineer, Calgary.

DIRECTORS :—A. W. Ellson Fawkes, M.I.C.E., City Waterworks Engineer, Calgary; J. H. Eastwood, Barrister (England) Calgary; J. C. McLeod, Mercantile Agent, Calgary.

SEC'Y-TREASURER—H. G. Spencer - Lewis.

CREST OIL & DEVELOPMENT COMPANY, LIMITED, CALGARY

Capital $150,000 Non-Personal Liability

This Company is offering 75,000 shares at their par value price $1.00 each.

The Company is noted for its low capitalization and its excellent holdings of 1211 acres in one block. The leases were carefully chosen by Mr. Ellson Fawkes and the Company has engaged a well-known Eastern geologist to locate its first well. Drilling will commence directly there are sufficient funds in the treasury to place a contract.

On account of its low capitalization this stock is bound to find immediate favour at the next strike of oil. The price will be advanced directly oil is struck, to at least $1.25 a share.

The officers of the Company are "clean," successful business men—

PRESIDENT—A. W. Ellson Fawkes, M.I.C.E., City Waterworks Engineer, Calgary. (Late Peterboro' Ontario).

VICE-PRESIDENT—C. S. Mahood, M.D., Medical Health Officer, Calgary.

MANAGING DIRECTOR—D. Algar-Bailey, Engineer, Calgary.

DIRECTORS—Beach A. Laselle, Director Pacific Lime Co., Ltd., Vancouver, B.C.; R. A. Barron, Department of Education, Edmonton; B. Ginsberg, Barrister, Calgary.

This is NOT a gambling proposition — it is an investment! English and American Capital is pouring into the Calgary Oil Fields. Millions of dollars have been invested by large interests during the past four weeks.

We can honestly advise you to invest in either of these companies. Both of them have on their Directorates men known for their stability and honesty. There is no "wild-catting" or watered stock in either of them and at the next strike of oil the stock is bound to increase in price.

We advise you to invest in both. $100 will secure you say 50 Crest and 100 Monitor shares (option stock) and then when the next strike comes, which may be now as you are reading this, you will be able to smile at the man paying $5,00 a share for Monitor and buy them yourself for $1.00 each.

It will need prompt action on your part to get this stock at the present market price, because, remember, it takes several days for your application to reach here. Do not delay: Fill out the coupon. We will honor all applications bearing post mark prior to rise in price.

SEASICK ANIMALS

Probably many people have not witnessed the performance of animals when on a sea journey. Most animals make poor sailors. Horses and tigers suffer most of all; they whine pitifully and their eyes water continually. Elephants, too, suffer greatly, but they are very amenable to medical attention. When the elephant falls seasick a bucket of fresh water, containing seven ounces of quinine and three and a half pints of whisky, is supplied.

Birds, however, delight in sea voyages. The Polar bear, too, enjoys a sea journey; he is described as very gay while on board ship. But most other animals greatly resent sea trips.

Musical Batteries

When Marquard and Meyers are there on the mound,
The battery has a euphonious sound
That rolls from the lips with a lyrical twang;
But they are not in it with Shawkey and Schang.

There's Williams and Walker who work for the Browns,
Recalling the great Ethiopian clowns
For Doolan and Dooin we don't give a dang—
There's none of them in it with Shawkey and Schang.

Yes, Crawford and Cobb are two well known chaps;
And Jackson and Johnston play for the Naps;
Both Baker and Barry—they all can go hang.
We'll take out a ticket on Shawkey and Schang.

BLANCHE BATES spoke her mind about the sex drama in New York the other day. And when Blanche Bates speaks her mind, the town sits up and listens attentively. Which is a good thing—for the town.

Blanche Bates is not only a genius and a beauty, but she's a woman—a real woman, who can think with her heart as well as her head, and do both kinds of thinking at the same time.

"I must express my utmost disdain for the play of today," said Blanche Bates. "The lecture room and not the theatre is the place for the topics they discuss. You may ask why the managers produce such plays.

"The answer is that as long as the public seeks them they will be produced. It is unfortunate, but it is your fault as part of the public, and I take great pleasure in telling you so."

Hands across the continent, Blanche Bates! I wish I had seen your face when you told the smug listeners that it was all their fault and that you were tickled to death to tell them so.

Every woman of any experience in the world feels just as you do about the sex play. I'm getting so that I'm afraid to go to the theatre at all—unless I take a pair of ear muffs and some automobile goggles along. And goodness knows I am no frail, shrinking blossom that must be protected from the harsh winds of the plain truth.

The trouble with the sex drama and with the sex book and with the sex lecture is that none of them tell the plain, everyday truth at all.

To listen to them you would think there wasn't a thing in the world but sex. No hot weather to bear, no struggle for the price to pay for steak for dinner, no ambitions, no good books, no handclasp of true friends—nothing, anywhere in all the wide and spaceless universe, but the rustle of scant petticoats and the tramp of a trousered leg. Are we all going crazy—or what is the matter?

What the "Sweet Thing" Thought.

I met a sweet thing in faded blue the other day. She wore a bit of liberty silk for a skirt—it wouldn't have made enough for a sensible doll's dress if you took it to pieces—and her waist was a wisp of lace. There was more weight to her ear-rings and her beads than there was to all her clothes.

Her eyes were blue as violets and her cheeks were pink with the dawn of life, and she wasn't a day over 18. She was "enthralled with life." I know she was—because she told me. "It is so deep," she said, "and so terrible, and so beautiful." She had found out all about it from Hat Pin Lis at the foot of the hill in the Dreadful Street. She didn't call the woman Hat Pin Lis. She spoke of her as one of the Unhappy Sisters. But I knew who it was she meant, when she told me about the look of woe in the eyes of the Unhappy Sister.

Hat Pin Lis always did have wonderful eyes. They are really rather overpowering—when she has been without her morphine just so long, poor soul. I used to be about the police station a good bit at one time—the police matron is a friend of mine. That's how I knew Hat Pin Lis and many others of her kind.

The Sweet Thing told me all about her—and how "wonderful" she was, and how sad, and how she was going to try to help her lead the "Higher Life." She asked me what was my stand on the double standard of morality—she went into details about it. And I gasped and looked all around—for we were standing in the street, and some of those details were really rather—er—a—but she didn't seem to mind in the least. I must say nobody else did—any more than they minded her wisp of a waist or her very low neck and interesting ankle.

All the girls were so interested in "the Higher Life idea," the Sweet Thing said. They were getting up classes about it and next week she was going to have a tea and have some one talk on the various aspects of the sex problem. She said she was going to ask the young men of her acquaintance to come. She felt that they needed instruction.

I asked her if I might wear my veil at the tea, and she stared and said: "Why, yes, of course; it isn't fancy dress."

When she had gone I went down and got my friend the police matron and we sent for Hat Pin Lis and had a talk about it. I was a little inclined to laugh, but the police matron was very serious and Hat Pin Lis was positively tragic.

What "Lis" Thought.

"Lord!" said Hat Pin Lis, "ain't none of 'em got no mothers? Why, I felt like taking that kid over my knee and giving her a good, motherly spanking. I felt she'd be the better for it. Bold—why, she, and them others that was with her, was brazener than any of the ones we know down in my part of town.

"Whatever is the matter with 'em—little young chits like them setting out to tell me how much happier I'd be if I'd be good, and wanting to ask me how it comes I ain't. What's the world coming to?"

The police matron said she didn't know—she said she had wondered and wondered.

"They come down here in droves," said the police matron, "asking and pitying and 'uplifting.' Why, there isn't a girl in the district that can't give an imitation of one of their talks from start to finish. I never saw anything like it. Where are their mothers; do they know about it; why don't they lock them up in the garret—or something?"

I could have told the police matron—good, honest, kindly, downright soul that she is—just exactly where the mothers were. They were at the theatre, seeing sex plays, or at "afternoons," discussing sex problems, or curled up on sofas somewhere reading erotic novels.

What on earth are the women all coming to? Actually the men seem to be the only decent-minded creatures alive today. You can get a man to talk with you for five minutes without his saying something that makes you look around for your ear muffs. It is the women who buy the erotic novels and the women who jam the theatres to see the sex plays.

We may be able to pull through somehow with this generation, but—dear me!—what kind of creatures are the boys and girls of the next generation going to be with their weird mothers?

Once, in a dreadful London slum, I saw a beautiful little girl baby—not yet two years old—drunk and reeling.

Somehow, whenever I think of my little friend, the Sweet Thing, who is trying to drink so deep of the bitter draughts of life, I think of that poor, pretty baby—drunk and helpless—and then I cannot laugh any more about it.

Useful Hints for the Housewife

By Ann Marie Lloyd

WHEN in doubt serve ice cream is a safe dessert rule for warm weather. Ice cream is always welcome, and requires so little culinary skill to make that the freezer should be part of every household's kitchen equipment.

For freezing ice creams and sherbets use three portions of ice to one of salt.

In making frappes use twice as much ice as salt, and for moulding or for freezing mousses or parfaits make the mixture half and half ice and salt.

After pouring the cream mixture into the can let it stand for five minutes, slowly turn for 10 minutes, and turn rapidly till the cream is frozen. Then take out the dasher, scrape all the cream away from the sides of the can and pack solidly in the centre, cover and set in ice and salt until ready to serve.

If you wish to mould it, fill the mould as full as possible and pack the cream hard. When freezing cream extreme care should be used to see that no ice gets in the freezing can or mould.

Tie the cover securely on the mould, and if you are doubtful about its snugness brush it over with paraffine. Then bury in the ice and salt and leave from one to four hours.

Mousses and parfaits are never stirred while freezing. They are put in the mould and left standing in the ice.

Water ices include the sherbets and frappes, and are all stirred while freezing. Mousses will require leaving in the pack for at least five hours.

There are two foundation ice creams, the French and the Philadelphia.

The former contains eggs and is cooked. The latter is made without eggs and is never cooked.

SUNLIGHT BEST COMPLEXION TONIC

This Prima Donna Finds Loveliness in City Parks

By ELEANOR AMES

PATRONIZE the same beauty shop Venus did—the one over which Mother Nature presides.

To clear the complexion, walk two miles in the early morning, between 6 and 7 o'clock. Walk in the open country. Bathe your face in the dew that lingers on the grass in some shady nook. Bathe your lungs with fresh air taken in allopathic doses of 50 deep breaths at the end of each quarter-mile.

To make your figure slender, walk at a quick pace and roll on the grass after the last mile is finished. Roll with the joy and abandon of a young colt, over and over, and over. Dance in the sunbeams, with your toetips just touching the ground and your finger-tips trying to touch the clouds.

Back home, take a warm tub followed by a cool shower, a brisk rub down with toilet cologne or diluted alcohol, and eat a light breakfast of fruit, toast, an egg or two—and no coffee. Then begin the work of the day.

That is how to be beautiful, as Tessa Kosta explained it to me the other morning while we swung along the winding paths of the park in the early morning sunlight with the birds singing in the leafy branches overhead and the squirrels scampering across our shadows. And, if Miss Kosta owes her own superhealth and radiant good looks to following the rules they are to be commended to all womankind.

Miss Kosta believes that being a prima donna involves more than the possession of a voice and knowing how to use it. She believes a singer should be as attractive to look at as she is charming to listen to. She holds the theory that good looks are no gift from the gods, to be carelessly received and paid no more attention to. She thinks they must be nourished and trained and petted quite the same as the voice.

How to take exercise in the open country in the crowded city might prove a puzzle to some persons. Not to Tessa Kosta.

"What are the parks for," she argues, "if not to give the country to city folks? We don't half appreciate our parks. I always ask where the parks are the first time I visit a city. Then I pick out the biggest and most secluded one and make it my exercise ground while I am in the town.

"I'd rather paint my cheeks with good, fresh, pure blood flowing through my veins than with all the rouge that can be made. I'd rather put the sparkle of health in my eyes than drop in some brightening drops with a glass dropper.

"I am for Nature as a beauty doctor, first, last and all the time. She was the only one the goddesses knew. She will massage one's cheeks and brighten one's face and lighten the heart and clear the head at the same time, and all the fee she asks is ambition enough to get out where she can treat you.

"The early morning is the best time to visit Dame Nature for your beauty treatment. Then she is fresh and smiling and enthusiastic, and has fewest disturbing elements about her.

"As for exercises, don't try to follow any that have been diagramed for humanity in a book. If you are in sympathy with your surroundings when you are out in the open sunlight with velvety grass under your feet, the cloud-flecked sky above you, and the birds twittering in the trees, you will find the best exercises for your needs suggesting themselves as you skip about over the ground.

"My theory of exercise is this: If you don't feel happy in the exercises that you take, you are just as well off without them.

"Don't pay for artificial sunlight as a complexion tonic when the real article is so accessible.

"Don't go searching after a beauty shop where they give oxygen treatments.

"Get out in the air and take it first hand."

Peter's Adventures in Matrimony

By Leona Dalrymple

Author of the new novel, "Diane of the Green Van," awarded a prize of $10,000 by Ida M. Tarbell and S. S. McClure as judges.

The truth about "the girl in the case" distinguishes this new series by Miss Dalrymple. Her character studies will not appear unfamiliar to the majority of readers, who will follow the fortunes of "Peter" with interest.

No 106.

Beauty and Burglary.

LEONA DALRYMPLE

"PETER," came the message over the telephone, "come home at once!"

"Great Scott!" I exclaimed, "what's the trouble?"

"I—I'm in hysterics," said Mary, proving it by a wail, "and—and I—I can't tell you. We've been robbed!"

"Robbed!"

But Mary had hung up, and I seized my hat and departed for home. Mary has a habit of greatly exaggerating her mental states, but she rarely telephones me to come home unless she is in the last stages of agitation.

Our apartment, fortunately, is not very far from the office. Mary was standing at the window and waved wildly as I bolted up the stairs.

She had been crying, and she was a great deal more nervous than I had expected.

"What in the world has been stolen?" I asked.

"Oh, Peter!" exclaimed Mary, and let it go at that.

Now there are times when a man must possess his soul in patience or forfeit all his rights to the title of self-respecting husband. One is when his wife merely reiterates his name in tragic accents and refuses to divulge the details of her agitation.

"We've been robbed," reiterated Mary hysterically.

"Yes, you've said that before."

"By a man —"

"Presumably," I agreed, merely to encourage her. It annoyed her, however, and she stamped her foot.

"Don't try to be funny, Peter," she said, "when I'm so excited and nervous I could scream. Of course it was a man, and it's no time to try to be funny."

"What's he taken?" I tried again.

"Everything," said Mary.

I sighed impatiently, and Mary began to cry.

"Tell me," I said, "in your own way, how it happened."

"He said," began Mary, "that he was a gas man come to inspect the fixtures."

"Oh, Mary, Mary," I groaned, "how often have the newspapers warned every housekeeper to ask for a man's credentials, no matter what he says—telephone, gas, or whatever he claims?"

"He—he was so different, Peter! He was terribly good-looking and so pleasant. Honestly you'd never dream that he wanted to get in just to steal. And he went about so softly and gentlemanly from room to room, talking about the dangers of asphyxiation and praising my housekeeping and everything—such a nice, clean, wholesome fellow."

"Yes?" I encouraged.

"That after a while I didn't bother to follow him about from room to room, for he seemed to know his business."

"Of course," said I grimly.

"And I was busy. And I did forget to ask him for his badge, he talked so much."

"That, of course, was his game. What's gone?"

"All my jewelry," said Mary, with a heartbroken sob, "everything you've given me, and all the things mother gave me when I was married. To think how brazenly he marched out through the kitchen and said good-by in the pleasantest way with all my things in his pockets."

I whistled, for Mary had some very lovely trinkets, things that were very valuable both from a worldly and a sentimental viewpoint.

I went into her room and looked around. Everything was in faultless order, but the jewel case was empty—quite empty.

"All because he was good-looking!" I commented bitterly. "Oh, Mary, Mary, when will women learn not to let their sentimental viewpoints run away with their common sense?"

Bow, the exclamation used to frighten children, is a corruption of Bob, the name of a famous Gothic general. It has been used as a terror-word for many centuries.

The word bumper, signifying a drink or pledge, was originally a toast to the Pope in Roman Catholic countries, drunk in a full glass just after dinner au Bon Pere.

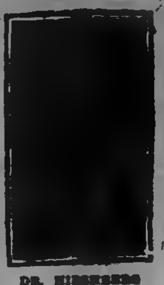
The administration of the oath to witnesses is a practice of very high antiquity. It is mentioned as of common use among the Jews at the time of the exodus from Egypt.

Secrets of Health and Happiness

What Growing Pains Are; Why They Demand Care

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins)



DR. HIRSHBERG

"DOCTOR," says Mrs. Grundy, "Johnny has been having growing pains for some months. I cannot make him go to school."

"What ails you, my boy?" inquires the kindly doctor.

"My knees hurt awful," replies the harassed boy.

Thereupon the brute of a doctor becomes non persona grata with Mrs. Grundy, for he firmly says:

"There are no such things as growing pains, Mrs. Grundy. You have done your child a serious injustice. He should have been brought to this hospital clinic six months ago."

Growing pains are among that swarm of destructive phrases handed down from the days when men glibly gave a name to everything—whether they understood it or not. Then, by sheer repetition, just as unfounded opinions are spread as gospel truth, these domestic terms come to be accepted without further investigation.

Growing pains are as impossible and unthinkable among human beings as they are in growing flowers or weeds.

The child that has a pain of much duration has a lurking, perhaps hidden, dangerous cause. Only too often it proves to be tuberculosis of the hip bone, the spinal column or the other bony parts.

Next to the insidious assault of this grand marshal of the Demons of Death come a whole host of bone, muscle, nerve and joint ailments, which have been encouraged to extend in the little one's anatomy, because his relatives were pleased to say he had "growing pains." Infantile paralysis, muscular wasting or "atrophy," sugar disease, gait, acute arthritic fever, yes, even pneumonia, scarlet fever and appendicitis have been thus allowed to do their cruel work.

The lack of logic in elementary education may be at the bottom of this. The very women and men who are so quick to say "growing pains" see the hair grow, the nails grow, the face become round, and the whole body increase in bulk, in length and in breadth. They never feel pain themselves in these extensions of the flesh. Indeed, they never hear any one speak of soreness or tenderness even of the bones and the hinges of the human frame. Yet they believe, when a child complains, that it has "growing pains."

It is a sad commentary upon modern education that most people are so prone to argue from one blackbird that spring is here, that one clear Fourth of July means all clear ones. It is this antiquated point of view that makes quacks and domestic Galens think that camomile tea given to a hundred recovered victims of typhoid fever really cured the typhoid fever.

Of course, because a thousand fever sufferers improve under a given treatment is no evidence at all that this particular treatment exorcised the poisons. Not a bit of it! It is often necessary to collect the true state of affairs from a hundred thousand instances of a given malady under a thousand different conditions. Even then you only discover that what various "authorities" employed did no good and no harm.

It was in this way that diphtheria antitoxin was found to cure and to prevent that old human enemy. It was in this way that lockjaw and typhoid antitoxin, camomile tea, cancer salves, consumption cures, ice baths, liver pads, belts and other "believed in" remedies were discovered to be absolutely useless.

If your child complains of mysterious pains don't be like Mrs. Grundy and say: "Growing pains." Take your child to a doctor. You may save your loved one years of suffering.

The Good Night Story

The Disobedient Princess — By Vernon Merry

ONCE upon a time there were six beautiful princesses who were very disobedient to their father, the King. He told them never to dance except at the royal ball, and, yet, every morning they had to have new slippers because the old ones were all worn out. Every night they were locked in their rooms, but somehow they managed to get out. It became so great a mystery that the King offered the hand of one of the princesses to any one who could solve it.

Many men tried, but all failed and lost their heads. And then there came an old soldier into the kingdom and a kind old fairy met him and told him about the disobedient princesses. To help him the good fairy presented him with a cloak that made him invisible.

Soldier Frank saw the King. Readily the King granted him permission to try to solve the mystery. Soldier Frank met the princesses and found them all beautiful, and before they said good night the eldest princess offered him a drink of wine. Now, the good fairy had told Soldier Frank to be very careful, and so he asked permission to drink the wine in his own room.

But Soldier Frank did not drink the drugged wine; he poured it out of the window and lay down on the bed. Soon he heard a slight noise, but he did not move. From under his lashes he saw the princesses standing all around him. The littlest one was frightened to dance that night, but the eldest calmed her. She said: "See, he is asleep and cannot follow." So they left the room, and Soldier Frank got out of bed, put on the cloak that made him invisible, and followed them.

Unseen by them he beheld one of the princesses touch a hidden spring in the wall, and there opened at her feet a stairway that led down into the earth. One by one they stepped down, the youngest last, and Soldier Frank followed. Down the steps they went and along a passageway until they came out upon a wonderful forest, where the leaves of the trees were of silver.

Soldier Frank broke off a leaf as evidence to prove his story, and the crack made the youngest princess very fearful, but the eldest calmed her fears. Into a wonderful orchard, where the fruit was all of gold, and beyond, through a lovely garden, where the roses were rubies, they went. Soldier Frank followed and broke off tiny branches that his story might be believed. Now the youngest always became afraid at the noise of breaking branches, but the eldest always reassured her.

At last they came to a wonderful castle, and there the princesses danced all night with the handsome princes. Then when their slippers were all worn out they went back the way they had come. Soldier Frank slipped ahead of them, and when they came in they saw him apparently asleep on the bed. They thought he had been there all the time.

Next morning Soldier Frank went to the King, and, laying out his silver leaf, the golden apple and the ruby rose, he told his story and solved the great mystery. Then the King gave him great lands and riches for reward, and asked which one of the princesses he would marry.

"I am old," said Soldier Frank, "so I choose the eldest princess." So they were married and lived happily ever after, and the other princesses were severely punished for their disobedience.

Advice to Girls

By ANNIE LAURIE

Dear Annie Laurie:

I have been going with a young man for nearly six years. He is good to me, and does all he can to please me, and he never bothers with any other girls. But sometimes when he comes to see me he seems awfully distant and quiet. I wonder if he wants to visit me. But when I say that to him he gets hurt. KATY.

HE'S all right, but you don't understand him, is that it? Well, put yourself in his place a little while and see if you can't solve the mystery.

Perhaps he's so much in love with you that he's afraid of himself, and that makes him seem strange and ill at ease. Such things have been known to happen.

Perhaps he is just tired when he acts peculiar, and maybe he is simply a quiet fellow who doesn't talk and doesn't know how to talk. In that case you'll have to make up your mind to do the talking for the family.

Why do you say anything to him about it? If he didn't like you he wouldn't come to see you. If he is a nice chap who seems to want to please you, and you want to be pleased by him, don't make a mystery out of what is doubtless a very simple matter. Take him as he is—for what he is—and don't bother. That's my advice.

Football's Childhood

Football is said to have originated with the ancient Britons. Be this as it may, the game certainly was very popular in the Middle Ages.

In 1314 we find Edward II. warmly censuring the excessive enthusiasm of football players; and Edward III., in 1349, following his example. Henry VIII. and Good Queen Bess attempted to suppress the game, but, despite their efforts, it continued to be played until about 1650.

Then, apparently, it went into a decline, but was revived during the last century, first by the public schools, then by certain clubs, notably Sheffield and Hallam, established in 1857, and Blackheath and Richmond established in 1858.

The formation of the Football Association in 1863, and of the Rugby Football Union in 1871 ensured the future of the game.

WHAT A LIBERAL PAPER IN HIS HOME TOWN HAS TO SAY OF MR. R. J. SODEN

An Old Midland Boy Nominated as Conservative Candidate in West Peterborough

(From The Midland Free Press.)

"Mr. R. J. Soden, an old Midland boy, has received the Conservative Nomination for the riding of West Peterborough. We need hardly say that though opposed to us in political creed we wish him success. Mr. Soden, while in Midland, was one of our most progressive citizens, and it was through him that the Canada Iron Furnace Co. was induced to locate its plant here. Always an ardent politician he took an active part in all municipal and parliamentary affairs, and while a staunch Conservative at all times, he still made many friends among his opponents on account of the clean, fair methods which he always adopted in furthering the cause of his party.

"He will make an energetic representative for any riding, and West Peterborough, if it elects him at the coming election, will secure a clean, just and aggressive member, who, from our knowledge of him, will not allow any consideration to outweigh his convictions of what is right in all matters affecting the province.

"Mr. Soden has made a clean-cut statement regarding his stand on the temperance question. He is even willing to go a little further than the Rowell policy of abolish the bar. He is in favor of doing away with the shop and club license as well. It is up to the temperance people of this Province to stand together, regardless of politics, if they ever hope to rid Canada of its greatest curse."

DE ORO WON FAME ON GREEN TABLE

Famous Pool Player Lost Fortune and Has to Follow the Game For a Living

That the cue is mightier than either the pen or the sword is the opinion of Alfredo De Oro, the world's famous pool and billiard expert.

Over a generation ago De Oro was known universally as the foremost pool player, and at the age of 60 years he is champion of champions. De Oro has won over $100,000 in purses and side bets at pool (now styled pocket billiards) and three-cushion billiards. He is the possessor of all the emblems ever offered in competition at pool except the one Benny Allen recently captured from him.

De Oro never plays unless he has a bet on himself. He has such great confidence in his ability to outplay all comers that he is willing to back himself for any reasonable amount, but never for the big sums he wagered on himself years ago when his eyesight was keener and his arm steadier.

De Oro held the pool title for eighteen years at a stretch, the longest period that anybody ever held a championship in any division of sport.

De Oro was once worth a tremendous fortune and be really was obliged to follow the game of pool, which he at first took up as a pastime, because he needed the money. At the time of the Spanish-American war in 1898, he was wealthy, but the ravages of conflict and stock market upsets caused him to lose every cent he had in the world.

He was born at Manzanillo, Cuba but at the age of 10 he moved to New York with his parents, spending part of each year, however, in Cuba. It was while attending a business college in New York that he became well initiated in the game of pool and night after night he whiled the hours away playing some of his fellow students.

Between 1884 and 1894 De Oro had a lot of money and frequently spent as much as $1,000 or $1,200 just to visit some city to take part in a pool championship for which he never got more than a $250 medal.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned and endorsed "Tender for Revetment Wall at Burlington, Ont.," will be received at this office until 4.00 P.M., on Monday, July 6, 1914, for the construction of a Revetment Wall at the Town of Burlington Halton County, Ont.

Plans and forms of contract can be seen and specification and forms of tender obtained at this Department and at the offices of the District Engineers, Confederation Life Building, Toronto, Ont.; Windsor, Ont., and on application to the Postmaster at Burlington, Ont.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures, stating their occupations and places of residence. In the case of firms the actual signature, the nature of the occupation and place of residence of each member of the firm must be given.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent (10 p.c.) of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the person tendering decline to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

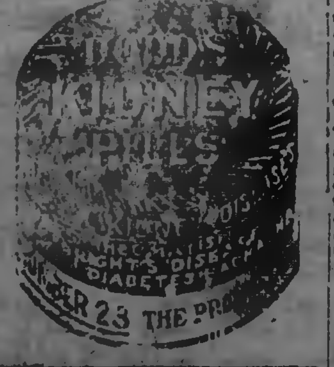
Boy Attacked by Bulldogs

A lad, ten years of age, was set upon in a small garden in Dundee by four bulldogs. A fifth dog, a large retriever, was also on the scene, but took no part in the attack. When help arrived the boy was found to be severely lacerated and utterly exhausted. The dogs were ultimately driven off, and the boy taken to the infirmary. The bulldogs were removed to the premises of a veterinary surgeon, to be kept under observation in case of complications.



How People Feel When They Have Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulveney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them cannot imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are: ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ½ of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution, have very little distress. Prof. Mulveney's world-famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, sure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, is not disagreeable to take. One dose nearly always affects a cure. Further information free. Send stamped envelope, telephone Parkdale 4830, or call at 167 Dundas street, Toronto. Open from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

A Commercial Man Talks.

Mr. W. Barry, representing the Berlin Lion Brewery, of Berlin, was calling on the local trade yesterday. He reports business in his line as good and is assured that sane legislation will prevail at the coming election. He advocates a properly administered and controlled bar in preference to the Rowell policy of abolishing the bar, and letting the rich man get liquor his club, or the poor man adulterated whiskey in a blind pig.

Brantford Ballplayers Talk.

Yesterday a Times representative had a chat with some of the Brantford ball players. Those interviewed said that Peterboro' has one of the prettiest ball grounds they play on. They say, however, that the "diamond" is too hard. The track between the bases is too hard. It should be raked every morning and the hose turned on it. The water applied would be dry by afternoon and thus a better running track could be procured.

Narrow Escape From Drowning.

Yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock as the crowds were pouring Eastwards toward the [illegible] ward the Hunter Street bridge to the ball game an exciting incident delayed them. A small boy was fished out of the river about 100 yards South of the bridge. He had been swimming below the Quaker Oats dam and took a cramp. He had more sense than the average suffragette and kept his mouth shut. The boy was rescued below the bridge and Dr. Morgan gave "first aid".

HOW MATERIALS GET THEIR NAMES

Whoever stops to think of the derivations of the names of clothing material? For instance, a lady is wearing a satin gown. In that dress she represents the quaint town of Zaytoun, a far inland town in China—satin being the evolution of that word. And the lustrous wrap of velvet derives its name from the Italian City of Veluta. Her neck scarf of lawn was originally produced in Laon, a French town.

And her good man's clothes represent a varied number of districts and towns. His dress suit of thibet derives its texture name from that little known country of Tibet, in Eastern Asia, and the melton overcoat stands for the little English Town of Melton.

His tweed suit originated its name from the weavers of Tweed, in Scotland, some 800 years ago. Serge gets its name from Xerga, a Spanish city. His worsted suit has carried that name ever since the little town of Worsted, in England, noted for its fine yarns, brought the first of these goods onto the market. His khaki originated nearer home than any of us might think—it being a North American Indian word for earth. And every one of these suits probably holds a baise lining—a coarse fabric originating in Baise, Spain.

His wife's muslin morning dress got its name from Musul, in Asia; cambric, from which another of her commonly used house dresses is made, gets its name from Cambric, a district in France, and her afternoon dress of gauze originated its name from Gaza, a once well known city of Palestine.

Calico, takes its name from Calicut, a very old town of India. Once every woman wore the old cashmere shawl, which derived its name from the Valley of Cashmere, in the Himalaya Mountains. Gingham, which has been the material for so many of her aprons, was first used in Gingamp, a small town in Brittany.

The damask furniture covering of raised figures owes its name to the leading trade centre of Syria—Damascus. Buckram, used in the binding of books, originated in the Bokhara Hills of India. And the blanket, which we all think of as a very common noun, got its start from the very proper name of Thomas Blanket, who started years ago the manufacture of this new styled bed covering just outside of the City of London.

A CUTE HEARING

Scotch Scientist Gave Proof of Ant's Susceptibility to Sound

Prof. Pringle, a Scotch scientist said that ants have the most perfect sound-producing organs yet discovered in insects, and that they are extremely susceptible to sound. He claimed that these organs are situated in certain segments of the abdomen and that sounds are brought forth by rubbing, but no one has ever heard them, as they are too faint to be detected by human ears. Attempts have been made to hear them with the aid of the microphone, but the only sound detected was that of the crawling of the ants.

Again in regard to the hearing of ants, careful and extensive experiments were conducted with six species from this country and England and it was decided that these species could perceive sounds. How they did it was more or less a matter of doubt as some scientists insisted they heard through organs of hearing, while others claimed that it was through a sense of touch, excited by atmospheric vibrations.

Prof. Pringle inclined to the opinion that ants hear through the latter medium. Proofs of their hearing were established by shutting a large number up in a glass box. When they were [illegible] violently shaken they did not seem to be [illegible] in the least, while at the blow of a very shrill whistle close to them they were seen to be perceptibly agitated.

Uniform For Museum

Honus Wagner's uniform and his palmless glove may be placed in the Carnegie Museum at Pittsburg when the famous player retires from the diamond. Dr. W. J. Holland, director of the museum, believes that baseball is something worth telling posterity about. Many ancient games are represented at the museum by interesting relics, and Dr. Holland announces that the institution would like Wagner's baseball accoutrement when he retires, believing him to be the most wonderful ball player ever known.

PUBLIC OPINION

To the discerning, thinking, temperance voters of West Peterborough, we say, away with temporizing, let us stand by our PRINCIPLES, stand by our CANDIDATE, stand by our CAUSE.

A. B. CUNNINGHAM,
Secretary County Temperance Association.

OUR STREET PAVING.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir.—I was much interested in a public spiritual and unbiassed editorial you had in the Times a few days ago, regarding our proposed additional street pavements.

As a contributor to our present 26 mill rate of taxation, I would ask a few lines space in your paper to express the views I hold on this, one of the most vital questions that now confronts the ratepayers of Peterborough. I do not write as a "knocker" over the work now done. I am not however absolutely blind. In many places I see pockets in the pavement where water gathers. I see an undulation or uneveness in the pavement, I see where through, as far as my unskilled knowledge goes, from wrong levels, water forms and pools along the gutters. Now the accumulated and long held water in these pockets and gutters must eventually destroying the underlying surface. Should not our Council face to face, not merely with initial cost of such work forsee a never-ending expense for repairs after the contractors guarantee expires? Are we, with present conditions, to incur a never ending debt? Let the Council either, in letting paving contractors demand a perpetual guarantee if such be possible.

H. Charles.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY HELPS

By MRS. MAE MARTYN

DOLLY. I use a plain quinzoin tonic to give my scalp the health that insures hair beauty. This tonic is prepared at home by pouring 1 ounce quinzoin into ½ pint alcohol, then adding ½ pint water. Rub a little well into your scalp twice a week for a time and all dandruff, hair falling and excess oil will disappear. I find this quinzoin tonic cannot be equalled for restoring the silky softness and rich even color to brittle faded hair, and its regular use will encourage a long luxuriant growth.

MRS. O'B. Your surplus weight can be safely reduced with no ill after effects by this simple treatment which costs little and can be made at home: Into 1½ pints hot water put 4 ounces parnotis. Strain when cool and take a tablespoonful before meals. This dissolves fat rapidly without dieting or unusual exercising. The parnotis treatment also leaves the flesh firm and the skin free from wrinkles.

GLADYS.—Instead of pore-clogging powder I use a plain spurmax lotion; one application is sufficient for an entire day or evening. This lotion adheres so closely to the skin that it seems part of it, so cannot be detected and it gives it a very velvety appearance. To prepare, just put 4 ounces spurmax into ½ pint hot water or witch hazel and add 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine. The use of this lotion banishes pimples, blackheads, blotches and sallowness. It is particularly good for tan, freckles and oiliness of the skin.

MISS B. For a small sum you can make a full quart of the best blood-purifier and system builder. Dissolve 1 ounce kardene in ½ pint alcohol (not whiskey) then add ½ cupful sugar and hot water to make a full quart. Take a tablespoonful before meals. This rids the skin of pimples, blotches and 'muddiness' and restores to the complexion the glow of youthful health. This kardene tonic is particularly recommended for kidney and bladder troubles and for rheumatic or gouty conditions, because it gently eliminates poisons from the system and restores the sufferer to complete health.

MRS. A. I have made my face look years younger by using this wrinkle-removing cream-jelly, which I make at home by putting 4 tablespoonfuls glycerine into ½ pint cold water and stirring in 1 ounce almozoin, after which I let stand for several hours before using. I apply the cream-jelly thickly on retiring and in the morning wash off, dry the skin and use more cream as a massage. This treatment rapidly eliminates wrinkles and lines and restores the clear, soft, velvety smoothness to the skin and dispels the oily, 'muddy' shiny look.

BRIGHT EYES. Replying to your second letter just dissolve 1 ounce crystos in a pint clear water and you will have a harmless and very beneficial eye-tonic. Two or three drops in each eye occasionally relieves the smart and soothes the aching, tired muscles. The crystos eye tonic is excellent for granulated lids and its use frequently overcomes the need for glasses.

NANCY. For a long time I have claimed that the best way to cleanse the hair is to just dissolve a teaspoonful of canthrox, which you can get in any drug store, in a cup hot water. This makes ready a shampoo that cleanses and invigorates the scalp and restores health and beauty to dull straggly hair. You will find canthrox shampoos are especially fine for faded or brittle hair, and occasionally shampooing in this manner makes the hair soft, fluffy and induces a beautiful growth.

MR. SODEN HOLDS ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING AT BRIDGENORTH

Park Pavilion Well Filled with Enthusiastic Gathering to Hear Conservative Candidate on Questions of the Day

A large audience greeted Mr. R. J. Soden at the Park Pavilion at Bridgenorth last night. The meeting being called to order, Mr. T. T. Milburn was elected chairman and called on Dr. Sutton as the first speaker. The Doctor dealt with the bi-lingual school question, showing the danger of allowing dual language schools to exist in the Province of Ontario. He went thoroughly into the matter of the French national movement, showing that the aim was to make the French race the dominant one in Canada, and pointed out that the difference in Mr. Rowell's statement as made in Cornwall and as made at Drumbo. He appealed to the electors to stand by Whitney and a British Canada.

The candidate was the next speaker. He thanked the audience for the large attendance and the ladies on the interest they exhibited. He then touched on the Bi-lingual school question for a few moments and pointed out the danger of introducing the race question into politics, declaring that Canada could not exist half French and half English, but must be all either one or the other and asked the electors to choose as between Whitney and a British Province and Rowell and a French one. He then took up the temperance issue, stating clearly his stand and his reasons for that stand. Dealing with the Rowell policy, he showed how a leader of a party could do only what his party allowed and pointed to Liberal candidates who were opposed to Abolish the Bar, others who did not mention it at all in their platforms and still others who were not total abstainers, as Mr. Moss. Was it reasonable to suppose such men would support abolish the bar. He then dealt with the Ontario Club situation and the Summerhayes engagement as campaign leader for the Rowell party. And asked for support for the Whitney Government on their record for honesty and good government.

During his plea for the abolition of the shop, he was endorsed even by Liberals in the audience by such remarks as "that's so," "that's true," etc.

On resuming his seat he was applauded to the echo.

Mr. H. P. Lindsay then made a short address asking for Mr. Soden's return on the ground of his known principles, his sincerity and his ability. He was followed by Alderman Johnston, who endorsed Mr. Lindsay's remarks and dealt shortly with the Hydro and Radial Railway projects of the Whitney Government and asked for support for Mr. Soden as a man well able to make known to the Government the wants of the riding and for the Whitney Government on its clean, progressive legislation.

The meeting closed with cheers for the King, [illegible] the Whitney Government and the candidate. After which a gentleman who had interrupted during the meeting and had been silenced by Mr. Soden, called for cheers for Mr. Gillespie and was rewarded by a sickly attempt, which died out before the required number was complete.

Wine List at Liberal Club

"Abolish-the-Bar" Party Has Magnificent Stock at Headquarters

RUM! GIN! BRANDIES!

Ontario Liberal Club, Toronto, Boasts a Well-stocked Wine Cellar

The Ontario Club is the headquarters in Toronto of the Ontario Liberals.

Mr. Charles M. Bowman, chief Liberal organizer, and Mr. Rowell's right-hand supporter, is a devoted officer.

Mr. Rowell himself has given dinners at the Ontario Club. At most hours of the day, groups of his "ardent" followers and his chief platform speakers may be seen within its precincts. These men are the custodians of the Rowell policies and resent any insinuations that their preaching and their practice are not one and the same thing.

But facts are facts. One fact is that the Ontario Club is the headquarters of Rowell's party. Another fact is the Ontario Club's wine list. Every member is presented with a copy and may order the various delectable drinks at his pleasure by day or night. On that list are over eighty kinds of spirituous liquors. This is the way a small section of it reads:

THE BILINGUAL QUESTION IS THE SUPREME ISSUE

Prospects Over the Province for Election Day--The Situation. Temperance Issue Has Subsided in the Face of the Language Peril

Reports as to probabilities are beginning to circulate. Mr. Burnham, M.P., on being asked if he had heard anything of the probabilities in the Province for polling day, said that the French were against Whitney to a man on bi-lingualism, and that as they held the balance of power in the North East and along Lake Erie in no less than 15 or 20, he thought beyond a doubt Sir James would have his hands full. The temperance issue has subsided in the face of the language peril, which is much more dangerous. There is no likelihood of temperance going back, but it would be a disastrous thing for all Canada if Sir James got so severe a shaking up as to make a new policy of compromise necessary. We are all strong in defence of the French right to preserve their language, BUT IT MUST NOT DISPLACE ENGLISH IN THIS COUNTRY. On that point we are firmly resolved if it is within our power.

ONLY WOMAN WITNESS HEARD PRAISES A TORONTO MAN HIGHLY

When Other Men Refused to Aid Her, Mr. Burt Did So--Gave Her a Grip on Which to Float

Quebec, June 25.—Technical evidence from the point of view of the Storstad's owners was put in at this morning's session of the Empress of Ireland commission, holding meetings in the court house here. It differed most materially from that submitted by Percy Hillhouse, of the Fairfield Shipbuilding Company, where the Empress was constructed. The evidence was supplied by John Reid, a naval architect with British experience, now practicing in Montreal, who put the angle of contact between the two vessels at forty-five degrees and not eighty, as deduced by Mr. Hillhouse.

Survivors stories as to how the water rushed into the cabins from the portholes was also submitted to substantiate the theory that these open apertures contributed to the capsizing of the vessel.

Mr. Aspinal informed Lord Mersey he had called all his expert evidence.

On behalf of the Storstad owners Mr. Haight called three Empress witnesses, whose original statements he had had the opportunity of examining by arrangement with Mr. Holden.

The first witness was Charles Burns assistant storekeeper of the Empress who was in bed at the time of the collision and rushed up on deck in time to see the Storstad as she was going away astern, he could not say whether she was in the wound when he saw her first.

Cross-examined by Mr. Aspinall, the witness said he thought he had been awakened three minutes before the crash came. Their propellers were stopped before he woke.

Lord Mersey: You can scarcely tell us when you woke whether the Empress was moving? No Sir.

Miss Townsend, an Australian lady who was a passenger on the Empress was called by Mr. Haight. Miss Townsend has the distinction of being the first and only woman witness called upon to give testimony. Tall, strongly built and neatly gowned, she created a favorable impression, alike by her demeanor and the confident assurance with which she gave her evidence. Miss Townsend said she was awakened some time before the collision by some whistles, whom they were she did not know. From the Empress she heard three short blasts twice and then two long blasts.

PUBLIC OPINION

The Times does not hold itself responsible for the opinions of its correspondents.

WHY ?

Editor Morning Times,

Sir.—Why did Mr. Rowell refuse to abolish the SHOP? It was not to please the Temperance people. It was clearly to please the Whiskey people. He compromises on the booze question by hammering the bar and leaving the bottle. In God's name what kind of a temperance policy is that? Is it any better than Whitney's, Very little if any, and I don't believe with the Canada Temperance Act (requiring a bare majority) it is as good for that Act would wipe out the shop as well. But surely Mr. Gillespie's policy does not compare with Mr. Soden's. No honest man can claim that is does. Vote for Soden the champion of total abolition—the man who will not wait—that is, if you really want to throw a bombshell into whiskey ranks in the Legislature. Of course if you want to wait until one of the "political" parties "deems it wise" then wait—and may God have mercy on your soul!

Reader.

THE TEMPERANCE QUESTION.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir.—If Mr. Soden said that he was in favour of the abolition of the bar, shop and the club, (as he has said) but that he will wait until some political party brings forward a measure to that end what would you think of his temperance? Mr. Gillespie does that. If Mr. Soden was asked to sign a statement handed to him by a non-political body of citizens making him virtually their nominee what would you think of him if he signed it after accepting a convention's nomination? If Mr. Soden had to sign a statement of his intentions before certain people would believe him what would you think of him what would you think of him if he signed it?

If Mr. Soden said that he was in favor of abolition of bar, bottle, and club and would introduce a measure to that effect in the House whether the parties asked him to do so or not what would you say of his temperance?

If Mr. Soden compromised by leaving out the bottle what would you say of his temperance?

If you didn't support him what would you think of your own profession?

WHITNEY'S HOLD IS UNBREAKABLE

Temperance Conservatives Decline Rowell's Cunning Invitation

PARTY LINES ARE SOLID

Canvasses by Liberals Demolish Rowell's Anticipations—Hopes of a "Landslide" Vanished

Every indication that can be conveyed to Conservative headquarters in Toronto by letter, wire or personal visit, proves conclusively that Temperance Conservatives are standing solidly for Whitney at the approaching election.

Defections have been so remarkably few that the Toronto "Star" which kept account of all Conservatives turning to Rowell, could only muster half a column in two weeks and then were forced to withdraw several owing to telegraphic protests from the parties mentioned.

Canvasses made by Liberal workers appealing to the Temperance convictions of Conservative voters have met with such dismal failure that the first calculations of the Rowell party have been entirely upset. Reports made to Liberal headquarters in the various ridings and at Toronto show that Rowell's political device to stampede Conservative temperance workers to his fold—have caused only indignant repudiation and sent scores of supporters into the open field to campaign for the Whitney cause.

Whitney's Great Temperance Work

Sir James Whitney has been in office nine years. During that time he has kept pace absolutely with the wishes of the majority of the people in curbing the evils of the liquor traffic. So exemplary has been the enforcement of existing laws, so impartial and exacting has been the control of license holders as to win General Booth's compliment: "In this respect Ontario leads the world."

Whitney fought the discreditable regime of the Ross Government, a regime for which N. W. Rowell battled with all his might. Whitney found a broken-down Local Option Law. He changed it, improved it, and set it to work. That law has cut the liquor licenses down from 2,814 when Rowell's party was forced from the Government benches, to 1,600, a reduction of 1,214.

Whitney added a powerful Temperance weapon when he made the Canada Temperance Act, a Dominion measure, applicable to Ontario and which carried on a majority vote, without the three-fifths requirement. Only recently that Act banished the bar from Huron and Peel counties.

Whitney took the Ross Government's record of $430,133 of tax burdens on the liquor trade and he increased it by 100 per cent. He selected sterling officers to enforce the liquor laws and spent $30,000 a year to bind the laws on all holders of licenses, for such a purpose Rowell's friends spent $4,183 in fifteen years.

Four-fifths of Ontario Dry

In 1906, 96 municipalities enjoyed Local Option. In 1913 no less than [illegible] were under the Local Option Law. That law is a Whitney law in so far as its workability is concerned. Four-fifths of Ontario now stands "dry" after nine years of genuine Temperance Reform. The balance of the traffic is disappearing year by year as fast as the people decide.

Sir James Whitney has refused again and again to take the deciding voice on bar abolition away from the people immediately concerned. And when they do decide, his laws sweep away at a single stroke, the open bar, the club license, and the shop. Mr. Rowell proposes to disregard the majority sentiment of each community regarding liquor licenses, and administer a [illegible] prohibition law with an army of [illegible] and private detectives [illegible] from Queen's Park, Toronto.

STILL ANOTHER TRY WILL BE MADE TO GET DEAD BODIES

Essex Divers Left for Scene of Wreck After Holding Consultation--Rudder Improved on the Empress

A vote for Soden is a vote for Whitney—for Hydro-Electric, for Radial Railways, for honest, clean, Progressive Legislation — If you want these vote for Soden.

Quebec, June 25.—After a consultation between Captain Walsh of the H.M.S. Essex, it was agreed to make another attempt to get the 800 bodies in the Empress of Ireland, and the Essex's divers left for the scene of the wreck again yesterday.

The fact that the rudder of the Empress of Ireland was enlarged so as to give it better steering qualities, was established by C. S. Haight acting for the owners of the Storstadt at yesterday afternoon's sitting of the Dominion Commission investigating the sinking of the liner. The evidence was submitted by Percy Hillhouse, from the Fairfield shipbuilding plant, where the Empress was constructed.

Mr. Haight asked Mr. Hillhouse if the Empress steering was not the subject of complaints by Captains and the witness said that he had never heard of any complaints. He said that all the trials, the ship's steering qualities gave satisfaction, but that advantage was taken to an addition to the rudder to add one foot to the after edge. This was in 1909.

LITTLE INTEREST IN BRITAIN IN THE BIG IRISH QUESTION

Strange Apathy in Regard to the Home Rule Situation --Consessions by Both Sides Wanted--Liberals Are Uneasy

—Little interest in Britain —

London, June 25.—To-night's division in the Commons, challenging the Government's finance policy, promises much interest. Even Liberals admit much uneasiness. The laborites declare they will abstain from voting against the Opposition's amendment, which regrets the absence of Imperial grants to local authorities. The Government however, with the Irish vote behind them, will probably have fifty majority.

UNIONISTS IN CONFERENCE.

Next Wednesday will see the Home Rule amending bill before the Lords for the second reading. Unionist leaders are having daily conferences regarding the amending proposals they will submit during the second reading.

Mr. Rowell Connected With Liquor Traffic

Mr. N. W. Rowell, the advocate of "Abolish the Bar," allows his name to be used in the wine list of the Ontario Club (Reform Headquarters) Toronto. The very first name on the list of officers of this Club is "N. W. Rowell, M. P. P., Liberal Leader, a member. Then follows a list of the prices for liquor, that Mr. Rowell thus aids in selling. On the list of this "Abolish the Bar" Reform Club appear Champagnes, Clarets, Burgundies, Rhine wines, Port wines, Sherries, Brandies, Rum, Whiskies, etc. ad nauseum. What has Mr. Gillespie to say in defense of this?

THE WEATHER

Moderate to East westerly to northerly winds, fair and cooler.

TROUBLESOME HAIRS

A thick paste made with powdered delatone and water, and applied to objectionable hairs for two or three minutes, when removed will take every trace of hair with it and leave the skin firm and free from blemish. After this treatment has been employed, the skin should be washed to remove the remaining delatone. This is quick, harmless and certain, but to avoid disappointment, care should be taken to see that it is real delatone you get.

Blasting Trees Into Logs

Heavy charges of dynamite are used in the redwoods forests of California for splitting the huge logs. This blasting method is the only practicable one known for cutting such logs into commercial and marketable size. On the National Reservation in Fresno County, Cal., a tree, before it was felled, stood 148 feet high, 13 feet in diameter and 43 feet in circumference at its base, and when split and sawed contained enough lumber to supply a town of 300 people for eight months.

Saws fifteen feet long are used to fell the tree. The immense log is then trimmed of its branches and sawed into shorter logs of nine, ten or fourteen feet in length, as the case may be. Three holes are drilled into the log. One-half a stick of dynamite is then capped and placed in each hole so that the charge touches the heart of the log.

The log splits nearly into halves. The operation is repeated on each half, but with smaller charges of explosive.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Birch in Canada

There are three species of birch of commercial importance in Canada, the black, yellow and white, or paper birch. The former two have the more valuable wood, but are confined to eastern Canada, whereas the paper birch is found in every province of the Dominion, ranging to the limit of tree-growth towards the north and growing well within the Arctic circle in the MacKenzie River basin and the Yukon.

It is this wide range which contributes largely to its importance, but the qualities of the wood promise a still greater use in the future, for it is a strong, hard, fine-grained wood which takes a high polish and can be stained to imitate the more expensive woods, such as mahogany, cherry or walnut.

Our Point of View

Open-work stockings are now the fashion for women, and alreay the mosquitors are beginning to lift up their voices in joyful song.

---o---

The Liberal candidate in South Lanark, chopped off his toes while cutting wood; but that will not affect his political standing.

---o---

There is an old saying to the effect that talk is cheap, but not the kind that is peculiar to the Canadian Parliament. When the Liberal orators get going it costs the country many thousands of dollars to print and circulate the speeches.

---o---

A very unhappy man these days is our old friend Bennett, M.P. The great rustle of the growing crops in the West makes such a noise that he can't hear his own calamity howls.

---o---

When Asquith and his government are forced to go to the country, as they certainly will, let up hope the people of the mother land will give them such a licking that the moral effect of it will last for generations.

---◆---

It may interest the nomenclaturists to know that a man named Jegg is one of the leaders of the prohibition movement in Pennsylvania and that the Rev. Mr. Tipple is making talks on intemperance in Georgia.

---◆---

The Hamilton Herald (Independent) gives the Rowell shouters a little plain reminder when it says: "There are several ways of abolishing the bar. Those who are shouting for Mr. Rowell's, as though it were the only way, could have got every bar in Hamilton abolished long ago if they could have induced a sufficient number of people to vote that way. And they can do it any time without further legislation. This fact is ignored by many good people."

---◆---

Hon. Adam Beck

A conviction that the Liberal party would gladly see the Hon. Adam Beck quit public life, because his withdrawal would hurt the Conservative party as well as its Hydro policy, is described by the Guelph Mercury as "trash." An easy proof of the admiration of the Liberals for this great achievement of the Minister of power would be an acclamation in his constituency. The Rowellites of London, however, are bending every effort to drum up some candidate—Liberal, Temperance or Labor will do—who has the temerity to oppose the Hydro leader whom they are said to be so anxious to have stay in public life. The Liberals of London are surely dissembling their love.

---◆---

Pulpit Bosses

The very unpleasant consequences of electioneering in the pulpit were illustrated in Kingston on Sunday. In the Sydenham Street Methodist Church, the pastor, Rev. C. F. Reddick, openly and directly to the members of his congregation said that they should do all in their power to elect Mr. Rowell and abolish the bar. An aged member of the congregation, a lifelong temperance advocate, and a friend of the pastor, interrupted with the remark: "We have come to hear the Word of God, not political sermons." In referring to this incident the Hamilton Herald, an independent paper, says that there are very few members of any denomination who, whatever they might think, would care to make a disturbance in church. They would consider it more becoming to hold their peace during the service, even if they were very angry at dictation from the pulpit. The Kingston incident is extraordinary, and illustrates in a very striking manner the dangers to congregational unity and harmony from pulpit electioneering. The protest from the Kingston temperance man is a general topic of conversation in the Limestone City. The congregation is agitated over it. The pastor may be quite willing to stand by his convictions, and disregard the coldness and antipathy of a part of the congregation for their sake. But it is very much a question if men of the cloth forward the cause they advocate by taking advantage of the sacredness of their calling to use domineering tactics with men who are quite as competent as they are to judge of a moral issue. There is no gainsaying that congregations resent secretly, if not openly, any political bossing from the pulpit.

We Submit the Following Companies for Your Consideration

MONITOR OIL & NATURAL GAS COMPANY LTD. CALGARY

Capital $500,000 Non-Personal Liability.

The strong feature in this Company is the location of their properties. Their holdings are adjacent to the MOWBRAY-BERKLEY WELL (located by Cunhingham Craig), the McDOUGAL-SEGUR WELL, the MONARCH WELL and the FABER WELLS. The Company has four separate fields, and a strike of oil in practically any part of the oil fields will have an immediate effect on their stock. The first three named are liable to strike oil at any minute. The Faber Company are just starting to drill, after a very careful consideration of reports from their geologists.

The Company offer a small allotment at $1.00 per share (par $1.00) each share carrying with it an option to purchase one more at par when oil is next struck.

The Directorate whose names you are now familiar with are sufficient guarantee for the integrity of the Company.

PRESIDENT :—Capt. Feilden, Pres. Western Canada Oil Co., Ltd.; Pres. Peerless Oil Works, Ltd. Calgary.
VICE-PRESIDENT :—J. Gordon Savage, of Plunkett and Savage, Calgary.
MANAGING DIRECTOR :—D. Algar-Bailey, Engineer, Calgary.
DIRECTORS :—A. W. Ellson Fawkes, M.I.C.E., City Waterworks Engineer, Calgary; J. H. Eastwood, Barrister (England) Calgary; J. C. McLeod, Mercantile Agent, Calgary.
SEC'Y-TREASURER—H. G. Spencer - Lewis.

CREST OIL & DEVELOPMENT COMPANY, LIMITED, CALGARY

Capital $150,000 Non-Personal Liability

This Company is offering 75,000 shares at their par value price $1.00 each.

The Company is noted for its low capitalization and its excellent holdings of 1211 acres in one block. The leases were carefully chosen by Mr. Ellson Fawkes and the Company has engaged a well-known Eastern geologist to locate its first well. Drilling will commence directly there are sufficient funds in the treasury to place a contract.

On account of its low capitalization this stock is bound to find immediate favour at the next strike of oil. The price will be advanced directly oil is struck, to at least $1.25 a share.

The officers of the Company are "clean," successful business men—

PRESIDENT—A. W. Ellson-Fawkes, M.I.C.E., City Waterworks Engineer, Calgary. (Late Peterboro' Ontario).
VICE-PRESIDENT—C. S. Mahood, M.D., Medical Health Officer, Calgary.
MANAGING DIRECTOR—D. Algar-Bailey, Engineer, Calgary.
DIRECTORS—Beach A. Laselle, Director Pacific Lime Co., Ltd., Vancouver, B.C.; R. A. Barron, Department of Education, Edmonton; B. Ginsberg, Barrister, Calgary.

This is NOT a gambling proposition — it is an investment! English and American Capital is pouring into the Calgary Oil Fields. Millions of dollars have been invested by large interests during the past four weeks.

We can honestly advise you to invest in either of these companies. Both of them have on their Directorates men known for their stability and honesty. There is no "wild-catting" or watered stock in either of them and at the next strike of oil the stock is bound to increase in price.

We advise you to invest in both. $100 will secure you say 50 Crest and 100 Monitor shares (option stock) and then when the next strike comes, which may be now as you are reading this, you will be able to smile at the man paying $5,00 a share for Monitor and buy them yourself for $1.00 each.

It will need prompt action on your part to get this stock at the present market price, because, remember, it takes several days for your application to reach here. Do not delay: Fill out the coupon. We will honor all applications bearing post mark prior to rise in price.

GHOST OR NIGHTMARE

Strange Malady May be Caused By Indigestible Food

Many superstitions and ghost stories are due to nightmares, says Dr. Walter R. Hadwen in the Commercial Review. The nightmare would appear to attack men much more than women, and to be a malady rather of early adult life than one of later years.

The malady can boast of quite a respectable antiquity. It was fully understood and accurately described by both Greeks and Romans of ancient days, and several well written treatises upon the subject have come down to us from the seventeenth century.

The [illegible] being which seems to settle on one's chest that in all ages and in every country of the world been called a demon or evil spirit, and has been held responsible for many an uncanny episode, both in ancient and modern times. Probably the ghuls and jins of all the African races which are believed to hover everywhere in the darkness, and of which even the strongest and stoutest warriors are terrified, have their origin in nightmare.

Nightmare, Dr. Hadwen says, is certainly quite different from a dream. Nightmare is neither sleeping nor waking, but it is a condition between the two, a kind of semi-consciousness. Men, the chief sufferers, are usually literary characters or those accustomed to indoor life. And coarse and unwholesome diet has often appeared to be the precursor of this strange malady.

Lovers of the Cat

A few persons of considerate mind have always known how to treat the cat with honor. But perhaps it is hardly necessary to repeat the ancient story of Mahomet—how, rising from his seat, and fearful of awakening the cat that was sleeping on his sleeve, he cut off that part of the garment and left her undisturbed.

Richelieu, also, found pleasure and relief in the society of cats, yet he can be regarded as only incompletely a cat lover. As kittens they appealed to him, and as kittens only. He loved to keep a family of them in his study until they arrived at a certain age; but when they were three months old he had them taken away and replaced by others that were younger. Montaigne also loved cats, and wrote about them, as did Baudelaire and [illegible] and Gautier and Edgar Allan Poe.

$30,000,000 FOR ROADS

Whitney Government Meets Great Need of Farmers—How Money Will Be Spent

That the people of Ontario should spend thirty millions of money upon good country roads is a recommendation of the Public Roads and Highways Commission made at the last session which the Government is carrying into effect as quickly as township and county plans can be completed. The program includes the construction of 7,000 miles of township roads, including practically every highway in Ontario. The provincial subsidy for county road construction is to be increased to 40 per cent. with a like grant for maintenance, and the province will make a grant of 20 per cent. for township roads. Of the $30,000,000 the province and the counties will each pay $12,000,000 and [illegible]

Mexican Street Names

The Mexicans have a turn for the picturesque which displays itself in the street names of the capital. There is Love of God Street, The Holy Ghost Street, Sad Indian Street, Street of the Wood Owls, Lost Child Street, and a cautionary Pass If You Can Street. Shop names, too, in Mexico are out of the common. A drug store calls itself Gate of Heaven, and a drinking saloon describes itself frankly as The Bait of the Devil!

USE OR ORNAMENT

In these days of up-to-date methods it is surprising how much of the past still remains, more especially in regard to the clothes we wear. On the backs of most gloves will be found three thin strips. These marks correspond to the fourchette pieces between the fingers. In earlier times gloves were not made so neatly as they are to-day, and the stitching of the fingers was carried down part of the way on to the back of the glove, braid being used to conceal the seams. In later days, with the help of the improved means of manufacture, the stitching did not go beyond the fingers, but the embroidery was continued as an ornament, and remains still.

To a practically similar reason does the "clock" on a sock owe its origin. In the days when stockings were made of cloth the seams occurred where the "clocks" are now displayed, the decoration being utilized to hide the seams. Now that stockings are woven or knitted, there is no such need for ornamentation, but far from being allowed to die out, modern stockings often have "clocks" as an improvement to their appearance.

The little bow which will invariably be found in the leather band inside a man's hat is a survival of the time when a hat was made by taking a piece of leather, boring two holes through it, and drawing it together with a piece of string. Sometimes attached to the bow is a piece of ribbon, which is laced in and out of the lining for a short distance on either side of the bow, but generally speaking the ribbon is missing.

MOUNTING PHOTOGRAPHS

Some Methods of Preventing Prints From Curling

Photographic prints curl when they are mounted because the moisture on the exposed surface of the print evaporates more rapidly than that on the back, and so causes a shrinkage. That draws the mount out of shape unless it is very heavy.

There are various methods of overcoming the difficulty. You can soak the print in a twenty per cent. solution of glycerine and water, and then attach it to the mount by a dab of paste at each corner, or you can use one of the dry mounting methods.

Coat the back of the print with white of egg, lay it on the mount and iron it with a hot flat iron. Nothing short of a miracle will get the print off again, yet the process will not curl the thinnest mounts. You can also get good results by dissolving white shellac in alcohol, and then painting the back of the print with the solution. When the solution is dry, iron the print on, as already described.

You can buy a tissue paper made especially for mounting, or can procure one that will do the work satisfactorily. Make the coating for the tissue as follows: Gum sandarac, three parts; gum coral, one part; shellac, one part; resin, one part; alcohol, three parts; spirits of turpentine, three parts. Apply this to the tissue paper with a brush and let it dry.

To mount a print with tissue, lay the tissue on the mount, and the photograph on the tissue, and run the whole with an iron just hot enough to hiss when you touch it with a wet finger.

WHAT IS THE BILINGUAL ISSUE?

Whitney Declares English Dominent, Rowell Says "Maybe, But,—"

OPEN BID FOR FRENCH VOTE

Rowell, His Supporters, and Law Partner Assure French-Canadians Language Claims Will be Met

What is the Bi-lingual Issue?

The Whitney Government has declared through Regulation Seventeen that no French-Canadian child shall be taught more French than is necessary to carry it until it receives a thorough education in the language of the country—which is English.

That regulation has stirred up much bitter hostility to the Whitney Government and brought down on Sir James' head the threats of French-Canadian extremists.

Accepting those threats as a political advantage to himself N. W. Rowell, the Liberal leader, framed an "announcement" on the bi-lingual issue which balances gingerly between any possible offence to either English or French citizens.

Mr. Rowell at New Liskeard, in Nipissing, Glengarry, Russell, Prescott and Essex deliberately told the French-Canadian audiences that he would endeavor to have English taught, but that at all costs the French-Canadian's right to his own mother tongue must be "retained."

On the day following one of these speeches, the Toronto "Globe" came out frankly and admitted that Regulation Seventeen, which upholds English as the dominant language would not bind Rowell should he be returned to power.

Mr. Wilkie, Mr. Rowell's law partner, told the French-Canadians of North Ontario that Rowell would settle the bi-lingual question as Sir Wilfrid Laurier settled the school question.

Only the votes of the people of Ontario stand between Mr. Rowell and the accomplishment of his scheme.

A Big Eagle Killed

Michael Carney, a farmer, residing near Westport, Ont., killed a bald-headed eagle. The big bird was sitting on a fence, watching a flock of hens and chickens. When Mr. Carney saw it he picked up a broom-handle, and, throwing it, struck the eagle with such force that it was stunned. It was then quickly despatched. The measurement was seven feet six inches from the tips of the wings.

You wash dishes about two hours every day. That's one hour wasted!

Dishes get dirty, greasy and sticky and soap will not clean them. Soapy dish water merely cleans the surface; it doesn't dig into the corners and drive out the decayed food particles.

Gold Dust is the sanitary dish washer. It not only cleans the surface, but digs deep after hidden particles of dirt and kills the germs of decayed food which ordinary dish-water overlooks. Gold Dust sterilizes as well as cleanses.

Besides doing the work better than soap or any other cleanser can, Gold Dust will save just half the time you spend in washing dishes.

Gold Dust is sold in 5c size and large packages. The large package means greater economy.

World's Longest Fence

Stretching across Western Australia is a rabbit-proof fence said to be the longest in the world. It extends for a distance of 1,200 miles without a break, except for gates. It begins in the temperate regions and ends in the tropics, and sometimes for nearly one hundred miles it never passes a human habitation. The fence is divided into sections, each of which is under the control of an Inspector. These inspectors have "boundary riders," whose duty it is constantly to ride up and down their section of the long barrier and keep it in effective condition. Since the fence was erected it has prevented hordes of rabbits from overrunning and devastating the region beyond.

How People Feel When They Have Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulveney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them cannot imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are: ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ½ of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution, have very little distress.

Prof. Mulveney's world-famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, sure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, is not disagreeable to take. One dose nearly always affects a cure. Further information free. Send stamped envelope, telephone Parkdale 4830, or call at 167 Dundas street, Toronto. Open from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

Between noon and eight o'clock I had a whole bottle rubbed on, and then got into a perspiration under the blankets. Croaking Eggs

Young unhatched crocodiles utter an audible croaking cry within the eggs in which they are laid, and the cry is so loud and distinct that it can be heard when the eggs are buried in one or two yards of sand. Dr. W. A. Lamborn tested the fact at Lagos, on the West African coast. He heard a croaking noise from below a dry path, and, digging in the path to investigate the cause, he discovered thirteen crocodiles' eggs at a depth of about eighteen inches. All the young crocodiles batched out within half an hour of being dug up.

PORTRAIT POSING

Amateur photographers do not, in many cases, pay sufficient attention to the composition of the picture they are taking, particularly when the photograph is a portrait taken indoors. A quite plain person will often make a charming picture if suitably and gracefully posed against a good background.

Most amateur indoor photographs show too much furniture. As a matter of fact, a better picture is invariably obtained when a greater part of the furniture is moved out of range of the camera. It does away with that crowded appearance seen in so many otherwise good photographs, and gives, instead, a sense of space and proportion.

Amateurs may obtain excellent effects by posing their subjects before a mirror. The portrait, which should always have a dark, hanging background, may be taken in profile with the full face reflected in the mirror. Or the position may be reversed, the profile outlined in the mirror, and the full, or three-quarter, face looking at the camera.

TEMPERANCE REFORM IS OF CATCH-CRY

Rowell's service for Temperance Reform has covered thirty years of political indifference or hostility and one year of catch-cry.

Rowell's party twice promised prohibition and then threw the Temperance cause overboard. Rowell stuck fast to that party. He sticks to it to-day. And he has revived their platonic devices to put himself in power. No one has yet given a proof that Rowell is less insincere to-day than in 1902.

Rowell refuses to sacrifice the liquor shops. Whitney's Local Option Canada Temperance Acts sweep away bars, clubs and shops, the moment the people demand it.

Rowell lacked courage to feature "Abolish the Bar" in his 1911 campaign. He laid it aside until he had experimented with other issues. Hopelessly beaten 82 to 13, he picked up the only remaining chance of winning office. Temperance is his political toy. Temperance is Whitney's pledge and achievement. Rowell juggles. Whitney gives Reform an actual meaning.

An over-night pledge to "abolish" a branch of the liquor traffic has little weight beside nine years of genuine and permanent accomplishment.

ONCE OUNCE OF GENUINE WORTH A POUND

Whitney's service for Temperance reform has covered nine years of progressive ACTION.

Under Whitney's rule, 1905-14, liquor licenses were reduced from 2,814 to 1,600. Decrease 1,214.

Whitney found an unworkable Local Option law and made it workable. Local Option has made four-fifths of Ontario dry. And it is safely and surely taking care of the other fifth.

Whitney gave Temperance a valuable weapon in the Canada Temperance Act which he made applicable to Ontario's needs. Whitney doubled the tax burdens on the liquor trade in nine years—$820,123 to $1,240,943.

In 1906, 93 municipalities enjoyed Local Option. In 1913 no less than 347 were under Local Option rule. This progress was made possible by excellent enforcement of the liquor license laws.

"The Pioneer" (organ of Dominion Alliance) said in 1913: "The liquor laws are carried out in a manner that reflects credit on the Government in general."

Mr. Jos. Gibson, Pres. Ontario Alliance: "You did your duty. You said at the start that you would make the license holders keep hotel and you did." General Booth, on Ontario's management of the liquor traffic: "In this respect Ontario leads the world."

The Abolition of Bilingual Schools is the Supreme Issue in This Contest--English Speaking Electors, Catholic and Protestant Alike, Should See That Whitney is sustained

REPLY TO THE THREAT OF A WRIT AGAINST THE TIMES

The Statement That Mr. Rowell is An Interested Member Of a Liquor-Selling Liberal Club Is Sustained--Hysteria in Massey Hall But None in Ontario Liberal Club.

The Times has received a Notice of Complaint from Messrs. Gordon & Widdifield, Solicitors, threatening us with an action for damages unless we retract our statement that Mr. Rowell is a member of the Ontario Liberal Club in Toronto, where alcoholic liquors are served to guests. We publish the following statement, which we believe is what the clients of Messrs. Gordon & Widdifield object to. Our answer to the threat of an action for damages by these gentlemen is a republication of the object of the charge, and with it the further statement that the consistency of Mr. Rowell and his Liberal associates in this matter is exemplified by the material which we published yesterday, and re-publish to-day. Our action is entirely in the public interest and for no other purpose whatever. We believe that many of those who are enthusiastic in support of Mr. Rowell's temperance leadership will repudiate him on learning of these facts. We may say further that we do not charge him with bad faith simply because he and his friends happen to belong to a Club that sells all brands of alcoholic stimulants, but because it is incumbent upon him and them, as champions of a policy, to be consistent. It has to us a very bad look, that a man who leads a party of temperance, and makes temperance his sole issue should frequent a club where liquor is freely consumed. If he endorses the sale why does he preach temperance? If he opposes the sale, and is sincere in his opposition, why does he continue a member? No private member of a club here in Peterborough or elsewhere can possibly escape the responsibility of membership in that club. When members find out what it is like, if they do not approve they must resign. They cannot sit on the fence and be on both sides at the same time. We regret the exposure because we regret the fact not because we would betray the public interest by suppressing it. No honourable temperance man, in our opinion, can support a man who is a member of a liquor selling club in a temperance crusade, nor in a policy of preaching the evils of whiskey selling when providing for the protection of the bottle. It is a shame and a disgrace, and so much the more so since it contaminates all those who ally themselves with it.

The statement published yesterday was to the effect that Mr. N. W. Rowell, M.P.P., advocate of 'abolish the bar' allows his name to be used in connection with the wine list of the Ontario Liberal Club (Reform Headquarters) in Toronto. The very first name on the list of officers of this club is Mr. N. W. Rowell, M. P. P. The wine list used at this club is a list of the liquors, with the prices for them, which Mr. Rowell thus aids in selling. On the list of this 'abolish the bar' Reform Club appears champagnes, clarets burgundies, sherries, brandies, rum whiskey, and soforth. What has Mr. Gillespie to say in defence of this?

No one for a moment supposes that Mr. Rowell or any other member of the Club puts his name actually on the wine list. The point is, that the wine list is used for the purposes of the Club, of which Mr. Rowell is a member.

PUBLIC OPINION

The Times does not hold itself responsible for the opinions of its correspondents.

THE TEMPERANCE QUESTION

(Editor Morning Times)

Sir.—The letter of Mr. J.D. Flavelle has struck a responsive note everywhere. Mr. Flavelle's reputation is built upon the sure foundation of patriotism and a sincere desire to do and say what is in the best interests, in his opinion, of the great body of the people. The artful dodging of the mere cunning politician has no place in his anatomy. He leaves that to the dodgers. One point he touched upon is so true of Peterborough that I feel I must speak of it. I refer to the history of temperance in Peterborough. When I was a lad I listened with intense interest to the temperance orators who supported the Dunkin Act. Even then I suspected that all human weakness and wickedness, whether it arose from liquor or not, were being attributed to it. It seemed to me that the source of original sin had been discovered, and that when the wave of emotion passed by, whiskey in Peterborough would be no more. The Dunkin Act carried by some twelve hundred and was never in force for one minute. It was forgotten at once. The bars remained open or free to sell all night for 3 days. When this state of affairs could be tolerated no longer a committee went to Toronto to secure the re-enactment of the Crooks License Act for Peterborough. After that slowly but surely, licenses were cut down, beginning with saloons. Then another fit of hysteria seized the people and away we went. As before the orators said and did everything but reproach the Creator for not prohibiting original sin. Adam and Eve were handled without gloves and pronounced a complete failure. Though not so young as before I wondered how the Almighty could keep on permitting what the temperance people denounced. If He would only neutralize alcohol a vast lazar-house would be removed. But He would not. So on we went with the Scott Act, and a more rotten, vile town than this was under the Scott Act—morally, socially, and politically—I never saw. It was soon repealed by a majority of thousands. But the original policy of wearing down the licenses proceeded. Then under Whitney the Liquor business was made, it is claimed, to toe the mark. This fact is, I believe, largely conceded. Sir James has declared himself always as utterly opposed to the Liquor traffic. The Globe reports him last Wednesday as follows at Massey Hall: "For himself, he was opposed to the whole liquor trade and believed in steady and consistent progress towards its elimination." And that has been the only true history of the temperance cause in Peterborough. In view of these facts, is it wise to change the policy? Mr. Soden believ-

A MASS MEETING

IN THE INTEREST OF

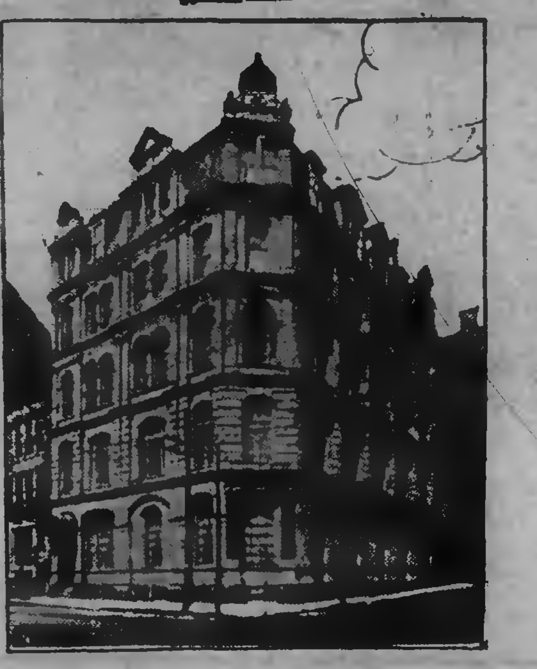
MR R. J. SODEN

WILL BE HELD IN THE

OPERA HOUSE, SAT., JUNE 27TH

Addresses by: MAJOR SAM SHARP, M.P., R. J. SODEN, J. H. BURNHAM, M.P., and others.

WHERE "ABOLISH THE BAR" GETS ITS FIGHTING COURAGE



This is the Ontario Liberal Club, official headquarters of the Liberal Party in Ontario. The wine list placed before every member at his meals contains over 170 varieties of intoxicating liquors. Mr. N. W. Rowell is a devoted member; Mr. Chas. M. Bowman, his Chief Whip, is President and nearly all the Liberal members of the Legislature attend regularly. It is in this magnificent building with a staff of waiters constantly distributing expensive beverages that the Abolish-The-Bar Policy was born and in such surroundings it takes its nourishment. Here it was that the convivial members worked out the slogan "The Bar or The Boy." For their own part they preferred the Bar. About two years ago the Ontario Club petitioned the Government and received a liquor license and they have refused to part with it.

It is a fascinating sight to find day after day a dozen Liberal Temperance candidates assemble about one of the cafe tables to discuss and applaud Mr Rowell's "Great Moral Issue" while one of the candidates presses the button and orders gin rickeys and highballs for the crowd.

THE BI-LINGUAL ISSUE

Dear Sir.—I must apologize to your readers for intruding my name so frequently in these matters, but as anonymous letters are of little value my name is appended to show that I take full responsibility for what I say. Bi-lingualism is the issue in all Canada to-day. The French in the House and out of the House in matters big and little are striving with might and main, night and day, to compel political parties to grant them full rights in the use of the French language. In speaking of the question in the House I intimated that while no one would go farther to preserve to them the right to keep their language, their faith, and whatever else they cherished, as theirs in private life, the time was clearly come to warn them that the idea which they were now cultivating so boldly of ignoring English and determining to employ French in all matters public and private, whenever it suited them is going altogether too far. Much as we like the French, much as we respect them this country is a British country, and must remain so. Their language rights in Canada are those existing in Quebec and in the House of Commons. They were granted at Confederation. They have no such rights in Ontario, and it is an impossible situation which they seek to create.

Rowell is taking advantage of Whitney's dilemna. Sir James has been forced to take a stand and has done so. Mr. Rowell is being prayed for by the French. That I know. What more need be said? There would be no conflict if Whitney had yielded. Do you propose to support him in the struggle?

Yours,
J. H. BURNHAM.

What Mr. Best Says

Mr. T. F. Best, secretary of the Hamilton Y. M. C. A. says: "I am anxious to see the bar abolished, but I am not anxious to see the best temperance Government Ontario ever had abolished." He confirmed this much of a reported statement, in a letter to the Hamilton Spectator. Mr. Best is an enthusiast for the welfare of the boy, as his life work in connection with the Y.M.C.A. clearly indicates.

THE WEATHER.

To-day—Mostly fair and about the same temperature.

STATEMENT BY SIR JAMES WHITNEY

(Special to The Times.)

Toronto, June 26.— Sir James Whitney to-night issued the following statement: "The great majority of the clergymen of Ontario are entitled to and have the confidence of the people, but a small minority among them, anxious above everything else to turn my government out of office, are not ashamed to come out openly and denounce from their pulpits, in violent and unbecoming language, all who dare to support the government as bad citizens and bad men. In a British and Christian country such conduct is intolerable, and I respectfully call upon all self-respecting men in their congregations to resent this conduct in a way that these men will never forget."

(signed) J. P. WHITNEY.

THE BUCKHORN BRIDGE

Agreement With Hon. George P. Graham Will be Carried Out.

It is reported that owing to the fact that the late Minister of Railways and Canals, Hon. G.P. Graham, having resumed all responsibility for this matter, the agreement between him and the County Council will be carried out. The agreement was admittedly founded on an oversight on Hon. G.P. Graham's part, but it will be allowed to stand in view of the apparent hardship to the County. This ends a long struggle.

To Improve Expression
As Well As Complexion.

No face is really beautiful that lacks expression. Do you realize that continual use of powders and creams tends to spoil pliancy of skin and elasticity of expression? Why not quit cosmetics, use something better which won't clog the pores or make the skin dry, pasty or oily? Ordinary mercolized wax acts quite differently from any cosmetic. It wonderfully improves any complexion, giving it life and expression. By gradually, harmlessly peeling off the thin veil licately beautiful and youthful. Every of surface skin, it brings to view a pure, soft, spotless complexion, de- druggist has this wax; it is seldom more than an ounce is needed. It is spread on nightly like cold cream and washed off mornings. In a week or two the transformation is complete.

Wrinkles do not of course enhance the expression. Neither do the pasty things many use to eradicate them. A treatment free from all objection is made by dissolving 1 oz. powdered saxolite in ½ pint witch hazel; use as a wash lotion. This soon removes even the most obstinate wrinkles.

APPOINTMENTS MADE FOR TEACHERS IN LOCAL SCHOOLS

Last night the Board of Education met in regular session.

Those present were Messrs. Dr. Morrison, Chairman Ackerman, Crane Smith and McIlrath.

Possibly the most important business considered was appointment of teachers as follows:

Report of Committee on Appointments.

To the Chairman and Members of The Board of Education

To The Ladies

Women suffer more than men through the use by their relatives of alcohol than do the men who drink it. The ladies who advocate true principles of temperance, (and which one of them does not?) should choose between working for a half hearted temperance measure like that presented by Mr. Rowell, the Liberal leader, and that advocated by Mr. Soden, throw their influence in for the latter, who is pledged to put his heel on the head of that venomous snake, alcohol, so as not to paralyze the snake's tail and leave its poisoned fangs still in business. Mr. Soden is pledged to work for abolishing the entire traffic in Ontario.

ORANGEMEN.

The City District L.O.L. extend a hearty invitation to all Orangemen who can possibly attend, to meet with them in their hall on Sunday evening June 28th at 6 o'clock sharp, to attend Divine Service. Herb Stinson, Dist. Master.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

MANY UNEXPLORED AREAS

Canada Offers Broad Field to the Adventurous

Despite the great emigration boom that Canada has enjoyed for some years past, the rapidity with which her vast north-western territories have been opened up to settlement, and the girding up of the country with a network of railways and telegraph posts, says a writer in The Wide World Magazine, there yet remain huge areas absolutely unknown and untouched, where all sorts of wonders may be discovered.

Indeed, the enthusiastic explorer longing for new worlds to conquer, may well select Canada as his goal. Here he will find limitless tracts of country—blank spaces on the map—where there are mighty ranges of mountains, great rivers and lakes, wonderful forests and wild prairie lands.

Away up under the Arctic Circle there are probably tribes, Indian and Eskimo, whose very existence is unknown, and here also roam vast herds of the grandest game to be found on the face of the globe, and, if reports are to be credited, many new and strange beasts.

To penetrate into these unmapped lands calls for grit and stamina of the highest order. The pioneer must be prepared to face hardships and perils as great as those encountered by the most daring of Arctic and Antarctic adventurers.

Our Point of View

There must be no crowding the English language in Ontario schools.

—o—

With the Mexican situation, the canal tolls question and a family wedding on his hands all at the same time it seems that the life of President Wilson is fairly well crowded with excitement.

—o—

In trying to dodge the bi-lingual issue, Rowell workers ask why it is made a campaign matter. It is made an important campaign matter by Leader Rowell's bold bid for the French vote.

—o—

Rev. Evan Newton, of Chatham, who says he will vote for the Conservative candidate, declares "I have no faith in the temperance policy of N.W. Rowell. I do not favor a policy that abolish a the bar and leaves the shops."

—o—

We violate no confidence when we say that if a demand had been made upon Huerta to salute the Yankee flag by firing twenty-one champagne corks he would probably have yielded to it with considerable enthusiasm.

It appears that Premier Asquith was returned to parliament by his constituency of Fife without having to drum up any votes.

The Bi-Lingual Issue

It is interesting to learn from Mr. Rowell that the Conservative party is responsible for the existence of bi-lingual schools in Ontario. Information of this kind comes under the head of summer fiction. The bi-lingual schools are the direct creation of a Liberal Government. They were not touched by the Conservative Government until Bishop Fallon made his energetic protest. There is now no desire to treat French-Canadians unjustly, but there is a resolute determination to make the schools efficient and English the dominant language.

A commission was appointed to ascertain the facts and devise a remedy. Regulation 17 was the result. This regulation recognized the existence of the schools, and provided a sane and workable method of increasing their efficiency, while the Government provided training schools to qualify bi-lingual teachers. Senator Belcourt and his associates "saw red." The French Education Association was formed and a campaign of slander against the Government and its officers was organized. To-day every French-Canadian elector in Ontario is being urged to vote for the Opposition. Mr. Rowell may talk as he pleases about the need of keeping Ontario an English-speaking Province, but his declarations are too general and too vague to command confidence among English-speaking people. They have satisfied the French-Canadians. The passionate appeals of "Le Droit, of Ottawa, in favor of Mr. Rowell are quite as fervent as those of the Liberal papers of Western Ontario on another question. It is futile to declare that there is only one issue in this campaign. The abolition of the bar is not even mentioned in the Eastern part of Ontario. Mr. Rowell hopes to make gains there but if he does so, it will be on the bi-lingual issue. If Liberals in the East can discuss the schools to Mr. Rowell's advantage, the leader of the Opposition should be willing to have them discussed in the West, even though to his hurt.

"Nerviline" Cures Cramps End Misery Instantly

NO REMEDY SO SPEEDY OR EFFICIENT.

A real cramp cure?

Yes, a real one—in a twinkling the cramp is a dead one, and the last squirm is over, once you get a stiff dose of Nerviline on the inside.

This isn't mere talk. It's a solid, truthful fact. No other remedy—not a single one—will cure cramps so quickly and harmlessly as Nerviline. It hits the spot in a jiffy and saves a heap of misery.

"Last Saturday night my stomach felt like an infernal machine," writes T.P. Granger from Hartford. "I was awakened from a sound sleep and found myself suffering the worst kind of torture. I was so doubled up I could hardly cross my room. I had used Nerviline before for the same thing and took a real good dose. Once I felt the warm, soothing sensation of Nerviline in my stomach I knew I was all right. It finished the cramps—just one single dose."

Sickness at night is rendered a nightmare of the past if Nerviline is handy. It may be earache, toothache, or cramps. Nerviline in every case will cure at once and save calling the doctor. Nerviline is a family physician in itself. The large 50c. family size bottle of course, is most economical. Small trial size costs a quarter. All dealers sell Nerviline.

CALGARY OIL FIELDS

Bailey Brokerage Co. Calgary
Stock Brokers

We Submit the Following Companies for Your Consideration

MONITOR OIL & NATURAL GAS COMPANY LTD. CALGARY

Capital $500,000 Non-Personal Liability.

The strong feature in this Company is the location of their properties. Their holdings are adjacent to the MOWBRAY-BERKLEY WELL (located by Cunningham Craig), the McDOUGAL-SEGUR WELL, the MONARCH WELL and the FABER WELLS. The Company has four separate fields, and a strike of oil in practically any part of the oil fields will have an immediate effect on their stock. The first three named are liable to strike oil at any minute. The Faber Company are just starting to drill, after a very careful consideration of reports from their geologists.

The Company offer a small allotment at $1.00 per share (par $1.00) each share carrying with it an option to purchase one more at par when oil is next struck.

The Directorate whose names you are now familiar with are sufficient guarantee for the integrity of the Company.

PRESIDENT :—Capt. Feilden, Pres. Western Canada Oil Co., Ltd., ; Pres. Peerless Oil Works, Ltd. Calgary.
VICE-PRESIDENT :—J. Gordon Savage, of Plunkett and Savage, Calgary.
MANAGING DIRECTOR :—D. Algar-Bailey, Engineer, Calgary.
DIRECTORS :—A. W. Ellson Fawkes, M.I.C.E., City Waterworks Engineer, Calgary; J. H. Eastwood, Barrister (England) Calgary; J. C. McLeod, Mercantile Agent, Calgary.
SEC'Y-TREASURER—H. G. Spencer - Lewis.

CREST OIL & DEVELOPMENT COMPANY, LIMITED, CALGARY

Capital $150,000 Non-Personal Liability

This Company is offering 75,000 shares at their par value price $1.00 each.

The Company is noted for its low capitalization and its excellent holdings of 1211 acres in one block. The leases were carefully chosen by Mr. Ellson Fawkes and the Company has engaged a well-known Eastern geologist to locate its first well. Drilling will commence directly there are sufficient funds in the treasury to place a contract.

On account of its low capitalization this stock is bound to find immediate favour at the next strike of oil. The price will be advanced directly oil is struck, to at least $1.25 a share.

The officers of the Company are "clean," successful business men—

PRESIDENT—A. W. Ellson Fawkes, M.I.C.E., City Waterworks Engineer, Calgary. (Late Peterboro' Ontario).
VICE-PRESIDENT—C. S. Mahood, M.D., Medical Health Officer, Calgary.
MANAGING DIRECTOR—D. Algar-Bailey, Engineer, Calgary.
DIRECTORS—Beach A. Laselle, Director Pacific Lime Co., Ltd., Vancouver, B.C.; R. A. Barton, Department of Education, Edmonton; B. Ginsberg, Barrister, Calgary.

This is NOT a gambling proposition — it is an investment! English and American Capital is pouring into the Calgary Oil Fields. Millions of dollars have been invested by large interests during the past four weeks.

We can honestly advise you to invest in either of these companies. Both of them have on their Directorates men known for their stability and honesty. There is no "wild-catting" or watered stock in either of them and at the next strike of oil the stock is bound to increase in price.

We advise you to invest in both. $100 will secure you say 50 Crest and 100 Monitor shares (option stock) and then when the next strike comes, which may be now as you are reading this, you will be able to smile at the man paying $5,00 a share for Monitor and buy them yourself for $1.00 each.

It will need prompt action on your part to get this stock at the present market price, because, remember, it takes several days for your application to reach here. Do not delay: Fill out the coupon. We will honor all applications bearing post mark prior to rise in price.

Musical Batteries

When Marquard and Meyers are

But they are not in it with Shawkey

There's Williams and Walker who

Recalling the great Ethiopian clowns;
For Doolan and Dooin we don't give

There's none of them in it with Shaw

And Jackson and Johnston play for Both Baker and Barry—they all can

We'll take out a ticket on Shawkey

ENGLISH HOCKEY UNLIKE OUR GAME

Played With a Ball And For Glory Only—The Professional Player an Unknown Quantity

Hockey, says a writer in "Answers," resembles golf inasmuch that it exercises a compelling fascination over the player, and it is most exceptional for a man who has once taken to it to give it up of his own free will. It makes heavy calls on the speed and stamina of even the trained young athlete, and at it, as in other sports, "youth will be served."

What is the fascination of hockey? Obviously it lies largely in its exasperations. While charging, shoving, shinning, and tripping are forbidden by the rules, accidental hard knocks from stick or ball are frequent, and a healthy trial to one's temper. An opponent may hook your stick with his own when your stick is within striking distance of the ball. You have made a good individual run through the opposition, and are steadying yourself for your shot, when suddenly a back dashes up and hooks your stick. On such occasions silence is golden.

Across the Shins

At one time an opponent could tackle you only from your right-hand side. But now he may cross your left, provided he touches the ball before touching your stick. It is not always easy for the referee to see whether his stick hits you or the ball first, and, in addition to the "insult" of losing the ball, you may have to put up with the added injury of a crack across the shins.

Here may be interpolated a word of advice to beginners. Not realizing the difficulties of the game, they generally start playing it right away the first time they have a stick in their hands. Then they discover that it is not so easy to hit the ball as it looks, still less so to keep it under control when dribbling.

Chase Three Balls

Before trying to play, take a couple of old hockey or cricket balls, and, armed with your stick, chase them round a field, driving them ahead a few yards at each stroke, one after the other. When running at full speed you can keep them going, add a third. When you can keep the three balls under control, you are fit to take part in and to enjoy a game.

Lastly, says the writer, hockey is a very pure sport. The "shamateur" is practically unknown in it. While the hockey player is as keen as mustard, victory at any price is not the first and last consideration with him. He plays for the honor and glory of his side and for the love of a game which is second to none in the good sportsmanship of its followers and its capacity for providing healthful exercise and excitement.

WHAT A LIBERAL PAPER IN HIS HOME TOWN HAS TO SAY OF MR. R. J. SODEN

An Old Midland Boy Nominated as Conservative Candidate in West Peterborough

(From The Midland Free Press.)

"Mr. R. J. Soden, an old Midland boy, has received the Conservative Nomination for the riding of West Peterborough. We need hardly say that though opposed to us in political creed we wish him success. Mr. Soden, while in Midland, was one of our most progressive citizens, and it was through him that the Canada Iron Furnace Co. was induced to locate its plant here. Always an ardent politician he took an active part in all municipal and parliamentary affairs, and while a staunch Conservative at all times, he still made many friends among his opponents on account of the clean, fair methods which he always adopted in furthering the cause of his party.

"He will make an energetic representative for any riding, and West Peterborough, if it elects him at the coming election, will secure a clean, just and aggressive member, who, from our knowledge of him, will not allow any consideration to outweigh his convictions of what is right in all matters affecting the province.

"Mr. Soden has made a clean-cut statement regarding his stand on the temperance question. He is even willing to go a little further than th Rowell policy of abolish the bar. He is in favor of doing away with the shop and club license as well. It is up to the temperance people of this Province to stand together, regardless of politics, if they ever hope to rid Canada of its greatest curse."

BUILDING THE PANAMA CANAL

Victory Over Nature Cost Much in Lives and Money

Fighting the forces of Nature is an expensive business both in life and money.

The Panama Canal, which joins Atlantic to the Pacific Ocean, cost thousands of men their lives, in addition to the $400,000,000 that it cost to make. When this gigantic task was first undertaken by De Lesseps for the French, he was told on all sides that he was attempting the impossible, and subsequent events seemed to show this to be the case.

Workmen died from fever like flies and the difficulties were such that eventually the work was abandoned the greater part of the costly machinery being left to the tender mercies of a tropical climate. In all about $60,000,000 was entirely lost.

In 1904 the United States undertook to carry on the work, and spent an additional $325,000,000. Forty thousand men worked unceasingly, beset by flood, fire, landslides, earthquakes and disease. But Nature had to give in, and the Panama Canal is an accomplished fact.

You wash dishes about two hours every day. That's one hour wasted!

Dishes get dirty, greasy and sticky and soap will not clean them. Soapy dish water merely cleans the surface; it doesn't dig into the corners and drive out the decayed food particles.

Gold Dust is the sanitary dish washer. It not only cleans the surface, but digs deep after hidden particles of dirt and kills the germs of decayed food which ordinary dish-water overlooks. Gold Dust sterilizes as well as cleanses.

Besides doing the work better than soap or any other cleanser can, Gold Dust will save just half the time you spend in washing dishes.

"Let the GOLD DUST TWINS do your work"

Gold Dust is sold in 5c size and large packages. The large package means greater economy.

Heaviness of Platinum

Platinum is the heaviest commercial metal known. Its specific gravity is 21.5, as compared with 19.26 for pure gold and 10.53 for silver. Briefly, platinum is 21½ times as heavy as water, more than twice the weight of silver and heavier, bulk for bulk, than pure gold. It is softer than iron, but somewhat harder than copper.

How People Feel When They Have Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulvaney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them cannot imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are: ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ½ of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution, have very little distress.

Prof. Mulvaney's world-famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, sure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, is not disagreeable to take. One dose nearly always affects a cure. Further information free. Send stamped envelope, telephone Parkdale 4830, or call at 167 Dundas street, Toronto. Open from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

es in urging on the charioteer. I have heard him cursed for this stand. I have heard him declared to be worse by far than Gillespie. But Mr. Soden's temperance history proves that he is sincere. Since he is sincere I respect him. Now, one word more. Laws depend not on themselves but upon the people behind them. It is the true heart and clear head of strong men and women upon which laws and all else of a moral character in this world rest. How are these people made? By laws? No, but by the firm hold which they keep of themselves—in a word, by the sheer strength of their manhood and womanhood. No law can reform. It can only restrain. What is it, then, we are striving for? Is it not both reform and restraint? Is it not the further development of the strong and the further restraint of the weak? The second is useless without the first, and it is this that Sir James banks upon. When he came in, he found corruption, and made it incorruption. He found dishonour, and made it honour. ~~He found~~ lying, and made it truthfulness. He is without a stain, and in spite of all that he is, and all that he has done, there are some who would hurry him to his defeat. The people, however, will stand by him. They need him. And being more grateful than furious they will work hard to keep him. He is pre-eminently the people's man. It is inconceivable that any such man should be turned down by a sane electorate. But if it should be so, then Ross and his ilk may come again, and who would lift a finger to drive them out?

HISTORY OF SODA WATER

Experiments Which Made Possible a Popular Drink

Carbonic acid, without which the soda and sundae would not be possible, was known to Paracelsus in the early part of the sixteenth century—about 1520—and was further investigated by Van Helmont, the Belgian chemist, about 100 years later. To designate it the latter coined the word "gas," the term now commonly used by dispensers and fountain operators in designating the carbon dioxide which puts the sparkle and the fizz into soda water, or, more properly speaking, into carbonated water. The name "soda" came from its first method of production.

In 1750, Gabriel Venel, a French physician, mixed two drams of soda and marble (muriatic) acid in a pint of water contained in an ordinary glass bottle. Twenty years later—in 1770—Bergman, a Swedish chemist, generated carbonic acid gas from chalk by the use of sulphuric acid and invented a generating apparatus which made its production on a comparatively large scale possible.

In 1767 Dr. Joseph Priestley, at Leeds, England, made the first drinkable glass of soda water. It was prepared by pouring water briskly back and forth between two goblets held in a layer of carbon dioxide on the top of a fermenting mash in a brewery vat.

It is to an English scientist and a Swedish chemist that the recognition of carbonic acid gas and perfection of methods of producing it are due while an American invented and perfected a distinctive type of apparatus —the soda fountain—to prepare, chill and dispense carbonated water, and at the same time provide the mechanical medium for mixing in palatable form the syrups, flavors and fruits used in combination with carbonated water to produce what is known as "soda water."

BODY MADE LOP-SIDED

Sitting Cross legged is a Very Harmful Habit.

Fully 80 per cent. of the men and women who travel in the trains and street cars sit cross-legged, and this habit is responsible for many ills according to a prominent London physician. The prime objection against this habit, he says, is that the return flow of blood from the leg is stopped at the knee, the result being that the veins in the leg swell up. All the weight is thrown on one side of the body, and the under leg goes to sleep, owing to the pressure put on the sciatic nerve. The body should be equally balanced. Then there is another danger. Too much crossing of the legs is sure to bring lop-sidedness. Let the legs rest limply. In that way the muscles become eased while the flow into and the return of blood from the legs is naturally done and the body is equally balanced.

INTRODUCTION

The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Company, Limited, was incorporated in 1913 with six pairs of foxes, at $60,000. This Company re-capitalized in 1914, with 20 pairs of beautiful Silver Black Foxes, at $15,000 per pair, making a total capitalization of $300,000.

THE FOXES

Six pairs (one year old) proven breeders, and fourteen pairs (1914 pups), making a total of 20 pairs — all young foxes - good for at least 10 years. This Company has bought some of this year's options on foxes with a guarantee that they are pedigreed and of the highest strain and very best quality P. E. Island famous foxes.

THE RANCH

The ranch is situated on the well known Glenaladale Farm, owned by Major C. McKinnon, formerly the homestead of Sir William McDonald, and is only 12 miles from Charlottetown, in a quiet locality sufficiently removed from any disturbance.

THE RANCHER

Mr. Arthur W. McKinnon, our Ranch Manager, has had much experience in breeding foxes, and has the practical knowledge necessary to efficiently manage and care for the animals.

The foxes will be ranched free of charge to the Company for the first year. This means a large saving to the shareholders, as some companies have to pay as high as 25 per cent. of the increase for ranching purposes.

The promoters of this Company are retaining $80,000 worth of stock for themselves. $20,000 worth has already been disposed of, leaving $200,000 to be offered to investors at $25.00 per share, with a guarantee that a dividend of 50 per cent. will be paid in cash in 1915, or whatever more it may be.

The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Co., Limited, in 1913 guaranteed a dividend of 50 per cent. but are going to pay 50 per cent. in cash and 50 per cent., in stock in 1914. The Company is in good standing and to each and every investor the first of September, 1914, we can say:— "We have given you 50 per cent. more than we promised." And we feel sure that in 1915 all the shareholders in this re-capitalized company will be able to say they received more than they were promised.

This Company can truthfully say that they have not one cent of watered stock in the Company. Now Mr. Investor, if you were a Company and we the shareholders, we would look to you for justice to give us all that was honestly due us. We would not like for you to buy 3 pairs of foxes at $15,000 per pair ($45,000) and form a fox company and capitalize your concern at $60,000 and make us pay, as shareholders, for it. The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Company, Limited, will ask you to do nothing like that. We want to let you in on the ground floor.

NOTICE

When a fox company guarantees any specified dividend to its shareholders, and when said company is an incorporated body, you need not be afraid of any unfair play, for such a company is compelled to pay what they promise, and, besides, every interest is taken for the welfare of both the investor and the company.

The promoters of this Company are all above board and will not permit any crook to come in and do anything that is not right. Anyone holding stock in this Company who is dissatisfied can, by notifying the Secretary-Treasurer, have his or her money promptly refunded.

FORTUNES IN FOXES

There is money in fox ranching more than anything else ever known. It is good for the rich man and good for the poor man. A poor man cannot buy a pair of Silver Black Foxes but he can easily raise $25.00, $50.00 or $100.00. By investing in this Company he gets back his money in at least two years and then he will have an income for life and for his children to come—and after there will be money in fox farming. One of the reasons for this is that P. E. Island has now 95 per cent. of the world's foxes in captivity. For every one pelt that can be raised there are more than 25 wealthy people waiting for it in London, Russia, France and America.

PELT VALUES

The Fox Pelts have advanced greatly in price since 1910 and you can see for yourself what money was in them then.

Below are the particulars of sale of a consignment of Silver Fox Furs, shipped from Prince Edward Island ranches to London, England, and sold there in March, 1910:

SHARES

Shares are selling at $25.00 each; 25 per cent. with application and the balance on or before September 1st, 1914.

Simply fill out the application form and mail to Major C. McKinnon, Secretary-Treasurer, Glenaladale, P. E. I.

All cheques must be made payable to "The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Co., Ltd."

A POINTER

Just to give you a little idea of what the free ranching of foxes mean to the investor, we will figure it out for you.

We have twenty pairs of foxes in the ranch and suppose each pair produces a litter of only four foxes this is equal to 40 pairs and at $15,000 per year it would figure out at $600,000. Now, if we had to pay even 15 per cent. of the increase for ranching purposes (which is considerably lower than some companies pay) it would mean that we would have to pay $90,000 for ranching expenses.

We ranch the foxes free for the first year, so that in addition to a guaranteed dividend of 50 per cent., we save you this large outlay of money. While we guarantee 50 per cent., still should each pair in our ranch produce four pups it would mean that your dividend would be about 200 per cent. instead of 50 per cent.

FINAL WORD

A great deal has been written about Ranches, Grades of Foxes, etc., but after all the one object that every investor should keep before him is the dividend he is going to get. We have tried to show you in plain English what we can do for you and now that you have our proposition, compare it with the offer made by any other company now in business and then judge for yourself to have been paid by some of the Charlottetown daily newspapers.

VOL. XLI, NO. 146 MONDAY MORNING, JUNE 29, 1914 PRICE TWO CENTS

"If You Want a Man in the Legislature Who Will Keep His Pledges Without an IF, Here I Am, Send Me" Said R. J. Soden at Opera House Saturday Night

MASS MEETING ENDORSES WHITNEY AND R. J. SODEN

Major Sam Sharpe, J. H. Burnham, M. P., and Conservative Candidate for West Peterborough, Cheered to the Echo at Opera House Saturday Night--Sincerity of Mr. N. W. Rowell, Who Noted With Ross Administration Against Abolition of Liquor Traffic, Consistently Doubted

The Conservative mass meeting in the Opera House Saturday night, held in the interest of Mr. R. J. Soden, West Peterborough's energetic and consistent candidate, was attended by a large and responsive audience, including a considerable gathering of the fair sex. On the stage were seated a strong galaxy of representative citizens, most of whom are staunch temperance men who recognize that the Whitney administration has done and is doing more for temperance than Mr. Rowell's party with their "abolish the bar—live the bottle" policy can ever hope to accomplish. The meeting was extremely keen in interest, replete with demonstrative enthusiasm for Sir J. P. Whitney and Mr. R. J. Soden, and marked by clean-cut, unanswerable utterances in support of Ontario's grand old Premier, whose enviable record for the weal of this province shines resplendent in the archives of our Legislature at Toronto.

Mayor Buller presided.

PLAYING BOTH GAMES

The big audience was pretty unanimously in accord with Mr. Soden's doubts of the sincerity of Mr. Rowell and his party, and were quick to recognize the inconsistency of a party who, while flooding the country with a "Banish the Bar" platform are patrons of and support the Ontario Liberal Club—the Rowell party's headquarters—in which the members enjoy ad libertum all the privileges of a wine list of 89 spirituous drinks. It was contended that a liquor license is not compulsory to the Ontario Liberal Club, and in all consistency that wine list, so tempting to weak, yielding members of the institution, should have been eliminated, before Mr. Rowell, one of the club's directors, and the Liberal's chief whip, the club's president, and other members of the club stumped the country with a "Banish the Bar" cry. Major Sam Sharpe in this connection remarked that while the Liberal party had banished the bar in the House of Commons, they had substituted an inviting room with chairs and tables together with "touch the buttons," in response to which waiters serve any drink called for. Why this change from bar to chairs and tables he did not know unless it be that men can drink more sitting down than standing up.

NO "IF" WITH MR. SODEN

Mr. R. J. Soden, the candidate was the recipient of a prolonged ovation. While Mr. Gillespie, he said, pledged himself to vote with either party for the abolition of the bar, shop and club licenses, he (Mr. Soden) would go farther. He pledged himself to vote with either Legislature for the abolition of those licenses—all three. Sir J. P. Whitney's message is, if you want such a measure send me the man; "and want such a man to represent you—I say," offered Mr. Soden, "if you one who will redeem his pledges At this points the audience cheered without an IF—here am I; send me." Mr. Soden to the echo, again and again.

EDUCATION AND PUBLIC OPINION

Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., paid glowing tribute to the Whitney administration for its intelligent and successful handling of the liquor question, which can only be successfully controlled, and the evils of intemperance eliminated, by educating the people, and the introduction of measures, such as local option, backed by a sufficient majority of public opinion to assure their enforcement.

LIBERAL WHIP HAND

Mr. Soden charged the Liberal party with resorting to all kinds of subterfuges, political tricks, and even threats to defeat Sir James Whitney. He read a letter from a lady at Meaford, saying that, with the object of obtaining the support of Conservative temperance men in Meaford, Mr. G. G. Alberry, the Liberal candidate, is holding a gun to their heads, and threatening if they do not support the Rowell policy the Liberal temperance men will not support them if a repeal vote is brought on against local option.

MR. LEADER NOT CONSISTENT

During Major Sam Sharpe's speech, Mr. Leader in the audience wanted to know a few things, and at the end of the advertised addresses was invited to put his questions from the platform. He complied and asked a couple of questions, but showing a tendency to indulge in lengthy sentimental rhetoric, the audience would not listen to any response from him.

Mr. Leader questioned Major Sharpe's contention that the people had the power in local option to vote abolition of liquor, while the three-fifths' clause is in force.

Mr. Leader also questioned the consistency of Mr. Soden's candidature, on the ground that he (Mr. Leader) after having worked for local option the last campaign, had declared he would not vote Mr. Whitney again while the three-fifths' clause held good.

Mr. Soden replied that at that time he had not approved of the three-fifths' clause. But in the face of the Liberal administration having in fourteen years with a straight majority clause, only succeeded in securing 46 dry municipalities, as against the creation of 317 dry communities under the Whitney administration of but nine years, he had to acknowledge that the men who made the present law are wiser than he. (Prolonged cheers).

In answer to Mr. Leader, Major Sam Sharpe replied that West Peterborough amply exemplified the insincerity of the Liberal temperance agitation when one finds such a strong advocate for temperance as Mr. Leader publicly opposing a candidate like Mr. Soden, who stands for total abolition of the liquor traffic. (Cheers).

ADDRESSES IN BRIEF

reported that the signs of the Times for the success of the Conservative party throughout the province are the best possible. He was gratified at the utmost good feeling and courtesy on both sides, which had characterized the campaign in West Peterborough. He granted ministers of the Gospel, as free British citizens, liberty of opinion and speech—from the public platform, on momentous issues.

Turning to the temperance issue, Mr. Burnham contended that were the Liberal policy adopted conditions would be worse than at present. Under the revised statutes of 1914 brewers and distillers would still have the right to sell—ale and beer not less than 10 gallons, lager not less than four gallons, bottled goods not less than one dozen. Brewers and distillers have their rights from the Dominion Government, and can sell wholesale in any constituency in the province, local option or not. Even with total abolition of retail licenses in this province any wise man can foresee "blind pigs galore." On order any brewer or distiller for liquor or ale and lager in wholesale quantities, as mentioned, would bring the goods and unless public opinion was strong enough to enforce prohibition, the experience in northern Ontario would be repeated throughout the province. The remedy for intemperance, continued Mr. Burnham, is exactly as Sir J. P. Whitney has foreseen; temperance measures cannot be enforced but by education and demonstration. Without the dominating influence of public opinion behind prohibitory laws they cannot be enforced, and the abolition of even all retail licenses would result in conditions which beggar description and exceed anarchy and chaos. The history of all moral reforms show this. The abolition of licenses without a sufficient majority of public opinion to enforce the law would generate the very diseases abolition is calculated to affect; and engender a growth of hypocrasy all over the country a thousand times worse than any other form of crime.

During the last ten years, the speaker went on to say, so vast an improvement has emanated from Sir J. P. Whitney's policy that one may look forward to a total suppression of the liquor traffic by the will and desire of the people themselves. No one ventures to point a finger at Ontario's Premier, who has done more for the regeneration of this province than all who went before him. Even the Globe says Sir J. P. Whitney is a strange man, blunt of speech, but as honest as the sun which shines upon him.

Major Sam Sharpe, M. P.

is an eloquent speaker, and carried his audience with him in demonstrative approval of his contentions. He eulogized the Whitney administration as honest, progressive and constructive, without numbered ballots, or misappropriations of funds, or "Minnie M's" with cargoes of liquor aboard. The Rowell party, he said, had no issue, so they have raised the "Abolish the Bar" cry, which they are using as a red herring across the trail of the Whitney Government's wise and progressive administration, unsurpassed by any Government in the British Empire. He was heartily in accord with Sir J. P. Whitney's timber and agricultural policies, and explained the Workman's Compensation Act, which gives ample compensation for injuries, to the workingman himself and those dependant upon him, without recourse to expensive legal action. Referring to the power question, he said the Ross administration had alienated the people's power at Niagara Falls to three corporations. The Whitney Government has given Hydro-Electric to Ontario, and have now found means to develop an additional 500,000 electric h.p. further down the Niagara River. (Cheers.)

The Whitney Government, the speaker continued, destroyed the school book monopoly, and to-day a better set of school books can be bought at one-third the price charged under the Ross administration. Reverting to the temperance policy of Mr. Rowell and his party, he contended that from time immemorable the Liberal party have made a political football of that issue. He characterized the cartoon "Is that you, daddy," as a disgusting poster an insult to every intelligent man, and a gross libel on the Liberal-Conservative party. On the temperance issue, the Liberal party have always humbugged the people. In 1911 they saw the flag of prohibition and proved traitorous to it. Sir G. W. Ross admitted abolishing the bar license to be a small matter in comparison with the abolition of liquor shops, and now we find the "bar" to be the whole issue. Rowell and some ministers are to-day supporting the bottle and jug, whereas heretofore we had Ross and Rev. Ben Spence declaring that the

GOVERNMENT RECORD WITH LOCAL OPTION

Sir James Whitney and Colleagues Have Made Law Workable

At the end of 1904, under the Liberal Government, local option had been in force in Ontario for fourteen years, and in that time had been carried in 104 municipalities. In 22 of these the by-law was repealed, while in 36 the by-law was quashed or the Councils refused to give a third reading—a net result of 46 dry municipalities under the Act in 14 years.

When the present Government tightened up the law, left fewer loopholes, enacted that Councils give by-laws third readings if they were once carried, and refused to allow licenses to be issued in places where by-laws were carried and afterwards quashed, on technicalities, the temperance forces took heart. The result is that about 300 municipalities have been added to the local option list since January 1st, 1905.

Under the three-fifths' clause only two places have repealed local option and five have been saved to the prohibition forces.

MR. N.W. ROWELL AND THE TIMES

In Saturday's Examiner appears a letter from Mr. G. N. Gordon which deserves attention from us. It is not written in Mr. Gordon's usual frank and kindly style, the statements contained therein being wide of the truth. Mr. Gordon is evidently "up in the air" in this matter, and has permitted his temper to get the better of him.

Mr. Rowell is not only a member of the Ontario Club, which dispenses liquor galore, but is, or was, we are informed, a director of the institution and thus is one of its managers. In Saturday's Mail and Empire the Hon. Mr. Lucas stated publicly at Meaford that the Liberal leader is still a director of the Ontario Club, as is also Mr. C. A. Moss, his North Toronto candidate.

In regard to the further statement of Mr. Gordon that it is untrue that The Times was threatened with an action for damages, we would say that the following paragraph taken from the letter addressed to the publishers of this paper and signed by Messrs. Gordon and Widdifield, speakers for itself: "We are serving you with Notice of Complaint, of the article entitled, 'Mr. Rowell Connected With The Liquor Traffic,' and unless an apology is printed on the front page of your paper, in as prominent a place as the libellous article complained of, we shall be compelled to issue a Writ for the libel contained in The Peterborough Times newspaper of the 26th inst."

How Mr. Gordon can make such statements in the face of the above, we are at a loss to understand.

THE PETES LOSE TO ST. THOMAS LOUIE SCHETTLER HIT BY BALL

In one of the most thrilling and hard fought games ever seen at Riverside Park, the Petes went down to defeat before Midge Craven's Railroaders from St. Thomas on Saturday, getting the small end of a 3-2 score.

The locals should have had the game. Not that the Saints did not play a good game, for they dished up a splendid brand of ball, and were in the fight all the way; but the luck was against the Petes. Such is nearly always the case with the tail-enders in any league. To start with, Louie Schettler, the local twirler, received a nasty crack from a hard bounder off McNellis' bat in the fourth innings. The ball hit the ground about 10 feet from the pitcher, and on the bound struck him a nasty crack on the left side of the head, a little over the eye. The unfortunate fellow dropped, but pluckily rose to his feet a few seconds later and staggered towards first base. It was seen he had received a bad injury, and he was assisted to the bench by his team mates and a doctor called from the stand. He rendered "first aid" and Louie was taken home in a car a few minutes later. Tracey was sent in, and finished the game. In the 4 and 2-3 innings Schettler worked he held the Saints to 4 hits, struck out five men, and only issued one pass.

The Petes started the scoring in the third innings when, after Schettler had grounded out to Hadley, Blount drew a walk, reached second on a passed ball, and scored on Welsh's single over second. The visitors came back in the first of the fourth, however, and Craven started right off with a scorching single between first and second. Hadley drew a walk (Schettler's only pass) and after Kustus and Kading had been retired, McNellis made the hit that put Schettler out of the game, and scored Craven. On a throw to second and a quick return to the plate by King, Hadley was out trying to score.

With the score 1-1 the Petes came to bat in their half of the fourth and Rooney, the first man up, singled over second, went to second and third on sacrifices by Fox and King, and scored on Miller's safety. Tracy was an easy out.

The Saints tied it up in the sixth, Craven starting the innings again with his second single, and scoring on Hadley's single over short, beating out Blount's throw home by inches. The visitors scored their winning run in the 8th, Craven getting his third hit, and scoring his third run on Hadley's scorching three-bagger to left field.

The Petes made a grand rally in their half of the 8th. Blount, first up, drew his second walk, and stole second and third. Byrne and Welsh were retired. Stewart was hit and took a base. Rooney filled the bases via the same route, and with three men on bases the chances looked bright. However, the chance was lost when King died on a foul fly to Kopp. In the 9th the locals again came back strong and with Fox out Mully Miller drove a red hot thriller to the left field sheds for two bases, but died on the bases when Kelly, hitting for Tracey flied out to Winkinson.

Two stars of the day were the Managers—Blount and Craven. Curly plaid a splendid game in centre garden, and his work on the bases was marvellous. Midge Craven had three safeties in four trips to the plate, had a perfect fielding average, and scored the three runs secured by the Saints. His running catch of a foul fly behind first base was a dandy. Louie Schettler's work in the four innings he was in the game was also of the gilt-edged variety. He struck out the first two men up in the 1st and 3rd innings, and in the latter period assisted in retiring the third batter. The accident which forced him to leave the field was regretted by all, as the Erie boy is a great favorite with the local fans and one and all wish him a speedy recovery from the effects of the blow.

Welsh and Miller had two hits apiece for the Petes, the latter's two-sacker in the 9th being the hardest "wallop" of the game. Rooney had a single and scored the Petes' second run in the fourth. The score:

St. Thomas	000101010	3
Peterboro	001100000	2

Batteries—Wilkinson and Nevitt; Schettler, Tracey and Miller.

Umpire—"Buck" Freeman.

Summary:—Three base hits—Hadley; Two base hits—Miller; Passed ball—Nevitt; Hit by pitcher—By Wilkinson 3 (Stewart 2, Rooney); Bases on balls—Off Schettler 1 in 4 2-3 innings, off Wilkinson 2; Struck out—By Schettler 5, by Tracey 2, by Wilkinson 3; Double plays—Kading to Wilkinson, Tracey to King; Stolen Bases—Welsh, Blount 2, Stewart, Gillespie.

Other Scores:

Toronto 9 — Erie 7.
London 8 — Brantford 3.
Ottawa 3 — Hamilton 2.

The Petes go to Brantford on Monday for a four-game series.

May Protest Saturday's Game

It was generally considered here yesterday that Saturday's ball game should be protested. When a St. Thomas batter drove the ball, by accident, against pitcher Schettler's head, the umpire allowed a St. Thomas runner on third base to come home. Schettler was reported yesterday to have suffered no ill effects from his injury, although he will carry the bruise for a long time.

THE WEATHER.

To-day—Unsettled and about the same temperature.

TEMPERANCE MEETING WAS VERY LARGELY ATTENDED

Last night the Grand Opera House was fairly well filled. The proceedings did not commence until 9.50 when the churches were emptied. The chair was ably filled by Mr. George Leader. The proceedings opened by singing hymns, with Mr. John Allen organist of St. Paul's church, presiding at the piano. Rev. Mr. Peever led in prayer.

The chairman explained the meeting had been called to consider the temperance question. He hoped that to-day will justify the hopes of the temperance people.

Miss Callender and Mr. Thornton gave a vocal duet in good voice.

George Brandess, the Toronto boy soprano, gave a solo, which was loudly encored.

Dr. Thornley, of Toronto began his address. He asked the audience to forget that he ever was a Conservative. He did not let politics sway his opinion on the temperance question. Many men were undecided between Abolish the Bar and their political party. Forty per cent of the Toronto hotels are nothing but saloons. He does not like to see his tax bill reduced by liquor licenses. Fifty per cent of the inhabitants of jails and asylums are there as a result of drink. The policy of Mr. Rowell does away with the bar but not the shops. It is absurd to say that by abolishing the bar starts dives. By wiping out the bar you wipe out 95 per cent of the drunkeness. He wanted to legislate men from being bad. There is no such thing as personal liberty. He spoke briefly in defense of the part the ministers taking in the campaign. The Whitney Government can take no credit for reducing the number of licenses. He referred to the bi-lingual question and said that Mr. Whitney never referred to bi-lingualism in his manifesto. He depricated hide bound politics. The temperance party are not opposing the Whitney Government. The Hydro policy and Workmen's Compensation bill were good politics. He would be willing to go back to the use of candles to abolish the bar. He asked the young man to vote for the Rowell policy even if they thereby denied himself an occasional social glass. The speaker was loudly cheered on taking his seat.

Several other speakers were warmly received.

ENJOYED THEIR TRIP

(Editor Morning Times)

Sir,—I desire to express through the columns of your valuable journal the pleasure which a trip to Stoney Lake and return on the new steamer Manita afforded myself and party on Thursday last.

The boat is one of the most comfortable and well-managed on the Trent waters. Amongst the party were two ladies from England who have spent vacations in various European countries and they also join in praise of the picturesque beauty of our lakes and rivers, and also of the kindness and courtesy of the crew of the steamer. For myself, I can say that I never spent a more pleasant day in my life, and I hope, Mr. Editor, that the enterprising owner of the Manita will get his reward in a large and ever increasing business. This route will be a very great convenience not only to the people of this city, but also to all who are interested in the development of the Stoney Lake region as one of the most popular pleasure resorts in Canada.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your valuable space, I am,

Yours truly,

J. J. Turner, Sr.

SUMMER-SPOILED SKIN REMOVED BY ABSORPTION

As undue summer exposure usually leaves an undesirable surface of tan, dust or grease, often freckles, too, it is more sensible to remove such surface than to hide it with cosmetics. There's nothing better for this than ordinary mercolized wax, which actually absorbs an unwholesome complexion. The thin layer of surface skin: so there's no inconvenience, no detention indoors. Spread the wax tightly over the entire face at bedtime and take it off in the morning with warm water. If you will get one ounce of mercolized wax at the drugstore use for a week or so, you may expect marked improvement daily. When the underlying skin is wholly in view your complexion will be a marvel of spotless purity and beautiful whiteness.

Don't let those summer wrinkles worry you; worry breeds more wrinkles. Banish them by bathing the face in a solution of powdered saxolite, 1 oz., dissolved in ½ pt. witch hazel. Used daily for a while this will be found wonderfully affective.

Fats Make the Hottest Fire

And as the digestion of food generates body heat, so the more greasy, heavy food you eat, the hotter you are.

One can feel several degrees cooler and more comfortable in summer by selecting proper food.

Grape-Nuts

is made of carefully selected wheat and barley and contains all their nutritive values, including the mineral phosphates, (grown in the grain), that are especially necessary for re-building the tissue cells of body and brain.

Grape-Nuts is thoroughly baked (16 to 24 hours) which breaks down the starch cells. Therefore it is easily and quickly digested—generally in about one hour.

If you care to feel cool and fit make Grape-Nuts a part of the summer diet—a delicious part!

In days of old, when knights were bold,
And warriors held their sway,
They fought and bled, at least 'tis said,

The auto has come to make things hum,

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

What's in this WRIGLEY'S SPEARMINT?

You've a right to know—we'd like to show you, in our factories—the most up-to-date, sanitary chewing gum factories in the world!

WRIGLEY'S SPEARMINT is made from the air-dried, milky sap of the Sapodilla Tree, which grows in Mexico and Central America.

This sap is boiled down into chicle, flavored with the aromatic juice of pure fresh mint leaves, then cut into the delicious, springy bars which you buy.

New machines, costing several hundred thousand dollars wrap WRIGLEY'S SPEARMINT in an inner waxed seal, then the inside pink wrapper, then the NEW OUTER WAXED SEAL that is air-tight, damp-proof, dust-proof. The same machines encircle this waxed-wrapped packet of five big sticks in the familiar band you know so well. It's as good and as clean as men, machines and money can make it.

Our Point of View

Are you in favor of bi-lingualism in vote for Rowell?

—o—

The Layman's Association of the Westmoreland Methodist Church, Toronto, have endorsed Hon. Thomas Crawford and W.D. McPherson, K.C. the Conservative candidates in the electote district of North-West Toronto. Which shows that the story that the Methodists are a unit for Rowell is absurb.

—o—

The most magnificent thing said by Sir Adam Beck at the Conservative mass meeting in Toronto was his statement that there are more German-Canadians than French-Canadians in Ontario, and that the people of like ancestry with his are content with the English language, the language of the province. And he might have added that the French-Canadians in Ontario have no more right than have the German-Canadians to special privileges in the matter of the use of their language in the public schools.

Election Day

This is June 29th, Election Day, that day that the progressive but Conservative policy of Sir. James Whitney will be endorsed. It is a duty to himself, his family, the Province that every voter in this riding owes to exercise his franchise. There is a mighty issue mighty issue at stake, Are we going, in an English speaking integal part of the British Empire to allow the French to thrust their bilingual doctrine down our throats? Are we going to retard the future progress and development of French children by tolerating a bilingual tuition in our schools. These matters are worth of the deepest consideration.

The Bilingual Menace

Even more important than the question of temperance and this juncture — for the cause of temperance has steadily gained in strength under Whitney and will continue to gain—is the issue of bilingualism. Mr. Rowell has come out openly for instructing the French-Canadian pupils in French in the Ontario schools. Sir James Whitney and his Cabinet say that Ontario is an English speaking Province and that English must therefore be the language of instruction.

On which side will you line up?

Bilingualism a Menace to Ontario

Hovering over the Province of Ontario at this particular hour, is the dark and ominous cloud of bilingualism. Never has it looked so threatening and dangerous as it looks now. Pregnant with mischief and destruction, it is liable to break at any moment into a storm that will endanger the school system, the liberties and the free institutions of the banner province of this great Dominion.

The question of bilingualism has been injected into the political campaign now in progress in Ontario, and despite the fact that every effort has been made to induce Rowell and his followers to declare a definite attitude on this vital and far-reaching question it has been repeatedly and persistently dodged. No Tammany politician ever succeeded so well in evasion and political duplicity as Rowell has succeeded in this bilingualism throughout his campaign. Like the chameleon, he changes color with his political environment, and everywhere he fails to declare that he favors English, and English only, as the language of the school system of the province he aspires to govern with his wobbling and evasive party.

The bar serves Rowell to divert the attention of the voter from the all-important question of bi-lingualism. It is the same old herring that his predecessors have dragged so frequently and disgracefully across the public trail. It is known by its odor and antiquity, and it will fail to fool the voter who believes that bi-lingualism, if permitted to exist in Ontario, will sap the very vitals of British dominion, British freedom, and British institutions. Bi-lingualism is a legacy of the Liberal party.

CREST OIL & DEVELOPMENT COMPANY, LIMITED, CALGARY

Capital $150,000 Non-Personal Liability

This Company is offering 75,000 shares at their par value price $1.00 each.

The Company is noted for its low capitalization and its excellent holdings of 1211 acres in one block. The leases were carefully chosen by Mr. Ellson Fawkes and the Company has engaged a well-known Eastern geologist to locate its first well. Drilling will commence directly there are sufficient funds in the treasury to place a contract.

On account of its low capitalization this stock is bound to find immediate favour at the next strike of oil. The price will be advanced directly oil is struck, to at least $1.25 a share.

The officers of the Company are "clean," successful business men—

PRESIDENT—A. W. Ellson Fawkes, M.I.C.E., City Waterworks Engineer, Calgary. (Late Peterboro' Ontario).

VICE-PRESIDENT—C. S. Mahood, M.D., Medical Health Officer, Calgary.

MANAGING DIRECTOR—D. Algar-Bailey, Engineer, Calgary.

DIRECTORS—Beach A. Lasalle, Director Pacific Lime Co., Ltd.; Vancouver, B.C.; R. A. Barron, Department of Education, Edmonton; B. Ginsberg, Barrister, Calgary.

This is NOT a gambling proposition — it is an investment! English and American Capital is pouring into the Calgary Oil Fields. Millions of dollars have been invested by large interests during the past four weeks.

We can honestly advise you to invest in either of these companies. Both of them have on their Directorates men known for their stability and honesty. There is no "wild-catting" or watered stock in either of them and at the next strike of oil the stock is bound to increase in price.

We advise you to invest in both. $100 will secure you say 50 Crest and 100 Monitor shares (option stock) and then when the next strike comes, which may be now as you are reading this, you will be able to smile at the man paying $5.00 a share for Monitor and buy them yourself for $1.00 each.

It will need prompt action on your part to get this stock at the present market price, because, remember, it takes several days for your application to reach here. Do not delay: Fill out the coupon. We will honor all applications bearing post mark prior to rise in price.

How Sea-birds Drink

The question is often asked: "Where do sea-birds obtain fresh water to slake their thirst?" An old skipper says that he has seen these birds at sea far from any land that could furnish them water hovering around and under a storm-cloud, clattering like ducks on a hot day at a pond, and drinking in the drops of rain as they fell. They will smell a rain-squall a hundred miles or even farther off and scud off for it with almost inconceivable swiftness.

How long sea-birds can exist without water is only a matter of conjecture, but probably their powers of enduring thirst are increased by habit, and possibly they go without water for many days, if not for several weeks.

The oldest national flag in the world is that of Denmark, which dates from 1219.

WHAT A LIBERAL PAPER IN HIS HOME TOWN HAS TO SAY OF MR. R. J. SODEN

An Old Midland Boy Nominated as Conservative Candidate in West Peterborough

(From The Midland Free Press.)

"Mr. R. J. Soden, an old Midland boy, has received the Conservative Nomination for the riding of West Peterborough. We need hardly say that though opposed to us in political creed we wish him success. Mr. Soden, while in Midland, was one of our most progressive citizens, and it was through him that the Canada Iron Furnace Co. was induced to locate its plant here. Always an ardent politician he took an active part in all municipal and parliamentary affairs, and while a staunch Conservative at all times, he still made many friends among his opponents on account of the clean, fair methods which he always adopted in furthering the cause of his party.

"He will make an energetic representative for any riding, and West Peterborough, if it elects him at the coming election, will secure a clean, just and aggressive member, who, from our knowledge of him, will not allow any consideration to outweigh his convictions of what is right in all matters affecting the province.

"Mr. Soden has made a clean-cut statement regarding his stand on the temperance question. He is even willing to go a little further than th Rowell policy of abolish the bar. He is in favor of doing away with the shop and club license as well. It is up to the temperance people of this Province to stand together, regardless of politics, if they ever hope to rid Canada of its greatest curse."

A department report shows the Indians in Canada to be increasing at the rate of 2,000 a year. In 1912 there were 104,956; to-day there are 106,490. Nearly all of them live in good dwellings; they have 326 schools enrolling 11,144 pupils; while in spite of their supposed susceptibility to disease, the death-rate has been cut to 21 per thousand in the most populous communities. They earn wages amounting to $6,000,000 yearly, and cultivate 90,000 acres.

Sheepskins in Gas Meters

It will undoubtedly surprise many to learn that sheepskin plays an important part in the construction and operation of the gas meter. This leather is used to form the "diaphragms" or two bellows from which gas is drawn when a jet is lighted. They are thoroughly saturated with oil and fastened between two circular pieces of metal, acting precisely as the diaphragm in the human body. When gas is drawn from one, the other is refilled, so the consumer is given an even and constant supply

Clean pots and pans with GOLD DUST

Germs of decay accumulate on oft-used pots and pans, and ordinary soap and water only clean off the surface.

Gold Dust does the work—and does it right. It digs deep after germs, cleans like a new whistle and leaves your pots and pans as new, as bright as the day they were new—and sanitarily safe.

Gold Dust does this work in just half the time required by soap or any other cleanser. Does it better, too.

Gold Dust cleans everything like magic.

Gold Dust is sold in 5c size and large packages. The large package means greater economy.
